Message from the Dean

The beginning of a new school year is always a time of high expectations and renewed commitments. This fall the School of Education welcomes hundreds of new undergraduate and graduate students pursuing bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees. Many of these students choose Loyola University Chicago and the School of Education based in large part of the quality of its academic programs. As you know, graduating with a degree from Loyola is a distinction that represents a long-standing history of academic excellence.

Many of those students pursue their programs as a direct result of the support they receive from Loyola and the School of Education in the form of scholarships, assistantships, and student work. Each new student faces the ongoing challenge of pursuing a Loyola degree while balancing the financial burden of attending a private university. In this newsletter we highlight a few of the scholarships and recent recipients that benefit from your continuing support and generosity of them, our programs, and faculty. Without you, many students would not have this opportunity, and on their behalf, I thank you for your partnership with the School of Education.

Highlights from the Spring 2010 Reception

The School of Education hosted its annual spring alumni reception on April 7. This event concluded a year of celebrations in recognition of the school’s 40th anniversary. To share your memories of the school, read what others had to say, or to watch highlights from our 40 years, please visit LUC.edu/soe40.
FOCUS ON RESEARCH

Ann Marie Ryan, PhD

Examining the Historical Relationship Between Catholic and Public Schooling

Dr. Ann Marie Ryan’s research on the history of Catholic schooling in the United States from the early to mid-20th century examines the intersection between Catholic and public schools and ways in which public educational reform efforts have affected Catholic schools. Ryan argues that the history of Catholic education is often separated from the history of public schooling, but that it is critical to consider the relationship between Catholic and public education to better understand their commonalities, their unique characteristics, and the contentious and pragmatic issues that brought them into association with one another.

Ryan aims to enrich our understanding of the diversity within Catholic schooling by demonstrating that although common religious beliefs may unite Catholic schools, the character and implementation of educational programs varies across these schools. This derives from the diversity of Catholics themselves and the range of groups administering schools within the Catholic Church—from large metropolitan dioceses to small religious congregations in rural areas.

Ryan’s research focuses on Catholic education and standardization, accreditation, and access to higher education; standardized testing in Catholic and public education; and public resources and Catholic schools. Her work examines the historical roots of current educational realities and the range of responses that Catholic and public educators, communities, and students have had to the complicated negotiations between schools and communities in the United States in the 20th century.

Teaching with Primary Sources

The Library of Congress Teaching with Primary Sources (TPS) grant program, formerly known as “Adventure of the American Mind,” began in 2003. Since then, TPS has provided grant-funded professional development to hundreds of educators in Chicago and the surrounding metropolitan area. TPS works with educators to design challenging, high-quality instruction using digitized primary sources from the Library of Congress. The TPS program at Loyola offers rigorous professional development for local K-12 educators and higher education faculty through workshops, conferences and a graduate-level course. Educators are provided instruction on ways to access and use the Library of Congress’s rich reservoir of digitized primary sources and design student-centered primary source-based learning experiences that use effective instructional practices.

Partnerships with various professional organizations have extended the reach of the TPS program at Loyola to regional and national levels. For example, TPS-Loyola University Chicago has partnered with the Sierra Club Midwest Chapter to create and disseminate instructional materials based on the Library of Congress’s digitized environmental conservation collections. The program also recently partnered with the regional Japanese American Citizenship League to develop presentations and instructional materials based on the Library of Congress digitized collections. The program has also partnered locally with two Teaching American History collaborative grants.

Graduation 2010

On May 13, School of Education candidates (265) received bachelor of education, master of education, educational specialist, or doctor of education degrees at the University’s 140th Commencement. All graduates were congratulated by Rev. Michael J. Garanzini, S.J., Loyola president, and Dr. David P. Prasse, dean of education. Ms. Judy Erwin, executive director, Illinois Board of Higher Education, was the commencement speaker. Ms. Julie Buckley (BSEd ’10) gave the student commencement speech.

Joy is Reading

On Saturday, May 1, the School of Education held its fourth annual “Joy Is Reading” Conference. Faculty and graduate students conducted “Parental Involvement” and “Ways to Help Your Child Become a More Effective Reader” sessions for the more than 150 students and their parents who came from public and private schools in Chicago for the hands-on literacy workshops. Undergraduate students engaged attendees in exciting literacy activities. According to Dr. Ernestine Riggs, associate professor and conference’s organizer, “This conference focused on bringing parents and their children together to promote family literacy and to assist parents in becoming more involved with their child’s education.”

