Introductory Accounting I

The major emphasis is on the development and reporting of accounting information for use by investors, creditors, and others. The student is required to develop skills in the preparation and use of accounting information and must demonstrate an understanding of the accounting process, and be able to evaluate the impact of estimates, alternative accounting principles, and the limitations of the accounting model on accounting information. Topics include preparation and use of financial statements, the accounting process, and the measurement and reporting of income, assets, liabilities, and owners' equity.

Co-requisite: ACMAT 117

Outcomes: The student will be able to understand the underlying principles, design, concepts, limitations, Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: ACCT 201, CPST 310, ACCT 201H
Requirement Group: Co-Requisite: ACMAT 117; Restricted to Arrupe College students.

Introductory Accounting II

Prerequisite: ACACT 201 Introductory Accounting I

This course highlights the differences between financial accounting and managerial accounting. The course begins by completing the study of transactions and events affecting financial statements. The cash flow statement is then explored in some detail. Finally, financial statement analysis as traditionally practiced, is considered a capstone for financial accounting. The course then focuses on the use of accounting data by management. Product costing in a manufacturing setting, assigning of costs to objects, learning how costs behave, and the use of accounting data by management in planning operations, controlling operations, and in short term decision making are all investigated.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: ACCT 202, ACCT 202H
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ACACT 201/ ACMAT 117
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Introductory Biology

This course will expose students to the breadth of biological concepts by including cell and molecular biology, organismal structure and function, genetics and heredity, evolution, and ecology. The course will engage students in science as a structured process that generates and refines knowledge through evidence-based decisions. It will emphasize the value and contributions of life science to society.

Outcomes:
1. By the end of this course, you will develop academic skills such as:
   a. Reading a science textbook to support your learning
   b. Note-taking and study strategies
   c. Strategies for succeeding during an exam

Components: Discussion (In person)
Attributes: Course Approved 2019 - IAI

Introductory Chemistry
A course emphasizing the general principles and theories of chemistry, including fundamentals of inorganic chemistry, atomic structure and states of matter, bonding, stoichiometry, acid-base concepts, periodicity and solution chemistry

Outcomes: 1. Understand the structure of matter and the chemical changes it undergoes, and predict those changes based on the periodic nature of the elements 2. Solve problems using chemical calculations concerning mass or concentration. 3. Describe strong and weak acids and bases, and carry out related calculations. 4. Develop the academic skills needed for future science courses including problem-solving, taking and reviewing notes, and multiple choice exams.

Corrections

This course examines the history, functions, and processes of corrections. The primary focus is institutional corrections and its evolution based on philosophies of retribution, deterrence, incapacitation, and rehabilitation. The role and influence of community correctional practices and policy on institutional corrections are also covered.

Outcomes: Students will be able to identify and describe the role of institutional corrections in society and the criminal justice system and articulate the connection between theories regarding criminality and the purposes of incarceration that have historically guided and continue to guide American correctional practice historically and currently.

Writing the Self
In this course, we will study nonfiction prose from a range of times and places. To focus our studies, we will investigate how a wide variety of authors have used writing to express, explore, and create a sense of self. When sharing their lives with an audience of readers, how do these authors navigate the territory between the private and public spheres, between internal experience and external reality, between self and environment? To answer this question, we will read a variety of nonfiction forms including diaries, essays, autobiographies, and graphic memoirs. Throughout the course, we will discuss issues of literary meaning, form and value.

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course, students will have demonstrated inquiry and pursue self-directed learning, mastered key literary terms, read for comprehension, read for analysis, and argued for literary

This course is a continuation of MATH 117 focusing on exponential, logarithmic, trigonometric, and inverse trigonometric functions, their graphs, and their properties. Techniques for solving equalities involving these functions are examined. Trigonometric identities, sum and difference formulas, double and half-angle formulas, the Laws of Sines and Cosines, and polar coordinates are also considered.

Prerequisite: "C-" or better in ACMAT 117 or required score on placement test.

Outcomes: Students will build and improve their skills in algebra and pre-calculus topics in order to be able to solve a variety of problems. The content and the strategies students will learn will prepare them to be successful in Calculus and courses beyond. Students will frequently be asked to express their mathematical ideas in both oral and written form.

ACMAT 162(4)
Course ID: 013990
01-APR-2022

This course is a continuation of ACMAT 161, Calculus I.

Outcomes: 1. Select and apply appropriate models and integration techniques to solve problems involving algebraic and transcendental functions; these problems will include but are not limited to applications involving volume, arc length, surface area, force and work. 2. Recognize and implement appropriate techniques to integrate trigonometric functions and apply trigonometric substitutions to solve integrals. 3. Decompose a rational integrand using partial fractions. 4. Evaluate proper and improper integrals using various integration techniques. 5. Business Analytics
Business analytics is the practice of using methodically collected data to drive decisions about business and in business applications. The goal of the course is to introduce students to the current approaches, tools, and techniques involved in this practice. Because many topics and concepts in business analytics are best learned through hands-on work, time will be spent obtaining, processing, analyzing and visualizing data that pertain to different business cases. Students will use R, arguably the most popular analytical software used by data scientists. During this course, students will learn to use R, as well as gain and help improve business insight through data-driven analytics.

Financial Mathematics and Modeling II
- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: FINC 620, restricted to Graduate Business or Undergraduate Business Student

Financial mathematics and modeling II is the second in a sequence of two courses. It is a combination of lecture and lab and will focus on the core mathematical, computational and practical modeling aspects encountered in modern financial applications. The programming languages of choice will be R and Excel/VBA. This course has a prerequisite of FINC 450, FINC 452, FINC 620, and ISOM 400. No prior R programming experience is required but familiarity with Excel/VBA is a pre-requisite.

FINC 622(3) Course ID:009829 15-JUN-2020
Derivative Securities
- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: FINC 450, or Quinlan Finance 450 Student Group Waiver

This course is a comprehensive introduction to the theory, use, and valuation of derivative securities, with particular emphasis on options and forward/futures contracts. A sound understanding of the intuition underlying option pricing is critical to a thorough understanding of modern finance and financial risk management. We may also look at other types of derivatives as well as some extensions of the most fundamental models.

Interest Rate Risk Management
- Components: Lecture
- Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: FINC 622 or FINC 346 with minimum grade of "B". Graduate School of Business or Undergraduate School of Business.

Students are introduced to a plethora of financial derivatives, including both exchange-traded and OTC products, and then learn to use these products to hedge interest rate and other risks largely through the study of cases and detailed examples emphasizing the formation and use of synthetic positions.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of a wide variety of derivative products, as well as be able to use these products to manage interest rate and other risks.
Applied Econometrics
Prerequisite: ECON 420 and ISSCM 491

The purpose of this course is to help students understand feasible econometric techniques in order to mine information to understand economic and financial patterns and to forecast. A rigorous exposition of the theory behind econometric techniques will help students understand the issues raised in different published papers. Topics of econometric techniques covered in this course include panel data analysis, time-series models, discrete choice models, and methods to identify causality between variables. Practical applications will prepare students to use these methods in their own projects.

Course ID: 004198  12-NOV-2013
Independent Study

Independent study is in-depth research or reading, initiated by the student and jointly developed with a faculty member, into a specialized area of information systems not otherwise covered by department course offerings.

Components: Independent Study(In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Graduate School of Business student.

Req. Designation: Business Honors

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
INFS 590(3)
Course ID: 004200
20-JUN-2017
Global Strategy and Data
This course introduces the student to economic and business practices of a foreign country using the analysis of data, and on-site experiences. We will focus on business strategies, impediments, and challenges in light of the culture, politics, history and institutions of a selected country. We will interact with a variety of local people such as small business owners, firm managers, economists, journalists, and students, in order to inform our understanding and analysis.

Outcome: Students will gain knowledge and analytical skills that can assist them in facing the challenges of conducting business in global locations.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Graduate School of Business student.
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)

Data Visualization
The amount of data that our world generates is growing at a torrid pace. Sifting through & making sense of these humongous mountains of data is crucial to ensuring business growth, success and to making scientific discoveries & advancements. Data visualization plays an important role in this process.

Prerequisite: INFS 492

Outcome: Students will be able to process & visualize large amounts of data in order to enable efficient & effective analysis using industry standard software.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: INFS 492
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

INFS 600E(1.5)
Course ID: 003879
01-JAN-2014
Business Intelligence & Data Warehousing
Explores concepts of data warehousing and business intelligence from a managerial perspective.

Components:
Lecture

Course Equivalents: INFS 492E

Requirement Group: Restricted to students in the Graduate School of Business MBA for Executives program in Chicago
Req. Designation: Business Honors

INFS 604E(1.5)
Course ID: 013305
15-JUN-2017
Business Data Analytics - Infrastructure
The course covers concepts related to data organizing and database modeling, and the managerial issues related to the design, implementation, and utilization of systems that support operational data use and provide infrastructure for business data analytics.

Enrollment limited to EMBA Cohort.

Outcomes: Students will learn how to gather, understand, manage, and act on information stored in databases, data warehouses, and Big Data repositories.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to the students enrolled in the Executive MBA Program.
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

INFS 605E(1.5)

01-OCT-2017
Business Data Analytics - Application
The course covers the effective uses and applications of data analytics; including On-Line Analytic Processing/Business Intelligence, data mining techniques and their particular applications and data visualizations methods and tools.

Enrollment limited to EMBA Cohort.

Outcomes: Students will learn how business data analytics is applied to create competitive edge and business opportunities and how to understand and manage business data analytics applications projects.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to the students enrolled in the Executive MBA Program.
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)
INFS 691(3)  Course ID: 004205  01-MAY-2020
Principles of Analytic Programming
This course will focus on the R language and will build on the introduction from BSAD 443.

Outcomes: Students will learn to manipulate data, write functions and scripts for repeatable analysis, build models, and perform data analysis tasks

Components: Lecture(Blended)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BSAD 443
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

INFS 791(3)  Course ID: 004206  01-APR-2018
Programming for Business Decision Making
This course focuses on how to effectively use a computer programming language to support decision making in business. Examples include using Visual Basic for Applications (VBA) to create applications within Microsoft Excel or using Python for manipulating and analyzing data. In addition to covering the concepts of programming using the specified language, this course covers developing user interfaces, working with external data and debugging code. By the end of this course, the student will be able to build custom procedures and create user-defined functions in the programming language used.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Graduate School of Business student.
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

INFS 795(3)  Course ID: 004210  01-MAY-2020
Ethics and Data Analytics
The rapid advancement in technology necessitates an equally rapid advance in the ethics of data analytics. We will explore ethical questions in this field through the use of business case studies. We will also look at examples of ethical codes of conduct.

Outcomes: Students will evaluate following ethical considerations: how data is collected, how it is interpreted, how it is applied, and with whom it is shared.

Components: Lecture(Online)
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

INFS 796(3)  Course ID: 004211  11-MAR-2016
Data Warehousing
Prerequisites: INFS/ISOM 492

The components and design issues related to data warehouses and business intelligence techniques for extracting meaningful information from data warehouses are emphasized. Oracle tools will be used to demonstrate design, implementation, and utilization issues. Outcome: students will learn how data warehouses are used to help managers successfully gather, analyze, understand and act on information stored in data warehouses.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: CSIS 796
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: INFS 492
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

INFS 797(3)  Course ID: 004212  01-MAY-2020
Applications of Visualization
Students will explore human perception and cognition, the use of best design practices, and interacting/storytelling with data.

Outcomes: This course will develop a vocabulary and framework for discussing, critiquing, assessing, and designing visual displays of quantitative data.

Components: Lecture(Blended)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Graduate School of Business student.
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)
INFS 798(3)  Course ID:004213  01-JAN-2018
Quality in System Development
This course will be based on current best practices in IS development and focus on the importance of quality as an activity applied throughout the entire systems development process. The course will cover techniques for ensuring quality in systems development such as software defect prevention and removal methods. Examples of how such concepts and techniques are used in firms in different industries will be examined. The following topics will also be discussed: software metrics, quality in software requirements, Function Point Analysis & Metrics, and Quality Management Systems such as Six Sigma, ISO 9000, Capability Maturity Model and Information Technology Infrastructure Library (ITIL).

Components: Performance(In person)
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

INFS 799(3)  Course ID:013275  11-MAR-2016
Special Topics in INFS
Scheduled classes are offered on an ad hoc basis. Specific titles, prerequisites and content will vary. Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate understanding of specialized topics not otherwise covered by department regular course offerings

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Graduate School of Business student.
Req. Designation: Business Honors
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Business Statistics

This course examines the steps and procedures required to solve problems in science, social science, and business where data are useful - from the definition of the managerial problems to the use of statistical analysis to address these problems.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate understanding of statistical thinking and data analysis technique for decision-making purposes.

Components:
- Lecture

Course Equivalents:
- STAT 103
- ISSCM 241H
- ACSTA 101

Attributes: Quantitative Knowledge

Req. Designation: Business Honors

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Business Statistics - Honors

Restricted to SBA honors students.

Project Management

Prerequisites: Junior Standing; Grade of C- or higher in ACCT 201 & MGMT 201

The art and science of project management as applied to business, industrial, and public projects. Covers: the project life-cycle; project teambuilding; techniques for planning, scheduling and controlling projects; project organizations; project leadership and stakeholders.

Outcome: Understanding of the broader role of the project manager with regard to all project stakeholders, and of methods and steps for initiating, defining, and executing projects.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: Junior Standing; Grade of C- or higher in ACCT 201 & MGMT 201

Req. Designation: Business Honors

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Requirements Analysis and Communication

Prerequisites: Junior Standing, minimum grade of "C-" or better in ISSCM 247.

This course focuses on Information Systems requirements and related communication skills. Students will learn how to gather requirements for Information Systems from an organization's users and executives based on a general understanding of organizations and business goals. Students learn techniques of how to translate between organizational needs and requirements for systems and processes, and how to analyze, validate, and prioritize those requirements. A special focus of the course will be to improve business communication skills such as interviewing, listening, presenting and negotiating.

Components:
- Lecture

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: Junior Standing, minimum grade of "C-" in INFS/ISSCM 247.

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Independent Study in ISSCM

Prerequisites: Junior Standing, Instructor and Dean permission.

Independent study is in-depth research or reading, initiated by the student and jointly developed with a faculty member, into a specialized area of Information Systems and Operations Management not otherwise covered by department course offerings. Variable credit. This course is for students who major in either Information Systems or Operations Management. Will count toward major requirements. Permission of Assistant Dean required.

Components: Independent Study

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Junior standing or above.

Forecasting Methods

Course ID: 004194

15-JUN-2016

Prereq: ISOM 491

Techniques of forecasting and model building are introduced. Methods covered are simple and multiple regression, introduction to time series components, exponential smoothing algorithms, and AIRMA models - Box Jenkins techniques. Business cases are demonstrated and solved using the computer.

Outcome: To be able to forecast business and economic variables to enhance business decisions.

Components:
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Graduate School of Business student.
- Req. Designation: Fieldwork
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Decision Strategy Critical Thinking & Decision Analysis

01-APR-2020

Making good decisions in face of uncertainty and risk is at the heart of successful management. This course provides a coherent set of critical thinking and decision analysis tools that are used to carve out well-structured decision models from ill-structured real-life problems and perform analyses to generate insights.

Outcomes: The course introduces students to a variety of tools that will improve their critical reasoning skills and ultimately the ability to make effective decisions.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to students in the Baumhart Scholars program
- Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Marketing Metrics
This course is designed with marketing managers in mind. As profession marketing is evolving, it is no longer based primarily on the conceptual content. Marketers get exposed to thousand times the volume of data she(he) saw five years ago. More data cannot lead to better decision making unless managers learn how to use that data in meaningful ways. In this course, the students will be introduced to the analytical decision models that assist modern managers in making marketing decisions related to the targeting, product design, communications, etc.

<td>Research Methods in Black World Studies</td>
<td>Chicago has a growing number of newly formed communities whose ancestors are/were African. Among such populations are Cuban, Haitian, Nigerian, Belizean, and Jamaican peoples. These neo-African communities in Chicago tend to cluster in patterns related to available housing, ethnicity and natality. Many factors including language barriers, educational and employment disadvantages as well as cultural ubiquity often leave these newcomers' needs unattended. This course provides instruction in research methods useful in understanding the social and political needs of such marginalized populations. The primary research model for this course is Participatory Action Research methods.</td>

ANTH 216(3) - Cultures of Migration

Cultures of Migration

Using theoretical, ethnographic, and autobiographical literature from different world regions, we will explore three central questions: 1) How do people make the decision to move? 3) How do political policies structure the life chances of immigrants in the "global north"? 3) How do immigrants transform their own life situations and communities?

Outcomes: Students will understand: an anthropological approach to the study of migration; leading theories of migration; contemporary migration patterns; immigrant labor; factors that shape the formation of immigrant communities

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Attributes: Italian American Studies, Latin American Studies
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ANTH 217(3) - Mexican Culture & Heritage

This course charts the development of Mexican culture (indigenous and peninsular) from prehistoric times through the colonial era to the present day.

Outcome: Students will become familiar with the cultural geography of Mexico and will understand how Mexico's pre-Columbian cultures simultaneously affected, and were affected by, Spanish contact.

- Components: Lecture

ANTH 222(3) - Contemporary European Culture

This course offers an anthropological approach to contemporary European culture. Working with ethnographic texts from both 'old' and 'new' Europe, we will address recent developments in European nationalisms, the EU, and Europeanization; (im)migration and integration; family and gender; production and branding; international tourism; and the politics of language.

Outcome: Students will understand the role of culture in European current events, appreciate the challenges facing the European Union, and articulate connections between European history and contemporary European and global politics.

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Attributes: Global Studies
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ANTH 224(3) - Social Movements, Culture, and Activism

This class examines social movements and activism from an ethnographic perspective. Case studies will examine movements across the globe. Topics to analyze include: what socio-cultural contexts shape, and are shaped by, social movements? How do social movements organize themselves, and what meanings or belief systems do they appeal to?

Learning outcomes include: familiarizing students with the ethnographic analysis of social movements; analyzing the socio-cultural effects of global commodity flows, secularization, environmental pollution, corporate power, migration and other political issues; examining how people resist, reproduce and alter relations of power; and introducing students to the broader field of political anthropology.

ANTH 245(3)  Course ID:014298  15-JUN-2022
Gender in Deep Time
Students will critically reflect on gender in cross-cultural and long-term perspective. From an anthropological perspective, they will also deconstruct their own cultural biases and assumptions. With a deep and critical understanding of contemporary norms, students will apply evidence-based reasoning to examine the construction of gender in the past.

Outcomes: 1) Describe Western ideas of gender and sexuality; 2) identify connections between feminist movements and gender archaeology; 3) apply an intersectional approach to the study of gender both past and present.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: African Studies and the African Diaspora, Women & Gender Studies
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ANTH 280(3)  Course ID:001119  06-JUN-2018
Evolution of Human Disease
The complex interaction between humans and pathogens is explored throughout time, with particular emphasis on the role and impact of human biology, human culture and changing environments.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate understanding of the human immunological system, competing paradigms of human health, the processes and mechanisms of biological evolution, the pathogeneses of specific diseases, and the archaeological, paleopathological, paleodemographic, and historical data used to explore the evolution of disease.

Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: BIOL 280
Attributes: Bioethics
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 281(3)  Course ID:014282  15-JUN-2022
Evolution of the Human Diet
This interdisciplinary course explores the evolution of the human diet utilizing a biocultural perspective.
The complex interplay between our diet, biology, and culture is examined through energy acquisition, primate and hominin nutrition, the Agricultural Revolution and Industrialization on human health, food sustainability, and nutritional inequality through socioeconomic and gender lenses.

Prerequisite: ANTH 101: Human Origins

Students will identify the role food has played throughout the 6-7 million years of human evolution, and its significance in terms of climate change variability, evolutionary adaptations and contemporary inequality.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 281
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: ANTH 101
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ANTH 303(3)  Course ID:010267  15-JUN-2022
People and Conservation
This course considers the interplay between indigenous peoples and environmental resources utilizing current perspectives from evolutionary and community ecology, conservation biology, anthropology, political ecology and economics.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate an understanding of factors influencing this interplay, including environmental ethics, traditional environmental knowledge, resource management, community-based conservation, property rights, common-pool resources, sustainable development, land tenure, indigenous movements, and eco-tourism.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Bioethics, Global Studies
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
ANTH 304(3)  Course ID:001121  06-JUN-2018
History of Anthro Thought
Focusing on the historical contexts in which anthropological theory developed, this course addresses relationships between historical circumstances and leading theorists, and the questions they asked.
Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or 102.
Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of Victorian evolutionism; the American historical school; cultural materialism; symbolic and interpretive anthropology; structuralism; functionalism; feminist anthropology; political economy; and post modernism.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 305(3)  Course ID:010264  15-JUN-2022
Violence and Culture
This course examines the complex relationships between violence and culture using the ethnographic method as practiced by anthropologists and other social scientists.
Outcome: Students will demonstrate an understanding of the ways violence destroys, alters or produces forms of cultural meaning and social action and the ways in which cultural difference impacts patterns of violence.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: PAX 305
Attributes: Global Studies, Peace Studies, Sociolegal Studies
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 306(3)  Course ID:010268  15-JUN-2022
Anthropology and Human Rights
Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or 102
This course examines the concept of universal human rights, and the social movement that has developed to promote human rights, from an anthropological perspective.
Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of the social and historical origins of the concept of human rights and analyze the debates that arise out of applying the concept of human rights in cross-cultural contexts.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: PAX 306
Attributes: Global Studies, Peace Studies, Sociolegal Studies
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 307(3)  Course ID:010270  15-JUN-2020
The Body and Culture
This course examines how culture shapes how the human body is understood, categorized and used, and it also examines how bodily experiences shape culture and society. Drawing on cultural anthropology, it analyzes diverse cross-cultural examples, possibly ranging from body decoration among Amazonian indigenous people, to plastic surgery, childbirth, or sports.
Students will learn how socio-cultural forces shape human bodies; understand how cultural anthropology examines the body; and examine classic social theories about bodies, gender, social class and subjectivity.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Women & Gender Studies
Req. Designation: Internship

ANTH 309(3)  Course ID:001123  06-JUN-2018
Urban Anthropology
Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102.
This course is focused on defining characteristics of city life across a variety of societies It particularly considers urban complexity in the context of the globalization of cities.
Outcome: Students will gain a cross-cultural and global outlook on the defining features of urbanism.
Components: Lecture
Attributes: Urban Studies
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
ANTH 314(3)

Applied Anthropology
Prerequisite: ANTH 304 or Instructor approval

This course offers a hands-on introduction to the application of anthropological principles and methods to non-academic, "real world" problems. Course sessions will be dedicated to situating applied anthropology within the broader discipline, learning methods, and practicing applied cultural techniques. Students will also develop and carry out an applied cultural anthropology project.

Outcomes: Students will situate applied anthropology in the broader discipline; practice a variety of applied methodological techniques; work with a community partner to design a project; prepare a comprehensive and clearly written report.

Components: Field Studies (In person)

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 304 or Instructor's Permission

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Anthropology of Religion & Ritual
Prerequisites: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102.

The course considers religion as a form and part of culture. The innovative as well as conservative features of religion in culture change are addressed. Religion's role as both a belief-system and ritual practice are underscored.

Outcome: Students will develop the capacity to view religion in a broad perspective and to understand it as a significant factor of belief and practice in cultural systems.

Components: Lecture

Ethnographic Methods
This course is designed to offer an introduction to qualitative methods in anthropology. Students will learn methodologies such as participant observation, interviewing, and document analysis, and we will also address ethical issues in field research. Students will design and carry out an ethnographic research project.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate in-depth knowledge of qualitative research techniques; critically discuss ethical implications of ethnographic research; undertake original ethnographic fieldwork; prepare a comprehensive, theoretically informed, and clearly written report based on original ethnographic data.

Components: Field Studies (In person)

Attributes: Engaged Learning, Urban Studies

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102

Anthropology of Tourism
Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102.

This course explores the phenomenon of tourism from an anthropological perspective, addressing the social, cultural, economic, and environmental impact of tourism on host communities and nations.

Outcome: Students will demonstrate an understanding of the strengths/limitations of various theoretical models for understanding tourism dynamics; tourism's role in national development; the interplay between tourism and cultural imagery; gender dynamics in tourism; the role of tourism institutions (museums, souvenirs, travel literature) in the construction of "exotic others".

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Global Studies

ANTH 321(3)
Human Rights in Latin America
This course examines human rights in Latin America from a multidisciplinary perspective. It asks: what are human rights? Why have human rights abuses occurred and how have Latin Americans responded?
Outcomes: Students will understand the international human rights legal framework, be able to analyze why abuses have occurred, and understand how Latin Americans have mobilized by studying specific cases.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Catholic Studies, Global Studies, Latin American Studies, Peace Studies, Sociolegal Studies
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research and Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ANTH 324(3)
Human Evolution
Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or ANTH 103.
This course provides a detailed assessment of the fossil record pertinent to the emergence and evolution of humans up through the origin of modern people. The interpretation of this record within the context of important biological principles is emphasized, as is the methodology of doing historical science with paleontological data.
Outcome: Students will develop an understanding of the course of human biological history from the perspective of the pertinent fossils record as well as a mastery of the biological principles and scientific methodology that apply to assessing that history.
Components: Lecture
Attributes: Forensic Science, Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or ANTH 103
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research and Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 325(3)
Primate-Behavior & Ecology
This course focuses on the interrelationship of the behavior and ecology of our closest living relatives, the primates (apes, monkeys, and prosimians).
Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of how ecological and reproductive factors influence primate behavior, and how this information relates to primate conservation strategies and to an increased understanding of human behavior and evolution.
Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: BIOL 325
Attributes: Environmental Studies, Neuroscience
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research and Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 326(4)
Human Osteology
Prerequisite: ANTH 101, or ANTH 103, or background in biology.
This course (and lab) focuses on the human skeletal system, providing a hands-on opportunity to explore anatomy and physiology, growth and development, and techniques used by biological and forensic anthropologists to evaluate individuals and populations.
Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate superior knowledge of skeletal anatomy, analyses of skeletal remains from archaeological contexts, and apply current techniques designed to determine human variation, stature, ancestry, age-at-death, sex, and pathological conditions.
Components: Laboratory, Lecture
Course Equivalents: BIOL 326
Attributes: Forensic Science
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research and Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Lab - Archeology(1)

Dental Anthropology
This course will examine teeth, and is divided into two sections. Section one will provide a foundation to dental studies within an anthropological and biomedical context through the study of dental anatomy, morphology, and variation. Section two will examine the genetic and biological underpinnings of dental development and eruption.

Prerequisites: ANTH 101 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Gaining factual knowledge (terminology, classifications, methods, trends); learning to apply course material (to improve thinking, problem solving, and decisions); developing specific skills, competencies, and points of view needed by professionals in the field most closely related to this course.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 378
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research and Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Pompeii and Herculaneum
The two best known Roman towns - Pompeii and Herculaneum - whose remains were preserved by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in 79 CE - will serve as a microcosm for understanding Roman society.

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of how recent archaeological discoveries have changed our view of Pompeii and Herculaneum and learn to "read" such things as dining and bathing rituals, gladiator games, and public and private architecture to gain insight into the structures of Roman social and cultural life.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Language in Popular Culture
This course will contrast popular ideas about language with scholarly approaches from the fields of linguistic anthropology, linguistics, sociology, ethnic studies, and other disciplines.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate an understanding of the consequences of linguistic ideology on language policy, language representation and the evaluations of others.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research and Writing Intensive

ANTH 332(3)
Course ID: 013120

Language, Race, and Inequality
This course addresses how and why languages and speakers are associated with racialized stereotypes, and how linguistic discrimination operates in U.S. culture today. In-depth case studies examine language and race in education, mass media, material culture, and everyday interaction. Critical perspectives on sociolinguistic norms and relationships between language, Whiteness, and power are also included.

Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102, or Instructor permission

Students will identify relationships between language and race in everyday life, recognize and analyze instances of linguistic discrimination, stereotypes, and covert racism. Critical thinking and writing are emphasized.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: African Studies and the African Diaspora, Latin American Studies

Rise & Fall of Civilizations

Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or ANTH 104.

This course examines the socio-cultural process that produced complex societies in the past, particularly the contrasting trajectories of Old World and New World civilizations. Emphasis is on the material manifestations of status differences, power relations, and ideological control.

Outcome: Students will appreciate the complicated dynamics that underwrite increasing socio-cultural differentiation and will understand the archaeological methods used to chart that differentiation through time.

Anthropology of Museums

This course explores the museum as a dynamic site of cultural production and consumption, and an important sphere for anthropological study. It examines the historical and contemporary relationships between museums, anthropology, and material culture, with particular attention to the broader socio-cultural context of collecting from and representing cultures.

Prerequisites: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102

Outcomes: Students will gain knowledge of museums as sites of anthropological study and practice, with specific attention to an understanding of the formation and use of anthropological collections, and cultural representations. Students will visit, discuss, and critique exhibitions in Chicago-based museums.

Social Science and Epidemics
We will examine how social scientists work with public health scientists to combat epidemics, such as Ebola, HIV, Zika, SARS, MERS, and COVID-19. From the historical and cultural contexts shaping public health responses to the molecular pathways underlying disease, students will understand epidemics from a biological and social perspective.

Pre-requisite: ANTH 101 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will be able to identify key concepts, theories, and methods relevant for social and behavioral scientists addressing epidemics and learn how to develop culturally-appropriate public health recommendations.

Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102.

The course is a vehicle for topics of particular interest to the instructor or an issue of contemporary relevance. It may be a trial run for a course later added to the official list.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate how cultural anthropology is relevant to contemporary issues or how a problem can be structured around a cultural anthropological viewpoint.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or ANTH 102

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)
ANTH 362(3) Course ID: 001149 06-JUN-2018
Issues in Biological Anthropology
Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or BIO 101.

This course considers specific topics pertinent to the discipline of physical or biological anthropology.

Outcome: Students will master theoretical perspectives and current information pertinent to the specific issues covered in each specific course.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 362B(3) Course ID: 012880 06-JUN-2018 Instructor Consent Required
Bioethics Minor Capstone: Anthropological Topics
Prerequisites: Two Science courses and two Ethics courses

This course number will only be used when ANTH 362 is tagged with the Bioethics Minor Capstone course.

Outcomes: Students will understand the connection between ethical and anthropological issues with regard to the special topic in anthropology.

Components: Seminar(In person)
Attributes: Bioethics
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ANTH 363(3) Course ID: 001150 06-JUN-2018
Issues in Linguistic Anthropology
Prerequisite: ANTH 231.

This course focuses on a current research question or area within linguistic anthropology.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate appropriate knowledge and application of methods and findings from aspects of linguistic anthropology pertinent to the specific topic of the course.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 231
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

ANTH 365(3) Course ID: 001151 06-JUN-2018
Archaeology Lab Methods
Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or ANTH 104.

Practicum in analysis techniques for common archaeological materials, such as lithics, ceramics, faunal and floral remains, and historic debris. Topics include transformation processes; classification techniques; data recording and analysis standardization; curation; and computerized strategies of data management and analysis.

Outcome: Students will be able to identify, describe, and classify basic archaeological materials and relate these analyses with traditional techniques of material fabrication and processing.

Components: Laboratory
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or ANTH 104
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Lab - Archeology(1)

ANTH 366(3) Course ID: 010273 06-JUN-2018
Lithic Technology
This course is a laboratory analysis of archaeological stone tools through experimentation and ethnoarchaeology.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate an understanding of causes of variability in raw material procurement, manufacturing techniques, use wear, discard, recycling, methodological and theoretical considerations of artifact classification and strategies of data management and analysis.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

ANTH 396(3 - 6)
Internship in Anthropology

Enrollment Requirements: Student's must receive instructor permission prior to enrolling and must complete (with signatures) the Course Contract Form.

This course is designed to enhance student engagement by facilitating internship experiences within the department or in museums, service-oriented organizations, businesses, and non-profit organizations. Experiential learning is combined with rigorous academic work. This course may serve, if appropriate, as a capstone experience.

Outcome: Students will produce a research paper, project, proposal, or assessed piece that reflects the application and integration of anthropological theory, methods, or techniques, to the internship experience.

The Crafts of China
This course examines the artisan crafts of China historically and technically. The course explores how and why the crafts appeared, their historical trajectory and demonstrates how the crafts improved technically. Ceramics, Bronze Castings and Wood works will serve as prototypes. Students will undertake independent researches.
Outcome: Students will identify how the crafts of woodwork, bronze casting and ceramics evolved and how they are currently practiced in China. Students will articulate an understanding of the function of craft in Chinese culture as well compare and contrast it to the function craft in their own culture.

Religions in China
This course is a survey of various religions in China that may include, not only Confucianism and Taoism, but also Buddhism, Christianity, Islam, Judaism, Zoroastrianism, Manicheism and popular or "folk" religion. The course will consider the function of these various religions in the development of Chinese society and their significance in Chinese civilization from ancient mythology to contemporary practices and developments.
Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the beliefs, practices, and institutions in varied contexts and historical periods in China, of various religions, both indigenous and "foreign."
ASIA 168(3)  Course ID:010333  06-JUN-2018
Sacred Texts of China
Through the study of primary sacred texts of China (in translation), this class will provide a basic understanding of Chinese thought and its historical development. Interconnections among the various periods and different schools of Chinese philosophy such as Confucianism, Taoism, Buddhism and Neo-Confucianism will be demonstrated and discussed from ancient through the medieval and modern periods.

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the major Chinese sacred texts and teachings of various religious and philosophical traditions, and how they developed and interacted historically.

Course ID: 001266
Run Date: 06-JUN-2018
Course Title: General Biology I
Fundamental principles of Biology including: introduction to the scientific method, basic biological chemistry; cell structure and function; energy transformations; mechanisms of cell communication; cellular reproduction; and principles of genetics.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate understanding of the historical foundations, methodologies employed, general architecture and functioning of the cell - the basic unit of life.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture
Attributes: Bioethics, Bioinformatics, Forensic Science
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1), Auditorium(1)

BIOL 102(3)
Course ID: 001267
Run Date: 06-JUN-2018
Course Title: General Biology II
Prerequisites: BIOL 101, 111.
A continuation of Biology 101. Fundamental principles of Biology including: evolutionary theory; general principles of ecology; study of plant structure and function; and comparative animal physiology.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of the fundamental principles of ecology and evolution, as well as the anatomy and physiology of representative plant and animal phyla.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture
Attributes: Bioethics, Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Biology 101 and Biology 111

Human Structure and Function I
Prerequisite: BIOL 102, 112; CHEM 102, 112 or 106.

Lecture, laboratory, and demonstrations. Organization of the human body from the cellular to the organismal level. Anatomy of body systems and their physiology related to 1) support and movement (integumentary, skeletal and muscular systems) and integration and control (nervous and endocrine systems). Dissection of representative organs is required. Prerequisites are BIOL 101, 102, 111,112 and CHEM 101, 102, 111, 112.

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of human anatomy at the microscopic and gross levels. They will be able to correlate structure and function and will have a firm understanding of the organizing principle of human physiology, homeostasis and explain the role of the nervous and endocrine

BIOL 251(3) Course ID:001307 15-JUN-2019
Cell Biology
This course covers basic molecular and cellular studies of living organisms, emphasizing the relationships between subcellular structures and biochemical and physiological functions of cells.

Pre-requisites: BIOL 102, 112; CHEM 102 or 106. Pre-requisites For Biophysics majors ONLY: BIOL 101, 111; CHEM 102 or 106.

Outcome: Students will become familiar with a wide range of cell biological principles and experimental approaches that led to important discoveries, gain an appreciation of the scientific method, and learn about the goals of modern cell biology research.
Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 102, 112; CHEM 102 or 106. Pre-requisites For Biophysics majors ONLY: BIOL 101, 111; CHEM 102 or 106.

BIOL 280 (3)
Course ID: 001311
06-JUN-2018

Evolution of Human Disease

Prerequisites: BIOL 102.

Introduces students to the complex interaction between human hosts and pathogens. Begins with an introduction to immunology and discussion and analysis of particular paradigms that strive to model host/pathogen interaction. Using the paradigms, paleopathological and paleodemographic information, students explore the patterns of human diseases throughout prehistory and history. Addresses the role of human biology, human culture, and changing environments.

Components: Lecture

Course Equivalents: ANTH 280

Attributes: Bioethics

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Biology 102

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
Evolution of the Human Diet

This interdisciplinary course explores the evolution of the human diet utilizing a biocultural perspective. The complex interplay between our diet, biology, and culture is examined through energy acquisition, primate and hominin nutrition, the Agricultural Revolution and Industrialization on human health, food sustainability, and nutritional inequality through socioeconomic and gender lenses.

Prerequisite: ANTH 101: Human Origins

Outcomes: Students will identify the role food has played throughout the 6-7 million years of human evolution, and its significance in terms of climate change variability, evolutionary adaptations and contemporary inequality.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: ANTH 281

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Genetics

This course surveys principles and processes of genetic inheritance, gene expression, molecular biology, developmental, quantitative, population and evolutionary genetics.

Pre-requisites: BIOL 102, 112; CHEM 102 or 106. Pre-requisites for Bioinformatics ONLY: BIOL 101; CHEM 102 or 106. Pre-requisites for Biophysics ONLY: BIOL 101, 111; CHEM 102 or 106.

Outcome: Students will develop knowledge and awareness of the genetic bases of modern biology. They will understand Mendelian principles of inheritance, chromosome and DNA structure and replication, gene expression, molecular biology, genetic bases of development and other biological processes, and quantitative, population and evolutionary genetics.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture

Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1), General Classroom(1)

---

Genetics Laboratory

Prerequisite or corequisite: BIOL 282.

Experiments and demonstrations to illustrate chromosomal structures and transmission, molecular biology, gene linkage, gene frequencies and variation.

Outcome: Students will develop technical skills and ability to interpret data from a variety of types of genetics experiments.

Components: Laboratory

Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)

---

Behavioral and Cognitive Neuroscience

Prerequisites: BIOL/PSYC 202; For Biology Majors: BIOL 102 & 112

Overview of topics and methodologies used in behavioral and cognitive neuroscience including: attention, learning and memory, language, reasoning, decision making, intelligence, emotions, social cognition, and consciousness. BIOL 284 is cross-listed with PSYC 382.

Outcome: Students will understand theories regarding brain mechanisms, underlying mental events and the technologies used for studying these mechanisms.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: PSYC 382

Attributes: Neuroscience

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
BIOL 296(1)
Introduction to Research
Prerequisites: BIOL 102, 112; Permission of the instructor; Biology Core highly recommended.

Students will begin reading the literature in the field of their mentor, conduct experiments designed by the mentor, and give a presentation on their work or studies, in preparation for upper level undergraduate research.

Learning Outcome: Students will develop critical reading skills and become familiar with basic lab techniques in the area of their mentor.
Components: Lecture (Directed Research)
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 102 and 112.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

BIOL 302(4)
General Microbiology Lec/Lab
Prerequisites: BIOL 251 and 282

Lecture and laboratory. Fundamental concepts of microbial life, physiology, and metabolism.
Outcome: Students will learn the differences between the 3 domains of life and will comprehend the biochemistry, morphology, growth characteristics, structure and ecology of microbes.
Components: Laboratory, Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 and BIOL 282.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 303(1)
Seminar in Neuroscience
Prerequisites: NEUR 101 with a grade of C- or better.

The seminar introduces students to the interdisciplinary nature of modern neuroscience with an emphasis on the various neuroscience research activities that take place at Loyola University Chicago, and reviews current neuroscience research topics. BIOL 303 is cross-listed with NEUR 300.
Outcome: Students will demonstrate understanding of the interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary nature of modern neuroscience, and the research questions and experimental approaches used at the Lakeshore and Medical Center campuses.
Components: Seminar (In person)
Course Equivalents: NEUR 300
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: NEUR 101 ; restricted to NRSC-MINR, NRCB-BS, and NRMC-BS students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 304(3)
Intro to Developmental Biology
Prerequisite: BIOL 251.

The analysis of developmental processes such as; fertilization, embryonic cleavage, cell determination and cell differentiation in selected species. Emphasis will be on experiments that reveal how these processes are controlled at the molecular and cellular levels.
Outcome: Students will become familiar with a wide range of developmental biology principles and experimental approaches that led to important discoveries, gain an appreciation of the scientific method, and learn about the goals of modern developmental biology research.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
BIOL 307(3)
Course ID:014072  01-JAN-2021
Biology of Stem Cells
Stem cell research represents an exciting area of biology. This course will cover the early discoveries that launched the field of stem cell biology, the different types of stem cells that exist, potential therapeutic uses of stem cells, and the ethical implications of these discoveries and therapies.
Prerequisite: BIOL251 (Cell Biology) and BIOL282 (Genetics)
Outcomes: Students will be able to read primary research articles, describe different stem cell types and therapeutic uses, and consider the ethical implications of stem cell research and therapies.
Components:
Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 and BIOL 282.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 310(3)
Course ID:010571  15-JUN-2013
Categorical Data Analysis
Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335
An introduction to modern-day extensions of simple linear regression and ANOVA to the chi-square test including logistic regression and log-linear modelling techniques based on generalized linear models. Methods for matched-pair, small datasets, ordinal and multi-category data also discussed. This course focuses on applications using real-life data sets, and uses popular software packages.
Components:
Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335 with a C- or better
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

BIOL 313(3)
Course ID:001326  15-JUN-2019
Lab in Psychobiology
Prerequisites: (BIOL/STAT 335 or PSYC 304) and (NEUR 101, PSYC/BIOL 240, or PSYC 382/BIOL 284); OR for PSYC-BS and Cognitive/Behavioral Neuroscience majors: PSYC 306 and (NEUR 101, PSYC/BIOL 240, or PSYC 382/BIOL 284) Minimum grades of C-
A 'hands on' experience with the instrumentation, measurement techniques and experimental designs used in electrophysiological studies of nervous system function. BIOL 313 is cross-listed with PSYC 311.
Components:
Laboratory
Course Equivalents: PSYC 311
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: (BIOL/STAT 335 or PSYC 304) and NEUR 101, PSYC/BIOL 240, or PSYC 382/BIOL 284); or for PSYC-BS and Cognitive/Behavioral Neuroscience majors: PSYC 306 and NEUR 101, PSYC/BIOL 240, or PSYC 382/BIOL 284)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

BIOL 315(4)
Course ID:001328  06-JUN-2018
Introductory Immunology Lec/Lab
Prerequisites: BIOL 251, 282
The study of the nature and molecular basis of immune responses. History and vocabulary of immunology; experiments involving immune recognition and destruction; theories regarding self-tolerance and immunological diseases.
Outcome: Students will learn the morphology and histology of the cells involved in an immune response, as well as how the cells develop and the molecular mechanisms used to recognize and eliminate non-self material. The students will become familiar with the evasion strategies of pathogens and the consequences associated with either hyper or hypo-responsiveness.
Components: Laboratory, Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 and BIOL 282.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
BIOL 316(4)
Limnology Lec/Lab
Course ID: 001330  06-JUN-2018
Prerequisites: BIOL 265 and CHEM 102 or 106.

An introduction to the structure and function of lake and stream ecosystems. The course includes the integration of physical, chemical, and biological parameters. Laboratories include weekend field trips to aquatic habitats.

Outcome: Students will learn methods of sampling and analyzing physical, chemical and biological factors in lake and stream ecosystems, and how to integrate these complex data sets to answer ecosystem process-level questions. Students will learn to evaluate the trophic status and health of a lake by the end of the course.

Components: Laboratory, Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 317(3)
Models of Human Disease
Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 and BIOL 282.

This course explores approaches used to study human diseases from in vitro to in vivo levels and examines their strengths and weaknesses. Discussions will cover historical experiments and cutting-edge research to learn about the techniques used to generate data and how to interpret the results.

Outcomes: Students will gain knowledge about human diseases and techniques used to model aspects of those diseases in the laboratory.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 318(3)
General Virology
Course ID: 001333  06-JUN-2018
Instructor Consent Required
Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 & BIOL 282.

This course covers the molecular details of viral infection and the diverse strategies used by these pathogens to invade cells and avoid immune clearance. The focus will be on mammalian viruses of biomedical relevance.

Prerequisites: BIOL 251 & BIOL 282

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate detailed understanding of basic viral structure, basic viral replication/infection cycles, and specific examples of viruses and their infection strategies.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 319(3)
Evolution
Pre-requisite: BIOL 282; BIOL 265 recommended

This course focuses on analysis of processes and patterns of evolution. Topics include population genetic principles, fossil patterns and geologic ages, phylogenetic analysis of relationships of species, experimental approaches to evolutionary questions, and evolutionary perspectives on human biology and relationships.

Outcome: Students will develop knowledge and awareness of evolutionary processes and patterns, the evidence for them, and how evolutionary hypotheses are tested experimentally. They will develop an appreciation of the primary literature through reading and discussing research articles.

Conservation Biology

Prerequisite: BIOL 265

This course explores species diversity, natural and human induced extinctions, environmental ethics, and conservation practices being developed at the population, community, and ecosystem levels.

Outcome: Students will be able to describe conservation strategies being used by institutions around the world and understand the ecological theory that supports those strategies.

Components: Lecture

Winter Ecology

Prerequisites: BIOL 265 or permission of instructor

The goal for Winter Ecology is to teach you about ecosystems in winter by immersing you in the winter environment at LUREC during J-term. Topics include the habitats on, in, and under snow, the morphological, physiological, life cycle modifications of temperate plants, and the winter adaptations of birds.

Outcomes: Students will gain understanding of habitats and organisms present during winter in temperate ecosystems and gain experience with field techniques employed when studying these ecosystems.

Intro to Biostatistics

An introduction to statistical methods used in designing biological experiments and in data analyses. Topics include probability and sampling distribution, designed biological experiments and analysis of variance, regression and correlation, stochastic processes, and frequency distributions. Computer laboratory assignments with biological data.

Pre-requisites: BIOL 102, MATH 132 or MATH 162 (as pre-requisite or co-requisite) or MATH 162A. Students may take MATH 162 as a prerequisite for STAT/Biol 335 or take it concurrently as a corequisite with STAT/Biol 335. Course: Bird Conservation and Ecology

This engaged-learning course provides an introduction to the theory and practice of avian conservation, ecology and management. Field trips for viewing birds in the wild, observing behavior and collecting data on habitat assessments are highlighted. Students participate in a community service project to gather data for avian conservation and management.

Prerequisite: ENVS 137 or BIOL 102

Outcome: Students will become skilled in critical reasoning and some bird monitoring techniques, and demonstrate an understanding of the many facets of bird conservation.

BIOL 351(3)
Course ID:013221
15-JUN-2019

Sleep/Circadian Rhythms
We will cover circadian rhythms, one very prominent circadian-regulated behavior: sleep. We will investigate these topics at several different levels, spanning from cellular and molecular mechanisms to systems and behavioral approaches, and finally will look at pathologies of these systems that lead to human disorders.

Prerequisites: BIOL 251, BIOL 282, NEUR 101 Intro to Neuroscience, formerly BIOL/PSYC 202

Outcomes: Students will become familiar with a variety of model systems used to study circadian rhythms, and learn how to critically read primary literature and lead discussions of this reading.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: BIOL 251, BIOL 282, NEUR 101 (Intro to Neuroscience, formerly BIOL/PSYC 202). Grade of C- or better is required.

Neurobiology of Feeding in Health and Disease
Prerequisite: NEUR101(formerly BIOL202), BIOL 251

Multiple interconnecting systems, coupling the brain with the rest of the body, signal the need to consume food and when to stop. The overall aim of the course is to understand what drives us to eat and how dysregulation within these brain circuits underlies the contemporary obesity crisis.

Outcome: By completing this course, students will achieve an advanced understanding of the fundamental principles that govern the brain's control of energy homeostasis.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: NEUR 101 and BIOL 251
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Mammalian Reproduction
Prerequisite: BIOL 251.

