COURSE DESCRIPTION

The "United States was born in the country and has moved to the city." Richard Hofstadter, The Age of Reform (1955), 23.

This course examines the evolution of the United States from a rural and small-town society to an urban and suburban nation. Cities, and especially Chicago, have long offered some of the best laboratories for the study of American history, social structure, economic development and cultural change. Certain problems and themes recur throughout the course of American urban and cultural history which will be focal points of this seminar: the interaction of private commerce with cultural change; the rise of distinctive working and middle classes; the segregation of public and private space; the formation of new and distinctive urban subcultures organized by gender, work, race, religion, ethnicity, and sexuality; problems of health and housing resulting from congestion; and blatant social divisions between the rich and poor, the native-born and immigrant, and blacks and whites. This colloquium will thus provide a historiographical introduction to the major questions and issues in the culture and social life of American cities.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND STRUCTURE

The course requirements and their percentage of the final grade are:
1) one 15 to 25-page typewritten essay (50%).
2) class participation (25%). This includes 3 questions submitted weekly before class.
3) one or two oral reports (two pages in length) introducing a class reading (25%). Specific guidelines for all of these requirements appear on pages 8-15 of the syllabus.

I will communicate with you throughout the semester via Loyola’s email system and Sakai.

1 This syllabus is a working document. The professor reserves the right to modify and alter the syllabus and all materials, guidelines, etc., contained within it at his discretion over the course of the semester.
Loyola’s open-source learning management system. My email is tgilfoy@luc.edu if you need to reach me directly. I usually try to respond to email within 24 hours during the week, 48 hours over the weekend. If you do not receive an email response from me by this time, I have not received your email so please resend it. Additional information about me, as well as a copy of this syllabus, can be found at: http://www.luc.edu/history/faculty/gilfoyle.shtml

The structure of the class is unconventional. In order to facilitate deeper discussion and greater exposure to the considerable literature in American urban history, two thematically-related books will be assigned each week. One-half of the students will read one text and the other half will read the other text. You are responsible for reading only one book each week (of course, you can read both if you want 😊). Discussion of each book will be introduced by a short, 5-minute summary by a different student each week.

CLASS MEETING DATES AND ASSIGNMENTS
(Please note: this schedule includes dates for the Virtual Urban History Seminar, Chicago History Museum, 6:45–8:15 p.m. The seminar events are optional for all students.)

14 January – Virtual Urban History Seminar, Chicago History Museum, 6:45–8:15 p.m. (optional; need to register in advance at: https://www.chicagohistory.org/event/uh-s-jan-14/)

Recommended:

13 May – Virtual Urban History Seminar, Chicago History Museum, 6:45–8:15 p.m. (optional; need to register in advance at: https://www.chicagohistory.org/event/uhs-may-13/)

Lillia Fernandez, Rutgers University, “Laboring in the Industrial Chicago: Latino Workers in the Age of Manufacturing Flight.”

ZOOM DISCUSSIONS AND CRITICAL READING

Most of the readings may be purchased or rented through the Loyola University Bookstore in the Granada Center on Sheridan Road. Students also have the option to purchase books directly from publishers and discount sites. Here are a few recommendations:

- Alibris
- AbeBooks
- ThriftBooks

All of the required readings will be available on reserve at Cudahy Library in some digital form with different levels of access.

Since we will use Zoom for your weekly online synchronous class discussions, you will need to download and install Zoom on the computer you plan to use for online meetings. View How do I download Zoom? for additional instructions. A camera and microphone are recommended to fully participate in the online meetings. Many laptops will already have a microphone and camera built-in. If you would like to test Zoom before our first scheduled meeting, view How do I test prior to joining a meeting? To join the Zoom meeting for this course, you will select the Zoom tab from the tool menu on the left-hand side of the page. View How do I join a Zoom meeting from Sakai? for more information. For additional Zoom assistance, you can contact 24/7 Zoom support. Visit How do I contact Zoom support? for additional information. You can also contact the ITS Service Desk at itsservicedesk@luc.edu or 773-508-4487.

