As a Jesuit institution with a mission of educating students from all backgrounds, making the transformative study-abroad experience accessible for more students is a priority for the John Felice Rome Center. We do this not only through expanding scholarship support for students but also by expanding our academic program to enable more students to study at the JFRC and in different ways. As we look to the future, we remain focused on enhancing our program to meet the changing demands of an increasingly complex world while also remaining true to our core values of community, learning, justice, and faith.

Learn more on pg. 3 about new core courses being offered this academic year. They represent an important step in enabling students from certain disciplines to be able to come to Rome while staying on track with their coursework.

IN THIS ISSUE

- Winemaker appreciates JFRC pg. 4
- A family affair pg. 5
- Arrivederci, Roma! pg. 6
- The place we all called home pg. 10

Photo by Tate Stafford (JFRC ’14–’15)
TRANSCENDING THE ROME CENTER

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR
Emilio Iodice
Director, John Felice Rome Center
Vice President, Loyola University Chicago

Dear JFRC Alumni,

It is always a pleasure to write to you and share news from the JFRC. We have much to be proud of, and recent months have given us even more reason. Here are a few examples:

- We have opened dynamic new spaces on campus
- Enrollments are up for the 2015–16 academic year
- Our curriculum is expanding to include more students
- The study-abroad experience is becoming increasingly relevant in our global economy. According to a 2012 Election Eve/Day national public opinion poll commissioned by NAFSA: Association of International Educators, Americans support international education, even amidst concern about the US economy and other national issues. In order to innovate and compete, we must prepare students to navigate life and careers in an interconnected world.
- Opening young Americas’ minds and hearts to other countries and cultures will be invaluable experience as they go on to become leaders in our society. As a result of studying abroad, many students become more engaged in their studies, gain a global perspective, and learn to be more self-reliant, independent, and confident. This experience can even help define a career path for some students, which is evident in some of the alumni stories we share with you in this newsletter.

As studying abroad becomes more important, so, too, does our obligation to make the experience more accessible through increasing scholarship opportunities and expanding curriculum to make it easier for students from many diverse fields of study to attend the JFRC. Expanding and internationalizing our curriculum, as evidenced by our new double-degree program with Loyola University Andalucía, adds an additional layer of global knowledge, awareness, and cross-cultural competence to the JFRC experience.

While the world changes rapidly, some things remain the same: the sense of community and love that have always been part of the JFRC experience, being a “home away from home” for our students, and providing a safe and consistent environment in which our students can have the same awakening you did.

Our connection to the spirit of the Rome Center, and to John Felice, remains as strong today as it was at the time of our founding more than 50 years ago. You are an important part of that legacy.

With love and appreciation,

[Signature]

ANTHONY F. PIAZZA II
JFRC ’62–’63
Lifelong champion of the Rome Center

Anthony “Tony” F. Piazza II is a lifelong champion and active supporter of the John Felice Rome Center. He is the former president of BD Kitchen and Bath and was a member of the first full-year class at the Rome Center from fall 1962 to spring 1963. There, he met his future wife, Susan Brazier Piazza (JFRC Spring ’63). Piazza and his wife endowed the Anthony and Susan Brazier Piazza Scholarship to provide support for students who want to study at the JFRC.

When Susan passed away in 2011, Piazza began planning a substantial gift in her memory and a tribute to their 45 years of marriage—the first million-dollar current commitment in the history of the Rome Center. This gift is supporting capital improvements on campus as part of the Rome Center’s campaign, including updating and renovating common spaces, academic spaces, offices, and student residences. In recognition of this gift, Loyola named the information commons in Rome the Anthony and Susan Brazier Piazza Information Commons.

Congratulations, Tony!

2015 FELIX AWARD RECIPIENT

Named for Dr. John Felice, founder of the Rome Center, this award is conveyed annually at the Loyola University Chicago Founders’ Dinner to an alumnus/a for leadership in business and community along with support of the Rome Center.

ANTHONY F. PIAZZA II
JFRC ’62–’63
Lifelong champion of the Rome Center

JFRC BY THE NUMBERS

70
Course Offerings
16
Nursing Students
15
Students from Loyola University Andalucía
27
Rome Start Students

ACADEMIC UPDATE

New courses in Rome, shared business program in Spain

D. Alexander Evers, DFhA (Oxon), associate dean for academic affairs and assistant professor of classical studies and ancient history, has taken up the mantle from Dr. Susana Cavallio, former dean of faculty at the JFRC, in broadening the Rome Center curriculum. Their combined work has created a thriving, expanding academic community at the JFRC. The curriculum has grown to 70 course offerings, with highly qualified faculty in disciplines ranging from traditional liberal arts subjects such as classics, art history, theology, and philosophy to social sciences, business, and the exact sciences.