Anatomy and physiology of male and female reproductive systems, fertilization, implantation, pregnancy, and birth; immunological aspects of reproduction.

Outcome: Students will understand structure/function relationships in reproductive biology and how reproductive systems are regulated at cellular levels.

Components: Laboratory, Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

The Evolution of Animal Sex
Among animals, sex cannot be simplified down to X¿s and Y¿s, or even males and females. Sex is diverse and dynamic. The class will discuss modern research around three themes: 1) sexual differentiation, 2) animal weapons and ornaments, and 3) reproduction and mating systems.

Pre-Requisites: BIOL 251 and BIOL 282

Outcomes: Students will gain a deeper appreciation of the sexual diversity among animals at genetic, physiological, morphological and behavioral levels.

Neural Disease, Degeneration, and Regeneration
This course offers an overview of cellular and molecular mechanisms underlying common neurodegenerative disorders. Mechanisms of neuronal cell death and application of stem cells in CNS regeneration will also be covered. Students will learn by reading assigned background materials and research articles, and participating in class discussions.

Prerequisites: BIOL 251, BIOL 282, NEUR 101 Intro to Neuroscience, formerly BIOL/PSYC 202

Outcomes: Students will understand current advances of genetic, developmental, molecular, and cellular mechanisms underlying the neurodegenerative diseases. Students will also learn how disease mechanisms affect neural function, cognition, and behavior.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- [Attributes: Neuroscience]

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: BIOL 251, BIOL 282, NEUR 101 (Intro to Neuroscience, formerly BIOL/PSYC 202). Grade of C- or better is required.

Developmental Neurobiology
Prerequisites: BIOL 251, BIOL 282, NEUR 101 Intro to Neuroscience, formerly BIOL/PSYC 202.

This course focuses on cellular and molecular underpinnings of the development of neuronal features of the nervous system. Topics include neural induction and subsequent differentiation events, regulation of neuronal survival, axon guidance, target selection, and synaptogenesis.

Outcome: Students will become familiar with principles of neural development and the studies that led to those principles. Students will also learn how to critically read primary research papers and present these papers to the class.

Components:
- Discussion, Lecture
- [Attributes: Neuroscience]

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: BIOL 251, BIOL 282, NEUR 101 (Intro to Neuroscience, formerly BIOL/PSYC 202). Grade of C- or better is required.

Paleopathology
Prerequisites: BIOL 251 and ANTH 326 or BIOL 326.

Normal bone tissue and normal bone alterations and the impact of various disease processes on skeletal tissue. Students will be taught to assess and interpret patterns of human disease in processual rather than typological terms.

Components:
- Lecture
- Course Equivalents: ANTH 359

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 251 and ANTH or BIOL 326

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

BIOL 360 (3)
Course ID: 001357
Run Date: 06-JUN-2018

Field Biology
Prerequisites: BIOL 265 and permission of chair.

Ecological study of an area in North America outside Midwest. Includes a field trip to a specific region. Trip is at student expense.

Outcome: Students will become familiar with an ecosystem outside the Chicago Region; gain a first-hand understanding of the interrelationships of living things and their environment; develop a loving appreciation of "wilderness."

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 265

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
BIOL 362(3)

Neurobiology
Prerequisite: NEUR 101 and BIOL 251.

The purpose of this course is to introduce major principles and concepts of modern neurobiology. An emphasis is placed upon understanding of the electrophysiology of the neuron and the manner in which groups of neurons are organized into functional nervous systems subserving sensory, motor or integrative functions.

Outcome: Student will gain a solid foundation in nervous system structure and function.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: NEUR 101 and BIOL 251
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1), Electronic Classroom (1)

BIOL 363(4)
Course ID: 001360
06-JUN-2018

Entomology Lec/Lab
Prerequisite: BIOL 265.

An introductory course that covers the morphology, metamorphosis, classification and biology of the major insect groups. The laboratory includes dissection and the use of analytical keys and figures to identify insect taxa. Field trips and student collections add to the laboratory experience.

Outcome: Students will learn to identify major insect groups in the field and in the laboratory. They will also learn to distinguish immature insects from adult insects and to recognize the numerous beneficial insects as well as the small number that are detrimental.

Components: Laboratory, Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 265
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)

BIOL 365(3)
Course ID: 013710
24-AUG-2018

Writing a Scientific Manuscript
A Process from Data Collection to Writing a Scientific Manuscript. This course is designed for upper level students interested in practicing the scientific process; including hypothesis construction, experimental design, data collection, and writing of a scientific paper detailing Introduction, Methods, Results and Discussion.

Prerequisite: BIOL 102,112.

Outcomes: Students would learn to develop hypotheses, design experiments based on those hypotheses, analyze data, and learn to construct and peer-review a scientific manuscript.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite : BIOL 102, C- or above
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

BIOL 366(3)
Course ID: 001364
01-JAN-2018

Cell Physiol & Biochem
Prerequisites: BIOL 251 and CHEM 224

An introduction to biochemical principles as they relate to major biological themes such as the relationship between cellular structure and function, metabolism, thermodynamics, regulation, information pathways, and evolution. BIOL 366 is cross-listed with CHEM 361.

Outcome: Students will study the basic concepts of biochemistry and will understand how thermodynamics govern biochemical processes. Catalytic strategies, as well as the major pathways of both anabolism and catabolism, will also be learned.

Components: Discussion, Lecture
Course Equivalents: CHEM 361
Attributes: Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 & CHEM 224 or 222. Pre-requisites for Bioinformatics majors: CHEM 224 or 222.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)
BIOL 366L(2)
Course ID: 001365  15-JUN-2022
Cell Physiology & Biochemistry Lab

Introduction to modern techniques and instrumentation with an emphasis on cellular metabolism and protein biochemistry including purification and quantitation methods and enzyme kinetics.

Outcome: Proficiency in performing a variety of biochemical assays and the ability to write up results as a formal lab report.

Components: Laboratory

Attributes: Engaged Learning, Forensic Science

Requirement Group: Pre-Co-requisite with BIOL 366 or CHEM 361

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)

BIOL 367(4)
Course ID: 011440  06-JUN-2018

Bioimaging

Prerequisites: BIOL 251 and 282; PHYS 112 or 114; Instructor Permission.

This course focuses on light microscopy but also includes a section on Electron Microscopy. Topics include basic optical theory, history, sample preparation, microscope operation, digital image acquisition and analysis.

Outcome: Students will become adept at producing publication quality images using a variety of imaging techniques. Students will also learn how to correctly interpret results and properly present their data.

Components: Laboratory(In person), Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 251 and 282; PHYS 112 or 114

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1), Lab - Biology(1)

BIOL 368(4)
Course ID: 001366  06-JUN-2018

Plant Ecology Lec/Lab

Prerequisite: BIOL 265.

Focuses on plant population dynamics; plant-animal interactions, including herbivory, pollination, dispersal; plant community dynamics, such as the processes of succession; and the effect of global climate on the distribution of major vegetation types. The laboratory is divided between weekend field trips to local forests, prairies and bogs, and laboratory studies.

Outcome: Students will achieve familiarity with major vegetation types and especially with local vegetation and natural areas; understand the dynamics of plant communities; understand the nature of research in plant ecology and gain familiarity with the primary literature; understand environmental issues as they relate to

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 265

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 369(3)
Course ID: 009922  06-JUN-2018

Invertebrate Biology

Broad survey of invertebrates including morphology, physiology, ecology, evolution, and systematics.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 265

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 370(4)
Course ID: 001368  06-JUN-2018

Ichthyology Lec/Lab

Prerequisite: BIOL 265.

Lecture and laboratory and/or field trips. Systematics, phylogeny, anatomy, physiology, behavior, functional morphology and ecology of fishes. Includes field collecting trips in Lake Michigan and local streams and lakes and individual projects/research papers.

Outcome: Students will develop a detailed understanding of a range of topics in fish biology, with special emphasis on evolutionary relationships.

Components: Laboratory, Lecture

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 265

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)
BIOL 373(4)
Course ID: 001373

Laboratory in Neuroscience I

Students will be trained in various anatomical, physiological, behavioral, and neurobiological modeling techniques used to study the nervous system and the brain in the laboratory. This course is cross-listed as NEUR 301 & PSYC 388.

Prerequisite: NEUR 101 (Formerly PSYC/BIOL 202), BIOL 251; and students must be either a Molecular/Cellular Neuroscience Major, a Cognitive/Behavioral Neuroscience major, or a Neuroscience Minor.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate understanding of several research designs and methodologies of use in neuroscience research and will gain experience with basic neuroscience laboratory techniques.

Components: Laboratory (In person)

Course Equivalents: NEUR 301, PSYC 388

Attributes: Neuroscience

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 251, C-; NEUR 101 (Formerly PSYC/BIOL 202), and students must be either a Molecular/Cellular Neuroscience Major, a Cognitive/Behavioral Neuroscience major, or a Neuroscience Minor.

Room Requirements: Undergraduate Research

BIOL 375(4)
Course ID: 001375
06-JUN-2018

Aquatic Insects Lecture & Laboratory

Prerequisite: BIOL 265.

This course focuses on the classification and ecology of insects that have become fully or partially adapted to the aquatic environment. Emphasis will be on the ecology and biology (behavior, physiology and phylogeny) of aquatic insects. The course includes laboratory field trips to local and upper Midwest aquatic habitats.

Outcome: Students will acquire an understanding of the ecological relationships between aquatic insects and their physical and biological environment, including their interactions with humans.

Components: Laboratory (In person), Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 265

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 376(3)
Course ID: 011439
15-JUN-2019

Seminar in Molecular/Cellular Neuroscience

Prerequisites: BIOL 282 and BIOL 362.

This lecture/discussion will span synaptic plasticity, modern approaches to studying neural circuits, and the therapeutic potential of neural stem cells. Students become familiar with principles of molecular/cellular approaches to the study of the nervous system through review articles and the primary literature.

Outcome: Students will become familiar with principles of molecular/cellular approaches to the study of the nervous system. Students will also learn how to evaluate primary literature.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)

Attributes: Neuroscience

Requirement Group: BIOL 282 and BIOL 362, C-. Restricted to BIOM and NRMC majors.

Room Requirements: Undergraduate Research

BIOL 377(3)
Course ID: 009807
06-JUN-2018

Molecular Pathogenesis

Instructor Consent Required

Introduction to the molecular mechanisms of disease pathology and therapeutic and control strategies, using a particular disease as model.

Outcome: Students will be able to explain the molecular basis for particular disease symptoms, understand therapeutic strategies, and use experimental results to form conclusions about disease molecular mechanisms.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 251 and BIOL 282.

Room Requirements: Undergraduate Research
BIOL 378(0)  Course ID:014007  15−JUN−2020

Dental Anthropology
This course will examine teeth, and is divided into two sections. Section one will provide a foundation to dental studies within an anthropological and biomedical context through the study of dental anatomy, morphology, and variation. Section two will examine the genetic and biological underpinnings of dental development and eruption.

Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or BIOL 101

Outcome: Gaining factual knowledge (terminology, classifications, methods, trends); learning to apply course material (to improve thinking, problem solving, and decisions); developing specific skills, competencies, and points of view needed by professionals in the field most closely related to this course.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Course Equivalents: ANTH 327

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ANTH 101 or BIOL 101

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Biological Topics for Bioethics Minor Capstone
Prerequisites: Two prior science courses and two prior ethics courses required.

The interdisciplinary team-taught Bioethics capstone course examines a topic in bioethics from both scientific and ethical points of view. Topics may include bio-technologies, concepts of race and gender, the environment, reproduction, and others. This course number provides an elective for Biology students when the Bioethics capstone's topic is biological.

Outcomes: Students will understand the connection between ethical and biological issues with regard to the special topic in biology.

Components:
- Seminar(In person)

Attributes:
- Bioethics

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Genetics and Evolution of Development
This course explores the evolution of the embryo and the patterns of gene regulation and morphogenesis that drive early development. Topics include evolution of nervous system patterning, shared human, mouse and frog regulatory systems and evolution of human genetic syndromes.

Outcome: Students will master the stages and regulation of development in a number of organisms through use of primary literature. Evidence of their mastery will be seen through grant writing exercises, in class presentations and conventional exams.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Course ID:014073 01-JAN-2021

Epigenetics
This course will introduce students to epigenetic mechanisms operating throughout life, which include chromatin regulation, DNA methylation, histone modifications and non-coding RNAs. Students will gain an appreciation of how different cell types can maintain drastically different gene expression patterns yet share the exact same DNA sequences.

Prerequisite: BIOL 251 and 282; CHEM 222 or 224

Outcomes: Students will understand epigenetic mechanisms, apply insights gained to evaluate the effect of epigenetic changes in development, disease and aging, and learn how to lead a class discussion.

- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 251 and 282; CHEM 222 or 224, C- and above
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 382(3)
Course ID:001377 06-JUN-2018

Molecular Genetics
Prerequisites: BIOL 251, 282 and CHEM 222 or 224.

This course covers the molecular details of genetic processes such as DNA replication, RNA and protein synthesis, gene regulation and genome organization.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate a detailed understanding of (1) basic molecular techniques, (2) the macromolecules involved in genetic processes, and (3) published experiments that underlie our knowledge of these processes.

- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: BIOL 251, 282; CHEM 222 or 224.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Course ID:001378 01-APR-2022

Population Genetics
Prerequisites: BIOL 282 and MATH 132 or 162. BIOL 235 is recommended.

Fundamental principles of population, ecological, and evolutionary genetics, including molecular evolution and analysis of the genetic structure of populations.

Outcome: Students develop knowledge and awareness of population genetic theory and information. They learn how to apply basic tools of population genetic analysis.

- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 282 and MATH 132 or 162. BIOL 265 recommended.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

BIOL 385(4)

Prin Electron Microscopy Lec/Lab
Prerequisites: Permission of instructor, BIOL 341 recommended.

This course focuses on the various areas of Electron Microscopy, both Scanning and Transmission. Topics include sample preparation, microscope operation, image acquisition using photographic and digital techniques, history and development, and new and special techniques.

Outcome: Student will become adept with the various techniques needed to produce research quality electron micrographs. Students will also learn how to correctly interpret their results, and properly present their data.

- Components: Lecture
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)
BIOL 387(3) - Course ID: 009414 - 06-JUN-2018
Genomics
Genomics is the compilation, characterization, and evaluation of DNA sequence information and its integration with established methods and genetic knowledge. This course will introduce the students to the study of genome structure and function and its application to biomedicine, agriculture, and evolution.

Outcome: Students will acquire an in-depth knowledge of the nature of gene and genome structure, function, and evolution as well as the methods used to obtain and evaluate this knowledge. Students will be able to create meaningful web-based database search strategies and interpret the significance of results.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)

Attributes: Bioinformatics

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Biol 282 & 283.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 388(3) - Course ID: 001383 - 01-MAY-2020
Bioinformatics
Students will engage in the applications of computer-based tools and database searching to better understand the fields of genetics, genomics, evolutionary biology, and personalized medicine. Students will be introduced to scripting programming languages for analyzing biological data sets.

Outcomes: Students will be able to appropriately use computer software and databases to accurately analyze biological data and interpret the results, applying their understanding of genetic processes.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: COMP 381

Attributes: Bioinformatics

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Biol 282.

BIOL 389(3) - Course ID: 001384 - 06-JUN-2018
Introduction to Pharmacology
Prerequisite: BIOL 243, 251, 282; CHEM 224 or 222.

Principles and mechanisms of drug action. Topics discussed include drug-receptor interaction, pharmacokinetics, drug distribution, metabolism, and neuro-transmission, blood-brain barrier, and toxicology.

Outcome: Students will be able to describe the cellular and molecular mechanisms of action for a variety of the most commonly used drugs in current medical use.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 243, 251, 282; CHEM 222 or 224

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

BIOL 390(4) - Course ID: 001385 - 06-JUN-2018
Molecular Biology Laboratory
Prerequisites: BIOL 251, 282, 283 and CHEM 222 or 224

This course is an intensive laboratory course in the basic principles and techniques of molecular biology, including bacterial cloning, polymerase chain reaction, restriction mapping, agarose gel electrophoresis, and DNA sequencing.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate basic molecular biology skills including manipulation of bacterial cultures and DNA, plasmid minipreps, gel electrophoresis, cloning, polymerase chain reaction, and other molecular techniques that may be specific to their chosen independent projects.

Components: Laboratory (In person)

Attributes: Engaged Learning, Bioinformatics, Neuroscience

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: BIOL 251, 282, 283 and CHEM 222 or 224 Prerequisites for Bioinformatics Majors: BIOL 282 & 283 and CHEM 222 or CHEM 224

Forensic Molecular Biology Lecture and Lab
Prerequisite: BIOL 282, 283 & FRSC-BS Major.
This course prepares students to work in forensic DNA analysis. The lectures cover the basic aspects of DNA structure and function while the laboratory gives students experience with the techniques and instruments used in forensic DNA analysis.
Outcome: Students will have a strong theoretical understanding of STR marker origin, population biology, and legal uses, and will be able to isolate and process DNA for STR scoring.
Components: Laboratory (In person)
Course Equivalents: FRSC 371
Attributes: Forensic Science

Prerequisite: BIOL 296 (min. 1 credit), Permission of Instructor; Contract Required.
Laboratory or field research under faculty guidance emphasizing hypothesis testing, literature searches, experimental design, and use of appropriate techniques.
Outcome: Students will learn the full set of research skills required in doing an independent project and reporting the results.
Components: Lecture
Attributes: Engaged Learning, Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Minimum grade of "C-" in BIOL 296.

Internship in Biology
Prerequisites: Permission of Instructor; Contract required.
A supervised field placement intended to give students training or work experience in aspects of biology that cannot be obtained on campus.
Outcome: Students will acquire practical experience in biology-related job settings.
Components: Supervision (Directed Research)
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Req. Designation: Internship

Bioinformatics Seminar

The seminar will introduce students to current topics in bioinformatics through presentations given by leaders in bioinformatics research. This course will also include more formal training in scientific presentation skills.

Prerequisite: BIOL 388 or BIOL 488

Students can summarize, critique, and present bioinformatics research.

Advanced Neurosciences

This course will focus on the cellular, anatomical, and functional organization of the human nervous system that range in topics from ion channel physiology to cognition. Students will survey the elements of the nervous system necessary for a foundation for medical school. An understanding of pathologies presented in disease, dysfunction, and injury will be included.

- Learn foundational neurological concepts presented to first year medical students.
- Learn the pathology of neurological disease, dysfunction, and injury through clinical cases.
- Understand the neurological basis of higher-order functions.

Components: Discussion, Lecture

CHEM 101(3)  Course ID:001578  06-JUN-2018

General Chemistry A Lecture/Discussion

Prerequisite: MATH 117 or equivalent. A year of high school chemistry is recommended.

Co-requisite: CHEM 111 and MATH 118.

This non-majors course deals with the development of basic chemical principles. Multiple perspectives of matter will be used to describe and explain characteristics, properties, and relationships across the following topics: atomic structure, nuclear chemistry, periodicity, molecular structure, chemical bonding, chemical reactions, thermochemistry, aqueous solutions, gases

Outcome: Students will learn the foundational concepts of chemistry in these topic areas and develop skills

Components: Discussion, Lecture
Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Math Placement Test or Math 117
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

CHEM 102(3)  Course ID:001581  06-JUN-2018

General Chemistry B Lecture/Discussion

Prerequisites: CHEM 101 or CHEM105; MATH 118 or equivalent.

This non-majors course further develops principles from CHEM 101 & requires in-depth integration of concepts. Multiple perspectives of matter will be used to describe/explain characteristics, properties, & relationships across the following topics: liquids & solids, solutions, reaction kinetics, equilibria, acids & bases, reaction thermodynamics, electrochemical reactions.

Outcomes: Students will deepen their understanding of foundational concepts of chemistry and advance their skills in scientific problem solving, critical thinking and synthesis of concepts.

Components: Discussion, Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Chem 101 or 105 and Math 118 or equivalent
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Auditorium(1)

CHEM 105(4)  Course ID:001583  06-JUN-2018

Chemical Principles

Prerequisite: Math Placement Test or Math 117

Lecture, discussion and laboratory course for majors covering stoichiometry, reactions in aqueous solution, states of matter, electronic structure, thermodynamics, chemical bonding, molecular geometry and intermolecular forces. Emphasis given to writing electron configurations and Lewis diagrams, predicting molecular geometry and properties, mass/mole conversions and solving thermodynamic and gas law problems.

Outcome: Students will learn basic chemical principles in these areas.

Components: Discussion, Laboratory, Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Math Placement Test or Math 117
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

CHEM 106(4)  Course ID:001586  01-NOV-2018

Basic Inorganic Chemistry

Prerequisites: CHEM 105 AND MATH 118 or equivalent

Laboratory course designed to illustrate fundamental models and theories in chemistry with an emphasis on significant digits, calculations, and analysis and discussion questions.

Outcome: Students will be able to use equipment properly and demonstrate correct laboratory technique.

Components: Discussion, Laboratory, Lecture
Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: C- or better in CHEM 105 and MATH 118 or equivalent
Req. Designation: Service Learning

Organic Chem B Lec/Disc
Prerequisite: CHEM 223 or 221

The second semester lecture and discussion course of a two semester sequence, a continuation of 223 for non-chemistry majors emphasizing the organic chemistry of conjugated systems, aromatic compounds, carbonyl compounds, amines, carboxylic acids and their derivatives, carbohydrates, lipids, and proteins.

Outcome: Students will identify classes of organic compounds and typical reactions, discriminate amongst intermediate stabilities, postulate reaction mechanisms, plan multi-step syntheses, and analyze/interpret spectroscopic data.

Components: Discussion, Lecture
Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science

Physical Biochemistry Lab
Pre-Req: CHEM 305

This laboratory course will introduce apparatus, and analysis used in experimental physical chemistry for biochemistry students.

Outcome: Students will acquire broad-based knowledge of laboratory skills central to biophysical chemistry.

Components: Laboratory (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: CHEM 305. Restricted to Biochemistry Majors.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Chemistry(1)

CHEM 307(3)

Course ID: 011956  01-JAN-2014

Inorganic Chemistry
Prerequisite: CHEM 222 or 224 & 226

Lecture course covering atomic structure, chemical bonding, and transition metal, solid state, organometallic and bioinorganic chemistry.

Outcome: Students will learn chemical principles in important areas of inorganic chemistry.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: CHEM 222 or 224/226. Restricted to Biochemistry Majors.

Course ID: 012792  15-JUN-2019

Instrumental Analysis
Prerequisites: CHEM 212, 214, 222 (or 224+226), and PHYS 112k

This course discusses and demonstrates how instrumental techniques such as atomic spectroscopy, molecular spectroscopy, mass spectrometry and chemical separations can be used to identify the chemical composition of a sample.

Outcome: Students will be able to select the most suitable analytical method to identify a sample. The hands-on approach will enable students to perform instrumental analysis independently.

Components: Laboratory (In person), Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: CHEM 212, 214, 222 (or 224+226), and PHYS 112k. Restricted to CHEM BA and CHEM BS majors.

Medicinal Chemistry
Prerequisites: CHEM 222 or 224

This course examines how medicinal chemists design and synthesize drug candidates to meet FDA requirements of efficacy and safety, and how a testing strategy measures efficacy vs. toxicity comprising the therapeutic index. Topics include drug-receptor/enzyme binding, PK, ADME, patenting of IP, and the ethical aspects of pharmaceuticals.

Outcomes: Students will be able explain the strategy of drug candidate analog design, synthesis, binding and inhibition constants, drug testing strategies, pharmacokinetics, structure-activity relationships (SAR), and the therapeutic index of drugs.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: CHEM 222 or 224

01-JAN-2022

Principles of Biochemistry

Prerequisites: CHEM 222 or 224 and 226.

Prerequisites for Bioinformatics majors: Chem 222 or 224.

This course examines the structural and functional relationships in proteins, nucleic acids, carbohydrates and lipids as well as their metabolic pathways. CHEM 361 is cross-listed with BIOL 366.

CHEM 361 may not count towards CHEM-BS, BIOC-BS, or BIOC-BA degrees. These students must take CHEM 370.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of biological molecules and how they are metabolized.

CHEM 371(3)
Course ID: 011976
20-JUN-2012

Biochemistry II
Prerequisite: CHEM 370

This is the second part of a two-semester Biochemistry lecture series that emphasizes important biochemical concepts on lipid, amino acid and nucleotide metabolic pathways as well as the structure and function of nucleic acids. Special topics on sensory systems, motility, immunology and drug development will also be discussed.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of metabolic pathways and of current research topics in biochemistry.

Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: CHEM 370. Restricted to Biochemistry Majors
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

CHEM 372(2)
Course ID: 011977
15-JUN-2019

Biochemistry Laboratory I
Biochemistry majors only, Prerequisites: CHEM 212, 214, 370 and 222 or 226.

This laboratory is designed to simulate a research experience and to teach basic techniques utilized in a biochemistry laboratory. The course theme involves a comparative investigation of the enzyme glyceraldehyde-3-phosphate dehydrogenase (GAPDH) from various animal sources. All procedures required in lab will be found by the student in the library and proposed to the instructor(s) as a pre-lab exercise. Each two-student team will be working on GAPDH from either an aquatic or land animal source, e.g., trout, tuna, pork beef or chicken.

Outcome: Students will be able to purify and characterize an enzyme in a research context.

Components: Discussion (In person), Laboratory (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: C- or better in CHEM 212, 214, 370, and 222 or 226. Restricted to Biochemistry majors.
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Lab - Chemistry(1), Lab - Chemistry(1)

CHEM 373(2)
Course ID: 011978
10-SEP-2019

Biochemistry Laboratory II
This laboratory course is designed to simulate a research project in which molecular biology techniques and biochemistry are integrated. Those techniques are used as important tools to help solve questions in enzyme structure and function. The course theme involves an investigation on the relationship between protein structure and function of the ADP-glucose pyrophosphorylase (ADP-Glc PPase) from Escherichia coli. All procedures required in lab will be found by the student in the library and proposed to the instructor(s) as a pre-lab exercise. Each two-student team will be working on a specific ADP-Glc PPase that has been previously obtained in a recombinant form. Their genes will be provided in a plasmid form.

Outcome: Students will study the basic concepts of enzyme structure relationships and how to investigate them. The student will learn strategies to produce and test a hypothesis in this area. Additionally, the

Chemistry Seminar
Prerequisite: CHEM 222 or 224, and 226.

A weekly seminar course with presentations, generally given by outside speakers, covering topics in chemistry usually not encountered in the classroom.

Outcome: Students will demonstrate their understanding by writing a one page summary of each presentation.

Components: Seminar
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: CHEM 222 or 224 and 226.
 Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Auditorium(1)
CHEM 385(3) Course ID: 011975 20-JUN-2012
Advanced Enzyme Kinetics and Mechanisms
Prerequisite: CHEM 370

The major themes in this course will be topics that are related to modern enzymology. The structure of this course will involve lectures by Dr. Ballicora for each topic, and discussion with the students.

Outcome: Students will be able to understand enzyme mechanisms and be able to make oral presentations on recently published articles.

CHEM 386(3) Course ID: 011971 15-JUN-2021
The Chemistry of Enzymes

The course describes the chemical strategies employed by enzymes to accelerate reactions combined with an examination of the specialized methods employed to study enzyme chemistry. The course is lecture based with concurrent problems sets.

Pre-req: CHEM 370, restricted to Biochemistry majors

Outcomes: Students will gain an understanding of transient state chemical kinetics as it pertains to the study of enzymes. The course content will focus on deductive reasoning to understand what is observed how best analyze data obtained from the study of enzymes.

Components:

CHEM 387(3) Course ID: 011972 20-JUN-2012
Plant Biochemistry
Prerequisite: CHEM 370

The major themes in this course will be about topics that are related to plant biochemistry and metabolism. The structure of the course will involve lectures for each topic, with discussion with the students. Students will learn how plants and photosynthetic organisms acquire and process energy. Plant metabolism will constitute a central part of the course, focusing on the main differences from other living organisms. A solid understanding of plant metabolism will inspire the student to think about all the possibilities that plant biochemistry and biotechnology offer to solve critical problems, such as malnutrition, global climate change, drug discovery, and infectious diseases.

Shipwreck Archaeology
Students study how the technology of scuba diving combined with scientific archaeology has created a new discipline of shipwreck archaeology since the 1960s. They follow the history of the discipline and explore shipwrecks from Bronze Age Greece to nineteenth-century Chicago.
Outcome: Students understand the importance of vessels conserved at Skuldelev, Lake Nemi and Uluburun for tracing the development of commerce and technology among the Vikings, the Romans, and the Syro-Palestinians of the Levant. They synthesize the research and conclusions of nautical archaeologists worldwide and organize those findings for presentation to a broader public in the coherent and imaginative form of their own Museum.

Computing and Data Analysis for the Sciences
Scientific computing emphasizes data analysis and visualization in a scientific context - analyzing data quickly for understanding by the individual, sharing automated workflows with collaborators, and preparing results for later publication. This course will emphasize rapid, interactive, and reproducible collaborative analysis of data for scientific contribution.

Students are required to have taken MATH 117: College Algebra as a prerequisite or to have been placed in MATH 118: Precalculus or higher.

At the end of this course, students will be well versed in the use of a specific, interactive environment for data analysis (likely Python, R, or MATLAB as indicated in the course notes) for analyzing data and sharing

Components: Lecture(Blended)
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: MATH 117 (or any higher MATH course such as 118, 131, 132, 161, 162) with grade of at least C-
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 215(3)  Course ID:010342  15-JUN-2022
Object Oriented Programming with Mathematics
Prerequisites: MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A

This is an introductory programming course for students interested in mathematics and scientific computing. Students will program primarily in a general object-oriented language such as Python, with supplementary exercises in a computer algebra system. Examples will be drawn primarily from applications of calculus, elementary number theory, and cryptography.

Outcome: Students will learn basic scripting and object-oriented programming, with the goal of being able to solve mathematical and scientific problems.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: MATH 215
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 231(3)  Course ID:014008  15-JUN-2021
Data Structures & Algorithms for Informatics
This course introduces data structures and algorithms that are essential for data science and informatics. Here we will focus on identifying the right method for storing data and using the most efficient algorithm for analysis. A subset of data structures and algorithms fundamental to computer science will be covered.

Prereq: (MATH/COMP 215 OR COMP 170) AND (COMP 141 OR AMTH-BS OR MATH-BS) Advisory: MATH/COMP 215 preferred.

Outcome: Students will learn fundamental data structures and algorithms frequently used in informatics and data science. Students will be able to apply this knowledge for data analysis.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: At least C- in (MATH/COMP 215 OR COMP 170) AND (COMP 141 OR AMTH-BS OR MATH-BS)
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 250(3)  Course ID:009503  06-JUN-2018
Introduction to Scientific and Technical Communication
Prerequisite: A minimum grade of C- in COMP 125 or COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP/MATH 215.

This course trains students in writing clear, readable, and well-organized technical communications, including presentations, end-user documentation, internal project documentation, and scientific papers.

Outcome: students will learn to write clear technical documentation.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: COMP 125 or COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP 180 or COMP/MATH 215
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Introduction to Database Systems

This course explores ways in which data collections are organized, stored, analyzed, and manipulated. Topics include relational databases, the SQL query language, and the basics of XML and web interfaces to data sets. Applications from a variety of domains illustrate the course's key concepts.

Outcomes: Students will organize data in ways to emphasize relationships, write simple programs to process, visualize and graphically display data, mine data for patterns, and design web interfaces to data.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: COMP 125 or COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP 180 or COMP/MATH 215
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Introduction to Computer Systems

This course studies the hierarchy of abstractions and implementations that constitute a modern computer system, with a particular focus on issues of interest to programmers, typically including some systems programming instruction.

Prerequisites: COMP 141 and (COMP 170 or MATH/COMP 215) and (coreq or preq of COMP 163 or MATH 201). COMP 163 coreq or prereq and COMP 170 prereq preferred.

Outcome: Understanding of system issues that affect the performance, correctness, or utility of user-level programs.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 141 and (COMP 170 or COMP/MATH 215) Co-Requisite: COMP 163 or MATH 201
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Data Structures I

This course studies basic data structures including array lists, linked lists, stacks, queues, binary trees, and hash tables. Efficiency of data structure operations, study of recursion, applications of data structures, and simple analysis of algorithms are covered.

Pre-requisite: COMP 141 and COMP 170 and (co-requisite or pre-requisite of COMP 163 (preferred) or MATH 201). For Bioinformatics majors, pre-requisite of COMP 141 and COMP 170. For SCPS students, pre-requisite of COMP 170.

Outcomes: Students learn linear data structures and the performance of their operations, and they learn to solve simple computational problems by designing suitable algorithms and efficient data structures.

Components: Laboratory, Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Bioinformatics
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 141 and COMP 170 and (co-requisite or pre-requisite of COMP 163 (preferred) or MATH 201)

Introduction to Computer Security
This is an introductory course on computer security covering a broad range of topics, including basic security goals, encryption, penetration testing, software exploitation, reverse engineering, packet sniffing, and secure coding. The course teaches both the principles and concepts of computer security as well as some of the tools and technologies.
Prereq COMP 170
Students will learn to think like an adversary, find and exploit vulnerabilities in computer and network systems, understand cryptography and security goals, and learn about some of the commonly-used tools.
Components:  Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group:  Pre-requisite: COMP 170
Req. Designation:  Writing Intensive

Database Administration
Prerequisites: COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271
Business and scientific institutions increasingly use large commercial data base systems. This course teaches the theory and practice for the definition, security, backup, tuning, and recovery of these systems.
Outcome:  Students will be able to use theory and pragmatic approaches to define and implement realistic solutions for large database administration environments.
Components:  Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group:  Prerequisite: At least C- in COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271
Req. Designation:  Writing Intensive

Data Mining
Prerequisite: (COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271) and (STAT 103 or STAT 203 or ISSCM 241 or PSYC 304 or instructor permission)
This course covers theory and practice of the analysis (mining) of extremely large datasets. With data growing at exponential rates knowledge gathering and exploration techniques are essential for gaining useful intelligence.
Outcome:  Students will be able to define and critically analyze data mining approaches for fields such as security, healthcare, science and marketing.
Components:  Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group:  Prerequisites : ( At least C- in COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271) and (at least C- in STAT 103 or STAT

Numerical Methods
This course offers an introduction to topics such as error analysis, interpolation and approximation, and the numerical solution of problems involving differentiation, integration, and ordinary and partial differential equations.
Prerequisites: (COMP 170 or MATH/COMP 215), and [ (MATH 212, and MATH 264) or MATH 266]
Students will obtain an understanding of how numerical methods can be used in a variety of areas of mathematics.
Components:  Lecture
Course Equivalents:  MATH 309
Requirement Group:  Prerequisites: (COMP 170 or 215) & [(MATH 212 and 264) or MATH 266]

COMP 310(3)

Operating Systems
This course introduces principles of operating systems and how they are designed. Various important parts of operating systems such as memory addressing, file structures, processes, and threads are covered.

Prerequisite: COMP 264 and COMP 272

Outcome: Students will learn the different parts of an operating system at a functional level and how they interact with each other.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: At least C- in COMP 264 and COMP 272

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 312(3)

Open Source Software Practicum
Prerequisite: COMP 231 or COMP 271 or instructor permission

This course will cover the fundamentals of Free and Open Source software development. Topics to be addressed include licensing, Linux, typical software development tools, applications, and techniques for managing remote servers.

Outcome: Students will learn to implement projects involving Free and Open Source software and learn how to participate in open-source projects effectively.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Requirement Group: COMP 231 or COMP 271 or instructor permission

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 313(3)

Object-Oriented Design
Prerequisite: COMP 272

Object-orientation continues to be a dominant approach to software development. This intermediate programming-intensive course studies the use of classes and objects with an emphasis on collaboration among objects.

Outcome: A thorough understanding of the principles of object-orientation: abstraction, delegation, inheritance, and polymorphism; exposure to basic design patterns; programming experience in mainstream object-oriented languages such as C++ and Java.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 272

Problem Solving Strategies I
Co-requisite or Prerequisite: COMP 271

This course allows students to sharpen problem-solving skills along with, or as part of, the ACM Programming Team. Groups generally work on old competition problems on alternate weekends, with short follow-ups during the next week.

Outcome: Ability to work in small groups, quickly and accurately assessing and solving focused problems involving many sorts of programming knowledge.

Components: Seminar(In person)

Requirement Group: Co-requisite or prerequisite: Comp 271

Distributed Systems
Prerequisite: COMP 313 or COMP 363 or COMP 310

This course covers topics in modern distributed systems. This course places special emphasis on scalability (performance), reliability/fault tolerance, and security.

Outcome: After taking this course, students should understand the essential ingredients of distributed systems and how to build distributed systems that are resilient to transient network failures and other potential anomalies.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: At least C- in COMP 313 or COMP 363 or COMP 310
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

COMP 340(3)  Course ID:010307  06-JUN-2018
Computer Forensics
Prerequisite: (COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP/MATH 215) and (COMP 264 or COMP 317 or COMP 343)

The course introduces the fundamentals of computer/network/internet forensics, analysis and investigations.

Outcome: The student will learn computer software and hardware relevant for analysis, and investigative and evidence-gathering protocols.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: (COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP/MATH 215) and (COMP 264 or COMP 317 or COMP 343)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 341(3)  Course ID:013171  15-JUN-2021
Human-Computer Interaction
Prerequisite: COMP 231 or COMP 271

Limitations in human-computer interaction are as much due to human factors, cognitive limits, expectations, motivations, and inertia as technological capabilities. Systematic methods will be used to evaluate and improve designs through both qualitative feedback and statistical, hypothesis-driven testing on web pages, GUIs, mobile apps and many non-traditional interfaces.

Outcomes: Students will be exposed to a wide array of non-traditional computing interfaces, and be able to evaluate, design and develop better human-computer interfaces using research-based, systematic approaches.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: At least C- in COMP 231 or COMP 271
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 342(3)  Course ID:013042  15-JUN-2021
Introduction to Web Application Development
Prerequisite: COMP 170

An introduction to webpage development using JavaScript, jQuery and associated client-side tools.

Outcomes: Students will be able to create webpages using JavaScript and related tools and protocols, and interface a webpage with a database.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: CPST 342, DIGH 403
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: COMP 170
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

COMP 343(3)  Course ID:002190  15-JUN-2022
Computer Networks
Prerequisite: COMP 264 or COMP 271 or instructor permission

This course surveys packet-switched computer networks and attendant communication protocols, using the TCP/IP protocol suite on which the Internet is based as the primary model. Some programming may be required.

Outcome: Students will understand how the Internet is constructed, how data is routed to its destination, how connections are made, how congestion is handled, and how security can be addressed.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Comp 264 or Comp 271
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
COMP 344 (3) Course ID: 014275 15-JUN-2022

Hands-on Approach to Security & Privacy
This course will introduce students to privacy, cybersecurity competitions, and how computers can be compromised and secured.

Pre-requisite: COMP 301

Outcomes: Students will start thinking like an adversary, learn how to find exploits in software and computer networks, and how to be a cybersecurity professional.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: COMP 301, C or higher grade
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

COMP 345 (3) Course ID: 013433 15-JUN-2022

Internet of Things Device and Application Security
Prerequisites: COMP 301

It introduces the Internet of Things (IoT) comprising embedded devices and cloud-based resources. The course studies concepts and techniques used in designing and implementing IoT systems providing valuable functionality to consumers and valuable data to organizations. The course discusses methods for addressing related safety, security, reliability, and privacy concerns.

Outcomes: Ability to design and implement secure software and establish safety, security, reliability, and privacy goals for embedded and IoT-based systems. Ability to visualize and analyze data from an IoT system.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 301
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer (1)

COMP 346 (3) Course ID: 002191 15-JUN-2021

Telecommunications
Prerequisite: Comp 264 or Comp 271

This course introduces the fundamental concepts of telecommunication networks, including requirements of voice networks, analog versus digital transmission, data link protocols, SONET, ATM, cellular phone systems, and the architecture of the current telephone system.

Outcome: Students will understand how modern telephone systems work.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Comp 264 or Comp 271
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

COMP 347 (3) Course ID: 010233 15-JUN-2022

Intrusion Detection and Security
Prerequisite: COMP 301

This course covers techniques and algorithms for detecting unusual usage patterns that typically signal a break-in, including techniques for detecting evasive or stealthy attacks. Also covered are differences in detecting local versus network intruders. Additional topics: computer viruses, computer security management, computer forensics.

Outcomes: Students will learn to configure ID systems (e.g. SNORT) and analyze their output. They will also understand both network-based and host-based monitoring techniques.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 301
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)
COMP 348(3)  Course ID:009857  15-JUN-2022

Network Security

Pre-requisite: COMP 301

Outcomes: An understanding of how to secure networks using encryption, authentication, perimeter protection, restricted access policies, intrusion detection/prevention and other security frameworks.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 301
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

COMP 349(3)  Course ID:010234  15-JUN-2022

Wireless Networking and Security
Prerequisite: COMP 301

This course will explore the wireless standards, authentication issues, and common configuration models for commercial versus institutional installations and analyze the security concerns associated with this ad-hoc method of networking.

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of wireless networking, protocols, and standards and security issues.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 301
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 351(3)  Course ID:009423  15-JUN-2021

Network Management
Pre-requisite: Comp 264 or Comp 271

This course introduces the current state of the art in automated management of computer networks, including protocols such as SNMP and its attendant naming conventions, network management systems, and important issues in administrative network configuration.

Outcome: Students will become familiar with the SNMP protocol, with how large-scale Network Management Systems operate and are configured, and with advanced network configuration.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 264 or COMP 271
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

COMP 352(3)  Course ID:013434  15-JUN-2022

Computer Vulnerabilities
Prerequisites: COMP 264 and COMP 301

This course will introduce students to computer vulnerabilities at the machine-code level, including viruses, browser vulnerabilities, buffer and heap overflows, return-to-libc attacks and others.

Outcomes: Describe some recent computer software vulnerabilities at the machine-code level and how they can be leveraged into an attack.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 264 & COMP 301
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)
COMP 353(3)

Database Programming
Prerequisite: COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271

This course introduces relational and object databases to support database creation and application development. Use of commercial database products will give a practical orientation.

Outcome: Students will learn SQL, database design and application development using the latest software tools. Students will also learn techniques for web based data retrieval and manipulation.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group:
- At least C- in COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271

Room Requirements:
- General Classroom(1)

Big Data Analytics

In this course, large data sets will be leveraged to solve challenging analytics problems. With more samples, analytics can use more complex learning models to automate more feature combinations for more robust model tuning, selection, and validation. Parallel, distributed processing will be performed with Apache Spark and Hadoop.

((Database experience: COMP 251 OR COMP 305 OR COMP 353) AND (Analytics experience: COMP 300 OR COMP 379 OR STAT 338 OR STAT 308)) OR permission of instructor.

Outcomes: Python or R will be used with parallel frameworks to perform proper model selection when testing large combinations of features, models, hyperparameters, and ensembles, with additional emphasis on deep

COMP 362(3)
Course ID: 002196
15-MAR-2006
Computer Architecture

This course covers computer design from the level of digital logic and circuit design to high-level computer organization.

Outcome: A basic understanding of how computers work at many levels and how to use various analytical tools and techniques to design computer components.

Components:
- Lecture

Room Requirements:
- General Classroom(1)

COMP 363(3)
Course ID: 002197

Design and Analysis of Computer Algorithms
Prerequisites: COMP 272 and (MATH 132 or MATH 162)

Theoretical design and analysis of computer algorithms may be supplemented by small amounts of programming.

Outcome: The ability to design and analyze efficient algorithms; understanding of the necessary models and mathematical tools; understanding of a variety of useful data structures and fundamental algorithms; exposure to the classification of computational problems into different complexity classes.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Attributes:
- Bioinformatics

Requirement Group:
- Pre-requisite: COMP 272 & (MATH 132 or MATH 162)

COMP 377(3)  IT Project Management  01-MAY-2020
Prerequisite: COMP 231 or COMP 251 or COMP 271

This course is an introduction to the philosophy and practice of project management. The course involves a student group project to investigate and plan a 'real world' IT project that specifies project objectives, schedules, work breakdown structure and responsibilities, a written interim report, and a final oral and written report.

Outcomes: Students will learn time management, work-flow management, and team dynamics to design, implement and test large-scale software projects.

COMP 379(3)
Course ID: 013158
01-MAY-2020

Machine Learning

Machine learning is the process of making predictions and decisions from data without being explicitly programmed. Topics include a variety of supervised learning methods. Ensemble approaches are used to combine independent models efficiently. Unsupervised and semi-supervised methods demonstrate the power of learning from data without an explicit training goal.

Prerequisite: (COMP 231 or COMP 271) and (STAT 103 or STAT 203 or ISSCM 241 or PSYC 304 or instructor permission)

Outcomes: Students in this course will learn how to apply sophisticated algorithms to large data sets to make inferences for prediction or decision making.

Components: Lecture(Blended)
Requirement Group: At least C- in (COMP 231 or COMP 271) and (STAT 103 or STAT 203 or ISSCM 241 or PSYC 304 or instructor permission)

Computer Graphics

Prerequisite: COMP 271

This course introduces modern theory and practices in 3-D computer graphics, stressing real-time interactive applications using libraries like OpenGL.

Outcome: Student will learn how to program real-time interactive applications using libraries like OpenGL.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 271

Computational Biology
Prerequisites: (COMP 231 or COMP 271) and COMP 381 (Equivalencies: BIOI/BIOL 388)

This course presents an algorithmic focus to problems in computational biology. It is built on earlier courses on algorithms and bioinformatics. Problems and solutions covered in this course include gene hunting, sequence comparison, multiple alignment, gene prediction, trees and sequences, databases, and rapid sequence analysis.

Outcome: Students will learn, in detail, foundational methods and algorithms in bioinformatics.

COMP 386(3)
Course ID: 013043  15-JUN-2021
Computational Neuroscience
Introduces computational methods to understand neural processing in the brain. Levels of representation from low-level, temporally precise neural circuits to systems-level rate-encoded models, to information-theoretic approaches. Emphasis on sensory systems, primarily vision and audition, most readily demonstrating the need for such computational techniques.

Prerequisites: C- or better in COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP 180.

Outcomes: Appreciation that many aspects of neuroscience cannot be understood without appropriate mathematical or computational frameworks, and ability to adeptly apply these frameworks in the various domains of neuroscience.

Broaden Particip STEM (Computing, Math & Science)
Students will learn about underrepresentation of various population groups in STEM fields (science, technology, engineering, mathematics), as well as some of the reasons and negative effects of this situation. They will learn about techniques and educational materials for ameliorating this situation and will engage in relevant service learning activities.

Outcomes: Students gain first-hand experience with broadening STEM participation and seeing how they can make a difference in the lives of other students and contribute to national needs.

Professional Development & Career Growth in CS/IT

This course is designed specifically for students pursuing a degree in computing-related fields, for example, Computer Science, Information Technology, Software Engineering, and Cybersecurity. They will learn about ways to develop themselves professionally, communicate their strengths, expand their contacts, and advance their careers.

Prerequisite: Sophomore standing and any COMP course.

Students should acquire skills to professionally brand themselves, successfully network in technical circles, perform an effective job/internship search, and conduct themselves well in interviews.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Sophomore standing and any COMP course with a grade of at least C-.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Research Methods in Computer Science

Supplements CS Seminar by targeting students directly engaging in research and facilitating contributions in ongoing projects. Progress in outside projects tracked through milestones such as abstracts, small fellowship-style proposals, informal updates, and outcome-oriented goal setting. Emphasizes creating lasting impacts through establishing project continuity and presenting posters, papers, and slide shows.

Outcomes: Regular progress on research projects and final presentations of results for demonstration to department faculty and students, and potential use at professional conferences.

