The Mission of the Loyola University Chicago, School of Education:

The School of Education at Loyola University Chicago, a Jesuit and Catholic urban university, supports the Jesuit ideal of knowledge in the service of humanity. We endeavor to advance professional education in the service of social justice, engaged with Chicago, the nation, and the world. To achieve this vision the School of Education participates in the discovery, development, demonstration, and dissemination of professional knowledge and practice within a context of ethics, service to others, and social justice. We fulfill this mission by preparing professionals to serve as teachers, administrators, psychologists, and researchers; by conducting research on issues of professional practice and social justice; and by partnering with schools and community agencies to enhance life-long learning in the Chicago area.

Course Description:

The purpose of this course is to develop candidates’ ability to provide positive supports to learners whose behavior impedes their learning. These supports are typically developed through assessments (data collection, interview techniques, and classroom observation) and interventions (e.g., schoolwide, group supports, individual/comprehensive supports). Theories to be discussed include: teaching new skills (e.g., replacement behaviors), conflict resolution, crisis prevention/intervention, problem solving skill development, self-monitoring skill development, quality of life interventions, self-determination, and community school supports. The candidate will learn to understand schoolwide supports, plan and develop group and individual supports (e.g., functional behavioral assessments, write positive behavior interventions plans, and write individual educational plans (IEP)), within a diverse environment. Connections will be made to show how academic and behavioral problem solving can be infused into the same process through problem solving.

Conceptual Framework:

The Conceptual Framework for the Loyola University Chicago, School of Education is “Social Action through Education.” This objective is carried out within four domains and will be addressed throughout Instruction, materials, and evaluation of this course and your performance. Discussion of the mission of the school of education and the framework can be found online at: <http://www.luc.edu/education/mission/>

These domains include:

CFS1: Candidates critically evaluate current bodies of knowledge in their field.

Candidates will have the opportunity to apply and reflect upon the educational concepts they will learn during their formal course work through activities such as class role-plays, and conducting components of functional assessments during their clinical activities. Candidates will also have the opportunity to develop their skills as “online learners” through the hybrid portions of this class.

CFS2: Candidates apply culturally responsive practices that engage diverse communities.

Candidates will develop their understanding of how context impacts exceptionality and behavior. Through activities and class discussions, students will discuss questions such as, “What does a teacher need to know in an urban school setting? What does a teacher need to know to work in a suburban setting? Are there differences? How do these environments impact exceptionality and behavior?”

CFS3: Candidates demonstrate knowledge of ethics and social justice.

Candidates will be provided with feedback through multiple sources (e.g., feedback from peers, course activities). The purpose of this type of assessment is to provide feedback to the candidate that accurately reflects their ability level, integration of social justice and the conceptual framework, and ultimately the effectiveness of the course.

CFS4: Candidates engage with local and/or global communities in ethical and socially just practices. Candidates will leave this course with examples of assessments for their professional portfolios, and a cadre of informal assessment tools with which they will have developed familiarity.

Professional in Service of Social Justice:

Jesuit education is founded on a 400-year tradition of academic excellence emphasizing the unique bond between teachers and learners. The School of Education prepares educators, administrators and school psychologists to be competent in the exercise of professional skills, to display a respect for diversity, to embrace distributive justice as social justice, and to recognize that education is a life-long process. Loyola University’s School of Education seeks to develop professionals who use their scholarship to evaluate actions and decisions in light of their ramifications and impact on students, school organizations, and the broader community. We see the professionals of the future as thoughtful persons able to analyze situations, set goals, plan and monitor actions, evaluate results, and reflect on their own professional thinking. Professionals are responsive to the long-term social and ethical implications of their decisions and actions. The School of Education develops persons of conscience devoted to the service of others. The faculty of the School of Education seek to develop professionals able to develop and offer educational opportunities for children, adolescents and adults that enable them to contribute to and benefit from the social, political, and economic opportunities in their lives and to promote social justice. Professional educators in service of social justice will know the subjects they teach and how to convey content of those subjects to learners; engage in disciplined inquiry based on informed reason, reflect on experiences of self and others, consider alternative perspectives, and pursue a problem-solving orientation; evidence respect for and ability to respond to differences in learners’ personal, social, economic and cultural experiences; evaluate the effects of their decisions on others (learners, families, and other professionals in the learning community); provide learning opportunities to support all learners' intellectual, social, and personal development; possess the knowledge and skills to teach all learners well and with rigor; create a learning environment that promotes positive social interaction, active engagement in learning and self-motivation; and maintain standards of professional conduct.

