Administrative History

When John F. Cuneo Sr. died in 1977, he stated in his will that his mansion in Vernon Hills, Illinois, was to be used for "educational purposes" after his wife no longer used the house. When she died, the mansion became part of the Cuneo Foundation and in 1990, it became a historic house museum called the Cuneo Museum and Gardens. The house was left as it was when it was a residence. The only changes included cleaning, renovations, and the addition of display cases and historical memorabilia from Cuneo's 1500 N. Lake Shore Drive apartment.

When it first opened, the museum mainly attracted the locals in the Vernon Hills vicinity, but the first director of the museum changed that. Barbara Hirschfeld became director of the Cuneo Museum in January 1991. Over the next six years, she oversaw the operations of the museum and helped make Cuneo a popular place for weddings, private events, concerts, and other well-attended events. Most notably she was responsible for conceiving the idea for a Christmas light show, after experiencing them in her native St. Louis. Ever since, the annual Holiday Light Show is one of the more popular events associated with the Cuneo Museum. In addition, it was during her tenure that the museum grounds started being used as a filming location for movies including "My Best Friend's Wedding" and "The Untouchables" TV Series. Hirschfeld retired from the museum in February 1997.