Since last spring, the JFRC expanded its business courses to nine, including “Introduction to International Business” for business majors. Environmental studies is expanding to include “The Ecology of the Mediterranean” and “The Science of Renaissance Art.”

This academic year, the JFRC begins offering courses on cell biology in the fall and genetics in the spring, two core courses for virtually all pre-health and science majors. This is an important step in enabling more pre-health and nursing students to study abroad and stay on track with their coursework. And we had 16 nursing students begin studies at the JFRC this fall!

Anthony Piazza II
JFRC ’62–’63
Lifelong champion of the Rome Center

Rome Start is a unique program for students attending high school outside of the United States as well as select US high school students with demonstrated international interest. Rome Start students spend their first full Loyola undergraduate year at the Rome Center and then continue their degree in Chicago. Rome Start is a great way for students to gain a global perspective during their education while earning a renowned Loyola degree. This year, there are 27 Rome Start students.

One of the JFRC’s new programs is the double-degree business program between Loyola University Chicago and Loyola University Andalucía in Seville, Spain. This began last fall. This innovative program enables students to get a business degree in both the US and the European Union while spending time at three campuses: Chicago, Seville, and Rome. This fall, 15 students from Loyola University Andalucía started at the JFRC. Meanwhile, a class of 16 students (pictured top of page) from Spain began the program in Chicago.

New courses in Rome: cell biology, genetics, environmental studies, art history, and philosophy. Loyola University Andalucía students plus their orientation leader (bottom row, middle) at Loyola University Chicago

Loyola University Chicago Founders’ Dinner to honor Dr. John Felice and his namesake Rome Center.
When I explored the world, what we learn the most about is ourselves.”

—CHRISTOPHER SILVA (JFRC ’85–’86)

When you are the only American in the room, you try to find common ground. And I’ve had to do that a lot in business, particularly as we look to expand our brand internationally.”

Silva/recalls Fr. James Arimond and John Felice constantly reminding students that it was good to stretch themselves beyond their comfort zones and experience people and cultures and lessons they will take with them the rest of their lives. And that exploration and cultural understanding, Silva says, begins with forming good relationships.

“With our wine, we are very much in the relationship business. Above all, it’s about the quality of wine we put in the bottle, but it’s also about understanding, Silva says, begins with forming good relationships. And I’ve had to do that a lot in business, particularly as we look to expand our brand internationally.”

Rome gave me a comfort level around myself. I was surprised, because that was rare. The person said, “It’s your dad!” I picked up the phone. “Dad, is everything okay?”

“Yeah, but your car’s not working.”

“Well, I don’t own a car. You own a car.”

“Sorry, it’s not working. I need the money back.”

Kevin Stevens (JFRC ’73) began as dean of Loyola University Chicago’s Quinlan School of Business on July 1, 2015. Prior to that, he taught at DePaul University for 26 years and most recently served as the director of DePaul’s School of Accounting and Management Information Systems and also as the director of global initiatives in the College of Business. He is one of 12 children of a Chicago police officer (father) and a Chicago public school teacher of disabled children (mother).

We sat down with Kevin to ask about his memories of and extensive family involvement with the Rome Center.

LEAVING “THE BUG” BEHIND

In the early 1970s, I quit school at Loyola for two years and worked as a janitor, so I could save enough money to go to Rome. Before I left, I sold my Volkswagen bug for $500 to my father. One day at the Rome Center, the phone rang in the hall. Someone said to me, “It’s for you.” I was surprised, because that was rare. The person said, “It’s your dad!”

Both of our children, Patrick (JFRC Fall ’80) and Kevin (JFRC Fall ’82), attended. Four of Marietta’s siblings went there. My brother Sean (JFRC Fall ’74, BA ’77) went, and my cousin Mary Eileen (Spring ’82) was in the first JFRC Class.

Kevin T., Patrick, Kevin J. and Marietta Nolan Stevens -Kevin Stevens, Spring ’73 & Marietta Stevens ’74—75

(Actual Tile Inscription for the Alumni Wall Initiative)

When in Rome, you dress a table with good food, people, and wine and you need nothing more to have a memorable evening.

