

Newberry Library Undergraduate Seminar, Loyola University Chicago

APPLICATION

Name _____ Loyola ID# _____

Signature _____ Date _____

Current Address _____

Current Phone _____ E-mail _____

Permanent Address _____

LUC year _____ Total Credit Hours (by Jan. 2010) _____

Major _____ G.P.A. _____ G.P.A. in major _____

The Newberry Library Undergraduate Seminar allows undergraduates to combine an intensive classroom experience with an independent research project. The six-credit seminar will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1-4 p.m. from 12 January to 4 May 2010. Students and faculty will explore first-hand the Newberry's matchless collections of materials on the history and culture of Europe and the Americas. Students will be expected to spend significant additional time working in the Newberry's collections. With this in mind, please answer the following question in 250-500 words:

Why do you want to participate in the Newberry Library Undergraduate Seminar? Describe your research experiences. What kinds of research papers have you written, and how long have they been? What grade did you receive on those essays? Have you had research experience outside of class, e.g., at work? Please name two Loyola professors who can attest to your research skills.

Submit TWO (2) copies of this form and send TWO (2) copies of your most recent official Loyola University transcript to:

Professor Edward Wheatley
Department of English, LSC CC 455
Loyola University Chicago
1032 W. Sheridan Rd.
Chicago, IL 60660

Application are due by noon on Thursday, November 5, 2009. Participants will be selected and notified by November 9, before the pre-registration period.