Components: Seminar (In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Independent Study

The student and a sponsoring faculty member will determine an advanced topic for the student to work on.

Outcome: Knowledge of an advanced topic.

Components: Independent Study
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Computer Science Seminar

The department seminar is designed to bring together students interested in understanding and engaging in extracurricular applications of computer science, with a focus on ongoing research. Speakers will include department faculty, research students, and invited outside speakers. Students will be asked to read relevant literature and participate in discussions.

Outcome: Students will be exposed to a wide range of topics in computer science, participate in discussions, and provide feedback to assess their general understanding of the presented material.

COMP 401(3) Course ID:014048 01-MAY-2020

Computer Security

This is a foundations course on computer security, covering a comprehensive range of concepts and technologies, including security goals, encryption, penetration testing, software exploitation, reverse engineering, packet sniffing, and secure coding. The final project requires a presentation and technical report where the students will show and describe what they accomplished.

Prerequisite: COMP 170 or instructor permission

Outcomes: Students will find and exploit vulnerabilities in computer and network systems; articulate cryptography and security goals, and synthesize the knowledge of different tools and techniques by applying them to an intensive real-world project.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 403(3) Course ID:013528 15-JUN-2017

Operations Management

Application of concepts and methods for managing production and service operation. Topics include demand forecasting, aggregate and capacity planning, inventory management, facility layout and location, just-in-time, managing quality, project planning, resource allocation, logistics. Emphasis on decision support.

Pre-requisites: COMP 150 or COMP 170

Outcomes: Understanding of the role of operations management in organizations, and applying models of production and operations management to decision making.

Components: Lecture(Blended)

Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 404(3) Course ID:013962 15-JUN-2019

Organizational Development

This course focuses on the manager’s role in leading Organization Development and Change to maximize organization and individual effectiveness with a focus on Information Technology. The class explores Organization Development and Change theory, change practices, and discusses considerations a manager will face as a change agent in today's computing ecosystem.

Prerequisite: COMP 251 or COMP 271

Outcomes: To understand the dynamics of change in organizations; learn techniques and strategies in managing change; develop skills that will enable a change agent mentality within the context of IT leadership.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 405(3) Course ID:013963 15-JUN-2019

Database Administration

Knowledge of the configuration and management skills needed for successful administration of a database server. The database administrator manages hardware, backup, security, tables and indexes, performance monitoring, query performance and optimization, and transaction performance. This course takes a user through the stages of maximizing the performance of a database server.

Prerequisite: COMP 251 or COMP 271

Outcomes: Students will learn how to manage database performance, including topics such as the query optimizer, SQL EXPLAIN, table statistics, concurrency and transaction isolation levels, and security.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
COMP 406(3)
Course ID: 013527
15-JUN-2020
Data Mining

This course covers theory and practice of the analysis (mining) of extremely large datasets. With data growing at exponential rates knowledge gathering and exploration techniques are essential for gaining useful intelligence.

Pre-requisites: COMP 251 or COMP 271

Outcomes: Students will be able to define and critically analyze data mining approaches for fields such as security, healthcare, science and marketing.

- Components: Lecture (Blended)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 409(3)
Course ID: 002216
01-JAN-2016
Advanced Numerical Analysis

Prerequisites: (COMP 170 or COMP/MATH 215), MATH 212, and Math 264

- Components: Lecture
- Course Equivalents: MATH 409
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 410(3)
Course ID: 002217
06-JUN-2018
Operating Systems

The course introduces advanced operating system concepts including distributed, real-time and multi-threaded in addition to reviewing memory management, files, and processes.

Prerequisites: COMP 271 and COMP 264

Outcome: Students will learn important topics in advanced operating systems and be able to make presentations on the topics.

- Components: Lecture
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 411(3)
Course ID: 009706
23-MAY-2005
Computer Systems Administration

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 412(3)
Course ID: 009707
06-JUN-2018
Open Source Computing

This course will cover the fundamentals of Free and Open Source software development. Topics to be addressed include licensing, Linux, typical software development tools, applications, and techniques for managing remote servers.

Prerequisite: COMP 271

Outcome: Students will learn to implement projects involving free and open-source software and learn how to participate in open-source projects effectively.

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 413(3)
Course ID: 012365
06-JUN-2018
Intermediate Object-Oriented Development

Principles of object-oriented design and implementation, including object modeling (UML or equivalent), interface design, refactoring and test-driven development. Study of design patterns, including Adaptor, Decorator, Iterator, Abstract Factory, etc. Coverage of implementation tools including IDEs, source-code control and testing.

Prerequisite: COMP 271

Outcomes: Use of interfaces in design; ability to recognize applications for design patterns, ability to refactor when necessary; ability to make effective use of test-driven development.

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
COMP 416(1 - 2)
Social Issues in Computing
Course ID: 002218
01-JAN-1901
Components: Seminar
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

COMP 417(3)
Social and Ethical Issues in Computing
Course ID: 009708
06-JUN-2018
This course covers social, legal, and ethical issues commonly arising in key areas related to computing technologies.
Outcome: Understanding of laws and issues in areas such as privacy, encryption, freedom of speech, copyrights and patents, computer crime, and computer/software reliability and safety; understanding of philosophical perspectives such as utilitarianism versus deontological ethics and basics of the U.S. legal system.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 418(3)
Combinatorial Mathematics
Course ID: 002220
06-JUN-2018
The course covers basic combinatorial theory including permutations and combinations, the inclusion-exclusion principle and other general counting techniques, partitions, generating functions, recurrence relations, Burnside's Theorem, the cycle index, and Polya's formula.
Prerequisite MATH 313 or COMP 163
Outcome: Students will learn mathematical techniques in discrete mathematics and applied combinatorics.
Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: MATH 418
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 420(3)
Software Systems Analysis
Course ID: 012214
07-DEC-2011
This course uses Unified Modeling Language and similar notation to model the early software analysis and design phases, from collection of user requirements to determination of class needs through object-oriented design.
Outcomes: Students will be able to capture business requirements in a software modeling document, and determine appropriate object-oriented classes suitable for final project implementation.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Comp 271 or permission of instructor
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 421(3)
Math Models & Simulation
Course ID: 002219
15-MAR-2006
This course covers tools for analyzing problems that are mathematically difficult. Discrete event simulation techniques and software tools for simulating processes are covered.
Outcome: Student will learn foundations of discrete event simulation
Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: MATH 421, STAT 421
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

COMP 433(3)  Course ID:009711  06-JUN-2018
Web Services Programming
Web services are Web-based enterprise applications that use open, XML-based standards and transport protocols to exchange data with calling clients. This course provides the APIs and tools you need to create and deploy interoperable Web services and clients using .NET and Java WSDP.

Outcome: Students will learn the standards and protocols for deploying web services.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: COMP 313 or 413
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 434(3)  Course ID:009712  15-MAR-2006
Enterprise Software Development
The course shows how to use Enterprise JavaBeans to develop scalable, portable business systems. The technologies taught in the course include: component models, distributed objects, asynchronous messaging, and component transaction monitors.

Outcome: Students will learn the architecture of EJB, entity and message and session beans.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 436(3)  Course ID:009713  06-JUN-2018
Markup Languages
This course is concerned with XML and its various component frameworks. The core frameworks to be covered include Document Object Model (DOM), Simple API for XML processing (SAX), the XML Path language (XPath), and XSLT.

Prerequisite COMP 271

Outcome: After taking this course, students will have working knowledge of XML and its connections to other ideas such as HTML, object models, relational databases, and network services.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 437(3)  Course ID:002224  01-JAN-2016
Intro Concurrent Programming
Many real-world software systems rely on concurrency for performance and modularity. This programming-intensive course covers analysis, design, implementation, and testing of concurrent software systems.

Outcome: An in-depth understanding of event-based and thread-based views of concurrency; the ability to develop concurrent software components using suitable languages, frameworks, and design patterns; familiarity with object-oriented modeling and development tools and test-driven development.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: COMP 313 or 413
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
COMP 439 (3)  Course ID: 009714  06-JUN-2018
Distributed Systems
This course presents a modern discussion of distributed computing systems. Distributed computation, interactive services, collaborative computing, peer-to-peer sharing, and grid/utility computing are just a handful of distributed technologies that go beyond the capabilities of the traditional client/server model by allowing a collection of computers to be leveraged as a collective resource.

Prerequisites COMP 313 and COMP 264; COMP 374 recommended

Outcome: Students will learn design and implementation, scalability of performance, reliability, and security of loosely interconnected systems.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: COMP 313 or 413
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)

COMP 440 (3)  Course ID: 013964  15-JUN-2019
Computer Forensics Investigations
This course introduces the fundamentals of computer/network/internet forensics, analysis and investigations.

Prerequisite: (COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP/MATH 215) AND (COMP 264 or COMP 317 or COMP 343).

Outcomes: The student will learn computer software and hardware relevant for analysis, and investigative and evidence-gathering protocols.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

COMP 441 (3)  Course ID: 009722  06-JUN-2018
Human-Computer Interaction
This course studies the interaction between humans and computer-based systems. The course will provide students with the methods for evaluating, designing, and developing better interfaces between humans and systems.

Prerequisite: COMP 271

Outcome: Students will acquire an awareness of different design and evaluation methods as well as practical, effective, and cost-conscience methods for improving systems and their interfaces.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)

COMP 442 (3)  Course ID: 009723  01-JAN-2016
Server-Side Software Development
Server-based web applications and services have become part of everyday life. This programming-intensive course covers analysis, design, implementation, and testing of multi-tiered server-based software systems along with typical tier-specific and technologies.

Outcome: An understanding of software architecture and integration in the development of multi-tiered server-based software; familiarity with object-oriented modeling and development tools and test-driven development.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: COMP 313 or 413
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)

COMP 443 (3)  Course ID: 002225  06-JUN-2018
Computer Networks
This course surveys packet-switched computer networks and attendant communication protocols, using the TCP/IP protocol suite on which the Internet is based as the primary model. We will also study general high-level network issues such as security, authentication, fault tolerance, and congestion.

Prerequisite COMP 271 or COMP 264

Outcome: Students will understand how the Internet is constructed, how data is routed to its destination, how connections are made, how congestion is handled, and how security can be addressed.

Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)
COMP 445(3)  Course ID:013965  15-JUNE-2019
Internet of Things Device and Application Security
This course considers the safety, security, reliability, and privacy concerns of the embedded devices and cloud-based resources of the Internet of things. The course discusses methods for addressing these concerns.
Prerequisite: COMP 348 AND (COMP 264 or COMP 271).

Outcomes:
- Design/implement secure software for embedded systems and the IoT
- Establish safety, security, reliability, privacy goals for IoT-based systems.
- Understand security and privacy concerns of embedded systems and the IoT

Components:
- Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 446(3)  Course ID:009715  06-JUNE-2018
Telecommunications
This course introduces the fundamental concepts of telecommunication networks. Underlying engineering principles of telephone networks, computer networks and integrated digital networks are discussed.
Prerequisite COMP 271 or COMP 264

Outcome: Students will learn how telephone and data networks work. They will also learn voice networks, analog versus digital transmission, data link protocols, SONEI, ATM, cellular phone systems, and the architecture of the current telephone system.
Components:
- Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 447(3)  Course ID:009716  06-JUNE-2018
Intrusion Detection and Computer Forensics
This course will cover techniques for detecting the unusual usage patterns that typically signal a break-in. The course will also consider differences in detection of local intruders versus intrusion over networks. Finally issues in the prosecution of those breaking in to computers, particularly evidentiary issues are explored.

Co-requisite or prerequisite COMP 271

Outcome: Students will learn to configure ID systems (eg., snort) and analyze their output. They will also understand both network-based and host-based monitoring techniques.
Components:
- Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 448(3)  Course ID:009717  06-JUNE-2018
Network Security
This course will involve a discussion of the methods and tactics used to keep attackers at bay as well as the mechanisms by which we can identify and potentially stop potential intruders. The course covers topics such as Encryption, authentication, firewalls, NAT/PAT, restricted access policies, intrusion detection and other security frameworks.
Prerequisite: COMP 271 or COMP 447

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of how to secure computers and network environments.
Components:
- Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 449(3)  Course ID:009718  06-JUNE-2018
Wireless Networking and Security
This course will explore the wireless standards, authentication issues, common configuration models for commercial versus institution installs and analyze the security concerns associated with this ad-hoc method of networking.
Prerequisite: COMP 271

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of wireless networking, protocols, and standards and security issues.
Components:
- Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
COMP 450(3) Microprogramming & Microprocess
- Course ID: 002226
  Run Date: 06-JUN-2018
- Lecture
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 451(3) Enterprise Networking
- Course ID: 012364
  Run Date: 01-JAN-2020
- Prerequisite: Comp 271
- Outcomes: Ability to interpret SNMP network data, ability to implement a Network Management System and use it to identify bottlenecks, familiarity with traffic-control principles and mechanisms.
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 452(3) Introduction to Computer Vulnerabilities
- Course ID: 013966
  Run Date: 15-JUN-2019
- Prerequisite: COMP 264 and COMP 347
- This course will introduce students to computer vulnerabilities at the machine-code level, including viruses, browser vulnerabilities, buffer and heap overflows, return-to-libc attacks and others.
- Outcomes:
  1. Describe some recent computer software vulnerabilities
  2. Describe how vulnerabilities can be leveraged into an attack
  3. Describe a vulnerability or attack at the machine-code level
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 453(3) Database Programming
- Course ID: 009719
  Run Date: 06-JUN-2018
- This course will cover advanced concepts in database access and programming including SQL, JDBC, SQLJ, JSP and servlets. Oracle 10g is used for projects.
- Outcome: Students will learn application development using the latest software tools. Students will also learn techniques for web based data retrieval and manipulation.
- Lecture(In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 458(3) Big Data Analytics
- Course ID: 014221
  Run Date: 15-JUN-2021
- Big Data Analytics
- In this course, large data sets will be leveraged to solve challenging analytics problems. With more samples, analytics can use more complex learning models to automate more feature combinations for more robust model tuning, selection, and validation. Parallel, distributed processing will be performed with Apache Spark and Hadoop.
- Prerequisites: At least a C in the following courses: (COMP 405 or COMP 453) AND (COMP 406 or COMP 479 or STAT 338 or STAT 408)
- Outcomes: Python or R will be used with parallel frameworks to perform proper model selection when testing large combinations of features, models, hyperparameters, and ensembles, with additional emphasis on deep
- Lecture(In person)
- Requirement Group: At least a C in the following courses: (COMP 405 or COMP 453) AND (COMP 406 or COMP 479 or STAT 338 or STAT 408)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
COMP 460(3)  Course ID:002227  06-JUN-2018

Algorithms & Complexity

This course will focus both on presenting general techniques for designing correct and efficient algorithms, as well as on formal methods for proving the correctness and analyzing the complexity of such algorithms.

Outcome: Students learn: the ability to design and analyze efficient algorithms; understanding of the necessary models and mathematical tools; understanding of a variety of useful data structures and fundamental algorithms; exposure to the classification of computational problems into different complexity classes.

Components: Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 462(3)  Course ID:002228  15-JUN-2017

Advanced Computer Architecture

This course presents key principles underlying the design of modern digital computers. The course introduces quantitative techniques used to guide the design process. It describes CPU performance issues and introduces instruction set architectures. The course then uses a hypothetical computer design, with a simple RISC architecture, to show how modern digital computers are implemented, first using a simple non-pipelined implementation, followed by a higher-performance pipelined implementation.

Outcome: Students gain an understanding of the design of the memory hierarchy in modern digital computers, caching and virtual storage techniques, multiprocessor systems, and distributed shared memory systems.

Components: Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 464(3)  Course ID:002229  06-JUN-2018

High-Performance Computing

This course will use a blend of foundational understanding as well as a set of practical tools to gain insight into performance engineering of software. The course introduces techniques to gain performance boost in Java programs and C++ (or C) programs by discussing the use of multiple processors.

Outcome: Students will learn shared memory, message passing and hybrid models of programming in both tightly-coupled and loosely-coupled computer systems.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: COMP 313 or 413

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 468(3)  Course ID:002230  15-MAR-2006

Database System Design

The course covers both relational and object databases. Issues of physical storage and use of indexes as well as optimization of queries are discussed. The course also covers transaction processing, concurrency, data warehousing, data mining, and distributed databases.

Outcome: Students learn the theory and practice of advanced database design and implementation. They will also gain an understanding of using commercial database environments such as Oracle.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 469(3)  Course ID:013967  15-JUN-2019

Physical Design and Fabrication

This course explores how things are made, including: physical design vs. design on non-physical things; rapid prototyping; 3D printing; 2D conceptualization and sketching; modeling.

Outcomes: Student will be able to: Visualize ideas via sketching basic shapes; Create 3D models using 3D modeling software; Use a 3D Printer; Give constructive feedback in peer review sessions.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 476(3) Course ID:002235 15-JUN-2017
Automata & Formal Languages
Prerequisites: MATH 201 or MATH 212 or COMP 163

This course introduces formal language theory, including such topics as finite automata and regular expressions, pushdown automata and context-free grammars, Turing machines, undecidability, and the halting problem.

Outcome: An understanding of the theoretical underpinnings of computability and complexity in computer science.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: MATH 476
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 477(3) Course ID:009721 06-JUN-2018
IT Project Management

This course is an introduction to the philosophy and practice of project management. The course involves a student group project to investigate and plan a 'real world' IT project that specifies project objectives, schedules, work breakdown structure, and responsibilities, an written interim report, and a final oral and written report.

Outcome: Students will learn time management, work-flow management, and team dynamics to design, implement and test large-scale software projects.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 478(3) Course ID:002236 01-JAN-1901
Operations Rsrch Topics

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 479(3) Course ID:013534 01-JAN-2018
Machine Learning

Topics include a wide variety of supervised learning methods, both regression and classification, with an emphasis on those that perform well on large feature sets.

Outcomes: Students in this course will learn how to apply sophisticated algorithms to large data sets to make inferences for prediction or decision making.
Components: Lecture(Blended)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

COMP 480(3) Course ID:002237 15-JUN-2017
Computer Graphics
This course introduces advanced topics in modern theory and practices in 3-D computer graphics, stressing real-time interactive applications using libraries like OpenGL.

Outcome: Student will learn how to program real-time interactive applications using libraries like OpenGL.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

COMP 482(3) Course ID:002238 15-JUN-2017
Computer Sys Performance Eval

Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
Computational Biology
This course presents an algorithmic focus to problems in computational Biology. As such it is built on earlier courses on algorithms and bioinformatics. Current algorithmic approaches, software tools, and scientific literature are discussed.
Prerequisite: BIO 488

Outcomes: Students will learn, in detail, foundational methods and algorithms in bioinformatics.
Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Artificial Intelligence
This course advanced artificial intelligence concepts including theory, search techniques and programming.
Outcome: Student will learn the theory of artificial intelligence, search techniques, and be able to build small applications based on it.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Computational Neuroscience
Introduces computational methods to understand neural processing in the brain. Levels of representation from low-level, temporally precise neural circuits to systems-level rate-encoded models, to information-theoretic approaches. Emphasis on sensory systems, primarily vision and audition, most readily demonstrating the need for such computational techniques.
Prerequisite: COMP 150 or COMP 170 or COMP 180 or Permission of Instructor

Outcomes: Students will be able to adeptly apply mathematical and computational frameworks in the various domains of neuroscience.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Deep Learning
Deep learning is part of a broader family of machine learning methods based on artificial neural networks. This course will include key concepts of neural network algorithms as well as their applications in computer vision and natural language processing.
Prerequisites: COMP 479

Outcomes: Students will analyze popular modern neural architectures such as convolutional and recurrent neural networks, design and evaluate their own neural networks, and apply neural network models to a practical task
Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: COMP 479 with at least a C
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Computer Science Topics
This course is used to introduce emerging topics in computer science that do not yet have a regular course number. Content of the course varies.
Outcome: Understanding of an emerging area of Computer Science.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Telecommunications for Managers
This course introduces the basic concepts of data communications, telecommunications networks, and business applications of telecommunications technology, from a managerial perspective. Basic concepts covered include data communications hardware and software, transmission media, and network topology, with an emphasis on local area networks (LANs) and client server applications. Issues related to the management of LANs, wide area networks, and international telecommunications networks will be presented. The course will address technical and managerial issues related to the use of telecommunications for strategic advantage and its role in business organizations. Business cases involving the planning, designing, implementation, and management of communications networks in business organizations will be discussed.

Seminar in Undergraduate Research Methods

This seminar course offers undergraduate students the experiential opportunity to engage in research while building their foundation of research methods. Students may be part of the Loyola Undergraduate Research Opportunities Program (LUROP) through a funded fellowship, or students may be working independently with a faculty mentor (volunteering in a lab, working on a research team). All students must have a research project with a faculty mentor identified prior to enrolling in this course. As an experiential learning course, students will need to be engaging in research with a faculty mentor concurrently to taking this course. Students must work a minimum of 5 - 10 hours each week over the semester on their research projects (10 - 15 hours per week over the summer session). Students will reflect on research experience in the context of understanding research paradigms, application of research methodologies, understanding the implications of ethical research, and preparing to present research professionally. This course will provide students engaged

This is a seminar course for students leaders in approved co-curricular programs (e.g., ABI leaders, student organization executive board, Loyola4Chicago leaders, etc.). Students in this course will complete at least 100 hours in a leadership experience in the context of integrative leadership theory culminating in a portfolio to demonstrate holistic leadership capacity.

Outcomes:
1. Develop understanding of leadership theories, reflection on actions, and integrative leadership theories.
2. Enhance connection to the institution through leadership experience, and academic and professional learning and development.

The Scientific Basis of Environmental Issues

This is a foundational Tier I class; it is prerequisite to all Tier II science core classes.

The foundational course in science is predicated on the view that understanding environmental issues and their underlying scientific principles will occupy a central role in our students' lives and will be critical in their development as informed and participating members of society. The overarching strategy of the course will be to frame environmental science in terms of a series of interacting systems to allow students to analyze a variety of environmental issues.

Outcomes: 1) Exhibit knowledge of the nature of the four Earth systems 2) Draw inferences from evidence, constructing testable and falsifiable hypotheses and analyzing data. 3) Understand the role of energy and

University Core Writing Seminar: Writing Responsibly Writing Lab
Writing Lab for UCWR 110 Writing Responsibly. This workshop-based course supports the academic writing students are working on in UCWR 110. Will cover steps of brainstorming, peer review, revision and final editing in order to articulate, organize, and support positions. The course will promote grammatical, compositional, methodological and rhetorical skills in service of effective communication.

Enrollment Conditions: Students placed in this course by WPA score of 109/110.

Outcomes: Students will develop writing strategies including generating ideas, peer review, and revision. They will gain a fuller understanding of grammar, compositional and rhetorical skills, and how these benefit their success in the core UCWR 110 Writing Responsibly course.

CJC 391(3)  Course ID:014012  01-JAN-2022  Instructor Consent Required
Capstone Experience Research

The course will allow students to be actively engaged in a faculty member's research project, providing the student with an opportunity to apply the research skills that they already have and to acquire additional skills and knowledge about research design, statistical analysis, and writing research presentations, briefs, or papers.

Instructor approval required; major in criminal justice; junior or senior standing; Students must complete CJC 205: Research Methods (or equivalent) and four additional CJC courses.

The learning outcomes include: increasing knowledge about the research process from design, analysis, presentation, writing and policy implications.

Components: Practicum(In person)
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Requirement Group: Instructor approval required. Students must complete CJC 205: Research Methods (or equivalent) and four additional CJC courses.

CJC 396(1 - 6)  Course ID:002399  06-JUN-2018  Department Consent Required
Independent Study

This course provides students with the opportunity to examine a specific topic in the field of criminal justice that is currently not offered or available.

Outcome: Students will gain an in-depth understanding of a specific criminal justice topic through directed readings and independent study.

Components: Independent Study
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

CJC 399(3)  Course ID:002390  06-JUN-2018
Senior Capstone

This course is a culmination of the student's study of crime and criminal justice issues. It consists of projects aimed at integrating theory, knowledge, and research in the context of a variety of contemporary criminal justice problems, issues, and policies.

Outcomes: Students will apply all that they have learned throughout their criminal justice courses and apply this knowledge to demonstrate a sophisticated understanding of criminal justice professions, practices, and policy.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: 6 courses in Criminal Justice and Criminology
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

CJC 401(3)  Politics and Policies in the Criminal Justice System  15-JUN-2013

This course examines the interactional processes within and among the criminal justice system's components and their relationships to other public and private institutions. The role of politics in policy formulation, the policy making process, and the consequences of current policies on the operation of the criminal justice system are discussed.

Components: Seminar
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CJC 402(3)  Theories of Criminal Behavior  15-JUN-2013

This is a comparative review of dominant contemporary theories and research on the causes of crime and delinquency. Competing theories on the causes of crime are analyzed, and their empirical support and implications for prevention programs and interventions are discussed.

Outcomes: To analyze and discuss contemporary theories of criminal behavior.

Components: Seminar
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CJC 403(3)  Program Evaluation and Research  15-JUN-2013

This course provides students with the substantive knowledge to be critical consumers of research studies and program evaluations. Students learn how to critique the internal, construct, and external validity of program evaluations and data collection efforts that seek to understand criminal behavior or the operation of the criminal justice system.

Outcomes: To analyze and critique program evaluations and research designs.

Components: Performance(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CJC 404(4)  Applied Data Analysis and Interpretation  15-JUN-2022

Department Consent Required

Students learn the skills and knowledge necessary to be critical consumers of statistical information, which is often present in everyday criminal justice practice. Students learn how to generate and interpret statistical output using SPSS-PC, and learn which statistical tools are appropriate for specific measures and research questions.

Outcomes:
To select the correct statistical tools and interpret output
To write statistical information
To conduct SPSS-PC

Components: Seminar(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

CJC 405(3)  Professional Ethics  15-JUN-2013

The course defines the ethical responsibilities and explores the ethical dilemmas faced by police, court, and corrections officials. Moral theories are discussed. Students critically analyze their own and others' beliefs. They learn how to think constructively about ethical dilemmas, and how to articulate the inherent ethical issues in the field of criminal justice.

Outcomes: To analyze moral dilemmas and ethical situations that professionals may face.

Components: Seminar(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Applied Research in Criminal Justice and Criminology
This is a student-initiated research course, supervised by the instructor. Students will conduct applied research that informs the policies or practices of a stakeholder group or criminal justice agency. This course encourages advanced students to approach the multifaceted problem of research as a set of interrelated issues ranging from tasks of concept formation and theory construction through research design and data collection to the assessment and analysis of the generated data.

Pre-requisites: CJC 401, CJC 402, CJC 403, and CJC 404

Outcomes: Students should be able to synthesize criminological theory, criminal justice policy, research methods, and data analysis into a final applied research project.

Components: Pre-requisite: CJC 401, CJC 402, CJC 403, and CJC 404
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: CJC 401, CJC 402, CJC 403, and CJC 404
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Advanced Topics in Criminology
Variable topics on theories or contemporary issues concerning criminal and victim behavior. Examples of topics include: Drugs and Violence; Gender and Crime; Intimate Partner Violence; Sexual Violence; Human Trafficking; Environmental Crime; Victimology; International Criminology; Advanced Criminology; Race, Ethnicity, and Crime.

Components: Seminar(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: CRMJ 402, Graduate students only
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Advanced Topics in Policing
An advanced topics umbrella course for special and contemporary topics in the field of policing, including community- and problem-oriented policing, situational crime prevention, crime analysis, and Comp-Stat approaches to policing practice and management.

Components: Seminar(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Advanced Topics in Courts
Variable topics on contemporary issues in courts. Examples of topics include: International Criminal Law and Anti-Terrorism Enforcement, The American Jury; Death Penalty; International Criminal Law; Public Views of Justice; Media, Culture, and Criminal Law; Legal Rights of Children.

Outcomes: Varies by topic.

Components: Seminar(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Advanced Topics in Corrections
An advanced topics umbrella course for special and contemporary topics in the field of corrections. Examples of graduate courses that will be offered as special topics courses under CRMJ 413 include: Principles of Punishment, Sentencing Policy, Restorative Justice, Risk Assessment, Re-Entry, What Works in Corrections, Mass Incarceration, and Juvenile Corrections.

Components: Seminar(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
CJC 414(3)  Course ID:002420  01-JAN-2021

General Special Topics
Special topic course titles will vary, and will cover issues that do not fit within the four advanced topics areas of criminology, policing, courts, and corrections. Topics may include: Crime Mapping; Social Psychology and the Criminal Justice System; Prejudice, Hate, and the Justice System.

Outcomes: To analyze and discuss topics in criminal justice.

Components:
- Seminar(In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CJC 415(3)  Course ID:002410  15-JUN-2013

Mental Illness and Crime
Prerequisites: Graduate students only

This course explores the relationship of mental illness to crime and violence, the policies and programs concerning the treatment of individuals with mental illness in the criminal justice system, including the nature, prevalence and consequences of mental disorder among criminal offenders.

Components:
- Seminar(In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Forensic Science and the Criminal Justice System
Graduate Students Only.

This course introduces the basic principles and applications of the biological, chemical, physical, medical and behavioral sciences currently practiced and the limitations of the modern crime laboratory. The course then explores uses of forensic science and the applicability to the criminal justice system. Current issues, examples, and presentations are integrated into course material.

Outcomes: Understand the basic concepts, strengths, limitations and challenges of the forensic sciences discipline, the application of the forensic sciences to the management, operations, and policies of criminal justice system, from crime scene processing through adjudication.

Components:
- Seminar(In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CJC 499(1 - 6)  Course ID:002421  06-JUN-2018

Independent Study
Working with a member of the graduate faculty, this course provides students with the opportunity to examine a specific topic in the field of criminal justice through directed readings, interviews, and the completion of a major research paper related to the topic.

Students will gain an in-depth understanding of a specific criminal justice topic through directed readings and independent study.

Forensic Molecular Biology Lecture and Laboratory
This course prepares students to work in forensic DNA analysis. The lectures cover the basic aspects of DNA structure and function while the laboratory gives students experience with the techniques and instruments used in forensic DNA analysis.

Prerequisites: BIOL 282, BIOL 283, FRSC 342, FRSC 370, FRSC 370L; Forensic Science Majors only - Biology/DNA Option

Outcomes: Students will have a strong theoretical understanding of STR marker origin, population biology, and legal uses, and will be able to isolate and process DNA for STR scoring.

Components: Laboratory (In person), Lecture (In person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 391
Attributes: Forensic Science

Forensic Science Seminar
A weekly seminar course with presentations, generally given by outside speakers, covering topics in chemistry usually not encountered in the classroom.
Forensic Science Majors Only

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate their understanding by writing a one page summary of each presentation.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Restricted to Forensic Science majors.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Forensic Science Research
This course gives undergraduate students an opportunity to participate in research in a selected area.
Forensic Science Majors Only

Prerequisites: Prior consultation with the instructor and a completed agreement form. Agreement forms for this directed study course are obtained from the program office, and the completed form (signed by the student, instructor, and program director) must be deposited in the program office before

Outcomes: Students will accomplish the research task defined in the contractual arrangement between the student and the instructor.

BIOI 300 (1 - 3)
Directed Readings
Readings from the scientific literature in any focused area of bioinformatics agreed upon by the student and the supervising faculty member.
Outcome: Students will gain knowledge, journal reading expertise, and scientific writing skills.
Components: Independent Study (In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

BIOI 365 (3)
Exploring Proteins
Computational tools are essential for the prediction of protein structures, protein interactions, and structure based drug design. This class will introduce fundamental concepts in the field of computational protein biology.
Prerequisite: Bioinformatics Majors only; prerequisite: CHEM 361
Outcomes: Students will obtain a general understanding of the principles of proteomics in addition to theoretical and practical experience with protein-based databases and bioinformatics tools to explore protein structure and function.
Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Bioinformatics Majors only; prerequisite: CHEM 361
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

BIOI 395 (1 - 3)
Special Topics: Bioinformatics
Special areas of bioinformatics outside the usual curriculum that vary each time the course is offered.
Outcome: Students will gain knowledge in and master a unique topic in bioinformatics.

BIOI 500(3)  Course ID:013480  15-JUN-2020
Advanced Bioinformatics
Students will study fundamental bioinformatics algorithms and emerging software tools in the field. The course will include the study of primary literature and design and implementation of bioinformatics algorithms.

Prerequisites - BIOL 388 or BIOL 488

Outcomes - Students can describe, design, implement, and evaluate bioinformatics algorithms.

Components: Discussion(In person), Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 450

| DANC 380(1) | 013353    | 15-JUN-2017|                           | Senior Showcase Capstone
Restricted to Senior Dance Majors.
This course serves as the capstone of the Dance major and creates a platform for dancers to apply technical skills, theory and practice from many required courses for the Bachelor of Arts including DANC 341/343 Majors Ballet, DANC 321 Majors Modern, DANC 323 Rehearsal and Performance and DANC 370 Dance Composition.
Outcomes: Dance majors will apply and synthesize all applied technique courses taken for their dance majors as well as integrate their knowledge of the choreographic and performance process.
Components: Performance(In person)
Req. Designation: Public Performance
Room Requirements: Dance Studio(1) |
| DANC 394(1 - 12) | 011170 | 01-APR-2020 | Department Consent Required | Internship in Dance
Dance students complete a semester long internship providing an opportunity to use their technical, research or organizations skills in a professional setting. Students must complete and reflect upon 50 hours of internship experience per credit hour that is pre-approved by the Department of Fine and Performing Arts. Department permission is required.
Outcome: Students gain professional experience working at a dance organization while reflecting on their work experience and applying theories and techniques acquired from their first dance courses.
Components: Field Studies
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1) |
| DANC 395(1 - 12) | 010305 | 01-APR-2020 | Department Consent Required | Independent Study
Prerequisite: Written permission of chairperson
Independent study projects may be of various kinds and in any recognized area of the dance. Such projects should be done under the close supervision of a dance faculty member.
Outcome: To be determined by the student in consultation with the chairperson and dance faculty supervisor.
Components: Independent Study(Independent Study)
Req. Designation: Internship |
| DANC 397(1 - 12) | 011171 | 06-JUN-2018 | Department Consent Required | Fieldwork in Chicago - Dance
Variable credit (1-6 hours) given for performances or projects undertaken with professional dance organizations outside the university. Students keep a journal and write evaluative papers. Permission of the Department of Fine and Performing Arts Required. Repeatable for up to 6 credit hours, however no more than 6 credit hours of Internship or Fieldwork can be applied to the major.
Outcome: Specific outcomes and credit hours assigned to be determined by the student in consultation with the Director of Dance and the project supervisor.
Components: Field Studies(In person)
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1) |
Faculty serve as mentors for dance students pursuing research opportunities. Platforms cross various domains in cognitive, psychomotor, and artistic development. Students and faculty work together to generate qualitative and quantitative data documented in multiple modalities including: dancemaking, regression analyses, interviews, correlational and case studies. This course satisfies the Engaged Learning-Undergraduate Research requirement.

Outcomes: Students will learn discipline-specific language skills, research ethics and methodologies. Students will gain valuable skills disseminating research through performances, scholarly articles,

Foundations of Visual Art
Explores some of the fundamental principles, concepts, and historical and contemporary contexts that constitute a contemporary art practice. Provides experience across a range of modes of art making while emphasizing the basic concepts that underlie visual expression. Studio activity is augmented with research, discussion, and critique.

Outcomes: Explore and express visual concepts. Develop creative competencies. Utilize design elements to communicate themes and ideas. Expand cognitive capacities. Comprehend historical and contemporary approaches to visual art.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 112(3)
Course ID:003044  06-JUN-2018

Two-Dimensional Design
An examination of the basic elements and organizational systems of visual expression through the application of design principles and theory.

Outcome: Students will be able manipulate various forms of media to produce desired spatial effects, and understand how to control by- using such design methods as scale, perspective, and composition - the viewer's understanding of and reaction to visual information on a two-dimensional surface.

Components:
- Lecture
- Course Equivalents: ACFNA 112
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Drawing I
An introduction to the basic elements of drawing including: line, value, texture, volume, shape, proportion, perspective and visual composition. A variety of drawing materials will be explored with an emphasis on observation problems designed to build technical, perceptual, and personal expressive interpretation of form through the drawing idiom.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of basic drawing principles and vocabulary, through practice and articulation of both formal and artistic ideas.

Components:
- Lecture
- Attributes: Artistic Knowledge and Experience
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Foundations of Photography
This course introduces photography as a form of visual art. Students learn the technical concepts in order to develop their ability to express ideas through photography. The course also emphasizes strengthening visual literacy through lectures, discussions, and critiques.

Requirements: A fully adjustable digital camera (DSLR) and an external hard drive are required.

Outcomes: Students will learn how to formulate and communicate ideas through photography. The course focuses on building the students' visual literacy and understanding of photography as a form of visual art.

Components:
- Lecture
- Course Equivalents: ICVM 115
- Attributes: Artistic Knowledge and Experience, Film & Digital Media Studies, International Film & Media Studies
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Lab - Mac(1)
Printmaking I

An exploration of the production of fine art multiples as they are created utilizing zinc and copper plates. Techniques of etching and engraving aquatint and color printing as well as innovative processes are taught.

Outcome: Students will demonstrate understanding of the techniques needed to produce images on metal plates and alternative surface; the intrinsic qualities particular to expression in print media, recognize fine prints, specific techniques, and archival quality in historical examples, use intaglio presses as a means of production and form evaluative judgments about printed imagery.

Components: Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

---

Ceramics: Handbuilding

An exploration of various handbuilding techniques, surface design techniques, and firing ranges available to the contemporary ceramist. Students are encouraged to pursue individual expression in the context of a broad range of methods and creative concepts.

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate the basics of successful construction and glaze techniques; demonstrate creative strategies and critical evaluation of the creative process; demonstrate an understanding of both historical and contemporary approaches to the medium and the role of the Ceramic artist in cultures past and present.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Artistic Knowledge and Experience

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

---

Ceramics: Wheelthrowing

An introduction to the potters' wheel. Students learn basic throwing skills, explore utilitarian design concepts, and learn to balance spontaneous and practiced approaches to process. Emphasis is on the successful integration of craft and personal expression.

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate basic wheelthrowing and glaze techniques; demonstrate creative strategies and critical evaluation of the creative process; demonstrate an understanding of both historical and contemporary approaches to the medium and the role of the Ceramic artist in cultures past and present.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Artistic Knowledge and Experience

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

---

Metalwork and Jewelry I

The methods and processes of construction using nonferrous metals applied to problems in design and function. Projects are designed to familiarize the student with processes in metalwork and the proper use of hand tools.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate an understanding of the fundamental characteristics of metal; the ability to cut, shape and manipulate metals; to express visual ideas in low and high relief; and to form judgments about design on other than flat surfaces.

Components: Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

---

Sculpture Foundations

An introduction to three dimensional concepts and materials, and associated techniques, in the process of articulating a personal artistic statement. Students will be guided in the fabrication of various 3-D constructions employing a wide range of building materials such as plaster, wood, clay, foam board, paper, and metals.

Outcomes: Students will be able to translate two-dimensional sketches and drawings into expressive three dimensional forms; demonstrate basic sculpting techniques and creative strategies; provide critical evaluation of the creative process; and produce objects that are viewable in the round, structurally stable with masses and appendages proportionate to one another.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Artistic Knowledge and Experience

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)
Visual Communication I
Course focus: This course initiates a professional sequence whereby the student receives an introduction to composition, typography, and historical and contemporary concepts in visual communication. It introduces students to page layout software (Adobe InDesign), its relationship to other software packages, and the technical aspects of digital typography.

Learning outcomes: Students gain an understanding of fundamental principles of visual communication emphasizing typography, the development technical skills in materials and techniques, and the ability to express formal and creative ideas.

Components: Lecture

Room Requirements:

The Crafts of China
Course ID: 010772
Course focus: This course examines the artisan crafts of China historically and technically. The course explores how and why the crafts appeared, their historical trajectory and demonstrates how the crafts improved technically. Ceramics, Bronze Castings and Wood works will serve as prototypes. Students will undertake independent researches.

Outcome: Students will identify how the crafts of woodwork, bronze casting and ceramics evolved and how they are currently practiced in China. Students will articulate an understanding of the function of craft in Chinese culture as well compare and contrast it to the function craft in their own culture.

Components: Lecture

Room Requirements:

Three-Dimensional Design
Course focus: An examination of the basic elements and organizational systems of spatial expression through the application of design principles and theory.

Outcome: Students will be able work with a variety of materials to produce three-dimensional objects in space, and understand how to control the viewer's reaction to those objects through the manipulation of solidity, transparency, movement and time.

Components: Lecture

Room Requirements:

Color Theory
Course focus: An examination of the nature of subtractive and additive color in its physiological, psychological, aesthetic, cultural, and symbolic dimensions through the application of past and current theory. Emphasis is placed on color mixing, color relationships, and understanding color terminology.

Students develop proficiency using color in their work as well as gaining a fundamental understanding of the basic visual, aesthetic, and theoretical considerations of color use in art & design.

Components: Lecture

Room Requirements:

Topics in Fine Arts Pre-Collegiate
Course focus: This course consists of special topics in specific Fine Arts areas, and is offered for the Pre-Collegiate student.

Outcome: While the specific area of study varies, the expectation is that the student will become familiar with the methods, materials and aesthetic properties of that artistic approach, as well as the technical means to control the expression.

Components: Lecture

Room Requirements:

Restriction Group: Class restricted to Pre-Collegiate Summer Scholars.

Photography: Film and Darkroom
Prerequisite: FNAR 115 Foundations of Photography or Instructor Permission. A fully adjustable 35mm film camera (single-lens reflex camera) is required.

This course expands the students' knowledge of the photographic medium by introducing black and white film and darkroom printing. The students explore how the process and aesthetics of traditional black and white film make it unique from digital photography.

Outcomes: The course covers the steps of working in a darkroom environment, from the use of the enlargers to processing an exposed print. The students will apply the process and aesthetic qualities that are distinct to black and white film photography in their own projects.

Components:
- Performance(In person)

Attributes: Film & Digital Media Studies, International Film & Media Studies

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 115 Foundations of Photography or Instructor Permission. A fully adjustable 35mm film camera (single-lens reflex camera) is required.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 218(3)  Course ID:003074  15-JUN-2022
Printmaking II
Prerequisite: FNAR 118

This course explores specialized work in intaglio, monotypes, and mixed media. Emphasis is placed on the development and perfecting of technique.

Outcome: Students demonstrate understanding of mixed-media printing; knowledge of a wide range of printmaking media; apply drawing concepts to the materials of printmaking; produce a consistent body of work in a complex medium; recognize historical prototypes and articulate the differences to others; and form judgments needed to adapt image making in a highly technical area of expression.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 118

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 219(3)  Course ID:009875  15-JUN-2022
Photography: Digital Imaging
Prerequisite: FNAR 115 - Foundations of Photography. A fully adjustable digital camera (DSLR) and an external hard drive are required.

The course focuses on advanced editing techniques in Photoshop in regards to color correction, color management, image compositing, and image manipulation. Students will also learn the technical and aesthetic concepts that are crucial components of the digital workflow to further develop their visual languages as photographic artists.

Outcomes: Students learn more complex editing in Photoshop, how to operate a professional inkjet printer and the importance of paper selection. The course examines possibilities with digital technology.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Attributes: Film & Digital Media Studies, International Film & Media Studies

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 115

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Mac(1)
Ceramic Science

An examination of practical and experimental approaches to applied chemistry as it relates to the ceramic arts. Students will learn the theory behind clay and glaze formulation, test a wide array of materials interactions; and learn practical skills in developing vitreous bodies, glass forming substances, and metallic oxide pigments.

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of inorganic compounds and their useful combinations in formulating ceramic bodies, glazes, and pigments; demonstrate knowledge of the effects of firing temperature and atmosphere on ceramic formulations; demonstrate knowledge of safe lab practices in the ceramics studio.

Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Sculpture/Ceramics: Form & Function

Expands student knowledge of materials, techniques and concepts of three-dimensional artwork. Explores the interrelationship between art, craft and design. Emphasizes the function of three-dimensional artworks historically and in contemporary practice. Visual and written research, personal reflection and group discussion are components of the course.

Prerequisite: FNAR 124 Sculpture Foundations and FNAR 120 Ceramics: Handbuilding or FNAR 121 Ceramics: Wheelthrowing or instructor permission.

Outcomes: Students develop technical, aesthetic, and conceptual strategies in the creation of three-dimensional artwork, and increased awareness of cultural / historical perspectives of the medium.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 124 and (FNAR 120 or FNAR 121)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

---

Metalwork and Jewelry II

Prerequisite: FNAR 123
Advanced work in metalwork and jewelry including problems in the techniques of lost wax casting and enameling.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate the ability to control materials with the addition of stones, found objects and other materials; design and cast works in the round; design a work and see it through from production to completion, and demonstrate knowledge of a wide range of metalwork techniques and their decorative and design potential.

Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Sculpture/Ceramics: Multiples

Expands student knowledge of materials, techniques and concepts of three-dimensional artwork. Examines traditional and experimental methodologies of moldemaking, mold making, and casting. Explores the conceptual possibilities for reproduction and multiplication in sculpture and ceramics. Visual and written research, personal reflection and group discussion are components of the course.

Prerequisite: FNAR 124 Sculpture Foundations and FNAR 120 Ceramics: Handbuilding or FNAR 121 Ceramics: Wheelthrowing or instructor permission.

Outcomes: Students develop technical, aesthetic, and conceptual strategies in the creation of three-dimensional artwork, and increased awareness of cultural / historical perspectives of the medium.

Components: Performance(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 124 and (FNAR 120 or FNAR 121)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)
FNAR 232(3)

Course ID: 003081
Date: 15-JUN-2022

Visual Communication II

Course focus: A continued study of the visual and conceptual principles introduced in FNAR 132 with an emphasis on advanced typographic principles and an introduction to the history of graphic design.

Prerequisite: FNAR 132 Visual Communication I

Learning outcomes: Students gain knowledge of graphic design history and advance in their understanding of typography and imagery in the problem-solving processes in graphic design, including the further development of conceptual skills.

- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 132.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

---

FNAR 233(3)

Course ID: 003082
Date: 15-JUN-2022

Digital Media Design

An exploration of image creation and design using Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Illustrator. This industry standard software is introduced as a vehicle for basic design concepts and as a tool for creative expression.

Outcomes: Students gain an understanding of software skills and design basics. They develop the ability and techniques to manipulate software in the production of compositions effectively combining image and typography.

- Components: Lecture(In person)
- Attributes: Film & Digital Media Studies, International Film & Media Studies
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

Course ID: 003083

Figure Studio

Prerequisite: FNAR 113 or FNAR 114 or permission of the instructor

An advanced level studio course designed to introduce the human form with an emphasis on the application of drawing and wet media. Skeletal anatomy and concepts of visualization and proportion will be explored. Observational and conceptual problems will be introduced. The course may be taken twice for credit.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of the human form and anatomy through expanded practice and articulation of both formal and artistic ideas.

- Components: Lecture
- Course Equivalents: THTR 235
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

---

FNAR 251(3)

Course ID: 003085
Date: 01-JAN-2016

African-American Art

An introduction to the achievements of Americans of African descent beginning with African roots through the Harlem Renaissance to the contemporary work of such internationally recognized artists as Richard Hunt and Martin Puryear. Content may vary according to the particular focus of the instructor.

Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the richness of African-American visual arts as they developed within and outside the purview of traditional art venues.

