School of Education Conceptual Framework:

Vision: The School of Education of Loyola University Chicago is a community that seeks to transform members to impact local and global communities through the principles of social justice.

Mission: The School of Education at Loyola University Chicago, a Jesuit Catholic urban university, supports the Jesuit ideal of knowledge in the service of humanity. We endeavor to advance professional education in service of social justice, engaged with Chicago, the nation, and the world. To achieve this vision, the School of Education participates in the discovery, development, demonstration, and dissemination of professional knowledge and practice within a context of ethics, service to others, and social justice. We fulfill this mission by preparing professionals to serve as teachers, administrators, psychologists, and researchers who work across the developmental continuum, and by conducting research on issues of professional practice and social justice.

Standards: These dimensions of the conceptual framework also serve as the foundation to the School of Education Conceptual Framework standards that are explicitly embedded in major benchmarks across all SOE programs. Conceptual framework standards are listed below.

CFS1: Candidates critically evaluate current bodies of knowledge in their field.

CFS2: Candidates apply culturally responsive practices that engage diverse communities.

CFS3: Candidates demonstrate knowledge of ethics and social justice.

CFS4: Candidates engage with local and/or global communities in ethical and socially just practices

This course assesses the following framework standards:

- CFS1: Candidates critically evaluate current bodies of knowledge in their field.

Our conceptual framework is described here: www.luc.edu/education/mission/

Times: 8:30 am – 12:00 pm

Campus Location: Mundelein Center, Room 308, Lake Shore Campus (LSC)

School Site Location: Swift Specialty School, 5900 N Winthrop Ave, Chicago, IL 60660

TLSC 401: Language, Learning and Development: Theories in Practice

Through this module, teacher candidates: (a) observe and work with diverse children across the developmental continuum in a variety of formal and informal learning settings to deepen their understanding of the roles and responsibilities of educators in light of the learning and development of students from birth to grade 12, (b) learn about the cognitive and linguistic attainments of each developmental level, as well as the link between cognitive/language development and academic and broader developmental progress in diverse groups of children, and (c) deepen their understanding of the ways in which social, cultural, and environmental contexts might shape children's development and cognitive processing.

Some theories we will explore include: Behaviorism, Social Cognitive Theory, Cognitive Developmental Theory, Social Constructivism/Sociocultural Theory, Information Processing Theory, Ecological Systems Theory, Gardner's Multiple Intelligences, Emotional Intelligence, and Kohlberg's Moral Development

Module Essential Questions

1. How do theories of cognitive development, psychosocial development, language acquisition and learning theories help teachers to understand and guide the nature of their interactions and pedagogical practices with students? How would educators go about gathering evidence of these theories in birth to grade 12 settings?
2. Why are the key components and principles of information processing theory critical for educators to understand? How would educators go about utilizing this theory in birth to grade 12 settings?
3. How can observational evidence of the physical characteristics, communication skills, linguistic development, cognitive capacities, and social-emotional needs of children be used to understand theory and inform adult-child interaction and developmentally appropriate pedagogical practices in birth to grade 12 settings?

4. How is children's cognitive and linguistic development influenced by social-cultural and environmental contexts (e.g., culture/ethnicity, family, community)?

Required Texts:

***You are welcome to rent or purchase this text—we will not be reading every chapter.
2. Articles as posted by instructor in Sakai

LiveText

All students, except those who are non-degree, must have access to LiveText to complete the benchmark assessments aligned to the Conceptual Framework Standards and all other accreditation, school-wide and/or program-wide related assessments. You can access more information on LiveText here: LiveText.

Assessments

Grades for the course are weighted with the following distribution.

- Developmental Chart 40%
- Concept Paper 1 15%
- Concept Paper 2 15%
- Participation 20%
- Summative Assessment 10%

Concept Papers (Two Papers, each paper – 15% of final grade) You will write a short (500-600 words, double-spaced, 11-12 pt. font, typed) paper on information from specific chapter readings during the course. These concept papers require that you think about concepts and related ideas from key developmental and learning theory perspectives introduced in course readings. As you read about each theoretical perspective, select one key concept or main idea that you wish to discuss in the paper.

These papers must include three things:

- 1) A description (in your own words) of the concept you have chosen;
- 2) An analogy or metaphor describing the concept and appropriate related ideas; and
- 3) How the concept either applies to you as an individual or how you could apply the concept in your career as a teacher.

Developmental Theories Project (40% of final grade). Over the course of the module, you will complete a developmental theories chart as a response to assigned readings (about developmental theories, areas of development, and age-typical characteristics and observable milestones) as well as to site visits that highlight real world examples.

Sequence 1&2 /TLSC 401, 403, 405/ Summer 2018

You are to select 6 of the 9 theories studied throughout the module to complete your chart.

Each theory that you select must include the following:

- 1) A summary/overview;
- 2) An analogy, metaphor, or visual representation;
- 3) An example of the theory as observed from a site that was visited in addition to an explanation that demonstrates or applies the theory;
- 4) Application of the theory for the specific grade that you intend to teach (taking into account diversity among language and ability levels); and
- 5) A reflection of how the theory relates to your own identity, worldview, experiences and/or ways of learning.

Group Presentations (part of participation grade): During the second week, you will work in teams of four to present to your colleagues related to the readings for that day. A Power Point or Notes that can be uploaded in Sakai will be a huge support for your colleagues.

In groups of four, you will lead the class in discussion on a selected theory/reading. This short presentation should last between 10-15 minutes and explore the following three areas:

1. A summary of the theory (highlighting key tenets)
2. Explanation of benefits and limitations of the theory and
3. Implications for practice

Groups and dates will be decided on the second day of class.

Summer Session A Summative Assessment: Developing Teacher Identity

In this summative assessment, you will have the opportunity to build on the readings, discussions and assignments throughout Summer A to explore the development of your teacher identity by addressing key questions and establish a foundation for what you will learn in Summer B. The purpose of this assessment is to critically analyze your developing teacher identity and how this identity may inform your teaching practices. You will have three options to present the summative assessment - you will choose one.

1. Write a reflective essay of 1,200 to 1,500 words excluding references.
2. Develop a PowerPoint presentation with 12-15 slides and an accompanying audio narrative.
3. Record a 5-8 minute creative/artistic performance.

The summative assessment must address the following questions:

- What factors in my life have influenced my own cultural identity development?
- How do I make meaning of culturally responsive teaching and culturally responsive classrooms with regards to my teacher identity and practice?
- How do my understandings of learning and developmental theory impact/ guide the nature of my interactions and pedagogical practices with students?
- What knowledge, skills, and dispositions did I come in with at the beginning of the summer? What knowledge did I gain? What questions do I still have?

The summative assessment will be scored according to the following rubric:

Conceptual Framework and four categories:

	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3	Level 4