Winery at age 38, where he’s remained the Winemaker (JFRC ’85–’86)

when

LEAVING "THE BUG" BEHIND

In the early 1970s, I quit school at Loyola for two years and worked as a janitor, so I could save enough money to go to Rome. Before I left, I sold my Volkswagen bug for $500 to my father. One day at the Rome Center, the phone rang in the hall. Someone said to me, “It’s for you.” I was surprised, because that was rare. The person said, “It’s your dad!”

Both of our children, Patrick (JFRC Fall ’80) and Kevin (JFRC Fall ’82), attended. Four of Marietta’s siblings went there. My brother Sean (JFRC Fall ’74, BA ’77) went, and my cousin Mary Eileen (Spring ’82) was in the first JFRC Class.

Kevin T., Patrick, Kevin J. and Marietta Nolan Stevens -Kevin Stevens, Spring ’73 & Marietta Stevens ’74—75

(Actual Tile Inscription for the Alumni Wall Initiative)

One thing Italians have perfected is the appreciation of wine as a mealtime beverage,” says Silva. “Wine elevates eating into dining. You dress a table with good food, people, and wine and you need nothing more to have a memorable evening.”

Silva attended the Rome Center during his senior year at Loyola Marymount University. He stayed on to attend law school there and practiced law for nine years before taking over the St. Francis Winery at age 38, where he’s remained the Winemaker (JFRC ’85–’86)

The Rome Center changed my view of the world and my place in it. It made me want to travel. The travel bug is something that once you’ve made me want to travel. The travel bug is something that once you’ve been truly bitten by it, it never leaves.”

For me to give financial support so that another kid like me will be able to go there… it has been an easy decision.”

—KEVIN STEVENS (JFRC SPRING ’73)

PLANEs, TRAINs, AND SpAIN

We were on the Tronfale campus on top of Monte Mario, farther up the hill from the current campus. One thing we did back then that my kids didn’t get to do is take trains everywhere. Now because of Ryanair, everyone flies less for the weekend. Back then if you took a train from Rome to Spain, it was a big deal. It took practically a day. We were forced to use our Italian lot, which really helped us learn the language.

FROM CHICAGO TO SEVille TO ROME

Loyola University Andalucia in Seville, Spain, will send their students to Loyola University Chicago for two semesters and then to the Rome Center for one semester. Our students in Chicago who commit to this program similarly will spend two semesters in Seville and one at the Rome Center. I also think it’s good for students who aren’t business majors but who attend the Rome Center to have access to business classes there that are truly international.

“I remember arriving in Rome on August 24, 1985, after taking an all-night train from Switzerland,” says Christopher Silva (JFRC ’85–’86). “I remember that first day in Rome thinking that I wasn’t going to stay just one semester but I would figure out a way to stay all year, which I did.”

Silva is president and CEO of St. Francis Winery & Vineyards in California’s Sonoma Valley where his family has lived for five generations.

“One thing Italians have perfected is the appreciation of wine as a mealtime beverage,” says Silva. “Wine elevates eating into dining. You dress a table with good food, people, and wine and you need nothing more to have a memorable evening.”

Silva attended the Rome Center during his senior year at Loyola Marymount University. He stayed on to attend law school there and practiced law for nine years before taking over the St. Francis Winery at age 38, where he’s remained the Winemaker (JFRC ’85–’86)

The Rome Center changed my view of the world and my place in it. It made me want to travel. The travel bug is something that once you’ve made me want to travel. The travel bug is something that once you’ve been truly bitten by it, it never leaves.”

For me to give financial support so that another kid like me will be able to go there… it has been an easy decision.”

—KEVIN STEVENS (JFRC SPRING ’73)
Arrivederci, Roma!

BY MAUREEN BAYNES (JFRC SPRING '15)

I had never left the US before my semester abroad and was nervous to leave for four months. But the JFRC made the challenging experience of transitioning into a new culture so exciting that I can't imagine my semester any other way. “J-force” felt like home within a matter of weeks.

Even though the JFRC's facilities are conveniently located in one building, I challenged myself to go out and explore somewhere new every day. On-site classes made that very easy. As a fine arts major, having class at a new site in Rome each week to see original works made art history class truly unforgettable. Not many people can say they visited a different church every week.

