

COMMUNICATION ALUMNI GROUP REORGANIZED WITH NEW ON-LINE SITE

Dear Communication Alumni:

I have been appointed to create a Communication Department Alumni Organization in order to keep in contact with graduates, especially from the past 50 years. It is hoped that this first alumni publication, the Communication Alumni Bulletin, will inform you about the activities of the department, which we hope will be of special interest to those of you who graduated in these areas.

As of 2005, Communication has been divided into three distinct majors: Journalism, Advertising and Public Relations, and Communication Studies, and they are growing quickly. There is also a new interdisciplinary major in film—the International Film and Media Studies major—for which we offer the core classes. And we are becoming a School of Communication. Loyola's first new school in 30 years!

In this first issue, we are putting a version on our main Loyola University Chicago web-site. We need to get an update on those of you who have e-mail addresses. Also, please send us any LUC friends or colleagues who have moved recently or changed email address. We have indicated, elsewhere, how we wish you to communicate this information to us. Please contact the LUC alumni office as well, and me directly.

For the remainder of this 2007-2008 school-year, we hope to have one more Communication Alumni Bulletin on-line, and hopefully an alumni gathering, at the Water Tower Campus where our new building—the Clare—is going up.

Please indicate to me what you would like to see in future departmental alumni publications and possible future Communication Alumni gatherings.

I await your e-mail addresses and your comments.

Yours sincerely,
Sammy R. Danna, Ph.D., Professor
Department of Communication
Loyola University Chicago
