The Peace Book Movement

The Peace Book was developed by young people working with the advocacy organization Good Kids Mad City (GKMC) to serve as a catalyst to reduce gun violence and promote the well-being of Chicago’s communities. The Peace Book Ordinance, developed by GKMC, calls for a shift away from punitive systems and for resources to support restorative and trauma-responsive practices, and violence interruption strategies.

Our speakers will discuss the goals of the Peace Book movement and next steps to secure the safety and well-being of Chicago’s young people.

All are welcome to attend.