Discussion and class participation are a very important part of your final grade (25 percent). Classroom discussion will center on the required readings and a primary responsibility of students is to complete the weekly reading before the date of the scheduled class discussion on Zoom and contribute their thoughtful, reflective opinions in the weekly class discussion. The readings can be interpreted in a variety of ways and students should formulate some initial positions and questions to offer in the class discussion. For each assigned reading, students should submit three questions about the reading to Prof. Gilfoyle which can be used to shape and guide the class discussion. Please submit the questions via email by noon each Wednesday. Students do not need to submit questions if they are presenting an oral report for the class.

In general, students should be prepared to answer the questions found in the "Critical Reading" section of the syllabus below. Incisive, imaginative and thoughtful comments that generate and facilitate discussion are weighed heavily in final grades. Asking questions, responding to student questions and contributing to an ongoing discussion are a necessary part of the learning experience. Discussions take place in every class period, each worth 2 "points." Students will receive 0 points for nonparticipation or failure to submit 3 questions before the class meeting, 1 point for minimal participation and submitting 3 questions before the class meeting, and 2-3 points for active participation. Students who raise questions that generate discussion will earn extra points.

The best ways to prepare for and contribute to class discussion are: 1) complete the reading on time, and 2) critically analyze the reading. The primary goal of critical reading is to identify the author's interpretation and evaluate the evidence and influences leading to that conclusion. Never assume a "passive" position when reading a text. To fully comprehend and understand any reading, ask the following questions:

1. What is the thesis of the author?

2. Does the author have a stated or unstated point of view? How does the author construct their argument? Are the author's goals, viewpoints, or agendas revealed in the introduction or preface? Does the author provide evidence to support the argument? Is it the right evidence? In the final analysis, do you think the author proves the argument or does the author rely on preconceived views or personal ideology? Why?

3. Does the author have a moral or political posture? Is it made explicit or implicit in the way the story is told? What is the author's view of human nature? Does change come from human agency and "free will" or broad socio-economic forces?

4. What assumptions does the author hold about society? Does the author see society as hierarchical, pluralistic, democratic or elitist? Does the author present convincing evidence to support this view?

5. How is the narrative constructed or organized? Does the author present the story from the viewpoint of a certain character or group? Why does the author begin and end at certain points?
Is the story one of progress or decline? Why does the author write this way?

6. What issues and events does the author ignore? Why? Can you think of alternative interpretations or stories that might present a different interpretation? Why does the author ignore certain events or facts?

To help foster a proper and welcoming online environment for all, please read Netiquette, a list of guidelines borrowed from Loyola University’s Office of Online Learning and found at the end of this syllabus (p. 25-26). This document provides a general overview of actions, policies, and behaviors necessary for a successful, hospitable, and respectful online learning environment for all.

Students with documented learning differences should contact me and the Student Accessibility Center (SAC) in the Sullivan Center (773-508-3700, www.luc.edu/sswd) within the first two weeks of the semester to discuss the need for any special arrangements. Loyola University Chicago provides reasonable accommodations for students with disabilities and any student requesting accommodations related to a disability or other condition is required to register with the SAC. All information will remain confidential. Please note that in this class, software may be used to audio record class lectures in order to provide equal access to students with disabilities. Students approved for this accommodation use recordings for their personal study only and recordings may not be shared with other people or used in any way against the faculty member, other lecturers, or students whose classroom comments are recorded as part of the class activity. Recordings are deleted at the end of the semester. For more information about registering with SAC or questions about accommodations, please contact SAC at 773-508-3700 or SAC@luc.edu.

Students should always feel free to contact me any time throughout the semester with questions concerning course materials, procedures, and information. If you have any special circumstances that may have some impact on your course work or you undergo an unforeseen emergency, please inform me as soon as possible in order to establish a plan for assignment completion if necessary. Students should keep me informed of absences well in advance if possible. Students who miss one week or more of class because of illness or a personal emergency should contact their dean's office. Dean's office staff will notify your instructors. Notification of an absence does not excuse the absence; upon returning to classes, students are responsible for contacting instructors, producing appropriate documentation for the absence, and completing any missed work.

