

Loyola University Chicago
Department of Physics
Fall 2023

Thursday, September 7, 2023 -CS200 2:30-3:45pm
Mapping the Cosmos from the South Pole

The IceCube Neutrino Observatory at the Geographic South Pole is creating maps of the universe in a new way using cosmic rays. Dr. Andeen will introduce IceCube and cosmic rays and share some of IceCube's latest results. Dr. Andeen will also talk about her path to astroparticle physics.

Dr. Karen Andeen- Associate Professor at Marquette University