- Components: Lecture
- Course Equivalents: APR 251
- Attributes: African Studies and the African Diaspora, Black World Studies
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
FNAR 260(3)  Course ID:003086  01-JAN-2016
The Art of Bookbinding
An introduction to the basic methods of bookbinding exploring traditional and one-of-a-kind artists books. Sewn, glued and free form structures will form the basis for the study of image and text within the framework of a personal approach to alternative surfaces.
Outcomes: Students will be able to construct and manipulate a wide variety of media using the grammar and language of the book form. Through selected projects students will utilize compositional elements and descriptive to communicate ideas and concepts in book form.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 303(3)  Course ID:014145  15-JUN-2021
Visual Arts Pedagogy
This course explores the ideas of teaching and learning through the visual arts and arts integration as they pertain to teaching artists. Coursework includes lecture and discussion, readings, model teaching, and teaching artist visits. Students will learn art pedagogy, classroom management techniques, and to develop their ideas into a curricular format.
Outcomes: Students will recognize perspectives and theories around learning through the visual arts, identify appropriate teaching content and techniques, and design appropriate visual arts lessons, aligning content and standards.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 304(3)  Course ID:009846  06-JUN-2018
Paris in the Nineteenth Century
An examination of Nineteenth Century art in Paris as shaped by contemporary changes in the physical, social and economic life of the city.
Outcome: Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of nineteenth century art and artists in the context of the emergence of a modern, industrial urban complex.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: European Studies
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

FNAR 305(3)  Course ID:003090  01-JAN-2016
American Art to 1945
An examination of American painting, sculpture, and architecture from the colonial period to the period immediately following World War II. Emphasis is placed on the development of specifically American art forms as they evolved from their dependency upon European sources.
Outcome: Students will be able to recognize and demonstrate knowledge of major artists and artistic movements from the earliest days of the Republic when Europe served as a source of training and inspiration to the beginnings of modern times when global developments shifted the focus of artistic inspiration to New York.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

FNAR 306(3)  Course ID:003091  06-JUN-2018
Contemporary Art 1945-Present
An examination of recent developments in American and European art beginning with the physical shift of the center of artistic authority from Paris to New York during and immediately after World War II.
Outcome: Students will be able to recognize and demonstrate knowledge of major artists and artistic movements from the mid-twentieth century to the present day. They will also understand the major theoretical issues of the period.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
Advanced Studio
Prerequisite: FNAR 213 or FNAR 214 or equivalent

The most advanced level studio course in painting and drawing and is designed to aid the student in developing a body of creative work from conception to production to presentation. This course is conducted as an individual studio practicum between the instructor and student. The course may be taken twice for credit.

Outcome: Students will demonstrate a strong understanding of their own creative process through the development of a cohesive body of work.

Components:
- Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Design III
Prerequisite: FNAR 170

An application of two- and three-dimensional principles and methodologies to advanced studio projects in fine and applied areas.

Outcomes: Students will be able to develop a series of multi-dimensional structures that utilize planar and spatial techniques to communicate a body of information and sensory experiences to others.

Components:
- Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Painting III
Prerequisites: FNAR 114 and 214

An advanced level painting course designed to extend the understanding of the application of drawing, design, and color principles introduced in FNAR 114 and expanded in FNAR 214. This course will explore a range of painting materials and substrates. Emphasis is placed on critique and the development of conceptual problems to build technical, perceptual, and personal expressive interpretation. Outcome

Students will develop a body of work through expanded practice and articulation of both formal and artistic ideas.

Components:
- Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Photography: Advanced Darkroom
Prerequisite FNAR 215-Photography: Film and Darkroom or FNAR 219-Photography:Digital Imaging or Instructor permission

This advanced course encourages each student to synthesize the technical and creative concepts they have learned through the previous classes to develop a cohesive body of work that will form a portfolio.

Outcomes: Students will learn to use medium and large format cameras, scan film and integrate analog photography into a digital workflow to produce high-resolution prints, developing a cohesive body of work.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 215 or FNAR 219

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

Printmaking III
Prerequisite: FNAR 218

A continued exploration of Printmaking I, II which enables the student to enhance technical and conceptual skills in printmaking mediums.

Outcome: Through selected projects students will demonstrate knowledge of contemporary trends in printmaking including new digital media and photomechanical processes. They will acquire analysis skills and functional critical knowledge of the grammar and language of prints.

Components:
- Lecture

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)
FNAR 319(3) Course ID:011522  15-JUN-2022

Lighting Techniques
Prerequisite FNAR 219-Photography: Digital Imaging or Instructor permission. A fully adjustable digital camera (DSLR) and an external hard drive are required.

An advanced course that introduces students to techniques with both available and artificial lights. The students learn how the understanding and control of lighting becomes an essential component in the creation of photographic images.

Outcomes: Students learn the equipment, materials, and techniques in shooting with available and artificial lights in the creation of photographic works that will creatively apply the technical concepts covered in the course.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: FNAR 219
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 322(3) Course ID:009859  15-JUN-2019

Sculpture/Ceramics: Advanced Studio
Students focus on developing independent, compelling art, through a more focused approach in comparison to Intermediate courses. Visual and written research and field trips are components, as is personal reflection and group discussion. Technical experiments and key concepts are geared specifically to the students interests and artistic goals.

Prerequisite: FNAR 222 and FNAR 224 or permission of instructor

Outcomes: Select and apply appropriate materials and methods to resolve complex visual and conceptual problems; and meaningfully discuss key issues. Create a portfolio of work build on independent investigation.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 332(3) Course ID:003103  15-JUN-2022

Visual Communication III
Course focus: This course includes the continued study of contemporary graphic design practice and further work in design with emphasis on analytical and creative approaches to problem solving across many types of media. Students are exposed to current best practices for effective self-promotion.

Prerequisite: FNAR 232 Visual Communication II

Learning outcomes: Students gain an understanding of how contemporary design is used to communicate. They begin to develop a sophisticated body of work, advancing in their ability to critically evaluate visual communication.

Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Studio - Fine Arts(1)

FNAR 333(3) Course ID:003104  15-JUN-2022

Explorations in Typography
Students explore both practical and experimental solutions utilizing typography as a means of communication and language visualization; investigating multifaceted modes of expression with emphasis placed on the study and creation of meaning relative to audience, culture, and history.

Pre-requisite: FNAR 232

Outcomes: Students develop a heightened awareness of the nuanced role that typography plays as a delivery mechanism for narrative structures, information, language visualization, and alternate forms of expression.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: FNAR 232
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)
Motion Design
An exploration of time-based motion graphics. Industry standard software is utilized as a vehicle for learning graphic animation concepts and as a tool for creative expression.

Outcomes: Students gain an understanding of software skills and design basics. They develop the ability and techniques to manipulate software in the production of motion graphics effectively combining image and typography.

Components: Lecture (in person)
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer (1)

College Composition ESL 1
English 102 is the first of a two-course sequence designed to improve the linguistic abilities of those for whom English is a second language. This course provides grammar and writing instruction for students who require more focused work in revising language usage and composing than English 103 can provide. Placement required.
Outcome: Students will develop skill in: writing essays that develop a clearly-stated governing idea and that provide relevant support for that idea; proceeding through all stages of the writing process: prewriting, drafting, and revising, with emphasis on improving language usage; editing their own compositions, and working with other students in peer-editing groups; consistently employing English-language grammar, usage, and punctuation.

Prerequisites: UCWR 110 and any 200-level English course.

Postmodernism, as an aesthetic response to postmodernity, is an interdisciplinary concept, originating in architecture and encompassing literature, art in various media, digital media, and literary and cultural theory. Focusing primarily on Western literature and theory after WWII, this course investigates postmodernism as a literary period, an aesthetic style, an historical moment, and a cultural problematic.

Outcomes: Students will learn how the term "postmodernism" functions as a literary period, an aesthetic style, an historical moment, a cultural problematic, as well as a theoretical imperative.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: UCWR 110 and one 200-level English course.

College of Arts and Sciences - Engineering - Subject: Engineering

ENGR 100(1)  Course ID:013444  15-JUN-2022

Engineering Design Fundamentals

Restricted to students transferring into Engineering Science.

This course provides an introduction to engineering design for students transferring into Engineering Science, who have completed an external Engineering Graphics course. Major topics include engineering estimation, 2k factorial design, teamwork, engineering ethics, and requirement specifications.

Outcomes: Demonstration of proficiency in engineering design.

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Engineering Science students
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab(1)

ENGR 101(4)  Course ID:013070  15-JUN-2022

Introduction to Engineering Design

Restricted to School of Engineering students.

This course is the first of four engineering design courses in the Engineering Science curriculum. Major topics in this course include engineering estimation, three dimensional computer-aided design, 2k factorial design, teamwork, engineering ethics, requirement specifications, and design iteration.

Outcomes:
1. Demonstration of proficiency in engineering design.
2. Application of teamwork principles to an open-ended design project.

- Components: Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Engineering Science Majors
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab(1)

ENGR 102(1)  Course ID:013206  15-JUN-2022

Engineering Science Freshman Seminar

This seminar offers a shared learning experience with an assignment of a service project and exposure to Industrial Advisory Board members and Loyola administrators and faculty. In addition to providing intellectual enhancement to the program, these seminars give us a time and place to regularly interact. This class is restricted to Engineering Science freshman.

Outcomes: Encourage bonding through a service project, stimulate thoughtful interaction, provide connections with the faculty, and connect to the broader industry community.

- Components: Seminar (In person)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 101 with a minimum grade of "C-"; Restricted to Engineering Science freshman students
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab(1)

ENGR 201(3)  Course ID:013143  15-JUN-2022

Experiential Engineering

This course introduces students to environmental, biomedical and computer engineering-based sensors and signal analysis techniques. Major topics in this course include an introduction to common biomedical sensors, electronics, signals, sampling, analog-to-digital conversion, C programming, microcontroller system architectures, and microcontroller programming.

Restricted to Applied Mathematics majors OR restricted to Engineering Science majors with prerequisites (minimum C-) ENGR 101, COMP 170, PHYS 112K, and concurrent enrollment in CHEM 171.

Outcomes: Provide an experiential environment to learn about instrumentation and sensors in biomedical, computer and environmental engineering. Introduce complex devices and systems to understand, measure and

- Components: Laboratory (In person)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisites: ENGR 101, COMP 170, PHYS 112K, each with a minimum grade of C-. Co-requisite: CHEM 171

- Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)
ENGR 311(3)
Course ID: 013144  15-JUN-2022

Engineering Systems I
ENGR 311 covers the fundamentals of signal and system analysis, focusing on representations of discrete-time and continuous-time signals and representations of linear, time-invariant systems. Major topics in this course include convolution, Fourier series, Fourier Transform, and unit impulse and unit step functions. Applications are drawn broadly from engineering and physics.

Restricted to Applied Mathematics and Engineering Science majors. Prerequisite: ENGR 201 with a minimum grade of C-. Concurrent enrollment in MATH 266 (Engineering Science majors only).

Outcome: Understand basic concepts of discrete and continuous time signals. Employ Fourier analysis to analyze simple LTI systems. Proficiently use MATLAB as a numerical analysis tool.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 201 with a minimum grade of C-, Co-requisite: Math 266 (Engineering Science majors only)

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENGR 312(3)
Course ID: 013145  15-JUN-2022

Engineering Systems II
ENGR 312 introduces numerical methods and control systems theory. Students are exposed to root finding, numerical integration and differentiation, numerical solutions to ODEs, curve fitting and regression techniques, classical control system theory methods (Laplace transforms and transfer functions, root locus design, Routh-Hurwitz stability analysis, Bode and Nyquist plots) and the state variable method (controllability and observability).

Restricted to Engineering Science and Applied Mathematics majors. Prerequisites: ENGR 311 with a minimum grade of C-.

Outcomes: Understand the concepts of numerical methods, their strengths and weaknesses. Use MATLAB as a tool for numerical analysis.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 311 with a minimum grade of C-. Restricted to Engineering Science and Applied Mathematics majors

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENGR 313(3)
Course ID: 013146  15-JUN-2022

Engineering Systems III
This course is an introduction to discrete-time signal processing and system identification. Major topics include the z-transform, infinite/finite impulse response filters, discrete/fast Fourier transform, models of linear time-invariant systems, and parameter estimation methods.

Restricted to Applied Math and Engineering Science majors. Prerequisite: ENGR 312 with a minimum grade of C-.

Outcomes: Reinforce fundamental knowledge of signal processing concepts. Execute discrete-time signal processing techniques. Solve real-world problems through use of modeling, prediction, and estimation methods.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 312 with a minimum grade of C-. Restricted to Engineering Science and Applied Mathematics majors

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENGR 321(2)
Course ID: 013147  15-JUN-2022

Electronic Circuits and Devices
This course is an introduction to electronic circuits and devices. Major topics in this course include an introduction to Ohm's Law, Kirchhoff's Current Law, Kirchhoff's Voltage Law, Nodal and Loop analysis, Thevenin's and Norton's Theorems, and alternating current steady-state analysis.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. ENGR 201, PHYS 112K with a minimum grade of C-, concurrent enrollment in ENGR 311, MATH 266.

Outcomes: Define and explain the terminology associated with linear circuit theory. Identify and solve linear circuits utilizing the most appropriate method for the analysis.

Components: Lecture(Blended)
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: ENGR 201, PHYS 112K each with minimum grade of C-. Co-requisite: ENGR 311 & MATH 266.

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
ENGR 322(3)
Course ID: 013142
15-JUN-2022
Chemical & Thermal Processes
This course provides an introduction to basic chemical and thermal processes. Major topics include open and closed systems, control volumes, microscopic vs. macroscopic, mass and energy balances, first and second laws of thermodynamics, entropy balance, exergy balance, thermodynamic cycles, thermodynamic property relations, gas laws, and chemical thermodynamics.
Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisites: MATH 266, CHEM 171, ENGR 321, each with a minimum grade of C-. Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 324L.
Outcomes: Describe engineering systems and cycles using mass and energy conservation laws, quantify chemical and thermodynamic properties of pure substances, and analyze thermodynamics cycles and processes.

ENGR 323(2)
Course ID: 013148
15-JUN-2022
Digital Electronic & Computer Engineering
This course is an introduction to digital design. Major topics in this course include, but is not limited to, binary conversions, logic gates, combinational logic design, sequential logic design, microprocessor architecture, and an introduction to hardware description languages.
Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisite: ENGR 321 with a minimum grade of C-. Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 324L.
Outcomes: Understand the fundamental building blocks of digital systems. Understand and apply knowledge in the implementation and design of digital circuits.

ENGR 324(3)
Course ID: 013149
15-JUN-2022
Mechanics
Mechanics covers the fundamentals of modeling continuous media. Major topics include stress, strain, and constitutive relations; elements of tensor analysis; basic applications of solid and fluid mechanics; and application of conservation laws to control volumes.
PREREQUISITES: ENGR 311 with a minimum grade of C-, concurrent enrollment in ENGR 324L.
Outcomes: Construct free-body diagrams to undertake structural analysis. Apply the laws of conservation to solve engineering problems.

ENGR 324L(1)
Course ID: 013150
15-JUN-2022
Core Engineering Lab
This lab course enables students to experiment with concepts learned in concurrently taken core engineering courses ENGR 322, ENGR 323 and ENGR 324.
Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisites: ENGR 311 with a minimum grade of C-. Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 322, ENGR 323, and ENGR 324.
Materials Engineering

Course ID: ENGR 325(3)
Course ID: 013151
Run Date: 15-JUN-2022

Materials Engineering

This course introduces concepts related to the structure, properties, and processing of materials commonly used in engineering applications. Major topics include material structure, bonding, crystalline and non-crystalline structures, imperfections, properties of metals, metal alloys, ceramics and polymers, phase transformation, and material failures.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisites: ENGR 322, ENGR 323, ENGR 324, ENGR 324L, each with a minimum grade of C-.

Outcomes: Describe the microscale structure of metals, ceramics, polymers, and composites; quantify and describe relationships among structure, processing, and properties; understand the role of material selection

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Medical Device Systems

Course ID: ENGR 341(3)
Course ID: 013511
Run Date: 15-JUN-2022

Medical Device Systems

The relevant physiology, clinical need, history, and system descriptions of eighteen fundamental medical devices are discussed and analyzed. Students are also introduced to several medical device systems, including medical instruments, electrical stimulators, and combination products. These topics provide a foundational background for medical device product development and regulation.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. PREREQUISITES: MATH 266 with a minimum grade of C-, concurrent enrollment in ENGR 313 and ENGR 341L.

Outcomes: Understand and analyze the clinical need and common subsystems underlying eighteen fundamental medical devices. Evaluate the battery requirements for commonly implantable medical devices.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to Engineering Science majors. MATH 266, Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 313 and ENGR 341L

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab(1)

Medical Device Systems Laboratory

Course ID: ENGR 341L(1)
Course ID: 013510
Run Date: 15-JUN-2022

Medical Device Systems Laboratory

Introduction to the graphical user interface, data acquisition, and sensors of common medical devices. The lab experiments are synchronized with the presentation of medical device topics in ENGR 341. Students also create a software application for a Sponsor from the School of Nursing.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 341.

Outcomes: Use common medical devices subsystems. Apply FDA design control principles for creation of a nursing software application and accompanying requirement and design specifications.

Components:
Laboratory (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 341

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab(1)

Medical Device Software Development I

Course ID: ENGR 342(3)
Course ID: 013592
Run Date: 15-JUN-2022

Medical Device Software Development I

This is the second semester of a three-semester Specialty course series for students specializing in Biomedical Engineering. During the first four weeks, students increase their programming skills through exposure to recurrence solving, sorting, and data structures. They then learn how design and verify medical device software using model-based engineering.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisites: ENGR 341 and ENGR 341L, each with a minimum grade of C-. Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 381.

Outcomes: Design a medical device through model-based engineering concepts.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 341, ENGR 341L, with a minimum grade of C minus; Co-requisite: ENGR 381; Restricted to Engineering Science majors

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab(1)
Medical Device Software Development II

This is the third semester of a three-semester Specialty course series for students specializing in Biomedical Engineering. During four weeks, students increase their programming skills through exposure to advanced data structures and graph algorithms. Separately, software issues that the Food and Drug Administration considers during medical device submissions are highlighted.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. ENGR 342 with a minimum grade of C-, concurrent enrollment in ENGR 391.

Outcomes: Analyze software issues that the FDA considers during medical device submissions. Create user interface and cybersecurity code, according to Requirements Specifications provided by the instructor.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 342 with a minimum grade of C-. Co-requisite: ENGR 391. Restricted to Engineering Science majors.

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab (1)

Electronic Circuit Analysis and Design

A course for engineering science students (computer engineering) that introduces advanced topics in the design and analysis of analog and digital electronic circuits. Areas of emphasis include an introduction to semiconductor physics, diodes, BJT transistors, CMOS devices, advanced operational amplifier circuits and frequency response fundamentals.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisites: ENGR 321, ENGR 323, MATH 266 with minimum grades of C-, concurrent enrollment in ENGR 313, ENGR 351L

Outcomes: Understand and apply fundamental concepts of semiconductor physics. Understand and apply complex models to analyze analog and digital microelectronic circuits.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to Engineering Science majors. MATH 266, ENGR 321, ENGR 323, Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 313 and ENGR 351L

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab (1)

Circuit Design Laboratory

A lab for engineering science students (in the computer engineering specialization) to provide a first experience working with semiconductor devices (such as diodes, BJTs, MOSFETs, and Operational Amplifiers) for the design, creation and analysis of microelectronics using lab instruments.

Concurrent enrollment in ENGR 351

Outcomes: Identify integrated circuit design issues and develop applicable solutions. Apply advanced principles in analog circuit design, creation and analysis.

Components: Laboratory (In person)

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab (1)

Methods and Algorithms for Computer Engineers

ENGR 352 is the second semester course of a three-semester Specialty course series for students specializing in Computer Engineering. The course includes hands-on experiments and a design project related to the computing performance and efficiency improvement of engineering systems.

Restricted to Engineering Science majors. Prerequisites: ENGR 351, ENGR 351L, each with minimum grade of C-, concurrent enrollment in ENGR 382.

Outcomes: Evaluate the design and implementation of methods and algorithms in computer engineering. Analyze the performance, efficiency and computational complexities of algorithms using the time-and-space tradeoff.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: ENGR 351, ENGR 351L, each with a minimum grade of C-. Co-requisite: ENGR 382. Restricted to Engineering Science majors.

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: ENGR Design Lab (1)

Medieval Popular Religion

This course will explore the "lived" religious experience of medieval people through their actions, behaviors and artifacts. "Pagan" survivals, pilgrimage, music and arts, devotion to saints, magical beliefs and practices, and attitudes to the natural/supernatural world(s) may be covered, depending on subtitle.

Outcomes: Students will appreciate the complex world view and agency of regular medieval people; they will acquire research skills and be able to critically assess primary and secondary source materials.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Attributes: Catholic Studies, Medieval Studies

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Medieval Inquisitions and Heresy

This course examines the intriguing range of religious beliefs and practices in medieval Europe. Over the course of the semester, students will explore the criteria and processes by which local communities and translocal authorities defined heresy as well as the political interests and cultural assumptions that shaped labels and definitions.

Outcomes: Students will understand beliefs that shaped medieval religiosity, gain appreciation for roles played by heretics and inquisitions in premodern Europe, and look for similar phenomena in the modern world.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Attributes: Medieval Studies

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)
Supernatural in the Middle Ages
Understanding the medieval supernatural leads to an appreciation of the richness of medieval society and intellectual culture. How were "natural" and "supernatural" defined across time and space, popular and elite cultures? How were ideas about the "supernatural" shaped by daily life, theology?

Think historically about social and intellectual approaches to the supernatural *Assess arguments; interpret and contextualize primary sources * Develop research skills and ability to formulate questions

Food, Hunger and Power in the Modern World
This course explores how conflicts over food shaped the modern world. We compare shifting interpretations of famine (in Ireland, India, and Ethiopia), and explore how food became a "weapon of war" during the World Wars. Finally, the course analyzes how race, gender, and class shaped American food and welfare policies.
Acquire exposure to varied methodological approaches to studying food and hunger; complete a historical research project; learn the relevance of food for many pressing contemporary concerns.

The Holocaust: History and Memory
This course explores a defining event of modernity, the genocide of Europe's Jews, by exploring Nazi actions, victims' varied experiences, and international reactions. We will also tackle questions like: Was the Holocaust unique? What does it mean to be a "bystander"? What are the politics of memory and commemoration?
Outcomes: Students acquire a sense of the causes, processes and implications of recent genocide. They are challenged to develop the outlines of a theory for predicting when genocide is likely to occur and to provide a clear definition of the term. Most importantly, they articulate from the historical data ways to prevent genocide.

HONR 101(3) Western Traditions - Antiquity to the Middle Ages
This course, (and its companion, HONORS 102), opens perspectives on works that have shaped the self-understanding of the Western intellectual tradition. An interdisciplinary team of professors examines these works from a variety of disciplinary paradigms. Students will examine the recurring questions the works pose to each other and to our own culture: questions about the nature of human existence and destiny, and the characteristic problems and possibilities of humanity's struggle for justice, search for truth and hunger for beauty.

Outcome: Studying a selection of major works from antiquity to the present, students learn how each text reflects its own period, how texts within each period present different views, and how ideas change over time. Written and visual expressions of these themes are examined in relation to the political and cultural background of each period: Ancient Greece and Rome, the Middle Ages, the Renaissance, the Enlightenment, the

HONR 203A(3) The United States Experience
Prerequisite: Completion of HONR 101, HONR D101, HONR 102, and HONR D102. Restricted to students in the Honors Program.

This course examines the question, "Who are we in the United States of America?" Students approach this question using multiple texts and visual materials that address social, political, and cultural aspects of the U.S. experience. The course illustrates the main contours of American society and the American story, and explores the ways in which our self-image as a people reflects and contradicts reality.

Outcomes: Students will understand the role of key historical processes such as the frontier experience, industrialization, immigration, religious pluralism, and the struggle for equality in the development of a

Fieldwork in Honors - Internship

The main goal of this course is to provide students with valuable work experience in a professional field connected with their academic program. It allows students to apply and further develop their knowledge and skills through an internship in a non-academic setting. The course is also intended to serve as a "bridge" between college and career. This internship presents an opportunity for students to gain valuable professional experience as an intern in public or private institutions engaged in public service projects. HONR 370 will satisfy the "service" requirement for all Honors students.

LITR 290(3) Classical Chinese Literature
This course is a survey of the classical Chinese literature from ancient time to the fall of Qing Dynasty.

Outcome: Students will reach aesthetical appreciations and cultural understandings of classical Chinese literature, and grasp the styles and creative skills of different Chinese poets and writers. They will learn to read literary texts within their particular Chinese social, historical, cultural and mental contexts.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Chinese Language & Culture, Global Studies

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

LITR 291(3) Italian & Italian-American Women Writers
This course is a comparative study of 20th century Italian & Italian-American writers from different periods and geographic areas. What unites these writers in addition to their nationality and ethnicity is that the city of Rome played a central role in their development as artists. Special emphasis will be given to the construction of the female and male subject; ties among women, and the dynamic interplay of gender, politics, spirituality, etc.

Outcomes: To identify the differences between women and men who hail from different parts of Italy and different immigrant communities in America, while highlighting their common national heritage. To understand the city of Rome as having played a central role in literary history from the 19th century to the present.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: European Studies, Italian American Studies, Italian Studies, Women & Gender Studies

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

LITR 292(3) Modern Chinese Fiction
This course introduces selected fictional works by some of the most insightful writers of modern China. The course focuses on significant aspects of these works with an objective to enhance students' fascination with and skill in the reading and analysis of modern Chinese fiction. Knowledge of modern Chinese fiction will enable students to understand central aspects of 20th century Chinese culture.

Outcome: Students will be able to analyze literary texts of a particular historical period and write critical essays on works read in the course.

LITR 392(3) Theories of Myth
This course surveys important models used to interpret the mythology of Classical Greece and Rome and other cultures.

Outcome: Students should be able to demonstrate a sophisticated understanding of different interpretive theories applicable to mythology, their advantages and limitations. They should be able to apply these theories and to demonstrate what learning may be derived from them.

Components: Lecture

DSCI 101(3)
Fundamentals of Modern Data Science with R

This course is designed to be an introduction to the basics of data science with R. Students will learn the very basics of data science and introductory programming skills for working with data.

Outcomes: Students will learn basic programming skills for working with different types of data as well as data visualization, data wrangling, and data management practices.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

---

DSCI 401(4)

Introduction to Data Science

This course provides students with an introduction to data science using the R programming language covering such topics as data wrangling, data visualization, interacting with databases, principles of reproducible research, building simple statistical models/machine learning and data science ethics.

Restricted to Graduate students.

Outcomes: Students will obtain an extensive background in the basic tools used in the field.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

---

DSCI 470(2)

Data Science Consulting

Students will work on a research project with a client acting as a consultant on the statistical and computational aspects of the project. Students are required to meet with a client, develop a strategy for addressing their problem, and present their results to the client (and their classmates).

Pre-requisites: STAT 408

Outcomes: Students will apply methods learned in prior classes to address a real-world problem, gain oral and written presentation skills, and improve collaboration skills.

Components: Discussion (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to DSCI Graduate students.

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

---

DSCI 494(2)

Data Science Research Design

Research practices, including data collection and management, the experimental design process, and tools for critical analysis and preparation of scientific literature will be discussed.

Restricted to DSCI Graduate students.

Outcomes: Students can describe and implement research design practices in data science.

Components: Discussion (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to DSCI Graduate students.

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

---

DSCI 499(1 - 8)

Data Science Research

Students will conduct independent hypothesis-driven data science research under faculty guidance. Research efforts will include literature surveys, research design, algorithm and software development, and data analysis.

Restricted to DSCI Graduate students.

Outcomes: Students can develop and utilize techniques for data science research.

Components: Thesis Research (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to DSCI Graduate students.

Req. Designation: Service Learning / Internship

MATH 132(3)
Course ID: 005012  |  Run Date: 06-JUN-2018

Applied Calculus II

Prerequisite: MATH 131

This course is a continuation of Mathematics 131. Topics include: definition and interpretations of the integral (numerically, graphically, and algebraically), basic techniques for computing anti-derivatives, applications to probability, an introduction to multi-variable calculus and optimization for functions of several variables, and mathematical modeling using differential equations. (This course is not a substitute for MATH 162.)

Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of integral and multi-variable calculus, including modeling/analyzing processes with the integral, optimization of functions of several variables, and modeling components.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science

Geometry for Middle Grade Teachers

The content covered in this course will include: Area, perimeter, volume, surface area, Properties of two and three dimensional figures, points, lines, planes, space, the Pythagorean theorem, transformations, fractals, tessellations, perspective drawings and informal proofs. The material covered will address Illinois Learning Standard Goal 7 and Goal 9 and related content performance descriptors for educators. The course is designed for Elementary education majors that wish to enhance, enrich and deepen their knowledge of Geometry and apply for a 6th-8th grade Mathematics endorsement from the State of Illinois.

Mathematics Content Area Standards 7 (Measurement) and 9 (Geometry) from the Content-Area Standards for Educators document published by the Illinois State Board of Education will be emphasized.

History of Mathematics for Middle Grade Teachers

This course will provide a thematic approach to the history of mathematics with emphasis on contributions by noted mathematicians, mathematical societies and scientists highlighting women and under-represented populations. The history of numbers and numerals, computation, geometry, algebra, trigonometry, calculus, and science patterns will be explored emphasizing the contributions of the Babylonian, Egyptian, Chinese, and Roman civilizations as well as such individuals as Euclid, Fermat, Archimedes, Kepler, Pythagoras, Euler, Hypatia, Sonja Kovalevsky, Emmy Noether and others as appropriate. The influence of technology and its applications will also be presented as appropriate.

Outcome: Students will obtain a unique historical perspective on the various areas of mathematics that are studied in the middle grade mathematics curriculum.

MATH 201(3)  Course ID:009431  06-JUN-2018
Introduction to Discrete Mathematics & Number Theory
This course covers topics from discrete mathematics and number theory, areas of mathematics not seen in calculus courses and abundant in applications, that provide students with the concepts and techniques of mathematical proof needed in 300 level courses in mathematics.

Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of the basic concepts and techniques involved in constructing rigorous proofs of mathematical statements.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 161.
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

MATH 212(3)  Course ID:005027  15-JUN-2022
Linear Algebra
Prerequisite: MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A

This course provides an introduction to linear algebra in abstract vector spaces with an emphasis on \( \mathbb{R}^n \), covering topics such as Gaussian elimination, matrix algebra, linear independence and spanning, linear transformations and eigenvalues; software packages such as MAPLE may be used.

Outcome: Students will receive an introduction to abstract mathematics in a setting that encourages the thinking needed in more advanced mathematics courses.

Components: Lecture

MATH 215(3)  Course ID:010343  15-JUN-2022
Object-Oriented Programming with Mathematics
Prerequisites: MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A

This is an introductory programming course for students interested in mathematics and scientific computing. Students will program primarily in a general object-oriented language such as Python, with supplementary exercises in a computer algebra system. Examples will be drawn primarily from applications of calculus, elementary number theory, and cryptography.

Outcome: Students will learn basic scripting and object-oriented programming, with the goal of being able to solve mathematical and scientific problems.

Multivariable Calculus
This course covers the differential and integral calculus of multivariable and vector valued functions, and sequences and infinite series, culminating with Green's Theorem, the Divergence Theorem, and Stokes' Theorem;
software packages such as MAPLE may be used.
Prerequisite: MATH 162
Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of multivariable calculus and its applications, as well as background needed for the study of more advanced mathematics.
Components:
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 162.

MULTIVARIABLE CALCULUS, ALTERNATE
This course covers the differential and integral calculus of multivariable and vector valued functions, culminating with Green's Theorem, the Divergence Theorem, and Stokes' Theorem; software packages such as MAPLE may be used. This course follows a traditional approach to calculus sequencing.
Prerequisite: MATH 162A
Outcomes: Students will obtain an understanding of multivariable calculus and its applications, as well as background needed for the study of more advanced mathematics.

MATH 264(3)  Course ID:005029  15-JUN-2022
Ordinary Differential Equations
Prerequisite/ co-requisite: MATH 263 or MATH 263A
This course covers the theory, solution techniques, and applications surrounding linear and non-linear first and second-order differential equations, including systems of equations; software packages such as MAPLE may be used.
Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of elementary differential equations and their applications.
Components:
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite or co-requisite: MATH 263 or MATH 263A
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

MATH 266(3)  Course ID:013161  15-JUN-2022
Differential Equations and Linear Algebra
This course provides an introduction to basic topics in ordinary differential equations and linear algebra.
Topics include first and second-order differential equations, Laplace transform, systems of first-order differential equations, systems of linear algebraic equations, matrix algebra, bases and dimension for vector spaces, linear independence, linear transformations, determinants, eigenvalues, and eigenvectors.
Prerequisites or corequisite: MATH 263 or MATH 263A
Outcomes: Students will learn fundamental results and methods in ordinary differential equations and linear algebra, with a strong emphasis on topics that are particularly relevant for Engineering Science.
Components:
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite or co-requisite: MATH 263 or MATH 263A

Problem-Solving Seminar
In a seminar setting, students discuss and present proofs (or computer examples) as solutions to regional and national mathematics contest problems usually involving techniques drawn from elementary logic, calculus of one and several variables, combinatorics, number theory, geometry, basic algebra, and abstract algebra.
Learning Outcome: To improve a student's ability to communicate mathematically and to strengthen the student's problem-solving skills.

MATH 345(3)
Introduction to Financial Mathematics Derivatives
Prerequisites: (MATH 264 or MATH 266) and MATH 304

The course provides an introduction to the mathematical theory of option pricing. We will rigorously derive option relationships using no arbitrage conditions, introduce rudimentary stochastic calculus and Brownian motion as models for stock prices, and give an introduction to methods for solving partial differential equations to give explicit Black-Scholes formulas.

Outcomes: The students will gain knowledge of the theory of options, bond and stock pricing, portfolio optimization, and will be exposed to other relevant applications of Mathematics to Finance.

Components: Lecture (In person)

MATH 356(3)
Mathematical Modeling
Prereq: MATH 266 Linear Algebra and Differential Equations or (MATH 264 Ordinary Differential Equations and MATH 212 Linear Algebra)

This course will teach students how to use various areas of mathematics, such as vector calculus, linear algebra, and ordinary differential equations, to formulate mathematical models in, for example, particle and continuum mechanics, biology, economics, finance, etc.

Outcome: Students will learn how to formulate mathematical models.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

MATH 358(3)
Introduction to Optimization
Prerequisite: (MATH 162 or MATH 263A) and (MATH 212 or MATH 266)

The course is an introduction to linear, nonlinear, and integer optimization, and may include optimization on graphs, stochastic optimization, etc. Modeling of real-life problems as optimization problems, mathematical analysis of resulting optimization problems, and computational approaches to solving the problems will be covered.

Outcomes: Students will learn how to recognize optimization problems, model real-life challenges as optimization problems, perform mathematical analysis of the problems, and solve the problems using computational tools.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: (MATH 162 or MATH 263A) and (MATH 212 or MATH 266)

MATH 360(3)
Introduction to Game Theory
Prerequisites: MATH 162 or MATH 162

The noncooperative and cooperative theories of games. Two person zero sum matrix games, nonzero sum N-person games, Nash equilibria of games with a continuum of strategies, auctions, duels. Cooperative game theory, including the theory of bargaining, the theory of fair allocation of rewards using the nucleolus and using the Shapley value.

Students will obtain an understanding of the fundamentals of mathematical game theory.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 162 or MATH 162A
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Introduction to Partial Differential Equations

This course provides an introduction to basic topics in partial differential equations (PDE). In addition to first order PDE, such as the transport equation, the main types of second order PDE, including the Laplace equation, the heat equation, and the wave equation, will be studied in detail.

Prerequisite: MATH 264 or MATH 266

Outcomes: Students will learn fundamental results and methods in partial differential equations and their applications.

Components:

Applied Dynamical Systems

Modeling, analysis, and prediction of short-term and asymptotic behavior of dynamical systems is studied. Continuous-time and discrete-time dynamical systems are considered, and modeled by differential and difference equations, respectively. Motivation comes from biological, chemical, mechanical, and engineering systems.

Prereq: MATH 266 Linear Algebra and Differential Equations or (MATH 264 Ordinary Differential Equations and MATH 212 Linear Algebra)

Students will learn how to model dynamical systems and predict their behavior.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisites: MATH 266 Linear Algebra and Differential Equations or (MATH 264 Ordinary Differential Equations and MATH 212 Linear Algebra)
- Req. Designation: Service Learning
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Formal Lang & Automata

This course introduces formal language theory, including such topics as finite automata and regular expressions, pushdown automata and context-free grammars, Turing machines, undecidability, and the halting problem.

Outcome: An understanding of the theoretical underpinnings of computability and complexity in computer science.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Course Equivalents: COMP 376
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: COMP 163 or MATH 201 or MATH 212 or MATH 266
- Req. Designation: Service Learning
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Introduction to Topology

This first course in topology discussed topological spaces, continuity, connectedness, path-connectedness, compactness, product spaces, quotient spaces, Tychonoff's theorem, the Baire category theorem, and other selected topics.

Outcome: Students will obtain a background in topology that will allow them to apply this topic to other areas of mathematics or to pursue graduate studies.

Components:
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 351
- Req. Designation: Service Learning
- Room Requirements: General Classroom (1)

Special Topics in Mathematics

This course covers advanced topics in mathematics, including analysis, topology, algebra, applied mathematics, and logic.

Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of an advanced topic in their major.

STAT 103(3)
Course ID: 006763  Date: 06-JUN-2018
Fundamentals of Statistics
This course provides an introduction to statistical reasoning and techniques in descriptive and inferential statistics and their applications in economics, education, genetics, medicine, physics, political science, and psychology. Not open to students who have completed ISOM 241.

Outcome: Students will obtain a background in the fundamentals of descriptive and inferential statistics along with an understanding of their uses and misuses. This course satisfies the quantitative literacy requirement of the core curriculum.

Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: ISSCM 241, ISSCM 241H, ACSTA 101
Attributes: Quantitative Knowledge
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 203(3)
Course ID: 006767  Date: 15-JUN-2022
Introduction to Probability & Statistics
This course is a Calculus-based rigorous introduction to basic topics in probability (distributions, expectations, variance, central limit theorem and the law of large numbers, moment generating functions, etc.) and statistics (estimation, hypothesis testing, regression, design of experiments) needed in engineering and science applications.

Prerequisite: MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A. MATH 162 may also be taken concurrently as a co-requisite.

Outcomes: The students will obtain required knowledge in probability and statistics useful in every area of engineering and science. They will learn how to assess data and outcomes of experiments.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A. MATH 162 can also be taken as a co-requisite.
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 303(3)
Course ID: 006769  Date: 06-JUN-2018
SAS Programming & Applied Statistics
Prerequisite: STAT 103 or 203 or 335

This course provides an introduction to SAS programming in the context of practical problems taken from applied statistics.

Outcome: Students obtain extensive experience with data-set manipulations, SAS procedures, and their application in contexts such as t-tests, simple and multiple regression, ANOVA, and regression.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 103 or 203 or 335
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 304(3)
Course ID: 006770  Date: 15-JUN-2022
Introduction to Probability
Prerequisite: MATH 263 or MATH 263A

This course provides a calculus based introduction to probability theory, including topics such as combinatorial analysis, random walk, conditional probability, and a variety of statistical distributions.

Outcome: Students obtain the theoretical background in probability needed for further study in probability and statistics.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 263 or MATH 263A
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 305(3)
Course ID: 006771  Date: 06-JUN-2018
Introduction to Mathematical Statistics
This course is a continuation of STAT 304 and applies the techniques of calculus and probability to the study of advanced topics in statistics.

Outcome: Students obtain the theoretical background in statistics needed for graduate level work in probability and statistics.

Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: MATH 305
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 304
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
STAT 306(3)
Course ID: 006772  01-JAN-2022
Intro to Stochastic Processes

Prerequisite: (STAT 203 or STAT 335) and (MATH 212 or MATH 266)

This course discusses topics such as finite-state Markov processes and Markov chains, classification of states, long-run behavior, continuous time processes, birth and death processes, random walks, and Brownian motion.

Outcome: Students will obtain a background in stochastic processes that will allow them to apply them in areas like genetics, population growth, inventory, cash management, and gambling theory.

Components: Lecture

Course Equivalents: MATH 306

Requirement Group: Pre-Requisite: (STAT 203 or STAT 335) and (MATH 212 or MATH 266)

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 307(3)
Course ID: 006773  15-JUN-2020
Statistical Design & Analysis of Experiments

Prerequisite: (STAT 203 or STAT 335 with a C- or better) and STAT 308 with a C- or better.

This course discusses comparative experiments, analysis of variance, fixed and random effects models, and a variety of design models; packaged computer programs such as SPSS or SAS will be used extensively.

Outcome: Students will obtain the background in statistical design and analysis of experiments needed to apply them in their own areas of interest.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: STAT 203 or STAT 335 with C- or better and STAT 308 with C- or better

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

---

STAT 308(3)
Course ID: 006774  06-JUN-2018
Applied Regression Analysis

Prerequisite: 203 or 335

This course discusses simple and multiple linear regression methods, multiple comparison estimation procedures, residual analysis, and other methods for studying the aptness of a proposed regression model; packaged computer programs such as SPSS and SAS will be used extensively.

Outcome: Students will obtain an extensive background in the applications of regression analysis.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335 with C- or better

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

---

STAT 310(3)
Course ID: 010570  01-JAN-2021
Categorical Data Analysis

Prerequisite: STAT 203 or STAT 335 with C- or better and STAT 303 or STAT 308 with C- or better

An introduction to modern-day extensions of simple linear regression and ANOVA to the chi-square test including logistic regression and log-linear modelling techniques based on generalized linear models. Methods for matched-pair, small datasets, ordinal and multi-category data also discussed. This course focuses on applications using real-life data sets, and uses popular software packages.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: (STAT 203 or STAT 335 with C- or better) and (STAT 303 or STAT 308 with C- or better)

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

---

STAT 311(3)
Course ID: 013571  15-JUN-2018
Applied Survival Analysis

This course focuses on methods for analyzing time-to-event data. The course will explore non-parametric methods for analyzing time-to-event data like Life tables, the Kaplan-Meier method, the Nelson-Aalen method and the log-rank test. This course will also explore semi-parametric models such as the Cox proportional hazards regression models and parametric models including exponential, Weibull and log-logistic regression model.

Prerequisite: STAT 308 (Applied Regression Analysis)

Outcomes: Derive survival and hazard functions from an underlying distribution, calculate survival probabilities and hazard rates, compare survival probabilities and hazard ratios between two or more cohorts.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 308, C- or higher
STAT 321(3)  Course ID:006777  15-JUN-2018
Computational Aspects of Modeling and Simulation
Prerequisites: STAT 308

This course uses SAS and R languages to address statistical modelling and to conduct statistical simulations to assess linear, generalized linear, nonlinear and complex models and experimental designs.

Outcomes: Students will gain practical experience and knowledge in real-world statistical situations for which underlying theory is cumbersome or intractable.

Components: Lecture(In Person)
Course Equivalents: COMP 321
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 308, C- or higher
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

STAT 335(3)  Course ID:006775  15-JUN-2022
Introduction to Biostatistics
Pre-requisites: BIOL 102, MATH 132 or MATH 162 (as pre-requisite or co-requisite) or MATH 162A. Students may take MATH 162 as a prerequisite for STAT/BIOL 335 or take it concurrently as a corequisite with STAT/BIOL 335. For Bioinformatics Majors only BIOL 101, MATH 132 or MATH 162 (as pre-requisite or co-requisite) or MATH 162A.

This course provides an introduction to the statistical methods used in designing biological experiments and in data analysis, including computer laboratory assignments with biological data.

Outcome: Students interested in research in the life sciences will obtain a background in the appropriate use of statistical methods as an experimental tool.

Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: BIOL 335
Attributes: Bioinformatics, Forensic Science
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: BIOL 102 and (MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A). MATH 162 can be taken as pre-requisite or co-requisite. BIOL 101 and (MATH 132 or MATH 162 or MATH 162A).

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 336(3)  Course ID:006776  06-JUN-2018
Advanced Biostatistics
Prerequisites: STAT 203 or STAT 335

This course provides an overview of advanced topics in applied statistics with particular application in biology and medicine, including the interpretation of Minitab, SAS and S-Plus computer output.

Outcome: Students interested in applied statistical methods will obtain skill in experimental design, linear regression, categorical data analysis and logistic analysis, nonlinear regression, bioassay and drug synergy methods, as well as multivariate and survival statistical methods.

Components: Lecture(In Person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 336
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335 with a C- or better
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

STAT 337(3)  Course ID:009420  06-JUN-2018
Quantitative Methods in Bioinformatics
Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335

This course develops the mathematical and statistical methods necessary to analyze and interpret genomic and proteomic data, including signal analysis, sequence alignment methods, data-base search methods useful in bioinformatics and data mining.

Outcome: Students will obtain the quantitative skills used in BLAST, including inference, stochastic processes and hidden Markov models, random walks, microarray analysis and biological sequence analysis.

Components: Lecture(In Person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 337
Attributes: Bioinformatics
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335 with a C- or better
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
Predictive Analytics

Course ID: 013831
Course Name: STAT 338(3)
Date: 15-JUN-2019

Prerequisite: STAT 308

Outcomes: Learn methods for predicting and classifying; Model Selection; Evaluate the effectiveness and accuracy of a model/prediction.

Components:
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 308, C- or higher
- Req. Designation: Service Learning
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Nonparametric Statistical Methods

Course ID: 013552
Course Name: STAT 351(3)
Date: 01-JAN-2021

Prerequisite: STAT 203 or STAT 335 with C- or better

Outcomes: Students should learn how to apply the nonparametric techniques in real datasets, interpret the results and draw conclusions.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 203 or 335 with a C- or better
- Req. Designation: Service Learning
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Data Science Consulting

Course ID: 013832
Course Name: STAT 370(3)
Date: 15-JUN-2021

Prerequisite: STAT 308

Outcomes:
- Apply methods learned in classes to address a real world problem.
- Oral and Written presentation skills.
- Collaboration skills.

Components:
- Lecture
- Requirements: Engaged Learning
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: STAT 308, C- or higher
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Topics

Course ID: 006779
Course Name: STAT 388(1 - 3)
Date: 06-JUN-2018

Prerequisites: STAT 203 or STAT 335

Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of an advanced topic in their major.
STAT 390(1)
Course ID: 012462
06-JUN-2018

Course: Undergraduate Seminar
Prerequisites: Senior Standing, including completion of Math 304/Stat 304

The seminar will cultivate students' presentation skills through participation in and critical discussion of brief lectures on familiar and unfamiliar topics; preparation and presentation of two brief lectures by the student (one on a familiar topic from the curriculum, one on a higher level material not customarily from the curriculum); and preparation of an extended abstract summarizing the advanced material presented.

Outcomes: Students will gain the ability to present material in Statistics, and their applications to a general audience.

- Components: Seminar (In person)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisites: Senior Standing and the completion of MATH 304/STAT 304.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

STAT 391(1 - 3)
Course ID: 006780
06-JUN-2018

Course: Internship in Actuarial Science
Prerequisite: STAT 304 and 396; approval of the internship director

This course offers an opportunity to obtain experience in actuarial science in a professional environment; placement requires approval of the internship coordinator and acceptance by an employer.

Outcome: Students will obtain first hand experience doing actuarial work in a real world environment

- Components: Field Studies
- Attributes: Engaged Learning
- Req. Designation: Internship

STAT 396(1)
Course ID: 006781
06-JUN-2018

Course: Actuarial Seminar I
Prerequisites: MATH 263

The seminar provides a comprehensive review of the probability topics that most commonly appear on the Actuarial Exam P. Topics covered include: axiomatic probability, combinatorial probability, conditional probability and Bayes' Theorem, independence, random variables and their various distributions, joint distributions, marginal distributions, conditional distributions of two or more random variables.

Outcome: The purpose of the seminar is to prepare students for the Actuarial Exam P. The students will also learn test-taking strategies and will have the opportunity to take practice tests.

