

Preparing people to lead extraordinary lives

Academic Program Approvals
AY 2021-22

Prepared by the Office of the Provost

Date: June 2, 2022

The following new academic programs were approved by the Office of the Provost during the 2021-22 Academic Year.

College of Arts and Sciences

Department of Engineering—New Department
Bioinformatics—Minor in Bioinformatics
Political Science—Minor in Law and Politics

The Graduate School and the College of Arts and Sciences

Mathematics and Statistics—Master of Science in Data Science
Mathematics and Statistics—BS/MS in Data Science

School of Communication and School of Environmental Sustainability

BA Communication/MS Environmental Science and Sustainability
BA/BS Environmental Science and Sustainability/MC in Digital Media and Storytelling
BA/BS Environmental Science and Sustainability/MS in Global Strategic Communication

School of Continuing and Professional Studies

Instructional Design—Foundations of Instructional Design Certificate
Instructional Design—Professional Certificate in Instructional Design
Instructional Design—Master of Professional Studies in Instructional Design –New Degree Type

School of Education

Higher Education Program—Executive EdD in Higher Education

School of Law

Certificate in Transactional Law

Stritch School of Medicine

MS in Clinical & Applied Mass Spectrometry

Parkinson School of Health Sciences and Public Health

Healthcare Administration—BSHA/MHA of Healthcare Administration
Exercise Science—Master of Science in Exercise Science created new curricular tracks
Clinical Exercise Science and Human Performance

Quinlan School of Business and School of Environmental Sustainability

BA in Environmental Economics and Sustainability