Three-day weekends gave me the chance to make your mark in Rome

Deadline is Dec. 31, 2015

 LEVELS OF SUPPORT

We invite you to inscribe your tile with a personal message: honor a loved one, celebrate a favorite professor, or leave an inspiring message for future generations. There are four options available:

- $500
  Recent Alum (0–10 Years)
  4” x 8” tile with 23 characters per line and up to three lines of text

- $1,000
  4” x 8” tile with 23 characters per line and up to three lines of text

- $2,500
  8” x 8” tile with 23 characters per line and up to six lines of text

- $5,000
  12” x 12” tile with 23 characters per line and up to six lines of text

LAST CHANCE TO MAKE YOUR MARK IN ROME

“I was inspired by other students, professors, and even Pope Francis to see myself as part of a world that is much more interconnected than I had ever realized.”

— MAUREEN BAYNES (JFRC SPRING '15)

Maureen Baynes (JFRC Spring ’15) is a student at Loyola University Chicago studying fine arts. Maureen Baynes (JFRC Spring ’15) is a student at Loyola University Chicago studying fine arts.

HOW TO MAKE A GIFT

1. Decide on gift amount and tile size
2. Choose a method to make your gift:
   - ONLINE
   - LUC.edu/tilesforrome
   - One-time gift via credit card
   - Automatic recurring gift via credit card or debit card (1–18 monthly installments)
   - Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

LOCATION

Situated at the heart of campus, the outdoor patio overlooking the new wall will be enjoyed by students, faculty, staff, alumni, and visitors for years to come.

MORE EXAMPLES OF INSCRIPTIONS

- Humerto Bobadilla Fall 1998
- In Memory of Leonard Sr Mark Gjovik '70–'71
- Dr. John Dugan, in honor of Dr. Janis Fine '93–'15
- Il Primo Bacio 76–77
- N. Angeli del Porga
- Len Slotkowski 1965–66
- Dr. Paul Kelley, 66–67
- Paola Grandu 1966–67
- Emily Brand – Spring 09
- Ciao Bella 1969–2015
- “Eternal” Lessons of Hope, Spirit, and Song
- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

- For My Sons to Follow
- Dr. John Dugan, in honor of Dr. Janis Fine
- Eternal Lessons of Hope, Spirit, and Song
- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

- Veni, Vidi, Vici
- For My Sons to Follow
- Elizabeth Hurdelbrink, Summer 2008
- Humberto Bobadilla, Fall 1998
- Hope, Spirit, and Song
- La Familia
- University Chicago studying fine arts.

- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre
- University Chicago studying fine arts.

- Humberto Bobadilla, Fall 1998
- In Memory of Leonard Sr Mark Gjovik '70–'71
- Dr. John Dugan, in honor of Dr. Janis Fine '93–'15
- Il Primo Bacio 76–77
- N. Angeli del Porga
- Len Slotkowski 1965–66
- Dr. Paul Kelley, 66–67
- Paola Grandu 1966–67
- Emily Brand – Spring 09
- Ciao Bella 1969–2015
- “Eternal” Lessons of Hope, Spirit, and Song
- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

- For My Sons to Follow
- Dr. John Dugan, in honor of Dr. Janis Fine
- Eternal Lessons of Hope, Spirit, and Song
- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

- Veni, Vidi, Vici
- For My Sons to Follow
- Elizabeth Hurdelbrink, Summer 2008
- Humberto Bobadilla, Fall 1998

- For My Sons to Follow
- Dr. John Dugan, in honor of Dr. Janis Fine
- Eternal Lessons of Hope, Spirit, and Song
- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

- Veni, Vidi, Vici
- For My Sons to Follow
- Elizabeth Hurdelbrink, Summer 2008
- Humberto Bobadilla, Fall 1998

- For My Sons to Follow
- Dr. John Dugan, in honor of Dr. Janis Fine
- Eternal Lessons of Hope, Spirit, and Song
- Family and Friends of Maureen McIntyre

- Veni, Vidi, Vici
- For My Sons to Follow
- Elizabeth Hurdelbrink, Summer 2008
- Humberto Bobadilla, Fall 1998
Where do US students at the JFRC come from?

Students who study at the JFRC while away from a home US school currently originate from 70 different schools across the country. This representative sample includes the academic years of 2012-13, 2013-14, 2014-15, and the current fall 2015 semester.

