

Adrift with God; Encountering the Pandemic

An Online 48 Hour Ignatian Silent Retreat for Employees.

Cultivating Ignatian indifference is a process hard enough to achieve in “normal” times let alone to strive for this indifference or freedom during this pandemic. This retreat will be an invitation to ponder the impact of this pandemic on your relationship with yourself, with God, and with others. This time of spiritual reflection will seek to nourish your soul and thus your ability to love and serve others.

The Mission Integration Office considered cancelling the annual Ignatian Contemplation Retreat. A staff member suggested there may be a desire for a structured time of focused reflection and silence. To this end Mission Integration will be hosting a 48 hour structured silent retreat beginning the evening of Wednesday, May 27 through the early evening of May 29.

We will offer sessions through Zoom that will present ideas for your prayer and reflection using Ignatian themes. Presentations, communal prayer, and individual spiritual direction sessions will be offered. You will be asked to enter into a 48 hour period of silence and disconnecting from social media, television, cell phones etc. to the best of your ability. If you would like further information or to register for this retreat please email Chris Murphy at cmurph3@luc.edu.