Participating schools included George B. Swift Specialty School, Hayt Elementary School, Oakdale Christian Academy, Ray Elementary School, and St. Benedict Elementary School. Each student received a book bag containing books, school supplies, and other gifts. Pearson Publishing donated the books, thanks to the efforts of a Loyola alumna, Dr. Tamiko Jones (EdD ’02). Dr. Jones also conducted a workshop for the parents.
FOUNDER’S DINNER

Kanold wins Damen Award

Dr. Timothy Kanold received the Damen Award from the School of Education at this year’s Founder’s Dinner on June 19. Kanold earned a PhD in educational leadership in 2002. Before becoming an educational consultant, Kanold was superintendent at Adlai E. Stevenson High School District 125, and prior to that he was director of mathematics and science at Stevenson High School. Kanold is co-author of several mathematics text books for grades 6-12.

BSEd ALUMNA
Andrea McKinley (BSEd ’00) was awarded a Fulbright English Teaching Assistantship in India for the 2010 school year. McKinley believes that the defining purpose of today’s teachers is to prepare students for an internationally integrated society. As a teacher in India, she plans to assist a new generation to comprehend English, understand American culture, and become more educated world citizens. In addition to her teaching responsibilities, she plans to research India’s educational system to compare and contrast its teaching methodologies with the United States’.

HIGHER EDUCATION ALUMNA
We congratulate Dr. Delilienne Pollard (PhD ‘05), a graduate of the higher education program, who was recently named president of Montgomery College in Maryland.

SCHOOL OF PSYCHOLOGY ALUMNI
Four Loyola alumni were recognized at the January 2010 annual convention of the Illinois School Psychologists Association held in East Peoria. Karen Ochoa (Med ’81) was named Ted Smith Practitioner of the Year. Rosario Pesce (PhD ’83) received the Presidential Award. And Kathy Loomos (PhD ’00) and Breeda McGrath (PhD ’01) received Distinquished Service Awards. In addition, McGrath also proudly accepted the fourth annual Distinguished Teaching Award for Excellence in Teaching from Chicago School of Professional Psychology. Congratulations to all!

Early this year, the School of Education received a generous gift from the estate of Paul and Connie Mooney of Tucson, Arizona. Paul earned a master of education degree from Loyola in 1957 and was a longtime educator in Tucson. Together the couple donated more than $3 million dollars to Loyola University Chicago. We are excited to announce that the following three endowed scholarship funds were established from the Mooneys’ generous gift:

PAUL T. AND CONCEETTA MOONEY SCHOLARSHIP FUND will provide scholarship support for students enrolled in the School of Education who are interested in urban education.

PAUL T. AND CONCEETTA MOONEY CATHOLIC EDUCATORS FUND will provide grant or scholarship support for students seeking an advanced certificate or degree with preference given to students who are professional educators serving urban Catholic schools and who seek leadership positions as principals or superintendents in Catholic schools systems.

PAUL T. AND CONCEETTA MOONEY FELLOWSHIP FUND will provide fellowship or scholarship support for students who work in urban schools, public or private, and who are seeking an advanced degree.

These funds will be invested in the endowment and will continue to grow and provide opportunities for School of Education students for years to come. We look forward to awarding these three new scholarships to future educators in 2011.

In addition to these new funds, there are existing scholarship endowments in the School of Education that provide financial assistance for students each year.

THE ANNA LOWE MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP was established in 2008 in memory of faculty member Dr. Anna Lowe. This endowment provides support for students enrolled in the School of Education who evidenced an interest in African-American heritage by studying African-American history, society, or culture. The 2010–2011 recipient is Alexandra Dyer, special education major.

THE CAREER TRANSITION SCHOLARSHIP is an endowed scholarship for professionals seeking a career change to the field of education. This scholarship was established by an anonymous donor in 2007 and is awarded to graduate student. The 2010 recipient is Jennelle Wagner, new admit to the School Counseling Program.

THE ALICE M. NIHILL ANNUAL SCHOLARSHIP, the first endowed scholarship in the School of Education, was established in 1982 following a bequest gift from Alice Nihill (BA ’24). This scholarship covers tuition for senior students in the School of Education preparing for a career as an elementary educator. The 2010 recipient is Marianna Howard-Paez.

THE RUTH MARY WHELAN SCHOLARSHIP was established in 2009, thanks to a generous bequest from Mrs. Ruth Mary Whelan (MUND ’37, MA ’54). Income from this fund is used to provide scholarships for students enrolled in the School of Education and who are preparing to become teachers. The first recipients of the scholarship were highlighted in the spring 2010 newsletter.
