Administrative History

Loyola University Chicago was founded in 1870 by Arnold Damen, S.J., as St. Ignatius College, the college was originally located at West Twelfth Street, next to Holy Family Church, the current location of St. Ignatius College Prep. On October 23, 1909, St. Ignatius College was rechartered by the State of Illinois as Loyola University, and in 1922 the University moved operations from West Twelfth Street to Sheridan and Devon in the Rogers Park neighborhood. College classes had been offered at the Rogers Park campus since 1912, and Loyola Academy opened on the property in 1909.

Loyola University Chicago is comprised of four campuses, three located in Chicago and the Chicagoland area and one in Rome. The Chicago campuses consist of the Lake Shore Campus, home of the College of Arts and Sciences; the Water Tower Campus, home of the School of Social Work, School of Law, School of Education, Quinlan School of Business, and an extension the College of Arts and Sciences; and the Loyola Medical Center in Maywood, IL, home of the Niehoff School of Nursing and the Stritch School of Medicine. Loyola University Chicago's Rome campus, the John Felice Rome Center, is open to students from other universities in addition to Loyola students.

Loyola University Chicago consists of 13 Colleges and Schools.