- Components: Seminar (In person)
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 263.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

STAT 397(1)
Course ID: 006782
06-JUN-2018

Course: Actuarial Seminar II
Prerequisite: MATH 263

The seminar is a continuation of STAT 396. It provides a comprehensive review of topics in probability and risk management directed toward students preparing for the Actuarial Exam P. Additional topics may include order statistics, moment-generating functions, the Central Limit Theorem and risk analysis.

Outcome: The purpose of the seminar is to prepare students for the Actuarial Exam P. The students will also learn test-taking strategies and will have the opportunity to take practice tests.

- Components: Seminar
- Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: MATH 263.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

STAT 398(1 - 6)
Course ID: 006783
06-JUN-2018

Course: Independent Study
Prerequisite: MATH 263

This course allows students to engage in independent study on selected topics in statistics under the supervision of a faculty member.

Outcome: Students will obtain an understanding of an advanced topic in their major.

- Components: Independent Study
- Req. Designation: Internship

ARABIC 1
This course is designed for beginners and those with modest acquaintance to Arabic. Through a culturally rich context, it focuses on functional articulation of Modern Standard Arabic with a limited exposure to Damascene (Shaami) dialect.

Outcome: Students will be able to write simple sentences, understand selected principles of basic grammar and vocabulary, and will be introduced to Modern Standard Arabic as well as to a modern spoken dialect. Students will learn aspects of Arab culture.

ARABIC 102
Prerequisite: ARABIC 101 OR EQUIVALENT, "Students' self-assessment is not sufficient for placement in an appropriate level of Arabic class."

This course continues focusing on active functional use of Modern Standard Arabic and Damascene dialect to help students develop speaking, listening, reading comprehension, and writing skills in diverse sociocultural contexts.

Outcome: Students are expected to be able to sustain conversations on daily life topics, to comprehend and compose simple authentic multimodal texts, and integrate interdisciplinary knowledge of the Arab world (language, religion, history, geography, or cultures) through a project.

NEUR 101(3)
Course ID: 013816
01-MAY-2020

Introduction to Neuroscience

This course will introduce students to basic concepts and the variety of topics in the field of neuroscience, including neuroanatomy (gross and cellular), physiology, neural basis of behavior, malfunctions due to disease and injury, and methods used to study these areas; laying a foundation for advanced coursework in neuroscience.

- Pre-requisite: None; Recommended: BIOL 101 and PSYC 101

- Outcomes: Knowledge of the organization of the nervous system, cellular events that underlie emotions, learning, and behavior, and awareness of classical and modern methods for advancing the field.

- Components: Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)

- Attributes: Neuroscience

- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

NEUR 300(1)
Course ID: 005481
15-JUN-2019

Seminar in Neuroscience

- Prerequisites: NEUR 101 with grade of C- or better.

The seminar introduces students to the interdisciplinary nature of modern neuroscience with an emphasis on the various neuroscience research activities that take place at Loyola University Chicago, and reviews current neuroscience research topics. NEUR 300 is cross-listed with BIOL 303.

- Outcome: Students will demonstrate understanding of the interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary nature of modern neuroscience, and the research questions and experimental approaches used at the Lakeshore and Medical Center campuses. Students will complete one midterm essay and one final essay exam that will reflect their understanding of the topics discussed in the seminars.

- Components: Seminar (In person)

- Course Equivalents: BIOL 303

- Attributes: Neuroscience

- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

NEUR 301(4)
Course ID: 005483
15-JUN-2019

Laboratory in Neuroscience I

- Prerequisites: NEUR 101, BIOL 251; and students must be either a Molecular/Cellular Neuroscience Major, a Cognitive/Behavioral Neuroscience major, or a Neuroscience Minor.

Students will be trained in various anatomical, physiological, behavioral, and neurobiological modeling techniques used to study the nervous system and the brain in the laboratory. This course is cross-listed as NEUR 301 & PSYC 388.

- Outcomes: Students will demonstrate understanding of several research designs and methodologies of use in neuroscience research and will gain experience with basic neuroscience laboratory techniques.

- Components: Laboratory (In person)

- Course Equivalents: BIOL 373, PSYC 388

- Attributes: Neuroscience

- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

- Room Requirements: Lab - Neuroscience(1)

NEUR 302(3)
Course ID: 005484
01-APR-2011

Laboratory in Neuroscience II

- Prerequisite: NEUR 301

Students will receive additional training and experience in specialized laboratory methods and techniques used by Loyola faculty in their Neuroscience research.

- Outcome: Students will have the opportunity to conduct independent research projects in faculty and student laboratories. This experience will help prepare them to contribute creatively to neuroscience research. Students will be assessed as to the quality of 3 items: 1) a written proposal for the independent research project; 2) a 'meeting quality' scientific poster; and 3) a written 'publication quality' scientific paper summarizing the work done for the independent research project.

- Components: Laboratory

- Attributes: Neuroscience

- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

- Room Requirements: Lab - Neuroscience(1)

Dissertation Proposal Seminar

This semester-long, non-credit, pass/non-pass course is intended for Ph.D. students in their third or fourth years. Our purpose consists in taking students from their initial, general ideas on a dissertation to a developed proposal.

Outcomes: The class will culminate in producing a final dissertation proposal and a community of researchers who are able and willing to support each other in the development and writing up of dissertation proposals.

Components:
- FTC - Thesis Supervision(In person)
- Restricted to Graduate Philosophy students.

Prerequisite: PHYS 125
Co-requisites: PHYS 126F, PHYS 126L & MATH 162

A continuation of PHYS 125, covering Electricity and magnetism, sound, optics.

Outcome: Understanding of electrostatics, magnetostatics, time varying currents, resistive, capacitative and inductive elements, electromagnetic and sound waves, geometrical and wave optics, introductory special relativity.

| Components: | Lecture (In person) |
| Attributes: | Engaged Learning, Forensic Science |
| Requirement Group: | Corequisite for PHYS 126: PHYS 126F, PHYS 126L, and MATH 162. Prerequisite: PHYS 125. Restricted to Physics, Biophysics, and Theoretical Physics/Applied Math majors. |

Freshman Projects

Prerequisite: PHYS 125

Under the guidance of a faculty member students carry out research in the area of mechanics, waves or thermodynamics. The project must involve submission of a proposal, building of a setup, carrying out related theoretical calculation followed by experimentation.

Outcome: Students should get a deeper understanding of the material covered in PHYS 125 (mechanics, waves and thermodynamic) and also learn about research methods employed by physicists.

| Components: | Laboratory (In person) |
| Attributes: | Engaged Learning |
| Requirement Group: | Prerequisite: PHYS 125. Restricted to Physics, Biophysics, and Theoretical Physics/Applied Math majors |

PHYS 130(3)
Course ID: 014070  01-JAN-2021

Introduction to Computational Physics

This is an introductory computational physics course. The course will cover basic computational skills using Python and common scientific Python packages. We will solve a set of programming exercises that enhances both the understanding of introductory physics (Newton's laws, work, energy, momentum) and physics problem solving skills.

Prerequisite: C- or better in PHYS 125, Corequisite: PHYS 126; Restricted to PHYS, TPAM, and BPHY majors

Outcomes: Students should be able to write a Python program to perform numerical calculations in physics and gain computational skills that would be utilized in upper division physics coursework and research.

| Requirement Group: | Prerequisite: PHYS 125 (C or better ) & Co-requisite: PHYS 126. Restricted to PHYS, TPAM, BPHY majors |
| Req. Designation: | Undergraduate Research |
| Room Requirements: | Lab - Computer(1) |
Modern Physics

This course covers the Special Theory of Relativity and Introductory Quantum Mechanics.

Outcome: Understand the relative nature of space and time; the duality of waves and particles; the microscopic structure of matter and its macroscopic consequences.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: PHYS 126; Co-Requirements: PHYS 235L and MATH 263 Enrollment is restricted to Physics, Biophysics, Physics/Computer Science, and Theoretical Physics/Applied Math Majors and Minors

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

---

Modern Physics Laboratory

Corequisite: PHYS 235

Modern physics experiments including electromagnetic waves (microwaves), interferometry, spectroscopy, electron and quantum physics, and solid state physics.

Outcome: Students will gain hands on experience and familiarity with experiments from early modern physics, the ability to use spreadsheets and symbolic algebraic software for problem solving and data interpretation, and experience documenting and reporting results including historical background searches.

Components:
- Laboratory (In person)

Requirement Group: Corequisite: PHYS 235. Restricted to Physics, Theoretical Physics/Applied Mathematics & Biophysics Majors

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Physics(1)

---

Digital Electronics Lab

Description: Prerequisites: PHYS 126 and MATH 162

Combinatorial and sequential logic devices, oscillators and timers, microprocessor components, CPU operation, computer architecture and digital/analog conversion.

Outcome: Students will gain a working knowledge of digital electronics design and its application to computers, an understanding of CPU design and operation and the ability to document and report experimental results.

Components:
- Laboratory (In person)

Course Equivalents: COMP 266

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PHYS 126 and MATH 162

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Lab - Physics(1)

---

Mathematical Methods in Physics

Prerequisite: PHYS 235

Corequisite: MATH 264

Lecture and computer laboratory. Mathematical and computer methods in physics and engineering. Topics include vector calculus, functions of a complex variable, phasors, Fourier analysis, linear transformations, matrices, first and second order differential equations, special functions, numerical and symbolic computer applications.

Components:
- Discussion (In person), Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: MATH 355

Requirement Group: Corequisite for PHYS 301: MATH 264. Prerequisite: PHYS 235. Restricted to Physics, Biophysics, and Theoretical Physics/Mathematics Majors

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

---

Electronics I

Prerequisites: PHYS 126

Corequisite: PHYS 301 and PHYS 303L

Study of analog electronics, including direct and alternating circuit analysis, resonant circuits, diodes, transistors, amplifiers, operational amplifiers, noise, feedback and oscillators.

Outcome: Students will understand and manipulate equations and concepts, and gain experience with electronics equipment, plotting and interpretation of data, synthesizing and writing laboratory results, and the formal verbal presentation of results.

Components: Lecture (In person)
PHYS 303L
Electronics Laboratory

Course ID: 011236
Course ID: 06-JUN-2018

Prerequisite: PHYS 126 or its equivalent, Co-requisite PHYS 303.

Students will learn to use various electronic components, instruments, techniques, and applications. This course complements PHYS 303, which is a co-requisite or a prerequisite.

Outcome: Students should get a deeper understanding of the material covered in PHYS 303 (Analog and digital electronics) by experimentally verifying many of the concepts covered in that course. Students will also learn to recognize various components and develop confidence in using them.

Components:
- Laboratory (In person)

Room Requirements:
- Electronic Classroom (1)

PHYS 310
Optics

Course ID: 005879
Course ID: 23-JUN-2011

Prerequisites: PHYS 126 & PHYS 301
Corequisite: PHYS 310L

Electromagnetic nature of light, geometrical optics, polarization, Fresnel relations, interference, Fraunhofer and Fresnel diffraction, Fourier optics, lasers, and holography.

Outcome: Students will gain knowledge of the principles of classical and modern optics, the role of optics in the development of quantum mechanics and its applications to modern technology.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group:
- Corequisite for PHYS 310: PHYS 310L. Prerequisite: PHYS 235 and PHYS 301. Restricted to Physics majors.

Room Requirements:
- Undergraduate Research

PHYS 310L
Optics Lab

Course ID: 011237
Course ID: 06-JUN-2018

Prerequisites: PHYS 126 or its equivalent, Co-requisite PHYS 310.

Students will learn to use various optical components, instruments, techniques, and applications. This course complements PHYS 310, which is a co-requisite or a prerequisite.

Outcome: Students should get a deeper understanding of the material covered in PHYS 310 (Geometrical and wave optics) by experimentally verifying many of the concepts covered in that course. Students will also learn to recognize various components and develop confidence in using them.

Components:
- Laboratory (In person)

Room Requirements:
- Lab - Physics (1)

PHYS 314
Theoretical Mechanics I

Course ID: 005880
Course ID: 06-JUN-2018

Newtonian particle dynamics, conservation theorems, oscillations, gravitation, generalized coordinates, Lagrange and Hamilton formalisms.

Outcome: Students will gain understanding of analytical and numerical methods of mechanics, understanding of principles in dynamics, and experience in applying formalisms of Lagrange and Hamilton to mechanics in preparation for other areas of physics and engineering.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group:
- Pre-requisite: PHYS 126; Co-Requires: MATH 264 and PHYS 301

Room Requirements:
- Undergraduate Research

PHYS 315
Theoretical Mechanics II

Course ID: 005881
Course ID: 06-JUN-2018

This course is a continuation of Physics 314 and covers dynamics of system of particles, moving coordinates, rigid body dynamics, systems of oscillators, motion in a central force field, relativity.

Outcome: Students will gain understanding of analytical and numerical methods of mechanics, and of the laws of dynamics and their applications.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: PHYS 314

Room Requirements:
- Undergraduate Research
PHYS 328(3)

Course ID: 005882
06-JUN-2018

Thermal Phys & Stat Mechanics

Prerequisites: PHYS 235 and PHYS 301

This course examines the fundamental concepts of temperature, entropy, and thermodynamic equilibrium, the first and second law, engines, the third law, and Boltzmann, Fermi-Dirac, and Bose-Einstein statistics.

Outcome: Students will learn to compare thermodynamical versus statistical characterizations of macroscopic systems with applications ranging from analyzing Fermi gases and black body radiation to information theory.

Components:
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PHYS 235 and PHYS 301
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

PHYS 338(1)

Course ID: 005872
15-JUN-2016

Intermediate Physics Laboratory

Laboratories involve learning software, interfacing and areas of applied physics.

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of elements of real measurements through signal processing, error estimation, equipment choice, and design.

Components:
- Laboratory
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PHYS 235L. Restricted to Physics Majors and Theoretical Physics/Applied Math Majors
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Lab - Physics(1)

PHYS 351(3)

Course ID: 005883
15-JUN-2019

Electricity and Magnetism I

Prerequisite: PHYS 235, 301 & MATH 264

Electrostatics and magnetostatics in a vacuum as well as in linear media, and an introduction to electrodynamics.

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of mathematical methods of electrodynamics, of static electricity and magnetism including Coulomb's, Gauss', Ampere's, and Faraday's laws and their applications, and of solutions of Laplace's and Maxwell's equations.

Components:
- Discussion, Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PHYS 235, PHYS 301 and MATH 264. Restricted to Physics, Biophysics, and Theoretical Physics Majors
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

PHYS 352(3)

Course ID: 005884
06-JUN-2018

Electricity and Magnetism II

Prerequisite: PHYS 351

Introduction to electrodynamics and the special theory of relativity.

Outcome: Students will gain an understanding of electromagnetic field energy and momentum, Maxwell's equations and their applications including electromagnetic radiation and emission, involving retarded potentials and Lorentz covariance.

Components:
- Discussion, Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PHYS 351
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

PHYS 361(3)

Course ID: 005885
23-JUN-2011

Quantum Mechanics I

Prerequisites: PHYS 235 & PHYS 301

Non-relativistic quantum mechanics.

Outcome: Students will understand and use separation of variables, finite polynomials, and matrix algebra to solve the Schroedinger equation, explain microscopic structure of matter, and describe philosophical interpretations of quantum mechanics.

Components:
- Discussion, Lecture
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PHYS 235 & 301. Restricted to Physics and Theoretical Physics/Applied Math majors.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Lab - Chemistry(1), Electronic Classroom(1)

Biophysics

An upper-level course in biological physics focused on a quantitative description of the physical processes driving molecular and cellular processes with an emphasis on experiment design and analysis. Prerequisites: PHYS 235 & 301; Restricted to Biophysics and Physics Majors.

Outcomes: Students will understand how to apply physical principles and probabilistic analysis toward the study of biological phenomena at molecular and cellular levels.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Prerequisites: PHYS 235 & 301; Restricted to Biophysics and Physics Majors
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

PHYS 380(1 - 3)
Course ID: 005887
06-JUN-2018

Special Topics in Physics

Prerequisite: Instructor's permission.

This variable (1-3) credit enrichment course introduces students to a topic not generally covered in other courses. This course can be repeated.

Outcome: Students will understand the material of the course and develop an ability to apply the knowledge gained to other contexts.

Components:
- Lecture
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Lab - Physics (1)

PHYS 381(1 - 3)

PSYC 304(3)  Course ID:006163  06-JUN-2018
Statistics
Prerequisite: PSYC 101

This course is an introduction to fundamentals of statistical analysis in psychology.

Outcome: Students will demonstrate the ability to analyze data, interpret the results of research using basic statistical methods, and understand the conceptual foundation, appropriate use, and limitations of these statistical methods.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Human Services
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PSYC 101
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
PSYC 306(3)  Course ID:006165  06-JUN-2018
Research Methods in Psyc
Prerequisite: PSYC 304.

Logic and theory of the scientific method. Basic principles of scientific research methodologies employed in approaching major problem areas in psychology. This class is writing intensive.

Outcomes:
Students will demonstrate knowledge and skills necessary to formulate research questions and hypotheses, develop research designs, operationalize variables and gather data in an ethical manner, choose appropriate statistical methods for analyzing data, interpret results of statistical analyses, write a scientific paper in APA style, and critically evaluate research.

Components:
Lecture(In person)

Attributes:
Human Services, Urban Studies

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PSYC 304 (C-)

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 307(3)  Course ID:006167  06-JUN-2018
Psychology of Language
Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Analysis of language as symbol-behavior specific to humans, language structure and competence, language performance, and the neurophysiological basis of language. Methods for investigating language processing, acquisition, bilingualism, and language disorders will be considered.

Outcomes:
Students will demonstrate understanding of major theories, research methodologies, and empirical knowledge in the study of language.

Components:
Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 310(3)  Course ID:006168  06-JUN-2018
Lab in Program Evaluation
Prerequisite: PSYC 306. PSYC 275 is also recommended.

Special attention is given to the fundamental skills needed to evaluate human service programs including research methodology and research diplomacy. The strengths and weaknesses of several evaluation strategies will be discussed in terms of scientific validity, ethical constraints, and political acceptability.

Outcomes:
Students apply their developing evaluation skills in a class project and present the data in a written report.

Lab in Exp Psych: Sens & Perc

Prerequisites: PSYC 306, NEUR 101 (formerly PSYC/BIOL 202) or PSYC 240

Laboratory demonstrations, experiments, and microcomputer applications to the psychophysical and physiological study of sensory systems. The course stresses the research methods and quantitative measures that are used in characterizing sensory processes, especially visual and auditory systems.

Outcomes: Students gain skills and experience in experimental design, measurement, statistical analyses, and report writing as they relate to research in sensory processes.

Components: Laboratory (In person)
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: NEUR 101 (formerly PSYC/BIOL 202) or PSYC/BIOL 240 and PSYC 306 with grades of C- or better

PSYC 318(3)  Lab in Developmental Psych  06-JUN-2018
Prerequisites: PSYC 273 and 306.

Lecture and laboratory on empirical studies of developmental processes in humans. Focus is on research in particular content areas within developmental stages (e.g., infancy, childhood, adolescence, adulthood) and research on changes in behavior across time.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate skills and knowledge of developmental methodology, designing, conducting, and analyzing and interpreting the results of a research project, and writing a research paper in APA format.

PSYC 327(3)  Lab on Body Image  15-JUN-2017
Pre-requisites: PSYC 101, 304, 306.

Lab on Body Image is a new course that can be used by Psychology students to fulfill the B lab requirement. It will focus on the scholarly study of body image and eating disorders, as well as how research is conducted in the field. Students will complete smaller labs and a larger research project in the field.

Outcomes:
1. Learn about the scholarly study of body image and eating disorders.
2. Learn general research methods in Psychology and specific ones pertaining to the topic.
3. Learn about computer packages, including SPSS to analyze data.

Affective Neuroscience
Affective experiences promote human adaptability and survival, and healthy emotion function is critical to promoting physical and psychological well being. The course will provide an overview of fundamental neurobiological correlates associated with emotion function and processing affective stimuli.

Prerequisite: PSYC 101 or NEUR 101 (formerly PSYC/BIOL 202)

Outcome: Students will understand theories regarding brain mechanisms associated with emotion processing and the techniques used for studying these mechanisms.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Neuroscience

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Psychology of Personality
Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Facts and principles of personality study. Nature of personality, its structure, development, expression, and measurement. Exposition and evaluation of personality study methods with critical review of traditional and modern theories of personality.

Outcomes: Students will acquire an understanding of different personality theories, critically evaluate these theories, and apply what they have learned.

Components: Lecture
Attributes: Psychology of Crime and Justice

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Psychology of Women
Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Review of psychological aspects of women’s experiences. Topics include psychological aspects of biological events such as menarche, pregnancy, menopause; aspects of women’s work and family roles; and mental health issues relevant to women.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate knowledge of critical contemporary issues impacting women and girls, and critically evaluate/analyze academic theory, social institutions, and media.

Components: Lecture
Attributes: Human Services, Women & Gender Studies

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Psychopathology of Childhood
Prerequisite: PSYC 273

Consideration of the nature and causes of maladjustment, emotional disorders, and learning disabilities in children in conjunction with approaches to prevention and remediation.

Outcomes: Students will demonstrate knowledge of the major categories of childhood psychopathology and methods of diagnosis, theories of causes of maladjustment and mental illness in children and adolescents, and types of intervention strategies.

Components: Lecture
Attributes: Human Services, Psychology of Crime and Justice

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
PSYC 348(3)  Course ID:006193  06-JUN-2018

Psychology of Adolescence
Prerequisite: PSYC 273.

In-depth study of adolescence using an interdisciplinary approach. Integration of cultural, social, psychological, and biological perspectives.

Outcomes:
Students will appreciate the various factors leading to similarities and differences in the experience of adolescence in America and in other cultures, and will demonstrate understanding of major theories, research methodologies, and empirical knowledge in the study of adolescence.

Components: Lecture
Attributes: Human Services, Psychology of Crime and Justice

PSYC 350(3)  Course ID:013829  15-JUN-2019

Developmental Cognitive Neuroscience
An overview of theory and research relevant to the study of the developing child through the use of neuroscience methods; topics may include: brain plasticity and maturation, sensorimotor systems, attention, memory, executive function, language, social cognition, and typical and atypical development.

Prerequisite: PSYC 101, NEUR 101 (formerly PSYC/BIOL 202)

Outcomes: Students will gain knowledge of basic theory and research in the field of developmental cognitive neuroscience and will acquire understanding of brain and behavior relationships in a developmental context.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisite : PSYC 101(C-) and NEUR 101 (C-)
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

PSYC 352(3)  Course ID:013220  15-JUN-2019

Neuropsychology
Neuropsychology is the interdisciplinary study of the relation between human brain function and behavior. This course is an undergraduate survey of topics related to neuropsychology, including neuroanatomy, psychophysiology, and cognitive neuroscience. A primary goal of the course is to introduce undergraduate students to neuropsychological concepts in research and applied settings.

Prerequisites: PSYC 101 and NEUR 101

Outcomes: Successful completion of this course leads to mastery of CNS function and structure. The ability to integrate this information will allow students to develop and test hypotheses about brain-behavior relationships.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Neuroscience
Requirement Group: Prerequisites: PSYC 101 (C-) and NEUR 101 (C-)
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

PSYC 353(3)  Course ID:006195  06-JUN-2018

Applied Social Psychology
Prerequisite: PSYC 275.

Applications of principles and methods of social psychology to social issues and problems in such areas as: law and justice, health and health care, education, natural and built environments, population, work, life and intergroup relations.

Outcomes:
Students will demonstrate the ability to apply knowledge of major theories, research methodologies, and empirical knowledge in social psychology to real-world issues and problems.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: PSYC 275
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)
Neuroethics
This course focuses on ethical considerations emerging from contemporary research in neuroscience, as well as neuroscientific techniques for studying ethical questions.

Prerequisite: students must have taken at least two philosophy courses.

Students will be able to demonstrate understanding of the ways in which the study of ethics and neuroscience inform each other.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents:
- PHIL 355

Attributes:
- Bioethics

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: Students must have taken at least two philosophy courses.

Room Requirements:
- Electronic Classroom(1)

Consumer Psychology
Introduction to the field of consumer psychology; including topics such as consumer attitude formation and change, persuasive communication and consumer behavior, the psychology of advertising, consumer decision making, personality and consumer behavior, identity and consumer behavior, and culture and consumer behavior.

Outcomes:
- Students will understand and apply theoretical approaches within consumer psychology and the psychology of advertising.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Room Requirements:
- General Classroom(1)

Understanding Prejudice
Prejudice from a psychological perspective. Applying psychological concepts, research, and theory to understand the origins and consequences of prejudice as well as potential remedies.

Outcomes:
- Students will learn the origins of stereotypes and prejudice, the nature of prejudice against different social groups, how people are affected by prejudice and cope with prejudice, and the processes that may change stereotypes, reduce prejudice, and improve intergroup relations.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Attributes:
- African Studies and the African Diaspora, Black World Studies, Psychology of Crime and Justice, Women & Gender Studies

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Room Requirements:
- Electronic Classroom(1)

Industrial/Organizational Psychology
Study of human behavior in work settings. Topics include principles of employee selection, job analysis, motivation and morale, managerial behavior, organization development and socialization, leadership, conflict management, work design and group process.

Outcomes:
- Students will demonstrate understanding and ability to think critically about how the science of behavior is applied to work environments.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: PSYC 101

Room Requirements:
- General Classroom(1)
PSYC 368(3)
Course ID: 006200
Date: 15-JUN-2022
Title: Counseling
Prerequisite: PSYC 101; PSYC 331 or 338 is also recommended.

Introduction

Introduction to the theory, techniques, and research behind major helping interventions, focusing on individual psychotherapy with adults.

Outcomes

Students will critically evaluate different approaches to intervention in terms of their theoretical underpinnings, applications, goals and effectiveness, and will develop the ability to utilize some basic counseling skills.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Attributes: Human Services

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

PSYC 369(3)
Course ID: 006201
Date: 15-JUN-2019
Title: Psychology Honors Readings
Prerequisite: Membership in the Psychology Honors award program and approval of the Department Honors Advisor.

Introduction

Directed readings and development of a formal research proposal on a topic of interest to the student and the faculty member with whom he/she has chosen to work. Students are not restricted to working with the faculty member whose name is listed in the schedule of classes.

Outcomes

Students will write a literature review and research proposal for the honors thesis.

PSYC 370(3)
Course ID: 006203
Date: 15-JUN-2019
Title: Psychology Honors Research
Prerequisite: PSYC 369.

Introduction

Students carry out the research proposed in PSYC 369 and prepare a formal report constituting the honors thesis. Approval of the thesis by the honors committee earns the psychology honors award. PSYC 370 is a capstone course.

Outcomes

Students will conduct research, analyze and interpret data, and write a thesis.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 371(3)
Course ID: 006205
Date: 06-JUN-2018
Title: Psychology of Political Behavior
Prerequisite: PSYC 369.

Introduction

Examination of the determinants of political judgments and decision; including topics such as voting preference, stereotypes and political thinking, racism and political behavior, ideology and public opinion, the effect of the media on political thought.

Outcomes

Understanding of core theoretical and methodological approaches commonly applied to the study of political psychology.

Components: Lecture

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 420 (3)
Course ID: 006232  06-JUN-2018
Name: Research Methods in Psychology
Description: An intensive coverage of classical and current psychological research methodology and a review and implementation of various strategies for proposing research, collecting and analyzing data, and writing scholarly articles.
Outcomes: Students will learn multiple methods for conducting psychological research, how to critique published research, and how to write research proposals and reports.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 427 (3)

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 432 (3)
Course ID: 006241  06-JUN-2018
Name: Intell & Personality Assessment
Description: This course covers the psychometric properties, administration procedures, and applications of the most common adult psychological measures.
Outcomes: Students will be able to administer and become familiar with how to interpret a WAIS-III, the MMPI-2, the Sentence Completion Test, and the TAT. Students will gain an understanding of psychometric theory.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 435 (3)
Course ID: 006242  06-JUN-2018
Name: Seminar in Cognitive Neuroscience
Description: The way that information is represented and processed in the brain is central to a broad range of topics in psychological science. In this course we will consider how the methods of cognitive neuroscience including brain imaging (e.g., EEG/ERP, fMRI) and dissociation-based techniques such as neuropsychology and TMS, have revolutionized the exploration of these topics. We will pay particular attention to how these techniques can be used to understand higher-level cognition during development and in questions related to social psychology and psychopathology. Class participants will be introduced to these techniques, read, critique and present results from the primary literature, and also have an opportunity to develop ideas using these methods relating to their own research interests.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 436 (3)
Course ID: 006243  06-JUN-2018
Name: Psychopharmacology
Description: The types and mechanisms of medications used in the treatment of mental disorder are reviewed. Emphasis is given to behavioral effects and treatment effectiveness of drugs. Psychopharmacological research design and literature are reviewed.
Outcomes: Students will learn basics of neurotransmission and be informed about medications including antidepressants, mood stabilizers, anti-psychotics, and substance abuse.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

PSYC 473(3) – Social Development
- Description: This course is designed to provide an advanced level introduction and discussion of critical issues essential to the study of social development. The contribution of multiple contexts (e.g., family, peers, culture) to social development is a major focus of this class.
- Outcome: Students will become familiar with the several theoretical accounts as well as major empirical findings in the core areas of social development.
- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 474(3) – Research in Group Dynamics
- Description: Covers theory, methods, and research on behavior in and by groups from a social psychological perspective. Learning outcomes include knowledge of theory and research on group structure, group performance, group decision making, negotiation, and intergroup behavior; ability to design research about group behavior and to analyze data from group research.
- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 475(3) – Cognitive Development
- Description: This course is designed to provide an advanced level introduction to critical issues in the study of cognitive development from infancy through childhood.
- Outcome: Students will be expected to draw connections between the major theoretical accounts of cognitive development and the empirical literature in core areas of children’s cognition.
- Components: Lecture
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

PSYC 477(3) – The Self and Self-esteem
- Description: Graduate seminar focusing on psychological theory and research on the self and self-esteem. Course will focus on where self knowledge comes from and how it affects human behavior.
- Prerequisite: Graduate Standing
- Outcome: Knowledge of psychological theory and research on the self and self-esteem.
- Components: Seminar(In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
- Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

PSYC 479(3) – Cognition and Emotion
- Description: Graduate seminar focusing on psychological theory and research on the role that emotion plays in cognitive activity and behavior. Course will focus on how emotion affects cognition and how different emotions have different effects.
- Prerequisite: Graduate Standing
- Outcome: Knowledge of psychological theory and research on cognition and emotion.
- Components: Seminar(In person)
- Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Contemporary Islamic Thought and Movements
This course will consider contemporary Islamic thought and movements world-wide. After a brief introduction to Islam and the historical development of the tradition up to the present, students will learn about a range of contemporary Muslim intellectual and activist movements and thinkers through the study of original writings and secondary analysis. Some major figures to be considered include: Syed Maududi, Sayyid Qutb, Fazlur Rahman, and other Muslim intellectuals representing movements such as Jama'at-i Islami, the Muslim Brotherhood, and Islamic liberalism. We will focus on the 20th century up to the most current trends. Some of the theological and social issues that will be discussed are gender, the ideal political order, Islamic law and its role in society, and pluralism.

Description

CIEP M32(3) Exceptional Learner II
This course provides in depth understanding of the ethical and professional issues related to collaborative service provision for children with disabilities.
Outcome: By viewing ability within the broader context of human diversity, students will learn instructional strategies that foster a student's meaningful participation in heterogeneous classrooms as well as the larger communities in which they live.

Components: Laboratory (In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

CIEP M33(3) Accessing and Adapting the General Education Curriculum
Within this course, candidates explore methods to adapt the general education curriculum in order to meet the individual needs of students with disabilities. Issues of differentiating student needs, long and short-term planning, technology-assisted learning, and vocational and social skills curricula will be addressed along with behaviors and modification related to low incidence exceptionalities.

Outcome: Candidates will demonstrate an understanding of adapting the general education curriculum for students with special needs through the design of a universalized lesson plan, a synthesis of relevant literature, and researching assistive technology.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CIEP M34(3) Family, Community and School-Based Consultation
Within this course, candidates explore how members of families affected by disability and school/community professionals can enter into productive partnerships and create positive outcomes for students in elementary and secondary schools. Different approaches to work on school or community based teams, the different aspects of planning and implementing team processes, and the challenges and threats to that process, are examined.

Outcome: Candidates will demonstrate an understanding of collaborative relationships, and design and evaluate a wraparound plan for a student with a disability based on case study information and research.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

CIEP M35(3) Methods of Instruction: Infants, Toddler and Preschoolers
This course is designed to prepare candidates to develop curriculum and assessment strategies for working with infants, toddlers, and preschool children.

Outcome: Candidates will develop a strong foundation of so that they are able to make more successful accommodations and modifications for children with exceptionalities.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Professional Applications in Special Education
This course will introduce candidates to research-based, hands-on teaching and learning tools to be implemented in the classroom. Designed to be taken during the special education student teaching experience, candidates will create appropriate learning tools to meet students' abilities and needs.

Course Outcomes:
Candidates will
1) develop competencies in the collaborative and consultative roles of special educators in the integration of individuals with disabilities into the general curriculum as well as educational and alternative settings;
2) reflect on their own practice to improve instruction and guide professional growth.

Critical Investigations in the Field of Curriculum
This course critically examines the foundations of curriculum from a critical lens on the field of curriculum. Students study controversial curriculum issues across schools and communities drawing from curriculum theory and policy in lived and specific historical contexts. It starts with the discussion of the history of the field, multiple definitions of curriculum, paradigms, and philosophies and then moves on to wonder about the prospects for the future. Students examine a broad range of historical documents and theoretical essays as they consider essential curriculum questions both in schools and communities.

Outcome: This course will educate students in historical and philosophical curriculum inquiry across schools and communities. Students explore curriculum issues in real and particular historical, philosophical contexts and apply them to contemporary curriculum discourses.

Participatory Action Research (PAR) in Schools and Communities

This course will provide candidates with the knowledge and skills to use participatory action research (PAR) practices and approaches. Candidates will develop theoretical and practical knowledge related to a collaborative approach to research. The theoretical framework situates stakeholders in schools and community organizations as experts in their field and sees collaborative research between institutions of higher learning and schools and communities as an opportunity to authentically address germane problems and issues while promoting shared learning.

Outcomes: this course emphasizes valuing the epistemic assets that local stakeholders bring to identifying and working toward solutions that benefit their missions and finding ways to bring attention to their work through research and publications.

Course Description:

Trauma Sensitive Schools

Course Description: Students will explore literature on trauma sensitive schools and the intersection with race and discrimination. They will use Multi-Tiered systems of support to support students at each tier and support staff and families.

Course Outcomes:
- Gaining a basic understanding of the subject (e.g., factual knowledge, methods, principles, generalizations, theories)
- Learning to apply course material (to improve thinking, problem solving, and decisions)
- Developing specific skills, competencies, and points of view needed by professionals in the field most closely related to this course

Components: Discussion(Online)
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Auditorium(1)

Culturally Relevant Literature for Children & Adolescents

This course introduces participants to texts and classroom materials that authentically portray and reflect the cultural and linguistic diversity of classrooms and communities. The course focuses on analyzing materials for relevance and authenticity, learning about bilingual students through diverse stories, and using culturally relevant texts to support students' learning and development in classrooms.

Outcome:
Participants will find, select, and utilize culturally relevant and authentic literature to support students' learning and development in culturally and linguistically diverse classrooms.

English Language Learning Practicum

The practicum experience serves to integrate learning from across the Masters program within authentic teaching and learning environments spanning PK-20 settings. The course involves formal observation, support, and evaluation during classroom teaching with bilingual students, guided by specific practicum assignments that center on backward design via data analysis, classroom environment, and instructional units of study.

Outcome:
Participants will demonstrate competence, effectiveness, and responsiveness in daily classroom practice with bilingual students.

Everything we do in classrooms and schools requires language, yet the nuances and complexities of language are rarely explored in educator-preparation programs. As the population diversifies and more students come to schools with competencies in languages other than English, teachers must understand how language works so that they can support students in developing language spanning grades and disciplines. In this course, teachers will explore the language demands within and across academic disciplines and enact scaffolds to support multilingual students; language development by attending to these demands. Course understandings and related pedagogical practices emphasize the value of students; multilingual repertoires and competencies with foci on building metalinguistic awareness and encouraging translanguaging with students; languages and language varieties. Pedagogical practices will focus primarily on building classroom environments to support students; language development, including contextual features,

Social Justice for Multilingual Learners
COURSE DESCRIPTION This course introduces educators to foundational principles and practices for promoting social justice and educational equity while teaching multilingual learners in today’s classrooms. A central component to teaching for social justice for students labeled as English learners (ELs), this course prompts educators to deconstruct their identities, experiences, and perspectives on cultural and linguistic diversity as a means to recognize and deconstruct language ideologies, deficit-based perspectives, personal biases, and institutionally driven assumptions. Framed by larger sociolinguistic and sociopolitical themes in the field of EL/bilingual education, educators explore students’ diversity in their classrooms and schools and reflect upon current practice with that lens. Participants then draw from the literature to develop personal philosophy statements for serving multilingual learners with goals for their own professional learning.

Literacy Teaching for Bilingual & Multilingual Students
COURSE DESCRIPTION Literacy is widely seen as one of the most important skills that children need in order to be successful in school and beyond, however the teaching of reading and writing are largely still approached from a monolingual paradigm even though the vast majority of classrooms have students who speak (and are often literate to varied degrees in that language) in at least one other language beyond the language of instruction. Therefore, it is essential that educators acquire the knowledge and skills to consider the development of literacy from a broader, less restrictive linguistic paradigm in order to engage and effectively teach reading and writing to their students who are bi/multilingual. Regardless of teaching context (e.g., grade level);

Curr Theory & Research with Schools & Communities: Positionalities, Perspectives, & Transformations
The purpose of this course is to advance students' understanding of contemporary theoretical underpinnings of curriculum. In this course, the curriculum is understood as both the explicit planned course of learning put before students, and the hidden or latent experiences that students encounter in school and community settings. Students become familiar with the theoretical orientation of research on curriculum and to be able to evaluate the worth of research related to curriculum issues.

Outcome: Students will pose a problem, a question or a series of questions that would address the problem, collect data to facilitate answering some or all of the questions, analyze the data, and produce a series of reports on the state of their research in school and community settings.

Curriculum Policy across Schools and Communities
This course offers a critical examination of the intersections of curriculum politics, policy, and practice in schools and communities. The goal is to increase students' understanding of the complexities of educational policy in practice as a means to assist them in becoming effective leaders and practitioners who influence and implement curricular policy in service of social justice.

Outcome: Students will examine historical and current trajectories of curricular policy spanning educational contexts, using various theoretical frameworks to probe how policy layers, locales, and actors influence the design and implementation in practice.

Curriculum Improvement and School-Community Change
Recognizing that the growth and development of schools and communities are inextricably linked, this course develops candidates' understanding of curriculum and school reform as well as community improvement. It examines historic school reform and contemporary school change models in addition to school-based reform strategies intended to improve teaching and learning in schools. The course further examines contemporary community development strategies such as community organizing, community economic development, and social service approaches in order to grant insights into the role communities play as potential partners in school improvement.

Outcome: Students will assess current research on curriculum reform and community development and their implications for improving student learning and achievement in school settings. Students will work with a

Restorative Justice in Schools
This course begins with an immersion experience where students will build relationships with each other and, through experiential exercises and lively discussion, internalize core principles. Throughout the immersion and course, students compare and contrast restorative and retributive justice models, practice proactive and responsive restorative techniques, and identify personal and professional shifts to exemplify a restorative mindset. Specific restorative techniques which students will learn include restorative language, facilitation of a variety of types of circles, restorative dialogue processes, connections between racial and restorative justice, and systems and structures to accommodate restorative practice within school life. Through additional online seminars, students will strengthen their knowledge of the history, theory, research, and practice of Restorative Justice. The culminating focus of the course invites students to apply restorative principles and practices in their own school or district setting.

Clinical Mental Health Counseling

The first purpose is to conduct an in-depth examination of Community Counseling as a helping profession. Specifically, we will examine (a) historical, philosophical, and social/political influences on contemporary community counseling practices, (b) professional organizations to which community counselors belong, the settings in which they practice, and the roles of community counselors in those settings, (c) credentialing and licensing for community counseling practice, and (d) knowledge bases critical to community counseling. The second purpose is to provide students with an opportunity to develop their skills at presenting to professional audiences. Thus, students will have an opportunity to develop in-depth knowledge on a substantive topic relevant to the work of community counselors and present their findings to the class.

Internship in School Business Management I

This required semester-long internship course (16 week) in the Chief School Business Official's Endorsement (CSBO) program supports the development of Ignatian servant-leaders in public schools and school district communities. Integrity and professional competence are demonstrated as candidates show their understanding of the basic concepts; best practices; and requisite dispositional capacities related to ethical school business management.

- Approval of ADSU Program Director. Limited to 6 students per semester.
- Outcomes: Gain practical experience within the school district business environment; acquire knowledge of the industry in which the internship is done; and apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom in a component.
- Components: Internship (Online)
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

School of Education - Research Methods - Subject: Research Methods

RMTD 380(3)  Course ID:006377  20-DEC-2012
Statistical Methods
This undergraduate course provides an introduction to descriptive and inferential statistical methods used in education, psychology and the health professions.
Outcome: Students will be able to analyze quantitative data using a statistical computing package, to interpret and communicate the results of a statistical analysis in written and oral presentations, and to understand the assumptions and limitations of using statistical methods for analysis.

Components:
- Lecture
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

RMTD 400(3)  Course ID:006378  20-DEC-2012
Introduction to Research Methodology
This course provides an introduction to research methods used in education and the social sciences including qualitative and quantitative research designs.
Outcome: Students will be able to critique the argument and methods used in a primary research study, to integrate in a written literature review the results of studies in order to present an argument, and to understand the ethical issues involved in research with human subjects.

Components:
- Lecture
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate Education Students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

RMTD 401(3)  Course ID:006379  20-DEC-2012
Discourse Analysis and Documentary Research
This research methods course will examine a number of different discourse analysis techniques. It will also prepare students to conduct historical documentary research, all with a special emphasis on how these methods can be applied to educational research and policy analysis projects.
Outcome Statement
Students in the course will be able to critically evaluate the diverse range of approaches used to analyze discourse and conduct educational research using documentary sources.

Communicating Research Findings

Course ID: 006385
Offered: 01-APR-2018
Components: Seminar
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: RMTD 400 or equivalent; Restricted to Graduate Education Students
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Outcome: Students will have enhanced skills in communicating research findings to diverse audiences, both verbally and in writing.

Introduction to Human Performance Technology

Course ID: 012180
Offered: 20-DEC-2012
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to students in the Graduate School or Graduate School of Education
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Outcomes: Students will be able to apply the practices associated with the roles of an HPT professional. Students will conduct an analysis of an organizational problem and plan an appropriate intervention and change management strategy.

Needs Assessment

Course ID: 012179
Offered: 15-APR-2017
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisites: RMTD 400 or equivalent; Restricted to Graduate Education Students
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Outcomes: Students will plan a needs assessment, develop data collection tools and conduct a practice assessment.

Practicum in Organizational Evaluation

Course ID: 012181
Offered: 20-DEC-2012
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to students in the Graduate School or Graduate School of Education
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Outcomes: During the course of the practicum candidates are expected to complete a practicum project. The practicum project involves the planning, conducting and reporting results of an evaluation, human performance improvement, or needs assessment project.

Educational Research I: Building a Body of Evidence With Qualitative Methods

Prerequisite: RMTD 400 or equivalent.
Course ID: 009877
Offered: 15-JUN-2014
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: RMTD 400
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Outcome: Students will be able to discuss the meanings of research and of research traditions within the discipline of qualitative research through examination of various theories, traditions, genres, and components of this form of inquiry.

RMTD 421(3) Course ID:009878 01-NOV-2013

Educational Research II: Building a Body of Evidence With Quantitative Methods
This course introduces students to the theories, traditions and components of quantitative research in the social sciences, integrating basic design principles of quantitative research with commonly used statistical methods for analyzing data from these designs.

Outcome: Students will be able to recognize and discuss various epistemologies, designs, theories and ethical issues in quantitative research, to critique quantitative studies in terms of design, methodology, validity, statistical analysis, results, ethics and conclusions in oral and written critiques, to apply statistical methods to quantitative data using a statistical analysis computer program, to understand and discuss the theoretical basis and underlying assumptions of various statistical methods in the context of common quantitative study designs, and to analyze, interpret and present the findings of a data analysis.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate Education Students. Prerequisite of RMTD 404 or Equivalent.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

RMTD 422(3) Course ID:011873 20-DEC-2012

Single Subject Design
Prerequisite: RMTD 400

This course will introduce students to single-case experimental designs as they apply to research and practice in special education and other educational settings. Methods for single-case experiments are applicable to monitoring response to intervention as well as research on low-incidence conditions. Students will learn to critique single-subject experimental research studies and to design studies to monitor treatment interventions in educational settings.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate Education Students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

RMTD 430(3) Course ID:006386 15-JUN-2017

Psychological Measurement
This course introduces the assumptions underlying measurement in psychology and education including types of measurements, test development, and theoretical, quantitative and practical issues of reliability, validity and scoring.

Outcome: Students will be able to critique studies of the development, reliability and validity of measurement instruments, and to design and plan a study of the reliability and validity of a measurement instrument.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: RMTD 404 or equivalent; or Department permission

Mixed Methods Research
Enrollment is restricted to Graduate Education Students. Prerequisites: RMTD 420 and RMTD 421

The course addresses the theory and practice of mixing inquiry methodologies in educational and social inquiry. The course covers selected roots of the contemporary interest in mixing methods, various conceptualizations of mixed methods design and analysis, and challenges of mixed methods practice.

Students will develop a historical understanding of mixed methods and various frameworks for mixed methods, as well as basic competencies in mixed methods practice.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Case Study Research
Course ID: 011765
20-DEC-2012

This course in an in-depth study of a qualitative research methodology: case study. This course allows students to carry out a case study, as well as engage issues common across qualitative research methodologies, such as the flexibility in research design, the ethical dimensions of qualitative research, and qualitative data analysis. Course content is applicable to research and evaluation contexts in education as well as other social and human service practices.

Advanced Educational Statistics
Course ID: 006388
20-DEC-2012

This course covers statistical inference, hypothesis testing, estimation of power, factorial analysis of variance, multiple regression and selected non-parametric statistical techniques.

Outcome: Students will be able to identify and justify the use of particular statistical techniques for a given research question, to analyze quantitative data using a statistical computing package, to interpret and communicate the results of a statistical analysis in written and oral presentations, and to critique the assumptions and limitations of statistical techniques in a given analysis.

Multivariate Statistics
Course ID: 006390
01-JAN-2019

This course covers multiple regression, multivariate analysis of variance (MANOVA), multivariate analysis of covariance (MANCOVA), repeated MANOVA, discriminant analysis, canonical correlation and possibly principal components/factors analysis. Knowledge of basic algebra and univariate inferential statistical techniques is required; knowledge of calculus is not required.

Prerequisite: RMTD 421 (B or Better)

Outcome: This course equips students with knowledge and hands-on experience for conducting valid quantitative research focusing on multivariate statistics. Students will be able to identify and justify the use of particular multivariate statistical techniques for a given research question, to analyze multivariate data using SPSS, and to interpret and communicate the results of a statistical analysis in written and oral presentations.

The Profession and Our Program (TLLSC)

This module (course) introduces teacher candidates (students) to the profession and our program (TLLSC) with a focus on collaborative relationships within and among schools, families, and communities. This module (course) will expose teacher candidates (students) to specific knowledge and skill indicators necessary for educators to embody the dispositions of the profession.