Top 5 feeder schools*

1,145
LOYOLA UNIVERSITY CHICAGO
CHICAGO, IL

95
COLLEGE OF THE HOLY CROSS
Worcester, MA

91
SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY
ST. LOUIS, MO

55
SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY
SANTA CLARA, CA

46
LOYOLA MARYMOUNT UNIVERSITY
LOS ANGELES, CA

*Figures represent total number of students enrolled from each feeder school during the academic years of 2012-13, 2013-14, 2014-15, and the current fall 2015 semester.

Striving is Everything
Theresa Liguzinski 1984
Mike Liguzinski ’80–’81

(ACTUAL TILE INSRIPTION FOR THE ALUMNI WALL INITIATIVE)
For more than 50 years, the John Felice Rome Center has been transforming the lives of our students. Our campus locations have been central to this transformation. The JFRC has had four locations, all on the northern side of Rome. Our campuses gave us a place to study, eat, sleep, have the best times of our lives, and make the best friends of our lives. Our campuses rooted us in Rome and gave us a place to return to after our travels and adventures. No matter what campus we attended—CIVIS, Villa Camilluccia, Via Trionfale, or Via Massimi—we were part of a community, and we all had a place to call home.

Avanti! will complete the physical transformation that began with Insieme per il futuro, the first phase of the Rome Center campaign and Loyola’s purchase of the Via Massimi campus in 2009. The JFRC’s physical transformation is aimed at addressing the needs of the whole student—mind, body, and spirit—and creating spaces for purposeful living and learning with a measure of deep respect for the environment. The Rome Center environment is conducive to creating a sense of community and provides spaces for meaningful social, intellectual, and cultural interactions between our undergraduates, graduate students, and faculty.

Our coffee bar and mensa (see pg. 11) have recently been transformed. But they aren’t just spaces to share meals; they are spaces for our students to discuss shared experiences and to help each other understand the world around them.

Thanks to the support of our generous alumni and friends, we have been able to create dynamic new spaces, and we will continue to build our permanent new home together. The campus may have changed, but the experience remains the same.

Kevin O’Connor, 1970–71
The journeys of my life trace back to the JFRC

FEATURED DONOR
Leonard Canino (JFRC ’72–’73, BA ’74)
My employer, Henry Crown and Company, has a long tradition of recognizing employees on their 25th anniversary with a solid gold Rolex watch. Despite my appreciation of the gold embellishments of St. Peter’s and Santa Maria Maggiore, personal ornamentation isn’t something I need. So I requested that my employer break with tradition and consider making a charitable donation in my name to the Rome Center, which they did. To their contribution, I added my own personal ‘thank you’ to the Rome Center. To acknowledge Loyola and the Rome Center at a time when my employer was looking to honor me seemed appropriate since I credit Loyola with having a positive impact on my formation as an adult and professional.

To celebrate his 40-year career in human resources, Canino made one gift to support campus renovations/name a space and another to purchase artwork for that space.
A positive and sustaining force

A s my three years as JFRC Alumni Board president ends, I have been asked to reflect on my time and the state of the JFRC. First, I am grateful to have been chosen to serve. The bylaws define our purpose to be an essential resource to steward the mission of the JFRC and its advancement efforts by serving as ambassadors. I think we have done that. More importantly, the board has risen to new challenges and accomplished much. Here are a few examples:

• It implemented a career and professional development program that provides alumni as career mentors for other alumni.
• The membership process for the board now provides for more diversity by class year, gender, experience, and geography. We now celebrate having over 40 percent of our members outside Chicagoland.
• We have alumni groups in six regions, recently adding St. Louis.
• For the first time, a newly created Young Alumni subcommittee has engaged our newest JFRC alumni immediately after their Rome Center experience.
• We have taken a more active and leadership role with the JFRC advancement office on the editorial production of Il Bollino.
• The Alumni Wall Initiative is the first major development initiative of its kind and will provide a lasting memory in Rome. Today is, in my view, the JFRC’s greatest time. The alumni board has been an active and sustaining force behind the JFRC for two decades, helping the program navigate through challenges and opportunities. The board’s engagement and investment have brought the JFRC to its current place of strength and stability, and the future of the program is bright. The stunning improvements of our newly owned facility are well underway. The curriculum now includes business, communications, and science courses as well as two popular alumni-sponsored study trips. We have the PRO LAW program, the Loyola University Andalucìa double-degree business program, Rome Start, and our own foundation board. The intense phase of our 10-year campaign met its $4 million goal with Avanti! now inspiring continued generosity among alumni and friends of the JFRC.

