When to Study Abroad
School of Social Work students are strongly encouraged to study abroad during the Fall or Spring semesters of their Sophomore Year. Students may potentially study abroad in the Fall semester of their Junior year, but students must meet with their School of Social Work Academic Advisor prior to making arrangements to study abroad. While abroad, students can take a combination of CORE courses, social science electives towards their Social Work major, and general electives. School of Social Work students can also take social work courses while abroad, with proper approval. However, they cannot take an internship course while abroad.