Social Justice and Exceptionalities:

The proposed philosophy of social justice for working with individuals with exceptionalities is adapted from TASH (a national organization for individuals with disabilities).

Teachers should use innovative educational strategies, cutting-edge research; and support grassroots, personal, and collaborative advocacy for people with disabilities.

(These are the qualities that have come to symbolize TASH's work (<http://www.tash.org/>). Described by many as pioneers of social change for persons with disabilities who have been underserved and undervalued in our society, the members of TASH are strong advocates of people who have traditionally been denied access to education, work, and community living.)

Course Objectives:

1. Understanding the characteristics of learners: The competent learning behavior specialist understands how disabilities impact the cognitive, physical, emotional, social, and communication development of an individual and provides opportunities that support the intellectual, social, and personal development of all students (ages 3-21) (LBS2: A-D; NASP Standard 4, 5)
2. Assessment: The competent learning behavior specialist understands the educational assessment process and uses various assessment strategies to support the continuous development of all students (ages 3-21) (LBS3: B, C, E, I, L, M, O; CC3: B, C, J, K, L, M, O, P; CC4; NASP Standards 1, 5, 6)
3. Planning for Instruction: The competent learning behavior specialist understands how students differ in their approaches to learning and creates instructional opportunities that are adapted to diverse learners. The learning behavior specialist understands instructional planning and designs instruction based on knowledge of the discipline, student, community, and curriculum goals. (LBS4: F, G, H, J, M, O, T, V-X; CC5; NASP Standards 1, 5, 8)
4. Learning Environment: The competent learning behavior specialist uses an understanding of individual and group motivation and behavior to create a learning environment that encourages positive social interaction, active engagement in learning, and self-motivation (LBS5: A-F; CC2; NASP Standards 3, 5)
5. Instructional Delivery: The competent learning behavior specialist understands the central concepts and methods of inquiry; uses a variety of instructional strategies to encourage students' development of critical thinking, problem solving, and performance skills; and creates learning experiences that make content meaningful to all students (ages 3-21) (LBS6: G, I, J, M, O, P, U, V; CC5; NASP Standards 9, 11).

6. Collaborative Relationships: The competent learning behavior specialist uses knowledge of effective written, verbal, and visual communication techniques to foster active inquiry, collaboration, and supportive interaction among professionals, parents, paraeducators, and students (LBS7: A,B; CC7: A-H, J-T; NASP Standard 7)
7. Professional Conduct and Leadership: The competent learning behavior specialist understands teaching as a profession, maintains standards of professional conduct, and provides leadership to improve students' learning and well-being (LBS8: A-C; CC6; NASP Standard 1, 9)
8. Reflection and Professional Growth: The competent learning behavior specialist is a reflective practitioner who continually evaluates how choices and actions affect students, parents, and other professionals in the learning community and actively seeks opportunities to grow professionally (LBS9: A-B, NASP Standard 1, 9)

Professional expectations of the instructor:

1. We make a strong effort to be where we say we are going to be, and do what we say we say we will do. We value these characteristics in others. We also know that things in life just happen. If something does happen, we would like to know, especially, if you have an emergency and cannot make it to class.
2. When assignments are turned in on time, we are happy, everyone wants a happy grader for their assignment. We reserve the right to give partial credit or no credit for assignments past the date they are due.
3. We like to know what is expected from the beginning of any undertaking. The first two class sessions we will discuss expectations of instructors and student behaviors that will make the class run smoothly. Be thinking about three to five expectations you believe make university classes run smoothly (if it is easier, pick three to five behaviors that make the class run less smoothly and state the opposite.)

Privacy Statement: We will not use any recordings that include students' images or voice for anything other than this class without their permission.

Language:

In course discussions and in your writing please adhere to the recommendations in the TASH "People-First Language" article.

Diversity:

In concert with the mission statement and conceptual framework for the School of Education, faculty, students, academic activities, and learning environments will be sensitive to and driven by individual, cultural, social, and economic diversity awareness and respect. It is expected that the candidate will develop a respect for and recognition of the myriad forms of diversity that compose in the world.

