Students, Faculty and Staff Welcome!
Panelists from various government intelligence agencies will discuss employment, internship, and career opportunities for college students. Speakers from the United States Military Intelligence, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Central Intelligence Agency, Drug Enforcement Administration and the Secret Service will inform students how to position themselves for employment with these agencies and how to make successful applications. No RSVP required, but space will be limited, so you are encouraged to arrive early.

1/29  Career Self-Assessment Workshop (CSAW): Session 2
      Sullivan 295  4:00-6:00 p.m.

Center for Experiential Learning
The Center for Experiential Learning will be holding a number of workshops for students throughout the Spring 2009 semester in regard to finding community-based Federal Work Study positions, preparing for academic internships, and getting involved in undergraduate research. Dates, times, and locations are being finalized and will be distributed at the beginning of the semester.

The Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program (LUROP), coordinated by the Center for Experiential Learning, features 8 different undergraduate research programs. Students from any major working with a faculty mentor may apply for an undergraduate research fellowship, and the deadline for most fellowships is March 1, 2009. Visit www.luc.edu/lurop for details and information on each program.

Cudahy Library Door Closing
January 2009

In January, the newly-opened entrance to the Klarchek Information Commons (KIC) will serve as the main point of entry for both the KIC and Cudahy Library. Cudahy's entrance will be closed and used only as an emergency exit. Having a single entrance not only affords the buildings greater security, but unites the two buildings into a single information complex. Directing visitors to the KIC entrance will also take advantage of the pathways established by the soon-to-be-completed new East Quad.

Reminders about the Cudahy door closing and the re-opening of the Klarchek Information Commons doors will be posted around campus as the big day arrives.
