Political Science Major

To graduate with a major in Political Science, students must complete 33 hours of course work (11 courses) in the department or through transfer or advanced placement credit. All majors are required to take any three of these four courses: PLSC 100, 101, 102, and 103, plus one upper-division (200- or 300-level) course from each of the discipline's four subfields: American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations and Political Theory.

Political Science Minor

To graduate with a minor in Political Science, students must complete 18 hours of course work (6 courses) in the department or through transfer or advanced placement credit. All minors are required to complete any two of the four introductory courses: PLSC 100, PLSC 101, PLSC 102 and PLSC 103. They must also complete four additional courses of their choosing, either introductory or upper-level classes, regardless of the subfield.

Honors in Political Science

Qualified majors may earn Honors in Political Science by completing a twelfth course: the Political Science Honors Seminar (PLSC 395). The seminar explores a different research topic in Political Science each year. Admission into the program requires a 3.5 GPA overall and in Political Science, as well as the completion of seven Political Science classes (21 credit hours). The Honors Seminar does not count toward the 33 credit hours required for a Political Science major. To apply, email the undergraduate program director, Professor David Doherty, at ddoherty@luc.edu.

Chicago Internship Program

This program allows students to earn course credit while gaining valuable professional experience as an intern in the Chicagoland area. Internship opportunities include positions with U.S. Representatives and Senators, Illinois Legislators, political campaigns, international organizations, policy think-tanks, and city, state, and federal agencies. Interns earn 3 or 6 credit hours by working in an internship position that is jointly agreed upon by the student and the internship coordinator. The intern also takes part in a special seminar that meets four times during the semester and keeps a journal and writes a research paper related to the internship experience. Students need the permission of the internship coordinator to register and must submit an application form. For more information, visit https://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/internships\_chicago.shtml or email Professor Eric Hansen at ehansen4@luc.edu.

Washington Internship Program

Spend a semester in the nation's capital studying Political Science and working in an internship placement. LUC in DC is open to all undergraduate majors. Students must be juniors or seniors during the internship semester but may apply to the program during their sophomore year. Student housing in DC is available. For more information, visit <http://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/dc/> or email Professor Susan Dimock at sdimock@luc.edu.

Dual-Degree Program in Political Science

The B.A./M.A. Program allows well-qualified undergraduate Political Science majors to complete a bachelors and a master's degree in just five years. Junior political science majors with an overall GPA of at least 3.30 are eligible to apply. Admitted students will take Political Science graduate courses during their fourth and fifth years at Loyola. For more information, visit https://www.luc.edu/politicalscience/dual\_degree.shtml or email Professor Molly Melin, at mmelin@luc.edu.
