Richard Madsen is Distinguished Professor of Sociology at the University of California, San Diego. He currently serves as Director of the the UC-Fudan Center, a newly established University of California partnership with Fudan University in Shanghai. He co-directed a Ford Foundation project to help revive the academic discipline of sociology in China. He is author of numerous books on religion in the modern world and on contemporary China, including China's Catholics: Tragedy and Hope in an Emerging Civil Society (UC Press, 1998).

“First published in 1985, Habits of the Heart continues to be one of the most discussed interpretations of modern American society, a quest for a democratic community that draws on our diverse civic and religious traditions”.