Outcomes: Teacher candidates (students) will reflect on the knowledge, skills, and dispositions of educators with regard to teaching diverse students, the mission of Professionalism in Service of Social Justice, and the connection between research and practice related to collaborative relationships.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Engaged Learning
Requirement Group: Corequisites: TLSC 120 and TLSC 130. TLSC 110, 120 and 130 must be taken together. Register for TLSC 110, 120 and 130 together.

Bringing Language, Learning & Dev Theory into Practice

In this module, students will observe and learn key principles and stages developmental and learning theories via clinical experiences in birth to grade 12 settings (including infant/toddler, preschool, elementary, middle, and high schools). The primary focus of these experiences is to explore the ways in which physical characteristics, communication skills, cognitive capacities, and social-emotional needs of children be used to understand theory and inform adult-child interaction and developmentally appropriate pedagogical practices in birth to grade 12 settings with both typically and atypically developing children.

Outcomes: Through guided observation, students will explore the ways in which social, cultural, and environmental contexts shape the development and cognitive processing at each age, and use this knowledge to inform recommendations for developmentally appropriate adult-child interaction and pedagogical practices with

Individualized Assessment & Instruction for Diverse Students
This module is specifically designed for candidates to appreciate, discern and utilize the individual needs of students to plan instruction and support student achievement. In this module, student achievement is not only conceptualized as academic, but also social, emotional, behavioral, cultural and linguistic; in this way, candidates will explicitly focus on the multifaceted nature of planning for students with special needs and those who have been labeled as ELL. Through the use of case study research to collect individualized, authentic language and literacy assessment with one student, candidates will apply learning to the specific instructional context of a student who qualifies with at least one of the following labels: (a) student with special needs, (b) English language learner, or (c) struggling reader.

Teaching Science and Writing in the Middle Grades Classroom
The content of this module focuses on the Framework for K-12 Science Education and the related Next Generation Science Standards (NGSS). A strong emphasis will be placed on disciplinary literacy within science, including reading comprehension strategies, facilitating scientific discussions, and integrating writing instruction that supports student learning. Students will engage with important science ideas, identify high quality resources, and undergo the process of planning cohesive storylines that could be implemented in middle grade classrooms.

OUTCOMES: As a part of this module, candidates will understand that effective educators:

Develop and assess personal learning objectives following Loyola Center for Experiential Learning protocols.

The internship experience builds on experiences teacher candidates have in the TLLSC program working with local museums. Candidates will complete internship hours on site at assigned museum, working directly with the museum's Ed department. In addition, they will participate in online seminar meetings designed to make sense of the internship experiences, digest the relevant literature and draw research to practice connections.

Outcomes: Teacher candidates will be proficient in the use of data based decision making that informs instruction and guides students' academic and behavioral modifications.

Informal Science Education Seminar
This course examines current issues around teaching and learning in informal science education (ISE). Students will develop and apply an understanding of learning theories related to learning in informal science, collaborations between informal and formal science education, issues around access and equity, and research and evaluation related to informal science education.

Course Outcomes:
- Describe characteristics of teaching and learning in informal science settings.
- Describe practices that support learning and development in informal science settings.
- Summarize theories and frameworks relevant to understanding teaching, learning and development in informal science settings.

Discipline-Specific Literacy for Diverse Students
This module (course) supports teacher candidates (students) in developing their knowledge and skills in teaching and assessing literacy in discipline specific contexts. Emphasized will be the identification and use of culturally responsive texts, evidence based strategies, data based decision making skills and new literacies (technology and online resources) designed to target all students' literacy needs, including those with linguistically diverse backgrounds.

Outcomes: Teacher candidates (students) will apply understanding of literacy lesson design, assessment and instruction in discipline specific contexts. They will be required to collect and utilize data to teach targeted standards based reading skills to linguistically diverse students and to utilize technology in their lesson delivery.

Components: Field Studies (In person)

Language, Learning & Development Theories in Practice

Students will learn key principles and stages of language acquisition, developmental and learning theories through clinical experiences with children from birth to grade 12. Field experiences provide opportunities to explore ways in which physical characteristics, communication skills, cognitive capacities, and the social-emotional needs of children are used to understand theory and inform adult-child interaction and developmentally appropriate practice.

Outcome: Students will explore the ways in which social, cultural, and environmental contexts shape language, development and cognitive processing at each age, and use this knowledge to inform recommendations for developmentally appropriate adult-child interaction and pedagogical practices with every age range from birth through grade 12.

Adolescent Literacy Instruction

This course focuses on developing effective instructional practices that promote the ongoing development of adolescent literacies including essential reading skills, critical literacy skills, multimodal literacy skills, and disciplinary literacy skills. Foundational in the premise that all adolescents have and can develop a variety of literacies that facilitate reading the word to read the world, teacher candidates will develop a repertoire of strategies for building essential reading skills and developing academic language informed by CCSS and WIDA standards. They will also learn how to bring together their content knowledge, understandings of academic language and literacy, criticality, and the importance of using multimodal texts to create lessons that address the needs of all learners, including emerging bilinguals.

Outcomes: Use research and evidence-based practices to design instruction that includes the alignment of

Teaching and Learning in an Area of Specialization

This module further develops and deepens candidates' understanding and application of designing instruction in an area of specialization. Candidates use data, select essential content, implement strategic pedagogy, and integrate technology to meet the needs of PreK-12 students in a particular curricular area.

Outcome: Teacher candidates will reflect on their implementation of the full instructional cycle and after analysis of the data generated from that instruction will identify research that informs instruction future teaching.

Teaching and Learning with a Global Framework

Teacher candidates will work with PreK-12 teachers to develop and implement a trans-disciplinary/interdisciplinary curriculum unit with a service component. This module's (course) experiences are specifically designed to prepare candidates for teaching in schools that offer an International Baccalaureate program.

Outcome: Teacher candidates assess their instruction using a global framework in this module and develop an action plan to improve practice as they move into the final phase of the teacher preparation program.

Secondary Content Methods: Curriculum, Instruction and Assessment in Secondary Content Areas

This 6-credit course content-area methods course focuses on three primary areas: curriculum design, instruction, and assessment within the secondary content areas.

Outcomes: This course module focuses on current bodies of knowledge in the field of Science Education. Candidates must demonstrate understanding of A Framework for K-12 Science Education and the Next Generation Science Standards, as well as current literature. They will also critically evaluate curriculum, instructional and assessment practices in a variety of diverse classroom and community settings, with a focus on equity.

15-JUN-2016

Mol Biol & Genet of Develop
This is a weekly course on Molecular aspects of Developmental Biology, with a mixture of lectures, discussions of original papers and presentations by external speakers.

Outcome: An understanding of the principles of developmental biology with emphasis in the molecular genetics of development.

Components: Lecture
Course Equivalents: BICH 524
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

DNA Repair & Recombination

Course ID: 005142
15-JUN-2016

DNA Repair & Recombination
This is a weekly course on mechanisms of mutagenesis, genetic repair and recombination. The course uses a mixture of lectures and discussions of original scientific papers.

Outcome: An understanding of the basic mechanisms of mutagenesis, genetic repair, homologous recombination, and non-homologous end joining.

Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Molec Biol of Oncogenesis

Course ID: 005145
15-JUN-2016

Molec Biol of Oncogenesis
The course will cover different subjects in cancer molecular biology with a combination of lectures and discussions of original scientific papers.

Outcome: A basic knowledge about mechanisms of oncogenesis and the biology of cancer, and an ability to search and understand the classic as well as modern literature on the subject.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Presentation skills
Scientists must communicate their work in numerous venues, from giving oral presentations in seminars and conferences to writing papers and grant proposals. This course is designed to train students in the design and delivery of effective oral presentations, a skill that can be readily adapted to serve as a starting point for written communications.

Outcomes:
1. Identify elements of an effective oral presentation
2. Deliver an effective oral presentation
3. Judge the effectiveness of oral presentations

Clinical Considerations and Biomarker Development
This course will cover fundamental concepts about the criteria for something to qualify as a biomarker and how they are analyzed by mass spectrometry from a variety of biological fluids and/or tissues. We will also discuss the broader uses of mass spectrometry in a clinical or hospital setting.

Pre-requisites: Enrollment in CAMS-MS program.

Outcomes: At the end of this course students will be able to: 1) Compare and contrast aspects of good vs bad biomarkers and the utility of mass spectrometry for their detection in biological samples; 2) Describe best practices for sample collection and the limitations of using biological samples; 3) Describe current regulations and standards for biomarker use in the clinic; 4) Identify and describe biohazard safety issues

Advanced Mass Spectrometry Approaches
This course will cover advanced MS approaches to address specialized needs. These approaches will frequently require specific instrumentation, and bioinformatics approaches, but sometimes only involve changes to sample preparation and interpretation.

Pre-requisite: Enrollment in CAMS-MS program

Outcomes: At the end of this course students will be able to: 1) Understand the need for specialized mass spec approaches; 2) Appreciate the theory behind specialized mass spec approaches; 3) Describe the technical and practical considerations when utilizing specialized MS approaches; and 4) Be able to choose the correct advanced MS approach for a particular situation.

This course will be a hands-on intensive laboratory rotation. Students will learn how to prepare samples that are "mass spec ready" from a variety of liquid and solid tissue biological samples. Students will learn quality control parameters and will produce high quality samples for use in the HPLC and mass spectrometer.

Pre-requisites: Enrollment in CAMS-MS program

Outcomes: At the end of this course students will be able to: 1) Process liquid and tissue biological samples for analysis by mass spectrometry; 2) Perform gel electrophoresis on prepared samples and excise selected gel bands; 3) Perform in-gel digestions using standard enzymatic approaches; 4) Perform

Gross Anatomy

The student develops a knowledge and understanding of the basic concepts and facts of human gross anatomy as it relates to function and clinical problems. Lectures, clinical case-based and problem-based learning, computer-aided instructional materials, and cadaver dissection serve as guides to laboratory study.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Histology

The course is designed to provide the student with a basic knowledge and understanding of the structure and function of the human body at the light and electron microscopic level. The interdependence between structure and function in the different tissues and organs of the body is emphasized. Clinical and research application of the course material are also stressed.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Advanced Gross Anatomy

The study of the gross structure of the human body at an advanced level presented at conference sessions. Registrants for this course may include graduate students, advanced medical students, as well as those who hold the M.D. degree and are concurrently registered for advanced work in one of the clinical departments.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Scientific Litr: Review & Critique

Students are taught critical evaluation of scientific literature, hypothesis testing and presentations. This course involves attendance at scientific presentations by students and outside speakers and a journal club component. Both staff and students participate and the class is only offered during the fall semester. This course alternates with Review and Seminar 446.

Components: Seminar

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Review Seminar

The student participates in a series of seminars and journal clubs that provide a forum for intensive review of scientific topics. Research progress reports of the students is incorporated into this course as a part of the scientific presentation. This course alternates with the Scientific Literature Course 445 and is only offered during the spring semester.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Moral Theology for Bioethics
This course provides an introduction to Catholic moral theology through a historical review of its development and a consideration of key documents, events, arguments and concepts beginning with the scriptural witness of Christ and concluding with the moral teaching of John Paul II as it bears upon contemporary Catholic moral theology.
Outcomes: Its goal is to assist in establishing an historical and theoretical foundation for those who are interested in bioethics as it is considered and practiced in the Catholic tradition.

Catholic Bioethics in Clinical Practice
This course offers a topical survey of bioethical issues pertinent to clinical practice in the Catholic context. The United States Conference of Catholic Bishops' document, Ethical and Religious directives for Catholic Health Care Services, 5th Edition, serves as the guiding document of the course. Topics and concepts considered include abortion, contraception, sterilization, nutrition and hydration, withdrawal of life support, care of the dying, cooperation, conscience, human dignity and personhood.
Outcomes: This course aims to assist students in establishing a substantive familiarity with the positions and moral reasoning of the Catholic tradition in clinical bioethics through a consideration of Church documents, scholarly texts and articles and formative debates within contemporary Catholic bioethics.

Catholic Bioethics and Social Justice
This course involves an historical study of the development of the body of official Catholic Social Teaching (CST) specific to its impact on healthcare delivery in the United States. Current developments in select key social issues and movements are also addressed insofar as those issues and movements influenced healthcare delivery. The pastoral letters of the U.S. Bishops, especially their teachings on healthcare reform, also receive attention. The interface between religious faith and public policy debates is a constant concern throughout the course. Practical strategies for fostering a social justice consciousness in healthcare settings are also considered.
Outcomes: Extensive use of case discussion and analysis will help to develop the participants' understanding of the principles of CST and their application to the healthcare context.

Practicum in Organizational/Public Health Ethics

Prerequisite: BEHL419

The practicum will enable the student to work on a project which translates both general and discipline-specific information into organizational ethics or public health practice. Students must demonstrate the capacity to utilize knowledge and make evidence-based decisions regarding these topics, and exhibit leadership, creativity, and the ability to work well with others.

Outcomes: Goal of the practicum is to provide students the opportunity to use knowledge and skills acquired in the academic program in a professional setting under the direction of a preceptor.

Components: FTC - Doctoral Study (Blended)

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

---

Doctoral Capstone I

Prerequisites: Oral and Written Qualifying Exams.

This course is an opportunity for doctoral students in our program to further develop a paper from their practicum experience and/or another course and revise it into a manuscript of publishable quality.

Outcomes: Publishable peer-reviewed paper.

Components: FTC - Doctoral Study (Online)

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

---

Doctoral Capstone II

Prerequisites: BEHL423

This course is an opportunity for doctoral students in our program to further develop a paper from their practicum experience and/or another course and revise it into a manuscript of publishable quality.

Outcomes: Students will be required to appear on campus for a capstone presentation with faculty.

Components: FTC - Doctoral Study (Online)

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

---

Empirical Bioethics

Provides an overview of empirical research in the increasingly interdisciplinary field of bioethics. Will examine the relationship between empirical data and normative claims and potential pitfalls that may arise when using information about what (is) to determine what (ought) to be done.

Outcomes: Students will gain familiarity with the range of quantitative and qualitative research methods used in bioethics as well as academic disciplines, understanding of empirical studies on ethical problems in medicine, public health policy, and clinical research. Discussions will be relevant to a range of professional settings.

Components: Lecture (Online)

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

Ignatian Spirituality and Medicine

This course will explore the roots of Ignatian Spirituality as presented in the Spiritual Exercise and other writings of Ignatius Loyola and the early Jesuits. From this historical starting point, the course will shift to explore key themes that have emerged from this spiritual tradition as it relates to medicine, paying special attention to the Spiritual Exercises.

Outcomes: This course aims to assist students in establishing a substantive understanding of Ignatian spirituality and the tradition of Jesuit education in which they participate as a means for leading faithful, joyful, and hopeful lives as physicians.

Components: Lecture (Blended)

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Fieldwork

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Professionalism and Professional Ethics

This course will review and critically examine the professional codes of ethics of a variety of health-related professions: medicine, nursing, dentistry, social work, chaplaincy, risk management, and allied health. We will examine the growth of professionalism as a movement and answer questions related to this topic.

Outcomes: Understand what is a profession, what are professional ethics. Difference between common morality and professional ethics, and difference between applied ethics and professional ethics. We will also discuss whether a pan-professional ethics code is needed for the health care professions.

Writing and Scholarship Skills

Writing skills are an essential form of communication not only between the instructor and students but also among and between the students themselves. Topics covered: Academic Integrity; Grammar; Resource Development/Citation; Clarity/Formality; Development of a Thesis and Writing of a Thesis Statement; Organization and Outlining; Critical Thinking/Analysis/Reasoning; and Development of a Conclusion.

Outcomes: This course will provide a review of basic writing skills as well help students develop analytical and communication skills that are critical to scholarly writing in the multidisciplinary field of bioethics.

Pediatric Ethics

This course will introduce ethical topics in the areas of pediatric medicine and research. Topics to be addressed may include: decision making, neonatal issues, teens and decisional authority, research with minors.

Outcome: Discover aspects of the pediatric population that raise unique concerns, create novel moral environments, and thus require nuanced and sensitive attention to and tools of ethical inquiry.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

BEHL 430(3)  Course ID:013116  15-JUN-2018

Advanced Clinical Ethics Skills

Two-month blended course of online learning and two-day intensive experience on Health Sciences Campus in Maywood. Course provides an opportunity for advanced graduate students to improve and refine clinical ethics skills. Participants will practice consultation skills, evaluate performance of others, and receive feedback from faculty reviewers.

Prerequisite: BEHL 410 Ethics Consult Simulation Seminar

Outcome: Students will develop their own portfolio for quality attestation.

Components: Seminar(Blended)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BEHL 410
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

BEHL 431(3)  Course ID:013115  15-JUN-2018

Advanced Topics in Research Ethics: Special Populations

This course will focus on unique ethical issues that arise in research with special populations. Included but not limited to children; women, fetuses, and embryos; prisoners; indigenous and racial/ethnic minority communities; healthy volunteers. Research in emergency and international settings as well as research at the end-of-life will be discussed.

Prerequisite: BEHL 405 Research Ethics, or permission from instructor.

Outcome: Material covered in this course will be relevant for ethicists, IRB members, and clinical investigators.

Components: Lecture(Online)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BEHL 405 Research Ethics
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)
BEHL 433(3)  Mastering Clinical Ethics Consultation

Course ID: 014347
Department Consent Required:
15-JUN-2022

This 2 week on-campus course provides an opportunity for advanced bioethics doctoral students in the clinical ethics concentration to refine their clinical ethics skills to a mastery level. Students will participate in simulated ethics consultations, practice communication and interpersonal skills and receive feedback on their performance. With access to LUHS, students will participate in clinical rounds, case discussions, and active ethics consultations and debriefing sessions. This course will require students to reach a predefined mastery level of skill in simulated ethics case consultations using the Assessing Clinical Ethics Skills (ACES) evaluation tool. They will also be required to write chart notes for ethics consultations.

BEHL 502(3)  Course ID: 013701  01-JAN-2021
Christian Doctorine
This course surveys the historical evolution of Christian doctrine and its theological interpretations from the early church through the 21st century. It assists students in understanding how theological doctrines apply to contemporary ministry contexts, particularly the work of Catholic health care. The course explores the early Christological controversies, the Trinity, Grace, liberationist theologies, and the role of dialogue as a fundamental feature of the development of doctrine.

Student Outcome: Students will understand theological doctrine and apply to contemporary ministry contexts in Catholic health care.

Foundations of Christian Spirituality
Christian spirituality (the ‘lived experience of Christian faith’) is a separate but partnered academic field with theology today. Key issues are: defining ‘spirituality’, methods in the field, spirituality vs. institutional religion, Jesus Christ (christology), major figures and movements in Christian spirituality; 2000 year history, and classical and contemporary themes.

Outcomes: Facility defining spirituality and Christian spirituality, and an informed understanding of the person Jesus Christ, the history of Christian spirituality, and the relationship of spirituality to theology and institutional religion.

Spiritual Paths in World Religions
This course explores the spirituality, theology, and practice of the major religious traditions. You will encounter other faith traditions by entering into their sacred prayer and worship experiences and learning from practitioners of that tradition how they encounter the sacred in their own lives.

Outcomes - Recognize the vast complexity of every religious tradition, resisting the urge to oversimplify. Engage those who practice other traditions in conversation. Experience the spiritual practice of other religious traditions.

Advanced Concepts in Health Systems Management
The course is structured around a framework that links strategic management with health care outcomes for today and tomorrow. Areas covered include: leadership, team building, planning, customers, markets, information and analysis, communication skills, conflict resolution, resource management, budgeting and organizational performance.

Outcomes: Analyze major strategic management processes, describe how evidence-research practice can be applied in health systems management, and integrate a framework for strategic management with the key concepts of outcomes-based performance management.

Integrated Doctoral Seminar in Ethics, Theology, and Healthcare

The Integrated Seminars in Ethics, Theology and Healthcare (ISETH) are the core of the Doctorate in Healthcare Mission Leadership (D.HMCL) degree program. Students in the DHCML program are required to complete three of these seminars, which will be offered every Fall and Spring term with variable topics, as part of their degree program. These courses will be primarily theoretical and methodological in focus, rather than practical.

Outcomes: This course is designed to build on and integrate students' prior graduate coursework in theology and bioethics with their ongoing work in Catholic healthcare.

Mission, Leadership, and Spiritual Formation Seminar

This course explores the theology, traditions, and current practices foundational for understanding and achieving formation as an essential offering of Catholic health care ministries. By examining a Face to Face Online Hybrid (greater than 75% online) Blended (30%-70% online) variety of methods and models of formation programs of Catholic healthcare in the United States, students will cultivate personal practices that enhance their ability to design and operationalize experiences for persons in various roles within the ministries they serve - from new associate orientation to senior leadership.

Outcomes: Gain an understanding and practical ability to ensure the programs, resources, and encounters they design and facilitate are grounded in tradition of Catholic ministry, inviting to diverse participant populations, and support the achievement of specified outcomes. In so doing, understand and develop skills

Infections and Immunology

IDIM400 integrates basic knowledge of infectious microorganisms with an understanding of innate and adaptive immune systems that react against them. Following a review of infections caused by specific infectious organisms, IDIM400 will focus on specific aspects of immune systems and how they interact to remove these infectious microorganisms.

Outcomes:
1. Explain the cellular basis of immune development
2. Differentiate between the mechanisms of activation of immune systems
3. Analyze the mechanisms involved in combating bacterial and viral infections.

IDIM401 integrates a basic science understanding of microorganisms with an understanding of their role in human health. Following a review of bacterial physiology and gene expression, the focus will be on bacterial disease, including basic strategies used to cause disease and details of pathogenesis by medically important bacterial pathogens.

Outcome:
1) Describe differences between bacteria and eukaryotes;
2) Understand mechanisms by which bacteria cause disease;
3) Understand limitations of current antimicrobial therapies;
4) Differentiate between similar diseases with different causes.

The Parasitology and Virology course IDIM 403 is designed to describe infections caused by microorganisms and animal diseases transmissible to man, with a primary focus on parasites and viruses. We will emphasize the pathophysiology of these diseases in humans of various ages. This course will promote an understanding of how the properties of certain infectious agents can in some cases avoid an adequate immune response.

Outcomes:
1. Explain the mechanisms of pathogenicity of various infectious agents.
2. Analyze the mechanisms by which emerging viruses arise.
3. Apply knowledge to viral vaccine development.

Grad Schll at Medical Center - Graduate Neuroscience - Subject: Graduate Neuroscience

NRSC 410(3)  Course ID:005485  15-MAR-2006
Cellular & Molecular Neurobio
This course will review current knowledge of the morphological, biophysical and biochemical properties of neurons. Fundamental neuronal network processes such as stimulus transduction, neuronal plasticity, information processing, and learning and memory will be reviewed.

Outcome: An advanced knowledge of the biophysical and biochemical properties of nerve cells and fundamental aspects of more global central nervous system function.

CMO 499(1 - 4) Course ID:013692 01-JAN-2019
Research
CMO 499 is designed to give credit for laboratory research efforts that will result in a M.S. thesis. Students will learn theoretical and laboratory technical tools to investigate and test a hypothesis. Students will search the literature for background, rationale, and protocols for their research project. Students will communicate results and knowledge through written and oral communications.

Restricted to students enrolled in CMO MS program

The outcomes are: 1. Clearly communicate, describe, and implement techniques used for a research problem; 2. Describe results-obtained; 3. Draw conclusions based on data-obtained; 4. List future directions; and 5. Understand the significance of the work

Components: Thesis Research(In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

CMO 502(1) Course ID:013694 01-JAN-2019
Seminar
A seminar will be held on a rotating basis once per week. CMO M.S. students will be required to attend seminars as part of the CMO 502 course. This course is designed to help students stay abreast of current topics in oncology. Students will attend weekly seminars, and are encouraged to interact with both invited and current faculty speakers by asking questions and contributing to group discussions. Upon completion of this course CMO 502, students will have gained a better understanding of current oncology research.

Restricted to students enrolled in CMO MS program

The course outcomes are: 1. Describe results or conclusions from a given seminar presentation 2. Understand how research is advancing knowledge in a given field covered by a representative seminar 3. Question new data

Components: Seminar(In person)
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

CMO 503(0 - 1) Course ID:013693 01-JAN-2021
Special Topics in Oncology
CMO 503 will be a new journal club course-discussing and analyzing papers from presenters in CMO 502 Seminar Series one week in advance of their seminar. CMO 503 and CMO 502 will be aligned to expose students to oncology-focused scientists presenting a seminar the following week. Students will read an article by the seminar speaker, participate in discussion sessions, and ask questions during the seminars.

Restricted to students enrolled in CMO MS program

The outcomes will be: 1. Describe cutting edge research in the particular area of investigation covered by the course; 2. Discuss limitations to experimental approaches; 3. Discuss real-world application of the research topic being studied; and 4. Critically read scientific literature on cancer biology.

Cellular Physiology
Prerequisites: Restricted to Master of Physiology Program students.

The major goal of the Cellular Physiology course is to define the molecular and cellular basis of systems Physiology and Pathophysiology. The course consists in distinct sessions of teaching, problem solving, and reviews.

Outcomes:
- Understand the relationships among molecular, cellular and systems physiology.
- Understand membrane structure and function.
- Understand distinct metabolic and signaling pathways.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to students pursuing a M.S. in Physiology.

Function of the Human Body I
This course will present the basic concepts and principles of human physiology. The course topics will include: introductory cell & neurophysiology, skeletal and smooth muscle, cardiac electrophysiology, EKG, cardiac muscle mechanics, circulation, special circulations and pulmonary physiology. The format will be lectures, simulations, small group problem sessions and scheduled reviews. Small group problem sessions will be held after each subject area and will focus on clinical application and integration of conceptual information presented in lectures. Small group sessions and reviews also will provide the student with the opportunity to obtain clarification from instructors of any outstanding questions and are designed to encourage active learning, as well as develop critical thinking and problem solving skills. Students will be evaluated by multiple choice and essay exams given after each of the 5 major topic areas. Course material will be geared toward non-thesis Masters students. Given that physiology is the basis of medicine, this Enrollment limited to Masters of Science in Physiology students.

This course presents the basic concepts and principles of human physiology. The course will be presented over one semester and the topics include: renal, acid-base balance, gastrointestinal, endocrine, and reproductive physiology. The format will be lectures, small group problem sessions and scheduled reviews.

Outcomes: Students will be able to:
- Explain the cellular mechanisms responsible for normal renal, acid-base, endocrine, gastrointestinal and reproductive physiology.

Introduction to Human Pathophysiology

Restricted to students in the Masters of Science in Physiology program

This course presents the basic concepts and principles of human pathophysiology. The course will be presented over one semester and the topics include: clinical evaluation of cardiac structure and function followed by a review of the major disorders of cardiovascular function.

Outcomes: Students will be able to critically evaluate basic pathophysiological mechanisms underlying the most common forms of adult human cardiovascular disease.

Components: Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to students pursuing a M.S. in Physiology.

Professional Development

Must be enrolled in the MSP program.

Professional Development will meet once/month throughout the one-year MSP program. Students will receive information about the options available for a career in the health sciences and will enhance their professional portfolio by participating in a variety of workshops designed to better equip them for a health science career.

Outcomes: Students will be able to understand the curriculum and admission requirements of the various professional health programs and gain an understanding of the interview process.

NCCA Personal Training Elective
This course encompasses an overview of key Exercise Science, training methodology and health behavior change principles. Students will then apply each principle into practice through screening and evaluation, exercise program design, and ethical, legal and professional responsibilities and guidelines.

Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to:
- Apply key exercise science, training methodology and health behavior change principles in context to the provision of exercise. Apply the practice of exercise and fitness screening and assessment, health appraisal and risk stratification, while simultaneously integrating ethical considerations and client preferences.

This course encompasses an overview of group exercise; to include cardiovascular exercise, strength training and stretching. Students will learn how to lead, instruct and motivate individuals or groups in exercise activities.

Outcomes:
Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to:
- Apply effective, exercise science-based group sessions for different fitness levels.
- Explain proper technique, demonstrate exercise, and teach appropriate methods to strengthen and stretch certain muscles.

Program Design in Exercise
This course focuses on the design, implementation and evaluation of exercise programs through case-based application and classroom activities. Health-related components of fitness and fitness assessments are reviewed. Individual and group exercise program designs within community-based settings for individuals through the life cycle are discussed. Evidence-based content is identified to critically analyze and develop conditioning programs and techniques for a broad range of sports and activities. Important elements of program design are used to emphasize desired client program outcomes.

Applied Physiology of Exercise
This course focuses on biologic system responses at rest, during exercise, and as the result of training. Major emphasis is placed on bridging gaps between introductory concepts of exercise physiology and the contemporary research evidence that further advances the field of exercise science. The effect of environmental systems and factors on the regulatory response to exercise is addressed. The history and major milestones associated with the development of the science of exercise physiology are presented. Future developments in the field of exercise physiology, such as the role of genetics and genomics are integrated into the course. Laboratory and field experiences provide students with opportunities to apply theory to practice.

Outcomes:

EXCM 424(3)  Course ID: 013909  01-JUL-2019
Motor Learning and Performance
The course provides instruction in how humans control locomotion and how they learn/re-learn motor skills. Specifically, the course emphasizes the observable behavioral aspects of motor control/learning while detailing the neurophysiological and biomechanical processes that result in motor behaviors. Major course concepts include information processing and decision making; speed, accuracy, and coordination; and knowledge and skill acquisition and transfer.

Outcomes:
1. Understand theoretical approaches that drive motor control and motor learning research.

Strength Training and Conditioning
This course focuses on the analysis of theory in the improvement of athletic performance, with specific emphasis on assessment and implementation of resistance training programs. Foundational knowledge in human physiology and biomechanics is applied to principles of speed, agility, power, flexibility, and technique development specific to individual's goals. Principles of anaerobic and aerobic metabolism in relation to strength training and conditioning are a major focus in the course. This course provides foundational preparation for students interested in taking the National Strength and Conditioning Association Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist’s exam.

Outcomes:
1. Analyze the relation between resistance training and human performance.

Nutrition, Health and Performance
This course focuses on advanced concepts of nutrition as these relate to health, exercise, fitness, and performance. The role of micronutrients and macronutrients in major dimension of health and fitness are addressed. Advanced concepts in nutrient selection, metabolism, and timing are integrated into plans for supporting and improving health and performance. Collaborative practice with dietetics professionals and the interprofessional team in optimizing health, fitness, and performance capacity is a major unifying concept of the course.

Outcomes:
1. Attribute major functions of macronutrients and micronutrients to health, exercise, fitness and performance.

EXCM 458(3)
Cardiac and Pulmonary Disease and Rehabilitation
This course focuses on two prevalent areas of public health concern for the exercise scientist: cardiac and pulmonary health and disease. Emphasis is placed on prevention, etiology, pathophysiology, and understanding the diagnosis and treatment of cardiac and pulmonary disease. The role of the clinical exercise scientist in preventive and rehabilitative exercise intervention and programming to promote cardiac and pulmonary health is emphasized. Key factors in the development, management, and evaluation of cardiopulmonary rehabilitation programs are integrated into the course.

Outcomes

1. Understand anatomy and physiology associated with cardiopulmonary health and disease.

Exercise Applications in Special Populations
This course focuses on the advanced knowledge and competencies needed to evaluate health behaviors and risk factors in special populations across the lifespan. The administration of fitness assessments and the design, implementation, and evaluation of exercise programs in special populations are addressed. Exercise is approached as a therapeutic and treatment modality for individuals and groups with a variety of anatomic, physiologic, cognitive and sensory alterations.

Outcomes:
1. Understand the advanced physiology of growth and development, aging, and the pathophysiology of health conditions, disease and disability in special populations.

This course focuses on principles of periodization applied to a performance enhancement setting. Major dimensions of the course include cycles and periods, peaking for competition, and rest and recovery. Periodization models and theories are examined, with a special emphasis on contemporary research findings that are applied to enhance athletic training and physical performance. Assessment of training programs based on performance requirements are a major emphasis throughout the course.

Outcomes:
1. Apply periodization models in the optimization of athletic or physical training and performance.
2. Analyze the relationship between training volume and intensity over time.
3. Analyze principles of program design for performance enhancement.

Research Methods and Evidence in Exercise Science
This course prepares the student to understand scholarly inquiry, evaluate research evidence, develop evidence-based practices/protocols, and generate knowledge for evidence-based practice in exercise and fitness. Methods of operationalizing scholarly inquiry include: understanding relations among theory, research, and practice; formulating research questions; identifying and appraising existing literature; critically evaluating research methodologies used in the study of an issue or problem; and applying research findings to exercise science practice. Social, cultural, political and ethical issues related to research are addressed, including special considerations of research conducted in exercise settings.

Outcomes:

Role Development in Dietetic Practice

Course ID: 014228
Date: 15-JUN-2021

Course Name: Role Development in Dietetic Practice
This course: includes concepts and resources related to professional practice as a registered dietitian.
Ethical issues, licensure, and scope of practice: will be explored.
Professional development: will be discussed from entry-level to advanced practice.
Fiscal aspects: of professional practice, such as reimbursement and compensation, will also be considered.

Prerequisite: Admission to the dietetic internship

Outcomes: Students will define ethical issues, licensure requirements, increase professional development, and learn about fiscal aspects of the practice, such as reimbursement and compensation.

Nutrition Focused Physical Assessment

Course ID: 011734
Date: 01-JUL-2019

Course Name: Nutrition Focused Physical Assessment
This course: focuses on physical and laboratory assessment skills necessary for the dietitian's practice, particularly in nutritional assessment and medical nutrition therapy.
Emphasis: is placed on skill development relevant to nutrition care of the individual, and/or for nutrition program delivery or evaluation.
This course: incorporates both classroom and lab activities.

Prerequisite: Master of Science in Dietetics major, or instructor permission
Outcomes: Demonstrate competence in conducting a nutrition-focused physical assessment; Demonstrate skills for assessment and care of the patient receiving specialized nutrition support; Measure common physiologic parameters used in medical nutrition therapy.

Components: Laboratory(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Dietetics Masters and Dietetic Internship students
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Lab - Nursing(1)

Transition to Supervised Practice in the Dietetic Internship

Course ID: 011727
Date: 01-JUL-2019

Course Name: Transition to Supervised Practice in the Dietetic Internship
Prerequisite: admission to LDI.
This course: begins skill development in preparation for the transition from the classroom environment to supervised practice in dietetics.
Topics: include ethical, legal, and safety issues for novice dietetic practice such as OSHA, HIPPA, IDPH, and standards of other regulatory agencies in health care.
The nutrition care process: including nutrition diagnostic language, planning and implementation of medical nutrition therapy (MNT) interventions are discussed.
Basic familiarity and use: of evidence-based practice protocols related to common conditions such as hypertension, diabetes, cardiovascular, renal, and/or gastrointestinal disorders, provision of specialized nutrition support and others.
Medical terminology: mastery is expected.
Emphasis: is placed on synthesis and application of undergraduate material, and effective clinical resource application.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Medical Nutrition Therapy Theory

Course ID: 011728
Date: 01-JUL-2019

Course Name: Medical Nutrition Therapy Theory
Prerequisite: FONU 420
This course: includes the study of medical nutrition therapy (MNT) theory for dietetic practice including acute care, long term and outpatient environments.
Complex medical conditions: including trauma, burns, transplant, oncology, diabetes mellitus, sepsis, cardiovascular, gastrointestinal, neurological, renal, and disorders.
Alternate modalities of nutrition supported: are included.
The course includes: theoretical foundations of patient care protocols, synthesis of research findings, and trends in health care related to practice protocols.
This course should: be taken in conjunction with FONU 423 for current Loyola dietetic interns.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Dietetics Masters and Dietetic Internship students
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Writing and Communications in Nutrition and Dietetics

Course ID: 013942
15-JUN-2019
Course Title: Writing and Communications in Nutrition and Dietetics
Description: This course focuses on scientific writing and communication skills essential to dietetic practice. Emphasis will be placed on clarity, consistency and translation of scientific evidence into effective messages for diverse populations. Standards for publication of practice and research based papers understanding and responding to peer review process will be discussed.
Prerequisites: Master of Science in Dietetics major, or instructor permission
Outcomes:
Create proposals, scientific reports and/or articles using writing skills of planning, drafting, revising and editing.
Components: Lecture
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Dietetic Theories & Research Methods

Course ID: 007236
01-JUL-2019
Course Title: Dietetic Theories & Research Methods
Description: This course includes emerging scientific research in the dietetics field as it relates to consumer food choices, evaluating the safety and health of the food supply, functional foods, vegetarian diets, food allergies and weight management. The course will focus on theoretical foundations, and synthesis of research trends into practice protocols. Mock counseling sessions will also occur utilizing up to date counseling methods including motivational interviewing for behavior change.
Prerequisites: Restricted to Dietetics Masters and Dietetic Internship students
Outcomes: Student will demonstrate knowledge in emerging areas related to dietetic practice.
Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Restricted to Dietetics Masters and Dietetic Internship students
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Trends in Dietetic Practice

Course ID: 011735
01-JUL-2019
Course Title: Trends in Dietetic Practice

Behavioral Change for Health Promotion

Course ID: 013944
01-APR-2020
Course Title: Behavioral Change for Health Promotion
Description: This course focuses on concepts and theories of health and behavior related to food, nutrition and other behaviors. Evidence to support select skills and techniques for health will be evaluated and applied. The impact of interventions will be analyzed to provide evidence-based frameworks for behavioral change in individuals and groups.
Prerequisites: Master of Science in Dietetics major, or instructor permission
Outcomes: Incorporate evidence-based behavioral change interventions into nutrition care plans; demonstrate skill in a behavioral change encounter in a simulation, analyze major approaches and influences of health promotion (e.g. policy, community engagement, advocacy and social marketing)
Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Implementation Science

MIS 400(3)
Course ID: 014179
15-JUN-2021

Implementation Science Theories

The course will review the major theories used in implementation science.

Outcomes: Students will be able to define, explain and determine in what situations the various theories of implementation science best apply.

Components: Lecture(Online)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MIS 402(3)
Course ID: 014180
15-JUN-2021

Implementation Science Research Methods

This course will review research methods used in conducting implementation science research.

Outcomes: Students will be able to define, explain and apply various research methods to different study questions.

Components: Lecture(Online)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MIS 404(3)
Course ID: 014181
15-JUN-2021

Qualitative Methods for Implementation Science Research

This course will review various qualitative methods including interviews, focus groups and other strategies.

Outcomes: Students will be able to create an interview guide and focus group script, and understand basics of coding qualitative data.

Components: Lecture(Online)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MIS 406(3)
Course ID: 014183
15-JUN-2021

Community-Engaged Research

This course will review various qualitative methods including interviews, focus groups and other strategies.

Outcomes: Students will be able to create an interview guide and focus group script, and understand basics of coding qualitative data.

Components: Lecture(Blended)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MIS 408(1)
Course ID: 014182
15-JUN-2021

Dissemination Strategies

This brief course will demonstrate how to present key findings in the most understandable and usable formats.

Outcomes: Students will be able to prepare key findings and messages in understandable and usable formats.

Components: Lecture(Online)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MIS 410(6)
Course ID: 014184
15-JUN-2021

Field Practicum in Implementation Science

This practicum will provide students with hands on experience in developing and leading a pilot implementation project.

Prerequisite(s): MIS 400, MIS 402, MIS 404, MIS 406, MIS 408

Outcomes: Students will present their findings as a requirement for completion of their MS.

Components: Practicum(Blended)

Req. Designation: Internship
MLS 401(2)  Course ID:013651  01-JUL-2019
Laboratory Fundamentals
Introduction to life in the clinical laboratory. Safety practices, laboratory mathematics, statistical analysis, and fundamental laboratory training in phlebotomy, pipetting, microscopy and calibrations.

Enrollment conditions: Admission to M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Outcomes: Upon completion, students will demonstrate safe and professional knowledge consistent with the field of Medical Laboratory Science, including use of universal precautions, phlebotomy, processing specimens, microscopy, and calibrations.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

MLS 410(2)  Course ID:013682  01-JUL-2019
Clinical Immunology
This course focuses on principles and procedures of immunology and serology. Emphasis will be on the role of the immune system in health and disease and developing an understanding of the role of both humoral and cellular immunity.

Admission to M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Upon completion, students will demonstrate understanding of the discipline of immunology and apply theoretical concepts to differentiate patient health and disease states.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

MLS 415(2)  Course ID:013695  01-JUL-2019
Urinalysis and Body Fluids
Theoretical and applied concepts related to the formation, collection, processing, and evaluation of urine and body fluids. Study of urine and body fluids including chemical, physical, and microscopic properties. This course also encompasses the evaluation of normal fluid characteristics, and those that reflect abnormality or disease.

Admission to M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Upon completion, students will be able to explain the formation of fluids in the human body and correlate normal and pathological states associated with chemical, physical and microscopic findings.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Smart Board - EDUC(1)

MLS 420(2)  Course ID:013862  01-JUL-2019
Molecular Diagnostics
This course is will provide students with an understanding of the processes which have been collectively referred to as molecular biology as they relate to laboratory medicine. Instruction emphasizes molecular methodologies and current applications of molecular diagnostics utilized in the clinical laboratory.

Upon completion of this course students will gain a background in molecular biology which will promote critical thinking and problem solving as it relates to clinical molecular diagnostics.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 401 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

MLS 430(3)  Course ID:013681  01-JUL-2019
Clinical Chemistry I
This course is designed for medical laboratory science students to gain an understanding of the analytical principles and components of instrumentation utilized in clinical chemistry laboratories.

Prerequisite: Admission to M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course, students will describe chemical constituents of bodily fluids, their regulation and laboratory methods of analysis for compounds including electrolytes, carbohydrates, lipids and proteins.

Components: Lecture(In person)
MLS 440(2)
Clinical Chemistry II
Advanced course in clinical chemistry/biochemistry which continues study of measurement and interpretation of chemical constituents in human blood and body fluids. Topics include endocrinology, organ systems, therapeutic drug monitoring, toxicology, tumor markers and nutritional chemistry. This course will prepare students for their clinical practicum in Clinical Chemistry.

Enrollment Condition: Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Outcomes: Upon completion, students will be able to identify interrelated human metabolic functions in normal and disease states, analyze laboratory data, interpret results, and utilize information to determine a diagnosis.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Components:

Requirement Group: Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

---

MLS 450(4)
Hematology
Study of formed elements of blood including normal and abnormal conditions. Recognition and correlation of pathological changes in cells of the peripheral blood and bone marrow to disease states. This course will prepare students for a clinical practicum in Hematology.

Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program required.

Outcomes: Students will describe the physiology, development of cells, and process of hematopoiesis. Identification of morphological characteristics for normal and abnormal cellular elements of blood and associations to disease states.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Components:

Requirement Group: Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

---

MLS 455(2)
Hemostasis
This course will cover the mechanisms by which blood coagulates. Topics explored include the pathophysiology of hemostatic disorders and the antithrombotic therapies utilized to manage them. Focus on examination of the coagulation system and correlations of laboratory results to clinical findings in the classification of disorders.

Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program required.

Upon completion of this course students will apply knowledge of the process of coagulation to interpret laboratory results as they relate to hemostatic dysfunctions and treatment of clinical disease.

Components:
- Lecture

Components:

Requirement Group:Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 450 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

---

MLS 460(5)
Immunohematology
Focus on principles of the antigen/antibody reactions and their relevance to Immunohematology. ABO/Rh and major blood group systems, regulation, procedures, adverse reactions, and donation of blood components are all studied as integral parts to the practice of transfusion medicine. This course prepares students for a clinical practicum in Immunohematology.

Enrollment Condition: Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program.

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course students will be able to apply theoretical concepts and techniques to analyze and determine Immunohematology results.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Components:

Requirement Group:Completion of MLS 401 and MLS 410 with a minimum of a C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)
Laboratory Leadership I
This first of three courses in the leadership series, prepares the student for an entry-level laboratory position by developing skills in basic laboratory management practices including principles of leadership, functions of a manager, and personnel management.

Prerequisite: Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program.

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course students will be able to utilize leadership theories to evaluate and demonstrate effective management through evaluation of common clinical laboratory issues.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group:
- Completion of MLS 401 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

Laboratory Leadership II
The second installment in the three course Leadership series prepares the student for a laboratory position by developing skills in basic laboratory management practices including financial considerations, laboratory regulations, and laboratory operations.

Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Upon completion of this course students will exhibit knowledge of the financial requirements needed for effective laboratory management and the role of laboratorians in regulation and accreditation of laboratories.

Components:
- Seminar (In person)

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

Laboratory Leadership III
The final installment in the Leadership series of courses prepares the student for a laboratory position by developing skills in career planning, introduction to professional development, grant writing, and process improvement planning.

Completion of MLS 466 Laboratory Leadership II and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science handbook.

Upon completion of this course students will exhibit skills needed for effective laboratory management including departmental improvement planning, professional development and performance feedback.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group:
- Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

Bacteriology and Virology
Introduction to bacteria and viruses, with a focus on organisms that are medically relevant to humans. Specimen collection, processing, identification techniques, and recognition of key diagnostic features will be emphasized. Students will correlate clinical features to laboratory findings. This course will prepare students for their clinical practicum in Microbiology.

Prerequisite: Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program.

Outcomes: Upon completion, students will be able to identify bacterial or viral organisms by characteristic clinical features of infections through laboratory testing.

Components:
- Seminar (In person)

Requirement Group:
- Completion of MLS 401 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Clinical Parasitology and Mycology
Study of parasites and fungi that are medically relevant to humans. This course introduces students to the taxonomy and identification of morphologic and microscopic characteristics of parasites and fungi. Diagnosis of disease states based upon laboratory findings will be emphasized.

Admission to the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science program

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to identify the pathogenesis, symptomatology, laboratory diagnosis, and treatment for the parasites and fungi included in the course.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 470 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

Clinical Practice in Hematology
Clinical experience in Hematology under the guidance of qualified medical laboratory professionals. Students will apply knowledge and clinical skills gained in their first year courses. This course focuses on the acquisition of manual and automated laboratory skills, laboratory safety, understanding the principles of test procedures, instrumentation, and quality control.

Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 410, MLS 415, MLS 450, MLS 466 and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science Handbook.

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course students will provide evidence of possessing the knowledge and skills necessary to perform Hematology testing in a medical laboratory.

Components: Practicum (In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

Clinical Practice in Chemistry
Clinical experience in Chemistry under the guidance of qualified medical laboratory professionals. Students will apply knowledge and clinical skills gained in their first year courses. This course focuses on the acquisition of manual and automated laboratory skills, laboratory safety, understanding the principles of test procedures, instrumentation, and quality control.

Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 440, MLS 466, and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science Handbook.

Outcome: Upon completion of this course students will provide evidence of possessing the knowledge and skills necessary to perform Chemistry testing in a medical laboratory.

Components: Practicum
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

Clinical Practice in Immunohematology
Clinical experience in Immunohematology under the guidance of qualified medical laboratory professionals. Students will apply knowledge and clinical skills gained in their first year courses. This course focuses on the acquisition of manual and automated laboratory skills, laboratory safety, understanding the principles of test procedures, instrumentation, and quality control.

Completion of MLS 455, MLS 460, MLS 466, and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science Handbook.

Upon completion of this course students will provide evidence of possessing the knowledge and skills necessary to perform Immunohematology testing in a medical laboratory.

Components: Practicum
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.

Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)
MLS 484(1 - 2) Course ID: 013917 01-JUL-2019

Clinical Practice in Hemostasis and Body Fluids
Clinical experience in Hemostasis, Urinalysis, and other Body Fluid analyses under the guidance of qualified medical laboratory professionals. Application of knowledge and clinical skills gained from first year courses. Focus on acquisition of manual and automated laboratory skills, laboratory safety, principles of test procedures, instrumentation, and quality control.

Prerequisite: MLS 415, MLS 455, MLS 466, and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science Handbook.

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course students will demonstrate evidence of possessing the knowledge and skills necessary to perform Hemostasis, Urinalysis, and Body Fluid analyses testing in a medical laboratory.