I cannot acknowledge everyone who I think deserves the credit, but two Italian guys stand out in my mind. Michael Garanzini, S.J., and Emilio ladisé. Father Mike was “all in” for the JFRC from the outset. It became his baby and still is. Emilio’s vision and leadership make him the true successor to John Felice. We could not have asked for more from them.

For me personally, it has been a great run. I saw my last child, Luziah, become an alum last year, joining her brother Joe. The Polish symposium celebrates its tenth anniversary shortly, and I was honored with the Felice Award. For my part, I thank Leonard Slotowski (who brought me to this table), Janet Myers (who will lead us in development to the finish line), and Susanna Cavallo, all of my past and present fellow board members, Father Mike, Emilio, and lastly my wife, Connie. She did not attend the JFRC, but after 33 years it is as if she did.

John Felice is smiling up there as his life’s work climbs to greater heights. The experience he created gave us a unique advantage in life. Yet, we keep learning. For the world is and will always be our classroom.

HONOR ROLL OF DONORS 2015

The Rome Center would like to offer its sincere appreciation of the contributions of all donors ($1,000 or more) from our last fiscal year, July 1, 2014–June 30, 2015, please visit LUC.edu/JFRC/alumni/donors.

Recent alumni gatherings

April 17, 2015

ST. LOUIS ALUMNI APERITIVO

Alumni in St. Louis gathered at Leslie Hindman Auctioneers for an exclusive preview of her spring auction pieces and learned what to look for (and what to watch out for!) when purchasing art and antiques.

April 18, 2015

LA ALUMNI APERITIVO

Alumni in LA enjoyed a spirited evening out together last spring. Starting with food and drinks at the Parker, guests then headed across the street for an impromptu show at the Groundlings, best known for starting the careers of Will Ferrell, Chris Kattan, Ana Gasteyer, Kristen Wiig, and Michæla Watkins to name a few.

April 30, 2015

CLEVELAND ALUMNI APERITIVO

Alumni in Cleveland gathered at the renowned Great Lakes Brewing Co. to enjoy its featured beer, hors d’oeuvres, as well as a private brewery tour. Special thanks to Great Lakes Brewing Co. owner Patrick Conway (JFRC ’73–’74, BA ’74) for making the evening a unique experience.

July 11, 2015

SAN FRANCISCO ALUMNI APERITIVO

San Francisco alumni had the exclusive opportunity to tour and taste the wines of St. Francis Winery & Vineyards this summer! Hosted by winery owner Christopher Silva (JFRC ’85–’86), alumni received a private tour and enjoyed a wine tasting of St. Francis’s prized wines. See pg. 4 for an article about Silva.

July 25, 2015

NYC ALUMNI APERITIVO

Alumni in the New York tri-state area enjoyed an evening at Al Fiori with former JFRC Dean of Faculty Susana Cavallì, who shared her memories and unique perspective of leading the JFRC’s academic programming. Guests enjoyed wine, hors d’oeuvres, and a chance to catch up with fellow alumni.

St. Francis Winery & Vineyards, host site for San Francisco Alumni Aperitivo on July 11

September 11–13, 2015

40TH REUNION: CLASS OF 1974–75

Over 50 members of the class of 1974–75 celebrated their 40th reunion in Chicago. They gathered for an evening opening reception in Loyola’s new John and Kathy Schreiber Center, complete with a Via Tricornia “photo booth,” tours, a lavish Italian dinner at Galleria Marchetti, and a private closing Mass and brunch.

September 25–27, 2015

45TH REUNION: CLASS OF 1969–70

The class of 1969–70 celebrated their 45th reunion over three days in Chicago. More than 60 classmates enjoyed iconic Chicago experiences like the Navy Pier Ferris Wheel, the Billy Goat Tavern, an architectural tour on the Chicago River, and an Italian dinner on Taylor Street. This class gets together every five years!
You studied in Rome. You became entranced by its history and cultural magnificence. If you haven’t been back lately, there is no better time to come and visit the Rome Center and once again lose yourself in the streets of the Eternal City.

