Center for Experiential Learning
Internship Hotlist
The latest in internship offerings from Loyola’s community partners!
The Center for Experiential Learning works with a variety of organizations that provide internship opportunities to students. Students must enroll in an internship course at Loyola University in order to receive academic credit for an internship. This hot list consists of featured internships recently made available to Loyola students through the Center for Experiential Learning, with more details available on eRecruiting.

Enrollment Operations
Over the past several months, there have been several instances in which personal packages were dropped off in Enrollment Operations for outbound USPS mail without postage being applied and without any indication of the sender's identity. The Mail Room will not process any packages that are not for University business. The packages are currently sitting in Enrollment Operations.

Staff members need to be aware of the following:
1) Personal mail can be sent out through the Mail Room only if it has adequate postage.
2) Staff, who send out personal packages or mail through the Mail Room, should put a valid name and return address on the package so the package can be returned to them if there is a problem.
3) When sending out mail for University business, the sender must make sure that the department is identified on the package so the Mail Room can do a proper charge-back of postage to the department.

Office of Academic and Advising Services
New Walk-In Advising Hours: M-F: 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m (W: 9 a.m.-3:30 p.m.)
The Office of Academic Advising and Services is expanding walk-in advising for the spring semester as part of an ongoing effort to improve services for students. Walk-in advising is the quickest way to meet students' advising needs by seeing the first available advisor.

Students can also schedule an individual appointment with their assigned advisor via LOCUS by clicking on “Schedule an Advising Appointment” or by calling 773-508-7714. Individual advising appointments should be set if you have more complex questions related to transfer credit, long-term academic planning, degree audits, academic probation, etc.

RecycleMania at Loyola!
Loyola University Chicago is excited to be participating in RecycleMania 2009. RecycleMania is a nationwide initiative that helps colleges and universities reduce waste and increase recycling through fun competitions on campus. The initiative runs from January 15 through March 28, 2009. There are a number of fun, easy ways for everyone to get involved in RecycleMania, and to earn national recognition for Loyola as a campus that is committed to waste reduction and recycling.

Loyola’s specific competitions/educational events include:
- Faculty and Staff: Building vs. Building recycling weight competition (i.e., Granada Center vs. Sullivan Center)
- Students: Residence Hall vs. Residence Hall recycling weight competition
- Trivia questions posted in Inside Loyola Weekly and Loyola Focus
- Caught “Green-Handed” recognition and drawing for those “caught” recycling on campus

To participate in the Building vs. Building competition, contact the RecycleMania Task Force at recycle@luc.edu and sign up! All you need to do to participate is regularly encourage colleagues and departments in your building to bring their recyclables to the specially marked recycling bins placed in your building throughout the competition.

Chapel Lecture Series
M. Shawn Copeland, PhD
Associate Professor, Systematic Theology
at Boston College
Thinking Theologically about Race, Gender, and Politics

Monday, February 9, 2009 7:00-8:30 PM
The 2008 presidential campaign challenged barriers of race and gender in unprecedented fashion. But misinterpretations of this challenge and of the election’s historic outcome pose serious obstacles to our concrete realization of the common human good that is our country.

This lecture will focus on those obstacles and what we can do as a nation to avoid these pitfalls from happening.

Location: Madonna della Strada Chapel
Contact: Joe Canino at jcanino@luc.edu or 773.508.2091
Admission is free - parking available for $7.00
All are welcome. This event is open to the public.