USING ZOOM FOR PROF. GILFOYLE’S OFFICE HOURS

To meet with me during my Zoom office hours, go to the Sakai page for HIST 460 and click on the Zoom Pro tab. Then click the join button, which will open Zoom and bring you into the waiting room for the office hours. I will let you into the Zoom meeting once I am available and other students have left the meeting.
ORAL REPORTS

The oral reports constitute 25 percent of the final grade (12.5 percent each for two reports; 25 percent if you only give one report). At the beginning of the semester, students will choose and be assigned to present an oral report on one or two of the assigned weekly readings. Each individual student will write a two-page summary and reaction which will include the main arguments provided by the author and perhaps a brief reaction on the strengths and weaknesses of those arguments. Each individual student responsible for the weekly reading should submit the written report to Prof. Gilfoyle by 9 a.m. on the day of the class. Prof. Gilfoyle will then respond with edits and suggestions before the class meeting. The individual student will then read the essay to the class to initiate our discussion of the text. Assignments will hopefully be made before the first class.

ESSAYS

The essay requirement for this class serves several purposes. First, good, thoughtful writing disciplines and educates the mind. To write well, one must think well. If one's writing improves, so does their thinking and intelligence. Second, students personally experience on a first-hand basis some form of historical writing. Those who elect to write a research paper are exposed to the challenge of "doing" history, of investigative research and methods, and the difficulties associated with historical judgement. Those who elect to write a historiographical essay master a genre of historical literature, learn major and subtle differences among historians, and understand the complexities of historical interpretation. Third, the essay can later function as a writing sample for students applying for future employment positions as well as to graduate or professional school.

Two types of essays are acceptable: 1) research and 2) historiographical. For this class, students should choose a specific urban topic, theme, or problem as the subject of their essay or research project. Briefly, the two types can be described as follows:

Research essays analyze the specific topic using primary or original sources. Examples of primary sources include (but are not limited to) architectural drawings, newspapers, architectural reviews, engineering or construction records, diaries, letters, oral interviews, books published during the period under study, manuscript collections, and old maps. A research essay relies on source material produced by the subject or by institutions and individuals associated in some capacity with the subject. The use and immersion of the writer/researcher in such primary and original sources is often labeled "doing history." Most of the articles and books assigned for class discussion represent this type of historical writing. Research essays should be the length of a standard scholarly article - approximately 15-25 typewritten pages of text (3,750-6,250 words), plus notes.
A useful introduction to available primary sources in Chicago is:
http://www.lib.uchicago.edu/e/law/legalhistory.pdf

Historiographical essays are based upon at least ten different secondary sources, or what historians have written about a specific subject. Such a paper examines how historians' interpretations have differed and evolved over time regarding a specific topic or theme. The major focus of a historiographical essay are the ideas of historians, how they compare with each other and how they have changed over time. Here are two examples for your reference that focus on American urban history:

A longer version of this essay is available at: http://www.luc.edu/depts/history/gilfoyle/WHITECIT.HTM

Other examples and models for such essays can be found in the following collections:

The essay (research or historiographical) should be approximately 15-25 typewritten pages of text (3,750-6,250 words), plus notes. A select bibliography can be found on pages 14-19 to assist in the selection of a topic.

Students should select a topic as soon as possible, in consultation with the instructor. A preliminary bibliography which includes books, articles, oral interviews, or other possible sources should be submitted via email by 4:15 p.m., Wednesday, 3 February 2021.

All essays should be typed, double-spaced, in 12-size font and printed on ONE side of each page. A copy of the essay should be submitted to the professor by 4:15 p.m. Wednesday, 7 April 2021. Completion of the essay by this date is worth five percent of the final grade. Students who complete the essay on time will have the opportunity to rewrite the paper upon its evaluation and return (remember - the only good writing is good rewriting). Any rewritten essay is due at the final class meeting on 28 April 2021. If possible, students should submit one clean hard copy and one electronic copy of their final essay.