Accommodations: Any student registered with Student Accessibility Center (SAC) (<https://www.luc.edu/sac/>) who intends on using their accommodations must provide faculty with an accommodation letter (printed or via email). While students are encouraged to provide faculty with their letter during the first two weeks of classes, students can register with SAC at any point in the semester. Accommodations are not retroactive and should be provided with advanced notice in order for faculty to facilitate accommodations. If you have any questions about how to implement accommodations in your course, please contact SAC. Please log in to Accommodate using this link: <https://luc-accommodate.symplicity.com/>.

Dispositions:

All candidates are reviewed each semester by the program faculty in dispositional areas of Professionalism, Fairness, and the Belief that all students can learn. These will be assessed throughout the course through in-person and online dialog, and other written materials including your case study (described below). The rubric used to assess these dispositions is included at the end of this syllabus.

School of Education Commitment - COVID-19:

Loyola's School of Education (SOE) recognizes that this is an unprecedented time. We understand that moving into the 2021-2022 academic year while living in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic may stir feelings of uncertainty, fear, or anxiousness. We want you to know that your safety, health, and well-being, as well as that of our faculty and staff, remain our primary concern. We want to be able to support you in any way that we can. We ask you to embody the Jesuit value of Cura Personalis, or care for the whole person, as we prepare to learn together. We ask that you consider your way of being in this community, to act with care, and treat all with dignity to keep yourself and others safe. If you are not feeling well, please use Loyola's SYMPTOM Checker. It can be found on the webpage or APP Loyola Health under the COVID -19 Related Information Tab at the top of the page.

The University understands that you may encounter obstacles that make reaching academic goals more difficult. We strongly encourage you to access the Student Resources on Loyola's COVID-19 Response webpage for information, supports, and resources on basic needs such as housing, food, financial aid, and medical and mental health. This web page also offers information on official University communications, access to technology, and student services. All Loyola University Chicago administrators, faculty, and advisors are also here for you.

The SOE is committed to working with all students to address any challenges that may arise during the semester. Please reach out to your professor as early as possible to discuss any accommodations you think may be necessary in order for you to successfully complete your coursework. Active and engaged communication with all of your professor is encouraged. We know the FALL 2021 Return to Campus will be like no other, but through collaboration, communication, and shared responsibility, we will not only get through this difficult time; we will thrive.

COVID-19 Required Personal Safety Practices:

We all have a part to play in preventing the spread of COVID-19. Following a simple set of required personal safety practices can lower your own risk of being infected and can help protect others. All members of the Loyola community are expected to follow these practices while on any of the University's campuses. Face masks or face coverings must be worn by all students, faculty, and staff while on any of Loyola's campuses, when in the presence of others, in classrooms, and in public settings where other social distancing measures are difficult to maintain. Appropriate use of face masks or coverings is critical in minimizing the risks to others around you, as you can spread COVID-19 to others even if you do not feel sick. Please be sure to review all LUC REQUIRED Safety Protocols.

COVID-19 Reporting Protocol:

In preparation for our upcoming semester, Loyola University Chicago's Emergency Response Management team has been working to develop protocols in accordance with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines that help ensure the health and safety of our community. Given the rising number of COVID-19 cases across our country, it is very likely that incidence within our community will occur in the fall.

Students, faculty, and staff who have tested positive for COVID-19 must report their case to the University as soon as possible. If you have tested positive for the virus, please contact us at covid-19report@LUC.edu or by calling 773-508-7707. All COVID-19-related questions or feedback should continue to be sent to covid-19support@LUC.edu, not the new case reporting email address.

Privacy Statement

Assuring privacy among faculty and students engaged in online and face-to-face instructional activities helps promote open and robust conversations and mitigates concerns that comments made within the context of the class will be shared beyond the classroom. As such, recordings of instructional activities occurring in online or face-to-face classes may be used solely for internal class purposes by the faculty member and students registered for the course, and only during the period in which the course is offered. Students will be informed of such recordings by a statement in the syllabus for the course in which they will be recorded. Instructors who wish to make subsequent use of recordings that include student activity may do so only with informed written consent of the students involved or if all student activity is removed from the recording. Recordings including student activity that have been initiated by the instructor may be retained by the instructor only for individual use.

