

MASTER OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION IN HEALTH CARE MANAGEMENT

MBA DEGREE

Today's evolving health care industry calls for leaders who demonstrate innovation and leadership in the face of growing change. Quinlan School of Business's MBA in Health Care Management (HCM) program develops health care professionals who are effective, socially responsible leaders possessing the knowledge, skills, and understanding to succeed in any segment of this increasingly complex industry.

The program draws upon the expertise of faculty from Loyola's nationally recognized schools of business and law. You'll participate in a rigorous MBA program designed to build business knowledge, analytic, and strategic leadership skills, while also learning the latest practical applications in health care management. Two-thirds of the curriculum consists of industry-specific courses.

Qualified candidates for admission must have a minimum of 7 years of professional health care experience. On average, admitted students have 12 years of work experience.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

- Classes meet twice a month, every other Saturday
- Program takes 24 months to complete
- Life-changing international immersion
- A new cohort begins each Fall
- June 1 application deadline

Structured in a cohort format and designed for busy professionals like you, classes meet every other Saturday for 24 months. This convenient format allows you to learn and advance your career while maintaining work-life balance.

Classes take place at Loyola's Water Tower Campus. The program comprises 17 cross-functional courses that offer a breadth of exposure to disciplines well-rounded health care leaders need. Eleven courses are specific to the health care industry. The program features a capstone project. A modest number of classes take place online.

PROGRAM DISTINCTIONS

- The specialized curriculum enables you to delve into complex issues through the lens of a health care professional. Topics related to business ethics, policies and regulations, finance, economics, risk management, and strategy will equip you with the skills to lead effectively and responsibly.
- The cohort is modestly sized, so you will form a strong foundation for long-term professional and personal relationships. Your classmates will come from numerous organizations and job functions, giving you opportunities to explore new perspectives and tactics.
- Tuition covers all expenses, including books, international travel, meals during the program, and executive coaching.
- Responsible leadership is a focus in each of Quinlan's programs, giving you the tools to identify and navigate ethical dilemmas in the workplace.
- Quinlan School of Business is accredited by AACSB International, the premier accrediting body for schools of business. Quinlan is among the fewer than 5% of business schools worldwide that meet the AACSB's rigorous standards.

STUDY ABROAD

A global immersion experience is required. You will explore global issues through a 10-day industry-specific international immersion trip designed specifically for the cohort. The location, curriculum, and experience are developed in collaboration with the cohort. Past cohorts have visited China, the United Arab Emirates, South Africa, countries in Europe and South America.