See firsthand the numerous changes happening at the Rome Center, both recent and future, physical and academic. Take classes and guided tours from Rome Center professors and other leaders. Enjoy optional excursions to Ancient Port of Ostia or Hadrian’s Villa at Tivoli. There’s something for everyone.

Register or learn more at LUC.edu/jfrcalumni.

OTHER REUNION HIGHLIGHTS:

- Ancient Port of Ostia Antica was founded by the fourth king of Rome, Ancus Marcius, in 7th Century BC. It became the greatest military and commercial seaport of Rome, used to transport food and supplies into town. Much of the ruins are still intact.

- Borghese Gallery was started by Cardinal Scipio Borghese in the 17th century and contains masterworks by Bernini, Raphael, and Titian and beautiful surrounding gardens.

- Frascati is a charming medieval town overlooking the volcanic Lake Albano, voted one of the most beautiful towns in Italy. This town continues to be the place where the popes make their summer residence.

- Castel Gandolfo is a beautiful and charming medieval town overlooking the volcanic Lake Albano, voted one of the most beautiful towns in Italy. This town continues to be the place where the popes make their summer residence.

- Ostia Antica is the heart and soul of a famous wine area and site of the majestic Villa Aldobrandini. It was extensively rebuilt after World War II damage. Guests will enjoy a special guided tour of its gardens along with a wine tasting.

- Hadrian’s Villa near the ancient town of Tibur (modern Tivoli).

Y

ou studied in Rome. You became entranced by its history and cultural magnificence. If you haven’t been back lately, there is no better time to come and visit the Rome Center and once again lose yourself in the streets of the Eternal City.

See firsthand the numerous changes happening at the Rome Center, both recent and future, physical and academic. Take classes and guided tours from Rome Center professors and other leaders. Enjoy optional excursions to Ancient Port of Ostia or Hadrian’s Villa at Tivoli. There’s something for everyone.

Register or learn more at LUC.edu/jfrcalumni.

OTHER REUNION HIGHLIGHTS:

- Ancient Port of Ostia Antica was founded by the fourth king of Rome, Ancus Marcius, in 7th Century BC. It became the greatest military and commercial seaport of Rome, used to transport food and supplies into town. Much of the ruins are still intact.

- Borghese Gallery was started by Cardinal Scipio Borghese in the 17th century and contains masterworks by Bernini, Raphael, and Titian and beautiful surrounding gardens.

- Frascati is the heart and soul of a famous wine area and site of the majestic Villa Aldobrandini. It was extensively rebuilt after World War II damage. Guests will enjoy a special guided tour of its gardens along with a wine tasting.

- Castel Gandolfo is a beautiful and charming medieval town overlooking the volcanic Lake Albano, voted one of the most beautiful towns in Italy. This town continues to be the place where the popes make their summer residence.

- Ostia Antica is the heart and soul of a famous wine area and site of the majestic Villa Aldobrandini. It was extensively rebuilt after World War II damage. Guests will enjoy a special guided tour of its gardens along with a wine tasting.

- Hadrian’s Villa near the ancient town of Tibur (modern Tivoli).
Calendar of events

Visit LUC.edu/jfrcalumni for a complete list of upcoming events.

SAN FRANCISCO ALUMNI APERITIVO
December 3, 2015 • 7–9 pm • Location TBD
REGISTER: LUC.edu/jfrcalumni/sanfrancisco
Join fellow San Francisco alumni for their annual winter gathering and to kick-off the holiday season! Enjoy a selection of wine, beer and appetizers while mingling with local JFRC alumni.

CHICAGO ALUMNI GIVE BACK
December 13, 2015 • 1–4 pm • Merchandise Mart
REGISTER: LUC.edu/jfrcalumni/chicagogives
Join fellow JFRC alumni in the Chicago area for this annual service event, organized by JFRC Alumni Board Member Claire Dittrich. For just a few hours, we will pack and organize donated gifts for the Catholic Charities of Chicago, who then deliver them to families in need. Then we will enjoy drinks at a local watering hole.

ST. LOUIS ALUMNI APERITIVO
March 3, 2016 • Location TBD

JFRC ALL-CLASS REUNION
May 21–27, 2016 • Rome Center
REGISTER: LUC.edu/jfrcalumni
Join us next May as we gather alumni from all classes to see the new and exciting developments on campus and reminisce about one of the great experiences of your college days. And don’t miss special tours, events, and the chance to “take a class” from none other than Professor John Nicholson! Learn more on pgs. 14–15.