Marian Adly

BS Chemistry, 2006; BA International Relations, 2003; BA Philosophy, 2003; BA Political Science, 2003

“The Jesuit tradition was instrumental in my realization of how important it is to balance education, experience, service, reflection, and excellence. Through all these collective experiences along with the mentorship of so many of the wonderful faculty, staff and administrators, I have refined many of my skills and my life’s path.

My advice to students regarding the job search is to keep an open mind and remain positive and persistent...Don’t get too discouraged and recognize that there is a time for everything. Try to be strategic as you proceed forward.”

Michael McFadden

BA Theology 1999, MSW 2006

“I feel the education I received from Loyola encompasses more than just the classroom. The opportunities I was afforded through Campus Ministry and Student Life have been equally as vital to my career preparation.

When I got out of school, I knew I wanted to work in the social services but was unsure doing exactly what. The jobs I ended up taking were logical “next steps” from the experiences and education I received but not necessarily jobs I thought I could “do forever.” I was definitely “playing the field” in terms of employment. After about five years in the field, I returned to school and pursued a Masters degree in Social Work. The job I have now was a direct path from that degree. It built upon the field work experiences and education I received and utilizes the skills and knowledge I gained on a daily basis.”

Kathleen Heneghan

DVM, BA Biology 1989

“I had planned a direct path to veterinary school, but was not accepted to a program the year of my graduation. I took that year in between to solidify my science knowledge base, and took senior level courses at Loyola. In doing so, I was even better prepared once I began veterinary school in 1990. I was blessed that I always knew what career I wanted: it just took a little extra trying.

I think getting experience in your area of interest is an absolute imperative! Sometimes you do not know the true day-to-day duties of a career path until you get some experience in the field. Whether you obtain a paid position, internship or even volunteer work, that wisdom is invaluable. The other advantage it gives you is that you get the opportunity to network with people in the know: a great benefit when you need letters of recommendation or are on a job hunt.”