Class Conduct

One important aspect of a Jesuit education is learning to respect the rights and opinions of others. Please respect others by (1) allowing all classmates the right to voice their opinions without fear of ridicule, and (2) not using profanity or making objectionable (gendered, racial or ethnic) comments, especially comments directed at a classmate.

*Student Support

Special Circumstances--Receiving Assistance

Students are urged to contact us should they have questions concerning course materials and procedures. If you have any special circumstance that may have some impact on your course work, please let us know so we can establish a plan for assignment completion. If you require assignment accommodations, please contact us early in the semester so that arrangements can be made with Student Accessibility Center (SAC) (<http://www.luc.edu/sac/>).

Center for Student Access and Assistance (CSAA)

Should you encounter an unexpected crisis during the semester (e.g., securing food or housing, addressing mental health concerns, managing a financial crisis, and/or dealing with a family emergency, etc.), we strongly encourage you to contact the Office of the Dean of Students by submitting a CARE Referral for yourself or a peer in need of support: www.LUC.edu/csaa. If you are uncomfortable doing so on your own, please know that we can submit a referral on your behalf.

This link directs students to statements on essential policies regarding academic honesty, accessibility, ethics line reporting and electronic communication policies and guidelines. We ask that you read each policy carefully.

This link will also bring you to the full text of our conceptual framework that guides the work of the School of Education – Social Action through Education.

Success:

Participants who are successful in online Instruction

- Understand online learning practices and expectations.
- Have a dedicated study space
- Build a study plan.
- Know that Effective time-management and communication skills are essential.
- Stay motivated.
 - For more information, please see (Link)

Evaluation Procedures:

Grades will be based upon the following measures:

Class participation = 30

Required Module Completion = 30

Choice Module Completion = 30

Special Needs Network for Educators (SNNE) resource = 10

Bonus Final Case Analysis = 10

Late work:

- Late work will be accepted at the discretion of the instructor. To earn total points, please submit the materials by the assigned due dates. Should you have any issues with meeting the timelines provided for the course, please contact the instructors in advance of the deadline.

Class participation (30 points): These activities will include, but will not be limited to in-person and online activities, attendance, cooperative learning activities (face-to-face and online), general discussions, completing study guides, other synthesis/evaluation activities (in-class quizzes) and professional dispositions. Attendance: Your regular attendance and active participation are expected. The kinds of experiences you will receive in class are not ones that can be "made up" or compensated for by any other amount of reading or writing of papers. Online classes will include but not be limited to viewing a presentation, completing an activity, participating in reflection or discussion.

Required Module Completion (30 points): We will collectively focus on one module from the National Center on Intensive Intervention (NCII). Each week, we will have specific modules to complete, along with a reflective task (to be submitted in Sakai) that reflects your understanding of the material. The reflections will not be particularly long but will require you to synthesize your learning

Please respond to the modules within one week of the assigned date.

<https://intensiveintervention.org/intensive-intervention-behavior-course>

Choice Module (30 points): Candidates may choose one additional module from NCII to complete. Each module will include a formative assessment that must be submitted into Sakai, under assignments.

- You will complete these modules at your own pace.
- You only need to complete the videos, the weekly reflections which I will post, and one final assessment (see below)
- You need to have completed the modules by 11/17/21
- You will submit the final project in Sakai, under Assignments - Choice Module.

The modules include:

Explicit Instruction -

<https://intensiveintervention.org/intensive-intervention-features-explicit-instruction>

Final Assessment: Activity 8.13 – Stop and Jot: Apply your Knowledge Workbook (You may use parsimony in your response). Submit response in Sakai under assignments. Complete all modules.

Reading Intervention -

Final Assessment: Using the video provided under Module 7 (Link), complete Activity 7.4– Evaluate a Video. Submit your response in Sakai under assignments. For each module in this group, take the pre-assessment first (if available) or module quiz first (if available). Some modules may not have these and that is OK. If you feel comfortable answering 90% of the questions, just review the slides. If you think you cannot answer the questions correctly for 90% of the quiz, then watch the entire module. You also could review the activities for each module and see if you could complete them without taking the modules itself. If you can, then perhaps scan that module and move on. This will be on the honor system. There is no need to submit the assessment.