Extensions are granted automatically. However, grades on essays handed in 48 hours (or more) late will be reduced by a fraction (A to A-, A- to B+, etc.). Every three days thereafter another fraction will be dropped from the paper’s final grade.

Essays are to be written for this class ONLY. No essay used to fulfill the requirements of a past or current course may be submitted. Failure to follow this rule will result in an automatic grade of F for the assignment. Students whose research in this class overlaps with that in another related class may submit a joint or collaborative essay that combines research done in both classes, but only with the approval of both instructors.

A final note: The Internet can be a convenient tool for research, but many websites contain unreliable or plagiarized information. Never cut and paste from Internet sites without quoting and citing your sources (see Basic Style Sheet for Notes in Essays on pages 19-21).

Students in search of a paper topic can begin their investigation with a cursory reading of any published overview on urban history. Examples include:

The following journals are also useful: Journal of Urban History, Urban History Yearbook, Urban Affairs Quarterly, Urban Affairs Review, Journal of Planning History, and Journal of Social History.

Good bibliographies on urban history can be found on the world-wide web:

Another useful source for certain Chicago structures is the Commission of Chicago Landmarks, a committee of the City Council. The Commission has a small professional staff and does reports on potential landmark sites. They are usually willing to share reports with students and researchers. See their web site at:

Certain specialized topics have good web sites that offer useful introductory information. For example, anyone interested in researching a specific address or structure in Chicago, the following web sites offer research strategies and sources:

BASIC STYLE SHEET FOR NOTES IN ESSAYS

The University of Chicago Press provides a quick citation guide based on the Chicago Manual of Style at:  http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide.html

Below is a simplified and acceptable summary for endnote citation:

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR BOOKS

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR ARTICLES AND BOOK CHAPTERS

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR BOOKS PUBLISHED ELECTRONICALLY

If a book is available in more than one format, cite the version you consulted. For books consulted online, list a URL; include an access date only if one is required by your publisher or discipline. If no fixed page numbers are available, you can include a section title or a chapter or other number.

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR AN ARTICLE IN AN ONLINE JOURNAL
Include a DOI (Digital Object Identifier) if the journal lists one. A DOI is a permanent ID that, when appended to http://dx.doi.org/ in the address bar of an Internet browser, will lead to the source. If no DOI is available, list a URL. Include an access date only if one is required by your publisher or discipline.

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR NEWSPAPERS, MAGAZINES AND PERIODICALS

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR UNPUBLISHED MATERIAL

2. Graeme Davison, "Explanations of Urban Radicalism: Old Theories and New Historians" (paper delivered to the New Zealand Association for the Advancement of Science Congress, Melbourne, August, 1977), 22-34.

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR INTERVIEWS

ENDNOTE FORMAT FOR THE INTERNET AND WORLD WIDE WEB
When citing sources from the Internet, be sure to provide as much information as possible. Follow the same format as a published source if the citation is published, followed by the web address and the last date you accessed the source.

After a work has been fully cited, subsequent citations should use only the author's last name, a short title and page numbers. Consecutive citations of the same publication can employ ibid. and page numbers. The use of abbreviations is permissible, as long as the practice is consistent.

Plurals of dates do not need an apostrophe; write 1850s, not 1850's.

Commas are used to separate the last two items in a series of three or more: thus, one, two, and three . . .

Regions are capitalized when used as nouns (North, Midwest), but not capitalized when used as adjectives.

Chronological range always includes full dates; write 1956-1995, not 1956-95.

Certain terms are hyphenated only when used as adjectives; write nineteenth-century cities, not nineteenth century cities; or middle-class reformers, not middle class reformers.

Century titles are always written out in full; write twentieth-century cities, not 20th-century cities.