Components: Practicum
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

MLS 485(3) Course ID: 013914 01-JUL-2019

Clinical Practice in Microbiology
Clinical experience in Microbiology under the guidance of qualified medical laboratory professionals. Students will apply knowledge and clinical skills gained in their first year courses. This course focuses on the acquisition of manual and automated laboratory skills, laboratory safety, understanding the principles of test procedures, instrumentation, and quality control.

Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 470, MLS 475, and good academic standing as defined in the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science handbook.

Outcome: Upon completion of this course students will provide evidence of possessing the knowledge and skills necessary to perform Microbiologic testing in a medical laboratory.

Components: Practicum
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

MLS 486(1 - 2) Course ID: 013892 01-JUL-2019

Clinical Practice- MLS Special Topics
Clinical experience in specialty areas of laboratory medicine under the guidance of qualified medical laboratory professionals. Students will actively engage in applying the medical knowledge and clinical skills gained in the didactic and student training laboratory courses in Molecular Diagnostics, Flow Cytometry, HLA testing, and laboratory administration.

Completion of MLS 420, MLS 466, and good academic standing as defined in the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science handbook.

Outcome: Upon completion of this course students will provide evidence of possessing the knowledge and skills needed to enter into specialty areas of a medical laboratory.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum grade of C. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

MLS 490(2) Course ID: 013916 01-JUL-2019

MLS Educational Practice and Review
This course will prepare students for taking a Medical Laboratory Science certification exam. Students will gain basic educational and pedagogical approaches needed to train others in the field of Medical Laboratory Science. Application of theories demonstrated through presentation of review lectures and assisting in kinesthetic instruction for laboratory sessions.

Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 466 and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science handbook.

Outcome: Upon completion of this course students will be able to utilize effective teaching strategies to plan and present a lecture unit, including writing objectives and assessment strategies.

Components: Lecture
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate School students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)
Medical Laboratory Science Capstone

The MLS Capstone exposes students to leadership and ancillary niche aspects beyond those of a standard Medical Laboratory Science curriculum. Students will create a Capstone project to reflect on their unique experience in the field and demonstrate the capacity to utilize knowledge and make evidence-based decisions regarding laboratory medicine.

Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 466 and good academic standing as defined by the M.S. in Medical Laboratory Science handbook.

Outcome: This course will provide students the opportunity to demonstrate knowledge and skills acquired in the academic coursework, professional practice, and their Capstone Experience.

Components: Practicum

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: Completion of MLS 465 with a minimum of a B. Restricted to Medical Laboratory Science Graduate Students.

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
MPH 400(3)
Course ID: 014171
15-JUN-2021
Course Title: Interactions of Radiation with Matter
Introductions of radiation with matter and provides the foundation for future courses in imaging and therapy. Topics covered include: exponential attenuation, x-ray production, interactions of radiation with matter, radioactive decay, atomic and nuclear structure, charged particle equilibrium, cavity theory, dosimetry, ionization chambers and other measurement devices.

Outcomes: Students will understand how x-rays are produced, basic interactions of photons and electrons in matter, cavity theory, ionization chambers and other devices.

Components:
Lecture (Online)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MPH 402(3)
Course ID: 014172
15-JUN-2021
Course Title: Image-Based Anatomy and Physiology
This course will cover all the expected basic elements of human anatomy and medical physiology with a particular emphasis on the radiographic anatomy of relevance to medical physicists.

Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing in the MPHY program or permission of instructor

Components:
Lecture (Online)

Req. Designation: Internship

---

MPH 404(3)
Course ID: 014173
15-JUN-2021
Course Title: Physics and Mathematics of Medical Imaging I
The fundamental physics and mathematics related to image creation are the primary pics of this course. Specific topics related to imaging include: linear algebra, Fourier analysis, sampling theory, random variables and stochastic processes, image formation, biokinetics and compartmental analysis.

Prerequisite(s): Enrollment in MPHY 400. Graduate standing in the MPHY program or permission of instructor

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

---

MPH 410(1)
Course ID: 014174
15-JUN-2021
Course Title: Medical Physics Seminar
Held once per week, seminars are required for all graduate students in Medical Physics so as to introduce them to the research actively being pursued by the program's faculty and senior graduate students.

Prerequisite(s): Graduate standing in the MPHY program or permission of instructor

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Room Requirements: Seminar (1)

Healthcare in America
This course introduces the U.S. healthcare system. Emphasis is given to the government's dominant role in health care delivery, payment and regulation, as well as the differences between public health and health care systems. The social justice implications of cost, quality and access are highlighted.

Outcomes: At the successful completion of the course, the student will be able to: 1. Describe the evolution of health care in America and the influence of history on the current health care system. 2. Demonstrate knowledge of the structure and functions of the U.S. health care system. 3. Identify at an introductory level the political, economic and social factors that shape the U.S. health care system. 4. Describe the inter-relationships among healthcare stakeholders including providers, suppliers, payers, workforce, and consumers 5. Recognize the issues of health care disparities, access to care and social components.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Engaged Learning, Bioethics
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Essentials of Medical Terminology for Health Professionals
This course introduces students to the language of the health professions. Word structure, prefixes and suffixes, and rules of building and analyzing medical words are introduced. Students explore terms relating to anatomy, pathology, diagnostic and clinical procedures, and select medical specialties. Emphasis is given to defining, interpreting and pronouncing medical terminology.

Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, the student will be able to: 1. Identify structure of medical vocabulary including prefixes, suffixes and root words; 2. Apply the rules of building medical terms; 3. Recognize and define medical terms relating to anatomical structure and function, pathology, diagnostic and clinical procedures, and medical specialties; and 4. Use medical terminology accurately in context.

Components: Lecture (Online)
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

Careers in Healthcare Administration
This course provides an introduction to healthcare administration careers. Students explore the various sectors and supporting industries making up the larger healthcare enterprise. Administrative career options and industry growth patterns are presented. Students are introduced to working professionals and professional organizations representing various sectors of the healthcare industry. Class discussions integrate healthcare industry vocabulary and jargon.

Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, the student will be able to: 1. Distinguish healthcare sectors and supporting industries; 2. Describe a variety of roles and functions within healthcare administration; 3. Identify various entry points into a healthcare administration career; and 4. Explore areas of interest for career consideration.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Req. Designation: Service Learning

HSM 360(6) - Healthcare Administration Field Internship

This professional experience provides exposure to and experience in the healthcare environment. Under the supervision of a field preceptor and faculty advisor, students work with a healthcare organization integrating content gained through prior HCA coursework. Students develop and refine skills and practical knowledge by conducting a goal-based project(s) of value to the internship site. Project objectives are developed in concert between student, faculty, and preceptor. The experience involves three on-campus seminars, preparation of seminar deliverables plus a minimum of 196 on-site hours fulfilled on a weekly basis as mutually agreed between student and preceptor. The field experience as facilitated by Loyola University Chicago and the HCA Program concludes at the close of the semester and may or may not be compensated.

U.S. Health Systems Management

Course ID: 014200  Semester: 15-JUN-2021

This course provides a foundation for understanding the contribution of formal US healthcare services to the nation's health. Content includes how the structure of healthcare in the US healthcare impacts operational management of provider systems focus on how care is organized, delivered, financed and regulated. Major challenges that impact healthcare cost, quality and access are examined with underpinnings of social justice and impact on communities served. Emphasis is placed on management of quality, patient safety and information technology as centerpieces of the modern health care environment.

Outcomes:
- Distinguish roles, functions and responsibilities of healthcare system components.
- Analyze the interaction of social, political and economic forces shaping healthcare delivery and impact on cost, quality and access.

Components: Lecture (Online)

Culture of Quality & Safety in Health Care

Course ID: 014233  Semester: 15-JUN-2021

Developing, managing healthcare safety and quality programs by demonstrating strategic importance of concepts inside healthcare organizations and clients. Discussion of safety science, high reliability organizations, trends in patient safety, healthcare quality, practices in different healthcare environments, development of organizational cultures, safety & quality, tools for monitoring performance improvement will be examined.

Outcomes:
- Students will explain forces driving safety and quality in healthcare.
- Evaluate strategies for improving safety/quality in healthcare.
- Describe influence of systems on outcomes.
- Analyze role of various systems, factors in creating safe environments of care.
- Explain "just culture" thinking on safety, quality improvement.
- Develop plan for improvement of safety/quality.

Foundations of Health Informatics
Health Informatics / Biomedical Informatics is the information as studied in or applied to biomedical science, healthcare, and public health. Thus, its focus is on the use of informatics methods to transform data into actionable knowledge within the broad context of health, from basic science, to public health.

Outcomes: By the end of this course, students will be able to understand the differences between data, information, and knowledge, and analyze the processes to transform data into actionable knowledge.

Ontologies in Healthcare
This course provides students with essential concepts of ontologies, building ontologies, and knowledge representation as they pertain to health care, and biomedical research. With the ubiquitous nature of computer systems, and information-based systems in health care (and everywhere!) there is a critical need to be able to represent information.
Outcomes: Students will be able to understand the role of ontologies in knowledge representation; understand the differences between realist and anti-realist ontologies and apply different types of ontologies in biomedical research.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Introduction to Natural Language Processing in Health
The objective of this course is to present a broad overview of methodologies to automatically analyze and mine biomedical text automatically. Students will be exposed to some of the common and state-of-the-art software, algorithms and techniques to extract content and knowledge from biomedical texts.
Prerequisite: HIDS 401 Foundations of Health Informatics and HIDS 411 Clinical Data Science
Outcomes: By the end of this course, students will be able to understand and apply artificial intelligence methodologies and software to automatically extract information from unstructured text
Components: Lecture(In person)
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Health and the Environment

This course is designed as an introduction to the field of environmental health, including regulations, research, disease prevention, and advocacy.

Outcomes: Students will be able to outline approaches for assessing and controlling environmental hazards that affect community health and discuss major local, national, and global health challenges.

Components:
- Lecture

Course Equivalents: MPBH 401, ENVS 301

Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Determinants of Population Health
This course will introduce students to the public health perspective population perspective. A major focus of the course is understanding the fundamentals of health disparities and how they are produced and reproduced, and how simple solutions to our most pressing public health problems are unlikely to succeed.
Graduate standing in the MPH or Public Health Certificate Program, or permission of instructor.

Environmental Health
This course is designed as an introduction to environmental public health issues, laws, regulations, research, and advocacy. Environmental factors including biological, physical and chemical factors that affect the health of a community will be presented. The environmental media (air, water and land) and various community exposure concerns will also be presented. The course will utilize available internet resources to access environmental data, and focus related research. A team project will be completed requiring literature review and presentation and critical assessment of a successful (or unsuccessful) environmental advocacy campaign.

Introduction to Epidemiology
Epidemiology is the study of the distribution and determinants of disease in populations and remains the basic science of public health. This methodology is unique to epidemiology, and in some cases, has even been appropriated by other fields. The objective of this course is to familiarize students with the range of tools used to conduct epidemiologic analysis, including design and measures of association. This course will be taught as an online course combined with an intensive interactive session with faculty and students one weekend in Spring.

MPH Capstone

The goal of the Capstone project is to provide students the opportunity to demonstrate knowledge and skills acquired in the academic coursework and through practicum experience. The objective is to enable the student to work on a project which translates both general and discipline specific information into public health practice.

Students should complete the core, program specific courses. We recommend to split credits over last two semesters and register 1 credit each semester.

Outcomes: The Capstone will provide the students an opportunity to exhibit their proficiency in public health skills through a written report and oral presentation.

The Epidemiology of Obesity: An Energy Balance Perspective

This course is a survey course designed to expose MPH and other interested inter-professional students, e.g. nursing and dietetic students, to the multiple domains of the worldwide obesity epidemic. The course will explore determinants, outcomes and public health policy associated with obesity from the perspective of energy balance, i.e. that ultimately all determinants and outcomes of obesity.

Pre-requisites: MPBH 403 or department consent.

Outcomes: Describe the concept of energy balance and how it is related to the development, treatment and prevention of overweight and obesity.

Public Health Law: Theories and Cases
This course explores how the law can be utilized to promote, or impede, proposed public health interventions at the local, state, federal level. Students review key theories of public health law that examine the role of the legislature, executive agencies, and the courts in crafting, executing, reviewing public health policy.

This course is geared towards MPH students in Public Health Policy and Management track, and no prior training in law or legal analysis is assumed.

Outcomes:
- Describe the inter-dependence of law and public health
- Identify areas of law applicable to promoting public health
- Articulate the legal, ethical and practical conflicts that arise in approaching public health policy

Introduction to Public Health

Public health is the science of preventing disease and protecting and promoting the health of populations and communities. Through interactive exercises and application of concepts, this course considers its history; ethical principles; scientific foundation and tools; biomedical bases; socioeconomic and behavioral factors; environmental issues; and relationship to medical care.

Outcomes: Describe the history, core concepts, functions, and methods of public health. Define health disparities and explain how they are produced. Synthesize public health information and communicate it effectively.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Course Equivalents: ENVS 300
Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Introduction to Epidemiology

Epidemiology is the study of the distribution and determinants of disease in populations and remains the basic science of public health. The objective of this course is to familiarize students with the range of tools used to conduct epidemiologic analysis, including study design and measures of association.

Outcomes: Apply epidemiological methods to public health problems; select appropriate quantitative data collection, study designs, and analytical methods; apply adjustment techniques; and calculate measures of association; and interpret and communicate results.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Course Equivalents: MPBH 403, ENVS 303
Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Health Behavior and Health Promotion

This introductory course is designed to provide students with a foundation in behavioral theory as applied to public health practice, including health education and health promotion. Health education strategies will be examined from the perspective of health literacy, cultural competency, and adult learning behaviors among other dynamics.

Outcomes: Describe a range of health behavior theories and frameworks commonly incorporated into public health interventions on the individual, inter-personal, and community level.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Public Health Communication

This course will teach students effective use of health literacy and health communication tools, including the use of mass media, online social media, and health professions' communication with patients in clinical settings.

Outcomes: Students will be able to develop communication tools such as infographics and brief web-based videos and evaluate public health information.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Critical Thinking in Public Health

This course is designed to prepare students to make reasoned, intelligent decisions about public health matters by learning about and practicing how to think, read, write, and speak critically.

Outcomes: Be able to evaluate the credibility of sources of information, scrutinize arguments, recognize biases in oneself and in others, and take a stand on public health issues and support it.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

Foundations of Public Health Policy
Provides students with theoretical frameworks to understand public health policy issues, introduces public policy making processes, and enables students to analyze position papers on policy topics. Drawing from law, economics, political science, ethics and epidemiology, the course provides students with the knowledge and skills to understand policy-making processes.

Outcomes: Explain how federal, state, and local health policy is formulated, implemented and evaluated. Assess the balance between the public good and individual rights in the policy process in public health.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Course Equivalents: MPBH 407

Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.

Public Health Internship
This practical internship course will integrate theory, where students will unpack the complexities of Public Health and gain an understanding of the roles and responsibilities of professionals. Careers in Public Health are multidimensional, students will integrate real world experience reflecting on experiences of leadership, health equity, community engagement, and professional development.

Outcomes: Integrate academic internship experience with course curriculum academic content through critical reflection of leadership theory and development; assess leadership identity, leadership behavior, and civic role in a public health framework.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)
- Engaged Learning

Attributes:

Global Public Health
This course is an introduction to global public health and focuses on health disparities on the international level. The course addresses the determinants, consequences and trends of infectious and non-communicable disease, maternal and child health, and refugee and migrant health in low-and-middle-income countries.

Outcomes: Students will be able to discuss major current global public health issues, identify effective and ineffective aspects of international public health programs, and create context-specific health promotion materials.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Course Equivalents: HSM 210, MPBH 414, ENVS 385, MPBH 417

Public Health Capstone Experience
This course is a cumulative, integrative and scholarly or applied experience or inquiry project. It may include internships, service-learning projects, senior seminars, portfolio projects, or research paper. The project provides the opportunity for students to demonstrate proficiency in effective communication skills through a written report and oral presentation.

Outcomes: Demonstrate in written report and oral presentation the knowledge and skills acquired during the undergraduate program through selected projects which translate gained information into public health practice, including research.

Components: Lecture

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Requirement Group: Restricted to Public Health majors.

Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)
This course will provide an introduction to public health practices and cover management basics as applied to the public health field. The topics covered in the course will be examined through the lenses of prevention, social justice and the role of governmental public health. In Part I of the course, we will study basic public health concepts, core public health functions and practices, public health infrastructure at the local, state and federal levels, and the major areas of public health services and interventions. In Part II, we will cover management principles and functions such as planning, organizing, controlling and leading. We will apply these concepts to the administration of public health organizations.

Ornithology
An introduction to the biology of birds including the topics of anatomy, physiology, behavior, ecology, and evolution. Includes some field trips to learn how to identify species and to collect behavioral information.
Pre-requisite: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Outcomes: Students will demonstrate an understanding of the biology of birds and be able to identify some of the commoner species of birds in our area.
Components: Lecture (In person)
Course Equivalents: BIOL 215
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Biodiversity & Biogeography
This course covers the creation and maintenance of biodiversity across taxonomic, temporal and spatial scales. It will provide an overview of the history of biogeography, increase understanding of the evolutionary processes that create biodiversity, the influence of biodiversity on ecosystem services, and the rapid biodiversity loss resulting from human actions.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcome: Students will gain knowledge of and appreciation for the biodiversity of life, its formation through the process of evolution, and the importance of biodiversity to ecosystem function and human welfare.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Bioethics, Urban Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 223(3)  Course ID:012716  15-JUN-2022
Soil Ecology
This course introduces the properties, functions, and conservation of soil. Topics include belowground ecosystem services, soil biodiversity, biogeochemical cycles, and conservation, human impacts to soils, and the socioeconomic implications of soil degradation. Lectures, laboratory/field soil testing, field trips, and presentations by experts in sustainable soil management are employed.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will understand the properties, functions and methods of conservation/remediation of soils, learn how human activities affect soils and associated socioeconomic consequences, and develop analytical skills to assess soil health.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Bioethics, Urban Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 224(3)  Course ID:012717  15-JUN-2022
Climate & Climate Change
This course introduces students to basic principles and knowledge to explain climate change. Students will learn about natural and anthropogenic causes of climate change, the interactions between earth-atmosphere-ocean systems, climate feedback mechanisms, and impacts of climate change on the natural physical environment.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcome: Students will develop cognitive and mathematical skills to draw valid, logical conclusions regarding various observed phenomena such as observed changes in the climate system and observed impacts of climate change.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Bioethics, Urban Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Undergraduate Research

Science & Conservation of Freshwater Ecosystems
Freshwater ecosystems are threatened by water extraction, pollution, invasive species, and many other pressures. This course covers physical, chemical, and biological processes in freshwaters, and the benefits that humans derive from these ecosystems. Major issues for conservation will be covered at global and Great Lakes scales.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will gain understanding of different types of freshwater ecosystems, their functioning and importance for human societies, and the range of pressures they currently face.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Both Engaged Learning & Tier 2 Scientific, Bioethics, Urban Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Ecology of the Mediterranean Sea
This course examines the ecology of the Mediterranean Sea and how human activity has shaped the present-day ecosystem. Students will learn fundamental ecological concepts including ecosystem functioning, energy flow, matter transformation, and elemental cycles and the human impacts on the Mediterranean environment, including discussion of impact reduction and remediation.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will gain understanding of ecological processes/interconnections within the Mediterranean Sea ecosystem, of historical & current human-induced changes therein.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Italian Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Service Learning

Foundations of Environmental Science II
This course is the second in a three-course sequence required of all ENVS majors. It will provide the basic scientific grounding needed to intelligently discuss environmental policy and to prepare students for more advanced study in the environmental sciences. It focuses on physical science, especially thermodynamics, energy and climate change.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; Restricted to BA majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Outcomes: Student will gain understanding of the physics dictating global climate dynamics and climate change, as well as the energetic of different energy sources and technological aspects of alternative energy sources.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; Restricted to BA majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 238(1)  Course ID: 012765  15-JUN-2022

Foundations of Environmental Science Lab
A lab course designed to be associated with ENVS 237, this course is designed to introduce all ENVS majors to lab safety, basic lab techniques such as use of balances and microscopes, data analysis, and the application of these techniques to the study of environmental science.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 237 (pre- or co-requisite); Restricted to BA majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability.

Outcomes: Students will understand and demonstrate safe lab practices and learn to use basic lab equipment to take and analyze environmental science data.

Components: Laboratory (In person)
Requirement Group: ENVS 237 (pre- or co-requisite); Restricted to BA majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)

ENVS 260(3)  Course ID: 013771  15-JUN-2022  Department Consent Required

Environmental Journalism
The mission of environmental journalism is to raise public awareness about environmental news and issues. It is about being ethical, accurate, fair, and clear, whether reporting, investigating, or advocating for change.

Pre-requisites: Department Consent Required

Outcomes: Students will be able to find, report, and present challenging stories around this topic, in print and in broadcast writing.

Components: Lecture (In person)

ENVS 267(3)
Course ID: 012719
Date: 15-JUN-2022

Bird Conservation and Ecology

This engaged-learning course provides an introduction to the theory and practice of avian conservation, ecology and management. Field trips for viewing birds in the wild, observing behavior and collecting data on habitat assessments are highlighted. Students participate in a community service project to gather data for avian conservation and management.

Pre-Requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 102

Outcomes: Students will become skilled in critical reasoning and some bird monitoring techniques, and demonstrate an understanding of the many facets of bird conservation.

Components:
- Lecture: In person

Course Equivalents:
- BIOL 347

 Requirement Group:
- ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 102

Room Requirements:

Date: 15-JUN-2018

Environment of China

This course provides a systematic introduction to major environmental issues in the context of recent social and economic development in China.

Prerequisite: UCSF 137 or ENVS 137

Components:
- Lecture: In person

Course Equivalents:
- ASIA 272

Requirement Group:

ENVS 273(3)
Course ID: 005507
Date: 15-JUN-2022

Energy and The Environment

The concept of energy developed from antiquity through the present day and applied to national and worldwide energy use patterns, the technologies supporting their use, as well as the societal impact and environmental consequences of energy usage.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes:
Students will become skilled in critical reasoning and methods of inquiry, demonstrate an understanding of critical concepts and knowledge: heat and energy, the laws of thermodynamics, and current and future technologies and their impact.

Components:
- Lecture

Course Equivalents:
- PAX 273

Attributes:
- Engaged Learning, Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Bioethics, Environmental Studies, Peace Studies

Requirement Group:
- ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Chemistry of the Environment

Introduction to chemical principles in the natural and altered environment. This course covers the fundamentals of organic and inorganic chemistry in the context of the pressing environmental issues: air pollution, stratospheric ozone depletion, climate change, water pollution, and environmental contaminants.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; and CHEM 101; Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Outcomes: Understand chemistry behind environmental problems; predict solubility, reactivity, storage in environmental compartments; understand different chemical models used to determine fate and transport of chemicals in the environment.

Components:
- Lecture: In person

Attributes:
- Bioethics, Urban Studies

Requirement Group:
- ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; and CHEM 101; Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Environmental Sustainability & Science in China
This course provides students with an understanding of how sustainable systems work and how the structure and function of these systems is altered by human activities. Students will gain first-hand experience studying environmental issues in China [air/water pollution, loss of biodiversity, and climate change] through lectures & field trips.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcome: Students will develop an in-depth understanding of human-environment relations in China and gain an appreciation for the interconnectivity of components, human included, of the natural world.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Engaged Learning, Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Chinese Language & Culture
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Humans and the Environment in Contemporary Vietnam
This course is intended to provide students with deep and practical understandings of three interrelated concepts: sustainability, conservation, and biodiversity. Students will also learn about the current condition of Vietnam's environment, causes of environmental degradation in Vietnam, and current efforts towards environmental sustainability in Vietnam.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will grasp the concept of sustainability as it applies to Vietnam, understand the current state of the environment, and current efforts to mitigate problems in Vietnam.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Asian Studies, Global Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Fieldwork
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Environmental Sustainability
Examines the impact of humans as consumers on the environment and how these interactions affect the probability of establishing sustainability for human and non-humans on Earth.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will become skilled in critical reasoning and methods of inquiry, and demonstrate an understanding of knowledge critical to the field including current human consumptive practices and their effects on the health and well-being of living organisms.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Engaged Learning, Tier 2 Scientific Knowledge, Bioethics, Environmental Studies, Urban Studies
Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101
Req. Designation: Service Learning

Environmental Justice
This course examines how policy interacts with race and class to affect differentially people's access to a clean, safe, productive environment; Reviews history of the environmental justice movement, and community, policy, and legal responses; Develops students' ability to work across diverse social groups to advance environmental justice and sustainability.

Outcome: Students will understand forces that have led to people of different race and class being differentially affected by environmental benefits, and the burdens and strategies for addressing environmental injustices.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Attributes: Bioethics
Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Principles of Ecology Lab
This course will allow students to develop experience and skills employed in ecological studies, with an emphasis on field work, laboratory analysis, and hypothesis testing. Topics for lab exercises will correspond closely with material from Ecology (ENVS 280) lecture. Course does not satisfy requirements for BIOL major.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 203; ENVS 238 or CHEM 111; and ENVS 280 (pre- or co-requisite. Restricted to BA Majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Outcomes: Students will understand basic ecological principles, apply these to design experiments, develop skills in data analysis and interpretation, and learn techniques used to characterize ecosystem properties and human environmental impacts

Components: Laboratory (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 203, (ENVS 238 or CHEM 111), and ENVS 280 (pre- or co-requisite); Restricted to BA Majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)

Principles of Ecology Lab
Course content includes lab skills and analytical techniques commonly employed in ecological studies; emphasizes sampling, research design, field work, laboratory technique, data analysis, project development, hypothesis testing, and scientific report writing.

Pre-requisite: ENVS 203; ENVS 238 or CHEM 111; and ENVS 280 (pre- or co-requisite. Restricted to BS Majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Outcomes: Understand ecological principles, apply knowledge to ecological experiments, observational studies, and entry-level mathematical models; assess biotic responses to the abiotic environment and to anthropogenic impacts.

Components: Laboratory (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 203, (ENVS 238 or CHEM 111), and ENVS 280 (pre- or co-requisite); Restricted to BS Majors in the School of Environmental Sustainability

Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Lab - STEP(1)

Applied Interdisciplinary Data Analysis
Restricted to students in IES majors. This course teaches students to approach environmental problem-solving from a systems perspective by understanding the complex adaptive nature of socio-ecological. It introduces analytic techniques used in the natural/social sciences, and provides opportunity to analyze and connect data from various disciplines (e.g., ecology, economics, sociology) to address pressing environmental concerns.

Prerequisites: (ENVS 280 or BIOL 265) and (STAT 103 or STAT 203)

Outcomes: Students will be able to describe characteristics of complex adaptive systems, become familiar with analytical approaches suited to different sub-disciplines, and apply numerous analytical techniques to real data sets.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisites: (ENVS 280 or BIOL 265) and (STAT 103 or STAT 203)

Req. Designation: Service Learning
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

North American Environmental History
This course surveys the environment and environmentalism in United States history, from the transformation of New England into a farm ecology, the expansion of the cotton South, the settlement of the West, to the rise of industrial cities, suburban sprawl, and the globalization of the economy.

Pre-requisites: Department Consent Required

Outcomes: Students will be able to demonstrate historical knowledge of environmental thought and ecological science, to draw links between environmental concerns and public policies, and to develop critical thinking and communication skills.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: HIST 297E

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 300 (0)
Introduction to Public Health
Public health is the science of preventing disease and protecting and promoting the health of populations and communities. Through interactive exercises and application of concepts, this course considers its history; ethical principles; scientific foundation and tools; biomedical bases; socioeconomic and behavioral factors; environmental issues; and relationship to medical care.
Pre-requisites: Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing; Department Consent Required
Outcomes: Describe the history, core concepts, functions, and methods of public health. Define health disparities and explain how they are produced. Synthesize public health information and communicate it
Components: Lecture (In person)
Course Equivalents: PUBH 300
Requirement Group: Restricted to Majors and Minors in School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing
Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

ENVS 301 (3)
Environmental Health
Epidemiology is the study of the distribution and determinants of disease in populations. This course is designed as an introduction to environmental public health issues, laws, regulations, research, and advocacy. Environmental factors including biological, physical and chemical factors that affect the health of a community will be presented. The environmental media (air, water and land) and various community exposure concerns will also be presented. The course will utilize available internet resources to access environmental data, and focus related research. A team project will be completed requiring literature review and presentation and critical assessment of a successful (or unsuccessful) environmental advocacy campaign.
Pre-requisites: Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing; Department Consent Required
Components: Lecture (Online)
Course Equivalents: MPPH 401, PUBH 301
Attributes: Bioethics

ENVS 303 (3)
Introduction to Epidemiology
Epidemiology is the study of the distribution and determinants of disease in populations and remains the basic science of public health. This methodology is unique to epidemiology, and in some cases, has even been appropriated by other fields. The objective of this course is to familiarize students with the range of tools used to conduct epidemiologic analysis, including design and measures of association. This course will be taught as an online course combined with an intensive interactive session with faculty and students one weekend in Spring.
Pre-requisites: Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing; Department Consent Required
Components: Laboratory (Online)
Course Equivalents: MPPH 403, PUBH 303
Requirement Group: Restricted to Majors and Minors in School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing

Introduction to Environmental Law & Policy
This introduction to environmental law surveys some critical federal environmental statutes, rules, and regulations in the United States; important case law decided under those statutes; interaction between federal, state, and local jurisdictions; and impacts on air, land, water, and natural resources.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137
Outcomes: Understands how the natural environment is controlled, managed and promoted through the legal system.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137
- Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Natural Resources and Land Use Law & Policy
Focus on legal and policy processes used to govern pollution, water use, endangered species, toxic substances, and environmental impact and risk.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; and ENVS 310 (recommended)
Outcomes: Students will understand how the natural environment is controlled, managed and promoted through the legal system and how land use laws and policy impact social and economic issues.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137

Water Law & Policy
This course looks at how the law allocates and protects one of our most crucial natural resources -- water. Understanding development and regulation of water ownership and use and how those decisions impact current environmental and socio-economic issues.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; and ENVS 310 (recommended)
Outcomes: Understand how key laws and policies impact protection and use of water in the United States; understand key legal concepts that shape the management of our water resources.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137
- Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Energy Law & Policy
This course looks at the laws that shape traditional energy production and the growing regulation of renewable and sustainable energy.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; and ENVS 310 (recommended)
Outcomes: Understand how key laws and policies impact production and use of energy; and how energy is controlled by federal and local regulations and policies.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137
- Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Winter Ecology
Prerequisite: BIOL 265 or ENVS 280 or permission of instructor
Students will immerse themselves in the winter environment and learn about habitats on, in, and under snow, both terrestrial and aquatic, organisms that live in these habitats and their physiological, behavioral and morphological adaptations for survival. Students will gain an understanding of research on winter ecosystems.

Outcomes: Students will gain understanding of habitats and organisms present during winter in temperate ecosystems and gain experience with field techniques employed when studying these ecosystems.

Components:
- Field Studies (In person)
- Course Equivalents: BIOL 329
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 265 or ENVS 280

Conservation Biology

Students will learn to apply ecological and evolutionary biological principles to the preservation of wild plant/animal species, and to the preservation/management of ecosystems. Conservation approaches and challenges for all types of ecosystems, will be covered, with emphasis on contemporary threats to biodiversity, including habitat fragmentation, invasive species, and climate change.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266

Outcome: Students will understand how the science of ecology can be used to address issues in species/ecosystem conservation, and recognize that consideration of human actions is essential to address conservation problems.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

ENVS 321(1)  Course ID:012732  15-JUN-2022

Conservation Biology Lab

Students will apply principles learned in ENVS 320 to conservation problems in the Chicago region and elsewhere, through visits to conservation sites and discuss concerns/initiatives with land managers and policy makers. They will develop skills in species identification, ecosystem delineation and description, and the use of field equipment and methods.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266; and ENVS 320 (pre- or co-requisite).

Outcomes: This course will provide practical field and lab experience in population, community and ecosystem conservation. Students will learn how the principles of Conservation Biology are applied, and the associated challenges.

Components: Laboratory(In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266; and ENVS 320 (pre- or co-requisite)

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Lab - Biology(1)

Invasive Species

Invasive species are one of the greatest global threats to biodiversity, ecosystem function, economies, and human health. Species become invasive when moved beyond native range, become established, and cause harm. This course covers how species are moved, how and when they become established, and potential harm they can cause.

Prerequisites: ENVS 280 or BIOL 265

Understanding that because invasive species are moved by humans, and because many of their impacts are felt by humans, they are an inherently multi-disciplinary problem.

Outcomes: Students will be able to explain the characteristics of the U.S. agricultural system, the inter-relation among components of sustainable agriculture, and steps necessary to develop a sustainable agricultural system.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite: BIOL 265 or ENVS 280

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 325(3)  Course ID:012733  06-JUN-2018

Sustainable Agriculture

Prerequisites: ENVS 280 or BIOL 265

This course provides an introduction to the environmental, social, and economic implications of sustainable agriculture. Students will learn the origins, major concepts, and current issues of sustainability in agriculture. Ecological concepts and principles applied to manage sustainable food production to support community health and economic justice will be explored.

Outcomes: Students will be able to explain the characteristics of the U.S. agricultural system, the inter-relation among components of sustainable agriculture, and steps necessary to develop a sustainable agricultural system.
ENVS 326(3)  Course ID:012734  15-JUN-2022

Agroecosystems

In this hands-on course, students will build knowledge and skills in agriculture and ecology through work in greenhouse, laboratory, classroom, and field settings. Students will build on foundations of Environmental Science and Biology by examining challenges of food production, management decisions, and environmental change facing agroecosystems both locally and abroad.

Pre-Requisites: ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266; and ENVS 223 (recommended)

Outcomes: Students will develop understanding of agricultural systems as related to sustainable practices, develop skills in ecological analysis of these systems, and demonstrate proficiency in communicating scientific information to diverse audiences.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group:
- ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266

Req. Designation:
- Writing Intensive

Room Requirements:
- Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 327(3)  Course ID:012735  15-JUN-2022

Food Systems Analysis

This course links conceptual and practical considerations of food-system assessment and develop a base of tools for practitioners. It examines major elements of the assessment process: systems thinking and conceptual frameworks; the food system from consumer and producer perspectives; identifying leverage points that might be influenced to affect positive change.

Pre-Requisites: ENVS 203

Outcomes: Students will understand inter-relationships among environment, food supply, markets, American diets, and health, learn to analyze assessment methods for food-system sectors, and examine conceptual frameworks for food-system analysis.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group:
- ENVS 203

Req. Designation:
- Writing Intensive

Room Requirements:
- Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 330(3)  Course ID:012739  15-JUN-2022

Restoration Ecology

This course provides a theoretical and practical basis for the increasing global efforts to reverse damage caused by humans to ecosystems and species, emphasizing the many perspectives (e.g., ecological, social, political, engineering) that must be considered to develop, implement, and assess restoration projects across a range of ecosystem types.

Pre-Requisites: ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266

Outcomes: Students will apply knowledge from ecology and other disciplines to the practice of ecosystem restoration, and learn to integrate information from multiple disciplines, and stakeholder input, to design/manage restoration projects.

Components:
- Lecture(In person)

Requirement Group:
- ENVS 280 and ENVS 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266

Req. Designation:
- Writing Intensive

Room Requirements:
- Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 331(1)  Course ID:012740  15-JUN-2022

Restoration Ecology Lab

Students will apply principles learned in ENVS 330 to restoration sites in Chicago and beyond. They will visit restoration sites and discuss strategies and initiatives with land managers and policy makers. Students will develop skills in ecological-site description, and in the analytical methods required to determine success of restoration projects.

Pre-Requisites: ENVS 280 and 286/s; or BIOL 265 and 266; and ENVS 330 (pre- or co-requisite)

Outcomes: Students will gain an understanding of how the science of restoration ecology is applied in practical settings and learn methods used in restoration and assessment of actual restoration projects.

Components:
- Laboratory(In person)

Requirement Group:
- ENVS 280 and 286/s or BIOL 265 and 266; and ENVS 330 (pre- or co-requisite)

Req. Designation:
- Writing Intensive

Room Requirements:
- Lab - Biology(1)

Industrial Ecology

Course Code: ENVS 332(3)
Course ID: 013278
Offered Date: 16-Aug-2018

Industrial Ecology

Industrial ecology combines Business, Environment, & Engineering to shift industrial processes from linear (open loop) systems, where resources move through the system to become waste, to circular (closed loop) systems where waste becomes inputs for new processes. Students will learn life cycle assessment (LCA) to measure environmental impacts.

Outcomes: Students will understand how business and industry can create zero waste systems, how a circular economy works, and the tools of industrial ecology, including life cycle assessment.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: ENVS 432

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Introduction to the Circular Economy

Course Code: ENVS 333(3)
Course ID: 013970
Offered Date: 15-Jun-2022

Introduction to the Circular Economy

This course introduces principles and concepts of a circular economy that can support a more sustainable future. The course reviews circular design, materials management, business models, supply chains, policy, financing, metrics, and applications. This course may include speakers and/or field trips to learn about companies with circular business practices.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; or MGMT 201 for Quinlan School of Business students

Outcomes: Explain circular economy; identify applications of circularity; understand role of policy, finance, and design in system-wide change; understand social, environmental, economic impacts of linear economic system.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; or MGMT 201 for Quinlan School of Business students

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Ecological Economics

Course Code: ENVS 335(3)
Course ID: 013277
Offered Date: 15-Jun-2018

Ecological Economics

Ecological Economics is a trans disciplinary course that takes a systems approach to the relationship between planetary stewardship, social justice, and the economy to design a prosperous and desirable future for humans on a finite planet. Ecological economics fuses economic theory and sustainability science to generate new solutions for today's challenges.

Pre-requisites: ECON 201

Outcomes: Understanding of ecological economics history, conceptual foundations, principles, tools, indicators, and applications. Topics include sustainable scale, just distribution, efficient allocation and relationships between economic

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: Prerequisite : ECON 201

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Design for Circular & Sustainable Business

Course Code: ENVS 336(3)
Course ID: 014124
Offered Date: 15-Jun-2022

Design for Circular & Sustainable Business

This project-based course focuses on solving complex human sustainability challenges through the application of sustainable design methods at the product and process level. Students will learn and apply biomimicry, circular, and human-centered design methods to develop conceptual and prototype solutions.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; or MGMT 201 for Quinlan School of Business students

Outcomes: Understand the role of design in creating a sustainable future. Understand and apply: (1) circular design methods (2) biomimicry design methods; and (3) human-centered design (design thinking) methods.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; or MGMT 201 for Quinlan School of Business students

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive
ENVS 338(3) Course ID: 013209 15-JUN-2022

Climate Change and Human Health

This course provides an introduction overview of the health consequences associated with climate change and the local, federal, and global response to mitigate these negative health outcomes. During the course students will be expected incorporate course content and develop a realistic response public health plan to climate change for a locality of their choosing.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101; Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing

Outcomes:
1. Outline fundamental public health concerns that have been associated with climate change.

Components: Lecture(Online)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101; Restricted to Majors and Minors in the School of Environmental Sustainability; Junior or Senior Standing

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

ENVS 340(3) Course ID: 012741 15-JUN-2022

Natural History of Belize

This Study Abroad field course is designed to build on the foundations learned in Ecology, Environmental Science, and Anthropology classes by examining the biodiversity and tropical ecosystems of Belize, by exploring the cultural traditions of some of its peoples, particularly the Mayans; and learn how local communities are involved in protecting and sustaining ecological and natural sites through community based conservation and sustainability practices.

Pre-requisites:
- For SES majors and minors, ENVS 101 or ENVS 137;
- For BIOL majors and minors, BIOL 102 and BIOL 112;
- For ANTH or GLST majors and minors, Junior or Senior Standing.

Components: Field Studies(In person)

Course Equivalents: BIOL 340

Requirement Group: For SES students ENVS 101 or ENVS 137; for BIOL students BIOL 102 and 112; for ANTH or GLST students Junior or Senior Standing

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

ENVS 345(3) Course ID: 012742 15-JUN-2022

Conservation and Sustainability of Neotropical Ecosystems

This course provides an introduction to conservation ecology in Neotropical ecosystems via classroom sessions and experiential learning activities during a Spring-Break field trip to Belize. Students will gain experience in environmental monitoring and biological survey methods. Ecosystems studied: coral reefs, mangrove forests, subtropical rain and dry forests, savannas, rivers, wetlands.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 280 or BIOL 265; Instructor Consent Required

Outcomes: Students will gain an understanding of tropical climates, neotropical terrestrial/aquatic ecosystems and applied conservation and environmental practices such as nature reserve design and management, community-based resource management, ecotourism, and ecoagriculture.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Course Equivalents: BIOL 349

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: C- or higher in BIOL 265 or ENVS 280

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Solutions to Environmental Problems: Water

'Step: Water' is an interdisciplinary and hands-on course in which students learn about a relevant and complex environmental problems pertaining to water and then develop and implement projects that address the problem on campus and in the local community.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will develop understanding of water-related environmental problems, demonstrate skills/knowledge needed to address those problems, and develop skills to recognize/articulate future possibilities for environmental leadership and civic engagement.

Components: Lecture(In person)

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Solutions to Environmental Problems: Biogas

'STEP: Biogas' is an interdisciplinary and hands-on course in which students learn about a relevant and complex environmental problems pertaining to biogas production, processing and transport and then develop and implement projects that address the problem on campus and in the local community.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will develop understanding of environmental problems related to biogas, demonstrate skills/knowledge needed to address those problems, and develop skills to recognize/articulate future possibilities for environmental leadership and civic engagement.

Components: Laboratory (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: Lab - STEP(1)

ENVS 350C(4)  Course ID: 013567  15-JUNE-2022

Solutions to Environmental Problems: Climate Action

Consideration of environmental, political, economic, historical, and cultural contexts of climate change. Examination of actions occurring at varying geographic scales to mitigate and/or adapt to climate change impacts. Problem- and solution-based learning of how to invest resources effectively to deal with a changing climate and its consequences.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101; and ENVS 224 (recommended)

Outcomes: Develop understanding of environmental problems related to climate change, demonstrate skills/knowledge needed to address those problems and recognize/articulate future possibilities for environmental leadership/civic engagement.

Components: Lecture (In person)

Attributes: Engaged Learning

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Introduction to Sustainability Concepts & Impacts

Examines environmental, economic, social and political impacts of sustainable practices on general public and global and local organizations. Provides students with understanding of importance to corporations and other entities of measuring, monitoring, and reporting resource use to customers and stakeholders.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Explaining basic concepts of sustainability and how they relate to operations and goals of institutions and organizations; interaction of social, economic, and ecological systems to influence sustainability challenges and solutions.

Components: Lecture (Online)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

ENVS 380(3)  Introduction to Geographic Information Systems

Course ID: 012570
15-JUN-2022

Course Description:
Geographic Information Systems (GIS) is a mapping tool that allows users to create interactive searches, analyze spatial information, edit data and maps, and present the results visually. The course includes lecture, laboratory, and project components. Students will learn basic GIS skills and applications and work on projects with community organizations.

Pre-requisites: Restricted to Junior and Senior standing

Outcomes:
- describe the conceptual/theoretical and practical/technological background of GIS.
- describe ethical issues germane to GIS.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Course Equivalents: ENVS 480

Attributes: Urban Studies

Requirement Group: Junior or Senior Standing only

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: Lab - Computer (1)

ENVS 381(3)  Advanced GIS Applications

Course ID: 013822
15-JUN-2022

Course Description:
Students in this course will learn tools required to solve complex environmental problems and gain experience with spatial analysis, network analysis, 3-D analysis, GIS modeling, geostatistics, and other ArcGIS extensions. Students will also learn about internet-based mapping for dissemination of spatial data.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 380 and Restricted to Junior and Senior standing

Outcomes: Understand various spatial relationship concepts and their applications; identify and address common methodological challenges; understand how to use spatial data to make sound arguments in spatial problem solving and planning/policy.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 380 and Restricted to Junior and Senior standing only

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: Lab - Computer (1)

ENVS 382(3)  Remote Sensing

Course ID: 014011
15-JUN-2022

Course Description:
Science of obtaining information about objects or areas using data from remote sensors on satellites or mounted on aircraft that can detect energy reflected from Earth. Topics include data collection; digital image processing, assessment, evaluation, and enhancement; display alternatives and visualization; electromagnetic radiation principles and radiometric correction; and geometric correction.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101; Restricted to Juniors and Seniors

Outcomes: Understand concepts, data, and methods of remotely sensed geographic data. Learn how to obtain and analyze remote sensing data, produce thematic maps, learn landscape patterns, and methods to decipher them.

Components:
- Laboratory (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101; Restricted to Juniors and Seniors only

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: Lab - Computer (1)

ENVS 383(3)  Human Dimensions of Conservation

Course ID: 012752
15-JUN-2022

Course Description:
This course will increase student knowledge of the social, political, economic, psychological, and cultural dimensions that influence the success of conservation projects and develop skills in conducting human dimensions-inquiry using surveys, interviews, observation, and/or participatory methods. It will contribute to preparation for employment in the conservation field and/or graduate study.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Students will understand the importance of treating the human dimensions of conservation problems with the same scientific rigor customarily given to the ecological dimensions.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Req. Designation: Service Learning

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Conservation Economics

Explores resource conservation issues using economic principles. Topics include management of forests, wildlife and mineral resources; the demand for parks and outdoor recreation; the debate between environmental preservation and conservation; valuation of ecosystem services; the economics of biodiversity and endangered species; and policies to promote conservation in agriculture.

Pre-requisites: ECON 201

Students will learn how natural resource use is affected by economic values, how to critically evaluate natural resource management problems, and evaluate models of dynamic resource extraction and user preferences.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: grade of C- or better in ECON 201
Req. Designation: Service Learning

Introduction to Global Health

This course introduces students to epidemiological and policy aspects of global health with a focus on health disparities at the international level.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 101 or ENVS 137 or BIOL 101

Outcomes: Understand approaches to existing and emerging health problems and the relationships between health, poverty, and development.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: HSM 210, MPBH 414, MPBH 417, PUBH 314
Attributes: Bioethics

Principles of Ecotoxicology

This course will provide information on how pollutants affect ecosystems and how we might ameliorate their negative effects in our world. The emphasis of this course will be the fate and effects of pollutants in the ecosystem. The effects will be from molecular level to individual organism, community, and ecosystem levels.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 280 or BIOL 265; and ENVS 274

Outcomes: This course will provide students with scientific knowledge in the cause and effects of pollutants in ecosystems and to prepare them for graduate study/future career.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Attributes: Bioethics
Requirement Group: ENVS 280 or BIOL 265; and ENVS 274

Applied Environmental Statistics

Tools and methods for analyzing combined social and ecological datasets. Emphasis on learning advanced quantitative statistics and applying this to project work. Students required to include both ecological and social data analysis in their projects - working with computer programs and output written in R/R-Studio, and interpreting output from these programs.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 203 or STAT 103; Restricted to Junior and Senior standing

Outcomes: Understand and be able to articulate fundamental statistical concepts; interpret software output and published articles; communicate results; describe data, articulate relevant hypotheses, know statistical tests which may be correctly applied.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: ENVS 203 or STAT 103; Restricted to Junior and Senior standing only
Req. Designation: Service Learning

Ecological Risk Assessment
This course covers the area of potential effects of pollutants to ecosystems and practices on risk assessment for pollutants based on exposure and effect data in the literature. Different approaches for assessing the potential ecological impacts and risks of pollutants in support of environmental management will be discussed and practiced.

Pre-requisites: ENVS 274 and ENVS 275

Outcomes: Learn toxic effects of pollutants, acquire, organize, and synthesize monitoring and effect data using advanced analysis methods and skills in support of environmental impact and risk assessment via case studies.