Math Intervention-

Final Assessment: Under Module 7 – Complete Activity 7 - Identify and Analyze Components of an Intervention Lesson on Fractions. The activity is in the last section of the lesson plan. Submit your response in Sakai under assignments. For each module in this group, take the pre-assessment first or module quiz first (if available). Some modules may not have these and that is OK. Summarize one resource for the Special Needs Network for Educators (SNNE) (10 points):

Candidates can work in groups of up to four, to summarize a resource related to dealing with the COVID-19 pandemic for students with special needs. Candidates can create a graphic organizer, interview a family member or professional in the field, summarize a webinar or other resource, or create a summary of a tool, provide a brief explanation of a new law, screen capture a short review of a tool or resource that can support educators of students with special needs. The candidates need to place the summary or material into the SNNE (link) under the COVID-19 topic. See the SNNE website for examples. Be sure to include the names of the students who participate in making the resource. If you are reviewing a resource, please use this format: What did you select, how it is used, why did you select it, where can I find it?

Bonus Final Case Analysis (10 points): This is an optional activity.

Candidates will review a case study based on an actual functional assessment for a student. Next, they will develop a behavior intervention plan to support the student. Candidates can work in groups of up to 4 for this activity. One person per team needs to submit the assessment in Sakai. You can use pages 11-13 of this ISBE IEP to write up your summary of the functional assessment and behavior intervention plan. You can use parsimony. Just remember that you need to provide enough information that anyone who reads the plan could implement it without you being in the room.

What works:

1. Break down the activities by areas you feel most comfortable!
2. Make role assignments for these activities (who, what, when) (if working in pairs).
3. Connect with your site early.
4. Create a time line that will meet all of your needs, and get the project in on time. Work backwards. Look for the day that I want to turn in a project, figure out what needs to be done to make that happen, and then plot this out on a time line. Use this strategy if it works for you!
5. Assign someone to “pull it all together” into one document.
6. Everyone should review the final project.
7. Maintain a positive attitude towards the work and each other. Problem solve around adult behaviors.
8. Let your instructors know early if there is an issue!!
9. Be prepared to discuss your role in the process during the final presentation.

Loyola University Chicago
School of Education
Syllabus Addendum

School of Education Commitment - COVID-19: Loyola's School of Education (SOE) recognizes that this is an unprecedented time. We understand that moving into the 2020-2021 academic year while living in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic may stir feelings of uncertainty, fear, or anxiousness. We want you to know that your safety, health, and well-being, as well as that of our faculty and staff, remain our primary concern. We want to be able to support you in any way that we can. We ask you to embody the Jesuit value of Cura Personalis, or care for the whole person, as we prepare to learn together. We ask that you consider your way of being in this community, to act with care, and treat all with dignity to keep yourself and others safe.

The University understands that you may encounter obstacles that make reaching academic goals more difficult. We strongly encourage you to access the Student Resources on Loyola's COVID-19 Response webpage for information, supports, and resources on basic needs such as housing, food, financial aid, and medical and mental health. This web page also offers information on official University communications, access to technology, and student services. All Loyola University Chicago administrators, faculty, and advisors are also here for you.

The SOE is committed to working with all students to address any challenges that may arise during the semester. Please reach out to your professor as early as possible to discuss any accommodations you think may be necessary in order for you to successfully complete your coursework. We know this will be a semester like none other, but through collaboration, communication, and shared responsibility, we will not only get through this difficult time; we will thrive.

COVID-19 Reporting Protocol: In preparation for our upcoming semester, Loyola University Chicago's Emergency Response Management team has been working to develop protocols in accordance with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidelines that help ensure the health and safety of our community. Given the rising number of COVID-19 cases across our country, it is very likely that incidence within our community will occur in the fall.

Students, faculty, and staff who have tested positive for COVID-19 must report their case to the University as soon as possible. If you have tested positive for the virus, please contact us at covid-19report@LUC.edu or by calling 773-508-7707. All COVID-19-related questions or feedback should continue to be sent to covid-19support@LUC.edu, not the new case reporting email address.

