Are you Man Enough

The Men's Project is a leadership initiative on campus that focuses on exploring masculinity and what it means (and should mean) to "be a man." This 8-week program is a great way to learn more about masculinity, the role of gender in society, and how both are related to violence in the community. Participants will meet each Monday night to share, discuss, and reflect on "the male experience" at Loyola and will also gain valuable bystander intervention skills to prevent rape and other gender-related violence in the future. Space is limited, and applications are due Monday, Sept. 21st, 2009. Please turn in applications to Mertz 200 at the Dept. of Student Diversity or e-mail to sclaros@luc.edu. Only undergraduate students identifying as men may apply.

This is a 3hr/wk commitment for 8-10 consecutive weeks. Meetings start on Monday, Sept. 28th 2009 from 6:30-8:30pm (Location TBA).

Interested? Please fill out an application found at http://www.luc.edu/diversity/pdfs/Men%27s\_Project\_Applic1.doc and send it to sclaros@luc.edu by Monday, Sept. 21st, 5pm. Space is limited and dinner will be provided most nights.