Numbers must be used consistently throughout an article or essay and will always be given as numerals except if the number begins a sentence (e.g., Two-hundred-and-forty-seven people gathered to hear seventy-two artists sing 134 songs.). Ratios should be given as 2-1, 5-4, etc.

Dashes or commas are permitted to set off phrases; dashed usually apply when the phrase should be more clearly set apart from the rest of the sentence.

UNIVERSITY STATEMENT ON THE RECORDING OF LIVE CLASS DISCUSSIONS
In this class, software (ex. Zoom) will be used to record live class discussions and your participation in live class discussions will be recorded. These recordings will be made available only to students enrolled in the class, to assist those who cannot attend the live session or to serve as a resource for those who would like to review content that was presented. All recordings will become unavailable to students in the class when the Sakai course is unpublished (i.e. shortly after the course ends, per Sakai’s administrative schedule). Students who prefer to participate via audio only will be allowed to disable their video camera so only audio will be captured. Please discuss this option with your junior professor. The use of all video recordings will be in keeping with the University Privacy Statement.

UNIVERSITY PRIVACY STATEMENT ON RECORDINGS

Assuring privacy among faculty and students engaged in online and face-to-face instructional activities helps promote open and robust conversations and mitigates concerns that comments made within the context of the class will be shared beyond the classroom. Recordings of instructional activities occurring in online or face-to-face classes may be used solely for internal class purposes by the faculty member and students registered for the course, and only during the period in which the course is offered. Instructors who wish to make subsequent use of recordings that include student activity may do so only with informed written consent of the students involved or if all student activity is removed from the recording. Recordings including student activity that have been initiated by the instructor may be retained by the instructor only for individual use.

Materials from this course cannot be shared outside of the course without the professor’s written permission and consent. This includes recorded lectures, lecture notes and outlines, slides, Powerpoints, Panopto recordings, audio clips, videos, and any materials posted on Sakai. These items are considered to be the intellectual property of the professor. As a result, they may not be distributed or disseminated in any manner, either on paper or virtually without the written permission of the professor. Lectures may not be copied or recorded by students without the written consent and permission of the professor. When consent is given, those recordings may be used for review only and may not be distributed. Student work for this course is the intellectual property of the student and the professor will not share or distribute student work in any form without the student’s written permission. Finally, please be aware that in the state of Illinois, any unauthorized recording is considered a felony.

STATEMENT OF INTENT

By remaining in this course, students agree to accept this syllabus as a contract and to abide by the guidelines outlined in the document. Students will be consulted should there be a necessary change to the syllabus.

STATEMENT ON PLAGIARISM AND ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

Plagiarism and/or academic dishonesty will result in a final grade of F for the examination or assignment as well a letter, detailing the event, to be placed in the offending student’s permanent file in the Dean’s office. This is in accordance with university policy. The definition of plagiarism is:

You plagiarize when, intentionally or not, you use someone else’s words or ideas but fail to credit that person. You plagiarize even when you do credit the author but use his [or her] exact words without so indicating with quotation marks or block indentation. You also plagiarize when you use words so close to those in your source, that if your work were placed next to the source, it would be obvious that you could not have written what you did with the sources at your elbow.

To avoid plagiarism, take notes carefully, putting all real quotes within quotation marks, while summarizing other parts in your own language. This is difficult; if you do not do it correctly, it is better to have all your notes in quotes. The worst thing is to alter a few words from the source, use no quotation marks, and treat the notes as a genuine summary. You will likely copy it out as written in your notes, and thus inadvertently commit plagiarism. Changing around a word, a phrase, or a clause is still plagiarism if it follows the thought sequence or pattern in the original. On the other hand, do not avoid plagiarism by making your paper a string of quotations. This results in poor writing, although it is not criminal. Lastly, you plagiarize when you, the student, use an essay or assignment submitted for a grade and credit for another class to fulfill an evaluation component for this course. This is called self-plagiarism and is not permitted.