Smart Evaluation

Towards the end of the course, students will receive an email from the Office of Institutional Effectiveness reminding them to provide feedback on the course. They will receive consistent reminders throughout the period when the evaluation is open, and the reminders will stop once they have completed the evaluation.

- The evaluation is completely anonymous. When the results are released, instructors and departments will not be able to tell which student provided the individual feedback.
- Because it is anonymous and the results are not released to faculty or departments until after grades have been submitted, the feedback will not impact a student's grade.

The feedback is important so that the instructor can gain insight in to how to improve their teaching and the department can learn how best to shape the curriculum.

The 13 possible objectives you will select from are listed below:

1. Gaining a basic understanding of the subject (e.g., factual knowledge, methods, principles, generalizations, theories)
2. Developing knowledge and understanding of diverse perspectives, global awareness, or other cultures
3. Learning to apply course material (to improve thinking, problem solving, and decisions)
4. Developing specific skills, competencies, and points of view needed by professionals in the field most closely related to this course
5. Acquiring skills in working with others as a member of a team
6. Developing creative capacities (inventing; designing; writing; performing in art, music drama, etc.)
7. Gaining a broader understanding and appreciation of intellectual/cultural activity (music, science, literature, etc.)
8. Developing skill in expressing oneself orally or in writing
9. Learning how to find, evaluate and use resources to explore a topic in depth
10. Developing ethical reasoning and/or ethical decision making
11. Learning to analyze and critically evaluate ideas, arguments, and points of view
12. Learning to apply knowledge and skills to benefit others or serve the public good
13. Learning appropriate methods for collecting, analyzing, and interpreting numerical information

Dispositions

All students are assessed on one or more dispositional areas of growth across our programs: Professionalism, Inquiry, and Social Justice. The instructor in your course will identify the dispositions assessed in this course. For those students in non-degree programs, the rubric for dispositions may be available through Sakai, TaskStream or another platform. Disposition data is reviewed by program faculty on a regular basis. This allows faculty to work with students to develop throughout their program and address any issues as they arise.

Additional ONLINE Course Policies

Privacy Statement

Assuring privacy among faculty and students engaged in online and face-to-face instructional activities helps promote open and robust conversations and mitigates concerns that comments made within the context of the class will be shared beyond the classroom. As such, recordings of instructional activities occurring in online or face-to-face classes may be used solely for internal class purposes by the faculty member and students registered for the course, and only during the period in which the course is offered. Students will be informed of such recordings by a statement in the syllabus for the course in which they will be recorded. Instructors who wish to make subsequent use of recordings that include student activity may do so only with informed written consent of the students involved or if all student activity is removed from the recording. Recordings including student activity that have been initiated by the instructor may be retained by the instructor only for individual use.

Synchronous Meetings

Will be conducted over Zoom. I request you keep your camera on and mic muted unless you are speaking.

Student Participation

I ask that student participate in all activities including chats, polls, and other online activities.

Class Conduct

One important aspect of a Jesuit education is learning to respect the rights and opinions of others. Please respect others by (1) allowing all classmates the right to voice their opinions without fear of ridicule, and (2) not using profanity or making objectionable (gendered, racial or ethnic) comments, especially comments directed at a classmate.

Student Support

Special Circumstances--Receiving Assistance

Students are urged to contact me should they have questions concerning course materials and procedures. If you have any special circumstance that may have some impact on your course work, please let me know so we can establish a plan for assignment completion. If you require assignment accommodations, please contact me early in the semester so that arrangements can be made with Services for Students with Disabilities (SSWD) (<http://www.luc.edu/sswd/>).

Center for Student Access and Assistance (CSAA)

Should you encounter an unexpected crisis during the semester (e.g., securing food or housing, addressing mental health concerns, managing a financial crisis, and/or dealing with a family emergency, etc.), I strongly encourage you to contact the Office of the Dean of Students by submitting a CARE Referral for yourself or a peer in need of support: www.LUC.edu/csaa. If you are uncomfortable doing so on your own, please know that I can submit a referral on your behalf.

This link directs students to statements on essential policies regarding academic honesty, accessibility, ethics line reporting and electronic communication policies and guidelines. We ask that you read each policy carefully.

This link will also bring you to the full text of our conceptual framework that guides the work of the School of Education – Social Action through Education.
