Biographical History

Born April 14, 1906, the eldest of four children of immigrant Italian parents Charles and Agnes C.C. Rossetti, Agatha lived with her family in Sheffield, Pennsylvania. At the age of 9 her mother died and Agatha's father decided to remarry. The woman to whom he was engaged did not want the children, so her father decided to place them in a children's home in Erie, PA. After much protest by the children, Charles yielded and did not marry his then fiancé. Instead, the children remained in Sheffield with their father and Agatha became surrogate mother to her younger sister and brothers.

Although busy raising her siblings, she graduated as valedictorian of her high school class in 1924. She won a partial scholarship to Penn State but was unable to go to college because her father, a tannery laborer, could not meet the remaining costs. Consequently, she worked as a clerk and bookkeeper in Sheffield until she married Joseph B. Hessley on January 30, 1929. The couple then moved to Warren, PA where Agatha lived until her death on May 31, 1994. During her time in Warren she raised three daughters, Agnes, Ellen, Rita and two sons, Bernard and Thomas. Her daughter Rita described her as "a traditional, classic homemaker" although, as her letters demonstrate, her interests ranged beyond those prescribed by her traditional role. When her husband's health began to deteriorate, she lied about her age and was hired by the N. K. Wendelobe Paint Company as their bookkeeper. She worked for the company for 28 years, retiring in 1988.

Agatha Rossetti Hessley passed away on May 31, 1994. Three daughters, two sons, two brothers, thirteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild survived her.

Scope and Content

The following material represents the correspondence Agatha had with her daughter, Rita, between 1970 and 1993. This correspondence reflects major life events in the Hessley family and offers a chronicled account of world events as seen by Agatha Hessley including Richard Nixon and Watergate, the oil crisis of the 1970s, her views on the Roman Catholic Church, abortion, elections, travel, sports, higher education, and the Gulf War.