In any case, do not let this prevent you from quoting your primary sources. As they are the “evidence” on which you build your argument, you will need to quote them at necessary points. Just be sure to put quotation marks around them, or double indent them as in the example above, and follow the quote with a proper foot or endnote. Finally, the Internet can be a convenient tool for research, but many websites contain unreliable or plagiarized information. Never cut and paste from Internet sites without quoting and citing your sources.

Academic dishonesty or “cheating” is a violation of university standards and will not be tolerated. Students caught cheating will be given a zero (0) on that examination or evaluation component. Students are not allowed to distribute or share examination-related materials with other students without the consent of the professor. Students may not take or write an exam for another student. Additionally, students may not share their answers with one another until after all examinations have been completed and submitted for final evaluation.

For more on these issues, particulars, what constitutes plagiarism, the process for appeals, and academic grievance procedure please review the Academic Standards and Regulations portion of the Undergraduate Studies Catalog and Academic Integrity Statement for the College of Arts and Sciences.

Like: facebook.com/loyolahistorydepartment
The Loyola History Department’s website and social media pages are updated frequently with event announcements, internship and job opportunities, faculty and student achievements, and other news about the department and the history profession. In addition, the website contains a wealth of information essential for students taking history courses, including guidelines for majors and minors, details about scholarships and essay contests, faculty bios and course descriptions, and the department’s “Major in History” career guide.

NETIQUETTE GUIDE FOR ONLINE COURSES

Please recognize that the online classroom is in fact a classroom, and certain behaviors are expected when you communicate with both your peers and your instructors. These guidelines for online behavior and interaction are known as netiquette.

SECURITY
Remember that your password is the only thing protecting you from pranks or more serious harm.
• Don't share your password with anyone.
• Change your password if you think someone else might know it.
• Always log out when you are finished using the system.

GENERAL GUIDELINES
When communicating online, you should always:
• Treat your instructor and classmates with respect in email or any other communication.
• Always use your professors’ proper title: Dr. or Prof., or if in doubt use Mr. or Ms.
• Unless specifically invited, don’t refer to your instructor by first name.
• Use clear and concise language.
• Remember that all college level communication should have correct spelling and grammar (this includes discussion boards).
• Avoid slang terms such as “wassup?” and texting abbreviations such as “u” instead of “you.”
• Use standard fonts such as Arial, Calibri or Times new Roman and use a size 10 or 12 pt. font
• Avoid using the caps lock feature AS IT CAN BE INTERPRETTED AS YELLING.
• Limit and possibly avoid the use of emoticons like :) or 😊.
• Be cautious when using humor or sarcasm as tone is sometimes lost in an email or discussion post and your message might be taken seriously or sound offensive.
• Be careful with personal information (both yours and other’s).
• Do not send confidential information via e-mail.

EMAIL NETIQUETTE
When you send an email to your instructor, teaching assistant, or classmates, you should:
• Use a descriptive subject line.
• Be brief.
• Avoid attachments unless you are sure your recipients can open them.
• Avoid HTML in favor of plain text.
• Sign your message with your name and return e-mail address.
• Think before you send the e-mail to more than one person. Does everyone really need to see your message?
• Be sure you REALLY want everyone to receive your response when you click, “reply all.”
• Be sure that the message author intended for the information to be passed along before you click the “forward” button.

MESSAGE BOARD NETIQUETTE AND GUIDELINES
When posting on the Discussion Board in your online class, you should:
• Make posts that are on topic and within the scope of the course material.
• Take your posts seriously and review and edit your posts before sending.
• Be as brief as possible while still making a thorough comment.
• Always give proper credit when referencing or quoting another source.
• Be sure to read all messages in a thread before replying.
• Don’t repeat someone else’s post without adding something of your own to it.
• Avoid short, generic replies such as, “I agree.” You should include why you agree or add to the previous point.
• Always be respectful of others’ opinions even when they differ from your own.
• When you disagree with someone, you should express your differing opinion in a respectful, non-critical way.
• Do not make personal or insulting remarks.
• Be open-minded.
