ADMINISTRATIVE EXPERIENCE

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO: Director, Center for Urban Policy (CUP), 1980-1988.

The Center was created [replacing the Center for Research in Urban Government] to encourage researchers at Loyola and other colleges in metropolitan Chicago and individuals affiliated with community organizations to study public policies which affected the social, economic, and political development of this urban area. A monograph series, Urban Insights, was established as the Center's major publication, and to referee manuscripts I organized an Editorial Board composed of Loyola and non-Loyola academics from economics, sociology, geography and political science. I solicited manuscripts, acted as editor and publisher, and targeted advertising to key markets. The Director was a full-time faculty member of Political Science while supervising the operations of CUP. The Center received a small budget from Loyola University to subsidize the three-month summer salary for the Director and the yearly salary for a one-half time secretary. The amount earmarked for publications was augmented by revenues derived from sale of CUP monographs. CUP published 17 monographs in its Urban Insights Series in addition to four symposia, two books, and one Festschrift. Over 3,000 publications were sold to libraries, federal and state government agencies, community groups, and interested persons.

Elected to Faculty Council as Representative of Social Sciences (the university-wide faculty advisory assembly): 2001-2002; 1999-2000, 1996-1998, 1994-1995, 1991-1992, 1980-1986
--chair, Committee on Administrative Policies and Resources of Faculty Council, 1999-2000
--Member, Ad Hoc Governance Committee of Faculty Council, 1999-2000
--chair, Elections Committee of Faculty Council, 1998-1999
--elected to Executive Committee of Faculty Council, 1982-1983
--member, Committee on Faculty Status of Faculty Council, 1980-1987

Appointed by the President as one of two Loyola University members on the Board of Directors of the Institute of Urban Life, 1982-1988.

Member, Departmental Graduate Program Committee, 1982-1990; 1998-2000
Departmental Committee on Special Activities, 1990-1996, 1980-1981

Appointed by President as Faculty Council Representative to the University-wide Communications Committee, 1983-1985

CHICAGO STATE UNIVERSITY: Chair, Department of Economics and Political Science.

In this capacity I supervised the equivalent of nine full-time faculty; monitored budgetary expenditures; made personnel recommendations for appointment, retention, tenure, salary and promotion; and managed the day-to-day operations of the Department. I developed proposals for the Political Science major, an option in Public Administration, and a Legal Assistant Program. I acted as academic advisor for the Board of Governors and the University Without Walls Degree Programs, both experimental education options, and