Components:
Lecture (In person)

Requirement Group:
Prerequisite: at least C- in ENVS 274 and ENVS 275.

Environmental Research
Students may register for independent research on a topic mutually acceptable to the student and any professor in the department. Usually this research is directed to a particular course or to the research of the professor.

Enrollment Conditions: Administrative Permission

Outcomes: Students will be able to design and carry out the research that is original and meaningful, including data collection, analysis, and interpretation.

Components:
Independent Study

Attributes:

Independent Environmental Research (Capstone)
Fulfills capstone requirement for IES majors. Through independent research experience, examine how scientific, sociological, economic and political knowledge and perspectives interact and define environmental problems and solutions/mitigation efforts. Research projects must use a multi-disciplinary perspective in analysis and interpretation.

Pre-requisites: Senior standing: Instructor Consent

Outcomes: Learning outcomes: design and carry out research that is original and meaningful, including data collection, analysis, and interpretation.

Components:
Independent Study (In person)

Attributes:
Engaged Learning

Requirement Group:

Environmental Internship
Students seek out and engage in a semester- or summer-long internship with a civic, business, governmental, or academic group providing hands-on experience in work on environmental issues.

Outcome: Students will demonstrate, through daily activity logs and a comprehensive final report, a clear understanding of the environmental context and practical applications of their internship experience.

Components:
Field Studies

Attributes:
Engaged Learning

Req. Designation:
Internship

Environmental Internship (Capstone)

Fulfills capstone requirement for IES majors. Through internship experience, students reflect upon academic and extra-curricular activities in their degree program and learn how scientific, sociological, economic and political knowledge and perspectives interact and define environmental problems and solutions/mitigation efforts.

Pre-requisites: Senior standing; Department Consent

Outcomes: Guided reflection on relationship between coursework and internship experience, relate learning to specific activities and experiences in the internship, assess value of internship to future career plans.

Environmental Science Topics for BIET Minor Capstone

Prerequisites: Two Science courses and two Ethics courses.

The interdisciplinary team-taught Bioethics capstone course examines a topic in bioethics from both scientific and ethical points of view. Topics may include biotechnologies, concepts of race and gender, the environment, reproduction, and others. This course number provides a cross-listed elective for Environmental Science students when the Bioethics capstone's topic is environmental.

Outcome: Students will understand the connection between ethical and environmental science issues with regard to the special topic in environmental science.

Sustainable Systems - Natural Science Perspectives.

This required core course provides an integrated overview of environmental science and sustainability which connect to sustainable development and ecological economics goals to define a just and safe space for the equitable distribution of life’s essential resources that does not exceed the Earth’s capacity to provide and replenish them.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Students will be able to make logical connections between environmental science and sustainability and evaluate data and primary literature in learning best practices for making evidence-based decisions.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Sustainable Systems - Social Science Perspectives

This required core course examines theoretical perspectives on and practical examples of sustainable development at both global and local/regional scales.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Students learn concepts of sustainable development and system resilience, including history, contested meanings, strengths, and limitations of each. How change towards sustainability occurs at multiple scales using social sciences research.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Introduction to Environmental Law & Policy

This introduction to environmental law surveys some critical federal environmental statutes, rules, and regulations in the United States; important case law decided under those statutes; interaction between federal, state, and local jurisdictions; and impacts on air, land, water, and natural resources.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: understand how the natural environment is controlled, managed and promoted through the legal system.

Components: Lecture (Online)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

Natural Resources and Land Use Law & Policy

Focus on legal and policy processes used to govern pollution, water use, endangered species, toxic substances, and environmental impact and risk.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Students will understand how the natural environment is controlled, managed and promoted through the legal system and how land use laws and policy impact social and economic issues.

Components: Lecture (In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Water Law & Policy

This course looks at how the law allocates and protects one of our most crucial natural resources -- water. Understanding development and regulation of water ownership and use and how those decisions impact current environmental and socio-economic issues.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Understand how key laws and policies impact protection and use of water in the United States; understand key legal concepts that shape the management of our water resources.

Components: Lecture (Online)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Energy Law & Policy
This course looks at the laws that shape traditional energy production and the growing regulation of renewable and sustainable energy.
Restricted to GRAD students.
Outcomes: Understand how key laws and policies impact production and use of energy; and how energy is controlled by federal and local regulations and policies.
Components: Lecture(Online)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

Conservation Biology
Students will learn to apply ecological and evolutionary biological principles to the preservation of wild plant/animal species, and to the preservation/management of ecosystems. Conservation approaches and challenges for all types of ecosystems, will be covered, with emphasis on contemporary threats to biodiversity, including habitat fragmentation, invasive species, and climate change.
Restricted to GRAD students.
Outcomes: Students will understand how the science of ecology can be used to address issues in species/ecosystem conservation, and recognize that consideration of human actions is essential to address conservation problems.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

Invasive Species
Invasive species are one of the greatest global threats to biodiversity, ecosystem function, economies, and human health. Species become invasive when moved beyond native range, become established, and cause harm. This course covers how species are moved, how and when they become established, and potential harm they can cause.
Restricted to GRAD students.
Outcomes: Understanding that because invasive species are moved by humans, and because many of their impacts are felt by humans, they are an inherently multi-disciplinary problem.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Sustainable Agriculture
This course provides an introduction to the environmental, social, and economic implications of sustainable agriculture. Students will learn the origins, major concepts, and current issues of sustainability in agriculture. Ecological concepts and principles applied to manage sustainable food production to support community health and economic justice will be explored.
Restricted to GRAD students.
Outcomes: Students will be able to explain the characteristics of the U.S. agricultural system, the inter-relation among components of sustainable agriculture, and steps necessary to develop a sustainable agricultural system.
Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship

Introduction to the Circular Economy
This project-based course focuses on solving complex human sustainability challenges through the application of sustainable design methods at the product and process level. Students will learn and apply biomimicry, circular, and human-centered design methods to develop conceptual and prototype solutions.

Restricted to graduate students

Understand: role of design in creating a sustainable future. Understand and apply: (1) circular design methods; (2) biomimicry design methods; and (3) human-centered design (design thinking) methods.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.

Sustainable Business Management

To introduce students to the emerging field of sustainability in business and the growing focus on the social, environmental, and economic performance of businesses. The course presents the scientific, moral, business, & economic cases for adopting sustainability. This course fulfills a MGMT elective.

Prerequisite or corequisite: ENVS 410

Outcome: Understand the dimensions of sustainability; understand economics for sustainability; understand the tools and techniques to apply sustainability in each functional area of the business.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: ENVS 363
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 464(3)  Course ID:013463  16-AUG-2018

Sustainability Management in the Global Context

This study abroad course takes students to international destinations to learn about business and sustainability management in the global context. Students hear presentations from local experts on sustainability in government, nonprofit, & for-profit entities, visit entities that have adopted sustainability practices, & visit local cultural sites. Fulfills MGMT elective.

ENVS 464 Prerequisites: ENVS 463 recommended
Students will understand sustainability perspectives outside the U.S., practical examples of circular operations and strong sustainability, and global, regional, and local sustainability concerns.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: ENVS 364
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

Field Ornithology

Field ornithology is an intensive 3-week engaged-learning course at the Loyola University Retreat and Ecology Campus during the peak of the migratory season intended to provide an introduction to the theory and practice of field ornithology. Emphasis will be on field identification and song recognition, census techniques, and avian behavior.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Students will become skilled in critical reasoning, field techniques, and scientific investigation that demonstrate an understanding of knowledge and techniques used in field ornithology

Components: Field Studies
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed(1)

ENVS 480(3)  Course ID:013797  15-JUN-2019

Introduction to Geographic Information Systems

Geographic Information Systems (GIS) is a mapping tool that allows users to create interactive searches, analyze spatial information, edit data and maps, and present the results visually. The course includes lecture, laboratory, and project components. Students will learn basic GIS skills and applications and work on projects with community organizations.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Describe the conceptual/theoretical and practical/technological background of GIS; describe ethical issues germane to GIS; prepare/analyze GIS data in research; apply GIS in community-service projects.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Course Equivalents: ENVS 380
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)
ENVS 481(3) Course ID:013798 15-JUN-2019

Advanced GIS Applications
Students in this course will learn tools required to solve complex environmental problems and gain experience with spatial analysis, network analysis, 3-D analysis, GIS modeling, geostatistics, and other ArcGIS extensions. Students will also learn about internet-based mapping for dissemination of spatial data.

Prerequisite : ENVS 480

Outcomes: Understand various spatial relationship concepts and their applications; identify and address common methodological challenges; understand how to use spatial data to make sound arguments in spatial problem solving and planning/policy.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Prerequisite: grade of C- or better in ENVS 480. Restricted to GRAD students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

ENVS 482(3) Course ID:014010 15-JUN-2020

Remote Sensing
Science of obtaining information about objects or areas using data from remote sensors on satellites or mounted on aircraft that can detect energy reflected from Earth. Topics include data collection; digital image processing, assessment, evaluation, and enhancement; display alternatives and visualization; electromagnetic radiation principles and radiometric correction; and geometric correction.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Understand concepts, data, and methods of remotely sensed geographic data. Learn how to obtain and analyze remote sensing data, produce thematic maps, learn landscape patterns, and methods to decipher them.

Components: Laboratory(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Lab - Computer(1)

ENVS 483(3) Course ID:013799 15-JUN-2019

Human Dimensions of Conservation
This course will increase student knowledge of the social, political, economic, psychological, and cultural dimensions that influence the success of conservation projects and develop skills in conducting human dimensions-inquiry using surveys, interviews, observation, and/or participatory methods. It will contribute to preparation for employment in the conservation field and/or graduate study.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Students will understand the importance of treating the human dimensions of conservation problems with the same scientific rigor customarily given to the ecological dimensions.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

ENVS 484(3) Course ID:013800 15-JUN-2019

Conservation Economics
Explores resource conservation issues using economic principles. Topics include management of forests, wildlife and mineral resources; the demand for parks and outdoor recreation; the debate between environmental preservation and conservation; valuation of ecosystem services; the economics of biodiversity and endangered species; and policies to promote conservation in agriculture.

Restricted to GRAD students.

Outcomes: Students will learn how natural resource use is affected by economic values, how to critically evaluate natural resource management problems, and evaluate models of dynamic resource extraction and user preferences.

Components: Lecture(In person)
Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Principles of Ecotoxicology
This course will provide information on how pollutants affect ecosystems and how we might ameliorate their negative effects in our world. The emphasis of this course will be the fate and effects of pollutants in the ecosystem. The effects will be from molecular level to individual organism, community, and ecosystem levels.

Outcome: This course will provide students with scientific knowledge in the cause and effects of pollutants in ecosystems.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Applied Environmental Statistics
Tools and methods for analyzing combined social and ecological datasets. Emphasis on learning advanced quantitative statistics and applying this to project work. Students required to include both ecological and social data analysis in their projects and working with computer programs and output written in R/R-Studio, and interpreting output from these programs.

Restricted to Graduate students.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Lab - Computer (1)

Ecological Risk Assessment
This course covers the area of potential effects of pollutants to ecosystems and practices on risk assessment for pollutants based on exposure and effect data in the literature. Different approaches for assessing the potential ecological impacts and risks of pollutants in support of environmental management will be discussed and practiced.

Outcomes: Learn toxic effects of pollutants, acquire, organize, and synthesize monitoring and effect data using advanced analysis methods and skills in support of environmental impact and risk assessment via case studies.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Independent Environmental Research
Students may register for independent research on a topic mutually acceptable to the student and any professor in the department. Usually this research is directed to a particular course or to the research of the professor.

Post-baccalaureate students only.

Components:
- Independent Study (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

Environmental Internship
Students seek out and engage in a semester-or summer-long internship with a civic, business, governmental, or academic group providing hands on experience in work on environmental issues.

Post-baccalaureate students only.

Components:
- Internship (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to graduate students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

Introduction to Graduate and Professional Writing
Writing skills are essential for success in graduate study and work in a variety of professional and ministerial settings. This course covers the following topics: academic integrity, grammar, research skills, citation, writing organization, thesis construction and critical thinking.

Restricted to Institute of Pastoral Studies students

Outcomes: Students will enhance their writing skills and develop analytical and communication skills that are critical to academic and professional writing.

Components:
- Lecture (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to IPS students.
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

Church and Mission
In the 21st century the Church is a concept best understood within a global context. We will explore the biblical and apostolic concept of Church progressing through Vatican II. We will also examine the four marks of the Church from both historical and contemporary perspectives.

Outcomes: Articulate a vision of Church, evaluate and critique different ecclesiologies, and understand the development and structure of the Church from biblical times through Vatican II to contemporary times.

Components:
- Seminar (In person)
- Requirement Equivalents: BEHL 501
- Requirement Group: Prerequisite: IPS 570

Spiritual Paths in World Religions
This course explores the spirituality, theology, and practice of the major religious traditions. You will encounter other faith traditions by entering into their sacred prayer and worship experiences and learning from practitioners of that tradition how they encounter the sacred in their own lives.

Outcomes: Recognize the vast complexity of every religious tradition, resisting the urge to oversimplify. Engage those who practice other traditions in conversation. Experience the spiritual practice of other religious traditions.

IPS 541(3) - Liturgy and Christian Sacraments

Liturgy and Christian Sacraments express our faith bringing us into an encounter with God's grace, forming us into the image of Christ. This course explores the theological, religious, and cultural origins of the liturgy and the sacraments as they have developed in response to the needs of the Church communities throughout time.

Outcomes: Students will develop the ability to articulate a sacramental theology and understanding of the sacraments that enables them to address the meaning of the sacraments in connection to contemporary culture.

Components: Seminar (In person)

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

IPS 545(3) - The Foundations of Christian Spirituality

Enrollment Conditions: This course is required of all students in the MASp: Contemporary Spirituality Concentration and/or the Spiritual Direction Concentration. It is also required of all M.Div. students.

Christian spirituality (the 'lived experience of Christian faith') is a separate but partnered academic field with theology today. Key issues are: defining 'spirituality', methods in the field, spirituality vs. institutional religion. Jesus Christ (christology), major figures and movements in Christian spirituality's 2000 year history, and classical and contemporary themes.

Outcomes: Facility defining spirituality and Christian spirituality, and an informed understanding of the person Jesus Christ, the history of Christian spirituality, and the relationship of spirituality to theology.

Components: Seminar (In person)

Course Equivalents: BEHL 503

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Seminar(1)

IPS 551(3) - Social Ethics in the Catholic Tradition

Students should ideally complete IPS 416, 417, and 531 prior to taking this course.

This course focuses on the tradition and practice of Catholic social thought. Students will become familiar with the documentary tradition of Catholic social teaching, as well as the ways that Catholic social thought has been embodied and advanced through the lives of Catholic activists and liberation theology. Particular attention will be given to history, texts, methodology, and significant figures in the tradition.

Outcome: Upon completion of this course, students will have a thorough knowledge of the tradition of Catholic social thought, will be able to analyze contemporary issues through the lens of this tradition, and will be able to enact this tradition in their ministerial contexts.

Components: Seminar (In person)

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

IPS 553(3) - Moral Theology and Christian Ethics

This course focuses primarily on methods in ethics. Students will become familiar with the tradition of Catholic moral theology as well as different contemporary methodologies in ethics. Particular attention will be given to the history of the discipline, the role of scripture in moral reasoning, and Catholic social teaching.

To articulate the history and central categories in Catholic moral theology; to analyze a variety of contemporary methodologies in theological ethics.

Components: Seminar (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: IPS 531; Grade of C- or better

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

IPS 555(3) - Human Person and Psychological Development

Human beings are created to grow and mature into their full humanity. Every phase of life carries particular psychological and spiritual agendas. While each person is unique, our developmental story from birth to death is also our universal human story with particular variations, sharpened around gender and cultural differences.

Outcomes: Exploration of developmental differences. Discovery of reliable markers for ministry to persons throughout the life cycle.

LAW 170(2) - Race and Real Estate
Course ID: 014202
01-APR-2021

The objective of this course is to understand the laws and policies, politics and financial systems in our country that established and sustained segregation, creating our cities; black slums, ghettos and urban neighborhoods. The course would address federal, state and local legal systems, with particular emphasis on Illinois and Chicago. It would cover the Fair Housing Act as well as the Kerner Report; FHA policies, including the Underwriting Manuals that led to redlining; zoning laws and urban planning; public housing and HUD's HOPE VI program; the legality of restrictive covenants; as well as case law related to each of these areas. And finally, this course would address where this has led us to today: the policies, laws and regulations that have attempted to reverse segregation, and those that continue to allow discrimination to continue by exploiting and financially devastating minority neighborhoods.

Class Actions
Some of the most cutting-edge and challenging litigation in the courts today are class actions or complex cases involving numerous parties and/or very complicated claims. These cases can take up enormous resources of our courts and the litigants and yet result in resolutions that are fair and efficient if litigated and adjudicated properly. This course focuses on the emerging issues in such cases, the innovative uses to which scientific evidence is being put in class actions, and the methods used to resolve such disputes. Students will be expected to participate as part of litigation teams in strategic discussions and exercises highlighting the material covered in the course and will be evaluated on those exercises as well as a final examination. The class would meet, at a mutually convenient time, once a week for two credits and feature at least two guest speakers (e.g., class action lawyer, jurist, expert).

Argument and Persuasion

Argument and persuasion are essential human activities. Both have been practiced, in one form or another, for as long as human beings have interacted with each other; both have also been the subject of study since earliest times. Much of what guides us today comes to us from the ancient Greeks, but modern cognitive psychology also contributes to our understanding as how audiences of various types are persuaded in various circumstances. This course is particularly interested in what constitutes effective legal argument, particularly in the resolution of constitutional questions by appellate courts. The first part of the course will consider the general problem of persuasion by focusing on classical theories of argument and, to some extent, on the understanding of effective persuasion derived from contemporary cognitive psychology. Since the aim of appellate advocacy is to persuade a particular and specialized audience, namely, appellate judges, the second part of the course will consider the particular demands and requirements of persuasion that arise.

Trustees and Trust Administration

This course will explore why well over fifty percent of the cases pending in Illinois courts involve taking liberty, money, or homes from poor people and how race factors into this reality. While the course will explore the interrelationship of racism, injustice, and poverty, the course will be focused on training students to try cases in these courts and win cases for poor people. The objectives of this course are to (1) to prepare Loyola students to represent poor people in Illinois courts and (2) excite their imagination about social and legal change, while empowering them to see the law as a vehicle for change.

Philosophy of Law

Philosophy of Law: Legal and Moral Issues of Economic Sanctions

This course will start with a brief overview of economic sanctions in the contexts of international relations and global governance, and will then look closely at the issues of effectiveness and humanitarian impact. Throughout the course we will draw on materials from a number of sanctions regimes, including South Africa, Cuba, Iraq, and Iran. We will examine a number of ethical topics, looking at the issues of intent, consent, and moral agency in the context of economic sanctions. We will also look at a number of legal issues: whether sanctions come into conflict with international human rights law, such as the International Covenant on Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights; the problem of extraterritoriality; and the recent cases coming out of the European Courts on asset freezes, such as the Kadi case.

Interprofessional Writing and Communication for Health Literacy & Health Equity

Students from various disciplines including communications, law, medicine, nursing, public health, and/or social work will learn the fundamental components for good writing and communication with patients. With a focus on low health literacy populations, students will review various documents that patients need to understand for making decisions about their health and wellness, for realizing their health care rights, as well as for ensuring their safety while using health care products. Students will have an opportunity to identify poor communications illustrated within medical appointment details and medication instructions, informed consent documents, medical power of attorney forms, arbitration agreements, and healthcare marketing material. Students will write collaboratively, and problem solve through simulated exercises and hypotheticals to determine how their respective professions can work together for addressing issues of low health literacy and in doing so enhance health equity. The course will examine the lawyer's role in business transactions by looking at examples of two decidedly different transactions - the negotiation of commercial real estate leases and the structure of the purchase, ownership, and operation of a corporate aircraft. The practical skills and knowledge acquired by examining these examples can be applied to virtually all commercial transactions. The class will consider the art of negotiating those transactions - and will focus on the role of the lawyer in those negotiations. We will consider a variety of negotiating strategies and how to deal effectively with opposing counsel who may, or may not, share your particular strategy. In addition, the class will examine a corporate aircraft transaction – with a myriad of parties and opposing interests and regulations – with the goal of appreciating the juggling and balancing necessary to achieve the best result possible. Along the way, we will look at how there is not ONE way to do things, rather there are many ways and many strategies. The rules and processes components:

Applied Civil Procedure

This course will give students practical experience with common pre-trial civil litigation tasks they will encounter in private practice. The instructor's principal goals is to expose students to the "nuet and bolts" of pleading, discovery and fact gathering – with particular emphasis on writing – so that they will be more effective junior lawyers on their first day or practice. Throughout the semester, each student will represent a client in simulated litigation of a fictional civil case in which one of their classmates is opposing counsel. Class time is devoted to discussing how to prepare and complete the tasks that arise in litigation generally and in the mock litigation in particular. As a result, students become familiar with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and obtain actual, albeit simulated, experience drafting pleadings, discovery and other writings. Specifically, this course will address: (i) conducting faculty investigations preceding and during litigation; (ii) drafting initial pleadings, such as complaints, answers, affirmative

Housing Law and Policy in United States

The course includes the study of public and private housing, with reference to federal and state constitutional and statutory law. In 1949, Congress declared the goal of a ""decent home in a suitable living environment for every American family."" However, more than 60 years later, over 95 million Americans confront serious housing problems or have no housing at all. Students will gain an understanding of the history of housing law, the lack of adequate housing in the United States, the consequences of inadequate housing, as well as the programs and legal tools designed to meet housing needs. Students will examine various programs designed to facilitate access to decent and affordable housing and develop strategies for addressing the housing crisis. Each student will prepare a seminar paper (or series of papers) on an aspect of housing as well as present in class on that topic.

Law Policy and Inequity
The objective of this course is to explore the history, evolution, and racial impact of tax policy in the United States. Students will explore the various theories of taxation's role in modern day society; examine the purpose and intent of tax on incomes, consumption, sins and assets; highlight the role interest groups play in tax policy and discuss the disparate impact such policy has on communities of color (namely black and brown). Students will be tasked with learning and discussing the intricacies of federal, state and local tax law. They will also write a tax policy that seeks to encourage and/or discourage a societal behavior, which will be discussed and analyzed from various stakeholders' perspectives.

Advanced Education Law Practicum

This course is for students who have already completed the Education Law Practicum seminar course and field placement. Students will build on the knowledge and skills gained through the Education Law Practicum by engaging in a second field placement, either with an organization or firm where they have been placed previously or with a new education law-related placement. More information about available placements is available on Pearson. The application form is available here.

The seminar component of this class will be conducted in-person for 6-8 sessions; the days and times will be selected based on instructor and student availability.

This course includes an instructional component that includes seminar discussions and individual meetings.

International Trade Law

The primary goal of this course is to learn the fundamental or basic principles of the international trading system contained in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and the treaties of the World Trade Organization (WTO). Students will learn how rules of the GATT/WTO legal system are made and how they are used in domestic legal systems such as the United States. There are five additional learning goals in this course. First, students will gain factual knowledge about how the WTO is run and how disputes are resolved among WTO member countries. Second, students will learn to analyze and critically evaluate how GATT/WTO legal rules are applied in specific cases with a view to gaining and improving their problem solving skills in international trade law. Third, students will gain a broader understanding of how law works in an increasingly global and heterogeneous world and how the proliferation of mega-regional trade agreements and trade wars and COVID-19 have affected the global trading regime. Fourth, the course will promote student interest in learning more

Introduction to Chinese Law

This variable-credit course provides students with an overview of the modern Chinese legal and political systems and lawyering in China. With an economy and society undergoing rapid change, China is facing many challenges as it makes the transition from a socialist to market economy with Chinese characteristics. The course is divided into two components (with a little Chinese culture, language, and survival tips sprinkled in as appropriate). Spring semester component (1 credit): Adopting a "law-in-action" approach, this course will introduce students to the philosophical and historical foundations of Chinese law and China’s present legal system, sources of law, and legal/political institutions; it also will explore specific substantive areas of law in modern China, including constitutional law, civil and criminal law and human rights. Beijing campus summer component (1 credit, compulsory for 1Ls): introduction to Chinese commercial law, focusing on laws applicable to US companies doing business in China, and the pitfalls of which international legal

Antiracism Under Law
This course will examine the role of the law in replicating our nation¿s racial hierarchy as manifest across indicia of socio-economic well-being. The class will also analyze various legal means for disrupting this hierarchy. In particular the court will assess the underlying legal dynamics of all material racial disparities along with legal solutions for the diminution of such disparities. The course will take a social justice approach to the continued influence of race on social well-being. As such, the course will focus on the legal system¿s ability to secure broad-based and sustainable human development, and to actualize the full potential of the entire US population. The course will consider theories suggesting that law should promote the common welfare and secure liberty for all.

Comparative Consumer Law
This course will be taught by Illinois Attorney General Lisa Madigan, assisted by Dean Jean Gaspardo. The Attorney General is the state's chief legal officer and is responsible for protecting the public interest of the state and its people through advocacy, legislating, and litigating. Protecting consumers and businesses that have been victimized by fraud, deception or unfair competition is one of the primary functions of the Attorney General. Her office receives 25,000 consumer complaints each year. In her many years of service since 2003, Attorney General Madigan has gained a solid, national reputation for prosecuting offenders perpetrating fraud against Illinois consumers. Most recently, she paired with a couple of other mid-west states Attorney Generals to prosecute the many big banks [¡too big to fail!] for their predatory lending tactics, recovering billions of dollars. The course will focus on Consumer Law, including the role of the state in enforcing legislation protecting consumers. The course will also address the role of private

The aim of this seminar is to provide students with a deeper understanding of the Supreme Court of the United States, its personnel and work, and the important role it plays in American government and society. Students will consider the processes by which Justices are appointed to the Court; the standards and processes the Court uses to choose cases for review and decision on the merits from among the multitude decided each year by the lower courts, leading to the creation of precedents of national applicability; the ways in which advocates endeavor to persuade the Court that it should (or should not) grant review in a particular case; and the ways in which the so-called ¿merits cases¿ (those in which review has been granted) are briefed, argued, and decided. A substantial part of the semester will be devoted to the study of a small number of cases currently pending before the Court, either as candidates for review or for decision on the merits. Students will learn about the work of the Court by studying briefs that were actually filed and transcripts

LAW 190(2) Course ID:004425 13-DEC-2010
Legal Writing I
Students read and analyze legal authority and learn how to apply the legal authorities to particular fact situations. Through a series of legal memoranda writing assignments, students develop their analytical and writing skills. Students are taught legal research methods through written exercises, research memos, and lectures. Second semester, the course builds on the basic writing, analysis, and research skills students have learned first semester and introduces persuasive writing skills. Students also learn how to present an oral argument to the court. Computerized research techniques are included in the course. In order to provide significant opportunities for instructor feedback, the first-year writing classes are organized into sections of approximately twelve students. Each section is staffed by both a legal writing instructor and a student tutor.

Diversity and Inclusion: A Professional and Social Responsibility
This 2 hour course will examine the legal profession which remains one of the least diverse of American professions. Lawyers have unique and varying roles as counselors, advocates, confidants, government officials, adjudicators, and civic leaders. In this course, students will have an opportunity to learn about the legal professions diversity and inclusion history and challenges, organizational and individual roles and strategies, and current research. This course will engage students with lectures, guest speakers, group discussion, and readings—all materials will be provided by instructors. There will be no cost to the students for materials utilized in this course. There will be a final presentation where students can discuss and elaborate on important topics in the legal profession. Students will gain a deeper understanding of how diversity and inclusion efforts intersect with professional responsibility and its impact on social justice.

International and Comparative Antitrust
This module explores the internationalization of competition law in the context of globalization and international trade. It examines the regulatory framework governing competition among firms internationally, identifying and analyzing the existing limitations and challenges in this regard. In particular, it looks into rules governing extraterritorial jurisdiction, discovery, recognition and enforcement of judgments in the international context. It also explores issues pertaining to merger review, trade and competition interface and the existing cooperation between antitrust agencies. The course is comparative in nature and focuses predominantly on US Antitrust and EU Competition Law. No prior knowledge of competition law (antitrust) or international economic law is assumed.

Assessment: Class participation (10%), two small class presentations (10% each, in total 20%), 6500 words

Advanced Business Organizations including a Comparative Perspective
This course focuses on U.S. corporate law and governance. It begins with an introduction to the different legal issues encountered in business entities across jurisdictions: agency problems between (1) directors and shareholders, (2) majority and minority shareholders, and (3) shareholders and other stakeholders (employees, creditors, the State, etc). It then turns to the three agency problems as they arise in private or publicly held corporations. This covers the questions of allocation of powers between Shareholders and the Board, directors; elections, executive compensation (say-on-pay), self-dealing transactions, going private transactions, insider trading, mergers and acquisitions, fiduciary duties and participation of other stakeholders in the corporate governance. For each topic, we will define the legal issues involved and examine how U.S. statutory and case law respond to them. We will also take a comparative perspective to analyze how other jurisdictions respond to the same legal issues. The comparison will thus provide students

Business Valuation
Attorneys play an active role in business transactions every day in connection with mergers and acquisitions, estates and gifts, divorce, filings with the SEC, etc. This includes attorneys who are in private practice or in with a company. Understanding business valuations and financial statements form a cornerstone of most of these transactions. In fact, the business world today and the financial work involved demands that today's lawyer understand the value and financial reporting of a business. This course will help attorneys to better understand the methodology and techniques involved in business valuations. This will also include basic financial statement analysis. Topics will include the proper standards for valuation, valuation methodology, cash flow analysis, financial analysis techniques, financial reporting issues, international standards, and specific uses of valuations.

Emerging Issues in Public International Law

Over the past several decades, largely within the context of international organizations, the global legal community has faced complications posed by the threat of terrorism and the reemergence of genocide. As a result of these developments, there has been a reexamination of the traditional role of the sovereign state as the constitutive element of public international law. Consequently, there is an emerging trend to regard, at least by some, the need to augment the role of the sovereign state with that of the international organization to respond to these new global challenges. A principle illustration of this is the concept of the "responsibility to protect". Readings will be taken from primary sources (especially documents of international organizations) as well as contemporary secondary sources, principally scholarly articles. Students will be required to purchase a short book that introduces the major topics of public international law. NOTE: This course is available as a 5th credit (ungraded) and only to Loyola University Chicago students.

Canon Law and Catholic Health Care
According to the Catholic Health Association of the United States, there are Catholic health care systems and facilities in all 50 states, providing acute care, skilled nursing and other services including hospice, home health, assisted living and senior housing. Over 15% of all hospital beds are operated by Catholic health care systems. Catholic health care supports over 20% of the hospitals in 24 States, and more than 30% of all hospitals in eight States. Catholic health care must comply with both civil law and ecclesiastical law. Knowledge of the Church’s own legal system, known as canon law, and how it interacts with civil law is essential for lawyers and administrators responsible for the management of ecclesiastical entities such as Catholic hospitals and health care systems.
Examples of specific issues would be in the areas relating to Catholic identity, sponsorship, mergers and acquisitions, quality of care, as well as facilitating the implementation of the Corporate Model of Canon Law.

Race and the Law
This course covers interdisciplinary, critical perspectives on race and racism and the roles of law and history in shaping the meanings of race in the United States. We will study the histories of the major racialized groups in the United States: African Americans, Indians, Latinos/Latinas, Asian Americans, and Whites. We will also study the differing implications of enslavement, conquest, colonization, and immigration. We will explore how race and racism play out in selected areas such as equality, education and crime and explore significant current events and findings such as: important studies of implicit bias; the Voting Rights Act and allegedly race-neutral restrictions on voting; disparate treatment of minorities in the criminal justice system; and demographic changes and their implications.
I expect each student to complete a 25-page research paper on a subject of her choice related to the course.

<td>Transportation Law</td>
<td>Transportation and logistics is a multi-trillion dollar industry. Every item you purchase or use in your everyday life was delivered by a truck or other mode of transportation (rail, ocean, air). America could not function without the transportation industry over the years. After September 11, 2001, cargo security became an important issue for the United States, which lead to many new laws and regulations. This constant roller coaster of deregulation and regulation makes being a transportation attorney very exciting. This course will briefly describe the different modes of transportation and the regulating bodies for each. We will focus on the surface modes of transportation, namely trucking and rail. The main topics discussed will be contracts, tariffs, liability for loss and damage to cargo, tort liability of shippers, carriers, customers, and brokers during and after the transportation of freight and a comprehensive understanding of insurance and the various regulations that affect the industry.</td>

Secured Transactions

This course examines the law of consensual liens on personal property under Article 9 of the Uniform Commercial Code. (I know; it sounds boring, but it's actually pretty cool.) The course deals with the use of personal property (both tangible and intangible) as collateral to secure payment or performance obligations. Course materials cover creation of the security interest, effectiveness of the security interest as against the claims of third parties, priorities of claims between competing secured parties and other lien holders and rights upon foreclosure.

Having spent my career as a partner-level transactional lawyer (corporate matters, secured debt work, securitization, bankruptcy) at two large firms (Mayer Brown and Kirkland & Ellis) as well as several years as general counsel at a NASDAQ-listed company, I want students to get a deep sense of the practical components:

Bar Exam Fundamentals

Bar Exam Fundamentals is a two-credit course that will teach you the analytical and organizational skills necessary to enhance your bar exam preparation. In this pass/fail course, we will focus on a combination of substance and skill through the presentation of specific techniques for maximizing performance on all parts of the bar exam. The course will focus on the most heavily tested doctrine in three bar exam topics, exhibiting how those topics have been tested on the Multistate Bar Exam (MBE) and on the Multistate Essay Exam (MEE). In this class, you will learn and review heavily tested subtopics, learn essay and MBE test-taking strategies, increase proficiency in taking MBE questions, and learn how to write a passing bar exam essay answer. You will receive individualized feedback on written assignments that will help you hone your writing skills and give you the tools you need to successfully self-grade during bar prep.

Bankruptcy

This course will provide a comprehensive survey of basic bankruptcy law. We will devote roughly equal time to consumer bankruptcy and business bankruptcy. Throughout the course, we will touch on the economic, political, and ethical issues underlying bankruptcy's competing goals: providing overextended consumer and business debtors with a fresh start and satisfying creditors' claims in an orderly, fair way. There are no prerequisites. Students' grades will be based on classroom participation and a take-home final exam.

Entertainment and Sports Law

Course ID: 004459
31-MAY-2017

This seminar will introduce students to the real world(s) of sports and entertainment law, examining the separate and distinct bodies of law and practices of both, while giving due to the many commonalities between the two fields, from intellectual property to professional contracts. As legal issues in both sports and entertainment law frequently appear in the headlines, this course will address up-to-the-minute issues, while covering the seminal topics and cases within each, both in litigation and transaction. Guest lecturers may participate, as their schedules permit. As there will be efforts made to accommodate guests relevant to this course, the syllabus will be in flux. Further, attendance and class participation are required, making up a significant portion of the grade along with a take-home final examination. Reading assignments can be significant on a weekly basis relevant to the upcoming week’s topic.

International & Comparative Law

Course ID: 004460
28-NOV-2016

This one credit course explores issues in family law from an international and comparative perspective. The course examines the legal relationship among families and the state, with special emphasis on how human rights doctrine has shaped the role of government in family life. The course compares and contrasts primarily American and European family law on a number of issues, including regulation of marriage, divorce and human rights within the family. Within the short time that we will be meeting, we will address through reading, film and extensive discussion how concepts of family emerge within public policy and law, how cultural norms shape rules for entry to and exit from marriage, and how human rights law impacts families and the individuals within the family.

Comparative Law Seminar

Course ID: 004461
01-OCT-2012

This seminar will introduce students to comparative legal research in the context of Chile. Each student selects a topic on which to do comparative research. Classroom sessions will introduce students to the civil law tradition, the basis of law in Chile. Through our sister law school in Chile, Universidad Alberto Hurtado, students spend the week of spring break in Santiago experiencing the Chilean legal system and conducting interviews with individuals who are expert in the area in which they are researching. Students make a classroom presentation and write a paper on their topic.

Advanced Mediation Advocacy Practicum
Students will represent pro se clients pursuing employment discrimination claims at mediations taking place at the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) or the Illinois Department of Human Rights (IDHR). Under the supervision of an experienced attorney, students will work in pairs and conduct an interview and counseling session, develop a negotiation strategy and represent the client at the mediation conference. Representation is limited to the mediation. Class time will be devoted to discussions of pending cases and assigned readings in client counseling, mediation advocacy, and basic employment law.
This course, which has won high praise from both students and clients, is open to students who have some prior experience with interest - based dispute resolution through a negotiation, mediation, client counseling or ADR course or through participation on a team. LLM students are also eligible for this class. Eligibility for a Supreme Court Rule 711 student license (43 credit hours completed) is preferred but not required.

Human Trafficking: Advancing Protections for Children Practicum
Section 001 (2 credits) Human trafficking is one of the most egregious crimes that occurs both globally and domestically. While there have been improvements to both global and domestic responses to human trafficking, children who are compelled into forced labor and sexual exploitation continue to be the least identified cohort of survivors. This interactive and interdisciplinary seminar will explore the legal, social, and practical issues confronting children who are survivors of human trafficking, as well as an examination of efforts to prevent and intervene in this social problem. While the seminar will focus on unique issues affecting (international and US citizen) survivors of child trafficking, students will gain knowledge and skills that are applicable to other marginalized populations of children and youth, as well as adult trafficking survivors.

Comparative Issues in Law and Religion

This course will examine the way the three Abrahamic Faiths (Islam, Judaism, and Christianity) consider legal and policy issues. For instance, we will look at the three faiths regarding various issues surrounding human rights and life and death issues such as: justified uses of war and violence; conscientious objection; end of life issues; capital punishment; criminal responsibility for causing death; positive duties to the poor and needy; and how the common good is described by the three religions. How do the three faiths envision translating their perspectives on the issues into civil law, and what are the proper limits on enacting religious perspectives into positive law?

Workways of the U.S. Supreme Court

This course will address the role of the U.S. Supreme Court in our tri-partite framework of representative government and interacts with the other branches of the federal government (and the states) as it exercises the power of judicial review, consistent with the authority provided by Article III of the Constitution and the statutes which Congress has passed with respect to the jurisdiction of the federal courts, including the Supreme Court. The preliminary lectures by Professor Sullivan will provide the course foundation, exploring the constitutional and statutory provisions relating to the Court and its work and the ways in which the Court has chosen to structure its work within those constraints. The course will pay particular attention to the Court's case selection process and the ways in which lawyers succeed in getting their clients' cases to the Court. Justice Ginsburg will discuss the landmark cases of the current 2017-2018 court term; the workways of the Court; and the road to her appointment to the U.S. Supreme Court. ### Comparative Criminal Procedure

Course ID: 013201
09-NOV-2018

The criminal justice process in the United States is shaped by the Constitution and Bill of Rights, statutes, rules and case law. This course will examine the role of these guiding principles in the various stages of the criminal justice process, such as the means by which information is gathered during an investigation, the circumstances under which an individual can be detained, and the type of evidence that can be used at trial. The course will focus on the salient points of comparison between the American adversarial system of criminal justice and the European civil law tradition, historically called an inquisitorial system. These points of comparison include the role of the judge/magistrate; the prosecutor's role and plea bargaining; the role of defense counsel; and the role of evidentiary and constitutional rules of exclusion of evidence. We will compare our criminal justice process to that of Italy and other countries, and Italian officials will participate as guest lecturers to talk about their own experiences with the Italian system. The course will...

29-OCT-2007

The purpose of this course is to provide exposure to contract drafting and negotiation to students with an interest in transactional law. During the course of the semester we will examine the purpose and process of drafting documents. We will also spend time discussing the business side of transactional law and how best to work with and counsel clients. In some instances, we will start with form documents borrowed from prior transactions (precedent) and we will revise these documents to reflect the particular facts and circumstances surrounding our transaction. In other instances we will work through drafting a document from scratch. Finally, we will spend time reviewing and revising existing documents and discussing the logistics of working through a variety of business transactions. The course will include numerous drafting exercises and some negotiation. By the end of the semester, students should have a basic understanding of how and why contracts are drafted and negotiated. In addition, each student should be able to draft a precise and practical contract...

This class will trace the international legal claims of African American and the black diaspora to freedom from slavery and its continuing remnants in the United States. The goal is to trace the freedom dreams of blacks that have been sidelined and marginalized by the international legal visions of white and liberal international lawyers. Its specific objectives will be:

(a) to discuss the international legal contributions of African Americans to international law and practice, and in particular how African Americas inaugurated new streams of black international legal thought in the last several decades;
(b) to analyze the global vision of black traditions of international law by highlighting the whole spectrum of African American experience and engagement with international law without distortion and

Refugee Law and Policy: Welcoming the Stranger

Refugee law is one of the most dynamic and rewarding areas of law. Nonetheless, in observing the administration of refugee law, we bear witness to some of the United States' most egregious human rights abuses and the abandonment, in some cases, of the rule of law. The goal of this course is to teach students the history of the norm of non-refoulement, in doing so to understand how political, religious, racial and other minority groups are intended to be protected (from persecution, from torture, and from death). Students will learn the history of the Refugee Convention—for whom the document was written, and, consequently, who is left out of protection (considering for example the treatment of victims of private-sphere persecution or climate refugees). Students will learn the role of xenophobia, racism, and subjugation of the "other" in this case the "alien"—other in administering the rule of asylum law. The class will contain a comparative analysis of refugee law under various international and domestic systems. Finally, students will learn about Components:

International Arbitration

This is a one credit course taught sometimes in one of the summer programs. In this course, students will learn how international commercial arbitration works. In most international contracts, the parties agree that all disputes will be resolved by arbitration. This private dispute mechanism provides a number of advantages over litigation. One of the most important advantages is that by agreeing to arbitrate, a party avoids ending up in the other party's court system. An arbitration award is also more easily enforced in a foreign jurisdiction than a court judgment, because of an international treaty known as the New York Convention. Students will learn about the various laws and rules governing international arbitration, as well as specific, practical knowledge about arbitrating, such as how to draft an arbitration clause, how to choose an arbitral institution, how to select arbitrators, the ethical rules that apply to arbitrators, the bases for challenging arbitrators, the conduct of the arbitral hearing, rules governing admission of evidence.

Spanish for Lawyers

The course is designed for law students who are looking to supplement their existing knowledge of the language with Spanish that focuses on the legal field. Its main objective is to develop adequate communication skills that will allow you to advise Spanish-speaking clients on issues related to criminal, property, civil, labor, administrative, tax, commercial, and litigation law.

We will work with real documents and texts, analyzing cases, as well as reinforcing knowledge of both Spanish in the legal field as well as of different branches of law in the judiciary system. Coursework will be carried out in groups, and a system of continuous evaluation will be implemented using assignments and projects. The course will also include a cultural component, the aim of which will be to understand, contextualize, and handle effective exchanges with Spanish-speaking clients.

This course provides a comprehensive, introduction to the transnational federal laws and law enforcement efforts launched in response to human trafficking -- this global human rights challenge. The course will use a text written by the professor and a colleague who have the distinctive perspective of two individuals who have spent their careers in the trenches investigating, prosecuting, and adjudicating these intricate and common emotional cases. The course will offer open debate about human trafficking by stripping it of its unhelpful, constricted definitions, and by candidly discussing the state of the law, the criminal justice process, and the treatment of offenders and victims. The course examines today's system of federal anti-trafficking laws in relation to the global efforts to eradicate this pervasive human rights violation.
It will explore the unique challenges posed by transnational investigations; the current state of the U.S. government's transnational anti-trafficking efforts; the myriad domestic and international legal instruments

This course will consider the dynamic nature of separation of powers in the American constitutional system, particularly with respect to the relationship between the executive and legislative branches of the national government, but consideration will also be given to the role of the judicial branch and its interactions with the executive and legislative branches (to which the courts typically refer as the “political branches”). The readings will include some of the founding era documents, constitutional cases, materials such as presidential messages and statements, executive branch legal opinions, and secondary materials. Students will gain a working knowledge of the field through the required readings and develop seminar paper topics during the first part of the semester; they will present the results of their research to the class in the latter part of the semester and will submit papers at the end of the semester. <td>Communications Law. This course surveys the field of electronic communications, from the telephone to broadcast media to the Internet. Historically, the field of communications has been divided between the traditional mass media (broadcasting, cable, satellite broadcasting) and telecommunications media (wireline and wireless telephone carriers). Today, the two general divisions are converging. One of the vehicles of that convergence is the Internet, which is capable of providing both mass media and individual communications services. This course will examine legal issues affecting all of these media. Much of the course material necessarily covers the history and theory of communications regulation as practically applied through FCC rulemakings.</td>

International Human Rights

This course offers an introduction to the theory and practice of international human rights law. Through course readings and rigorous discussion, students will learn about international and domestic laws and institutions responsible for the creation and operation of the human rights regime. The course will examine sources of international human rights laws including treaties, customary international law, and domestic law. The course will evaluate international mechanisms involved in human rights protection including the United Nations, regional mechanisms (such as the Inter-American, European and African systems) and various national courts and hybrid tribunals tasked with enforcing international human rights law. In addition to legal theory, the course will help students understand the practice of human rights law with an eye toward understanding the place of the United States in the support of and adherence to human rights norms.

Course: Contracts in Complex Commercial Transactions
Introduction:
The objective of this course is to familiarize the student with contracts as used by sophisticated parties. Accordingly, this course will explore "real-world" contracts actually entered into by "real-world" companies -- the Coca-Cola's, Microsoft's, and HP's of the world. Through this course, the student will attain a certain facility with agreements, their organization and structure, their language, and their provisions (and the interaction of these provisions). The course will pay considerable attention to how courts have treated various contractual provisions. The examination of actual contracts will begin with non-disclosure agreements and will proceed into employment agreements, services agreements, and agreements for the sale of goods. Topics will also include merger-and-acquisition agreements. In addition, readings will include comments from leading practicing attorneys (from law firms such as Sidley, Kirkland, and Cravath, and from legal departments at companies such as Microsoft, Accenture, and JP Morgan), and there is

Course: Critical Legal Studies Seminar
Introduction:
Critical Legal Studies posits that the influence of the social construct of race in America is ubiquitous, including in law. Moreover, it suggests that so-called color blind law-making is unlikely to address the most important means by which race continues to operate to oppress many persons in America. Finally, it teaches that racial reform occurs only in accordance with the interests of those with political and economic power. This course will survey the key scholarly works that form the basis for these precepts and seek to test these positions against the reality of race in America today.

Course: International and European Legal Institutions
Introduction:
This course examines how the law regulates policing in the United States. We will spend part of the class exploring important court decisions related to police accountability. We will also study other legal mechanisms designed to combat police misconduct, like civil litigation, criminal prosecution, and federal oversight. Ultimately, this course will encourage students to consider whether existing regulatory tools effectively combat police misconduct, and whether these regulations impair the ability of law enforcement to fight crime.

Intellectual Origins of ""Othering"" in the Law of Nations

Today, many nations and peoples with formal legal equality are not, in practice, treated equally in international relations. One reason for this is that some nations and peoples were once unequal under prevailing law and legal theory. This course surveys key Western political and legal thought that led to ""othering,"" or legal inequality, in the ""Law of Nations,"" which was a general body of law that eventually became what we today call ""international law."" After setting out key concepts and themes, the course traces the evolution of thought regarding: the nature of human societies, the interrelationship of human societies, the rights and rules of war, and the acquisition and possession of land by peoples and nations. As necessary, students will be required to review relevant geopolitical history that both influenced and resulted from this evolution. A note of caution: this course will encounter detestable concepts, such as the persistent idea that some humans were ""natural slaves,"" ""infidels,"" ""savages,"" or ""barbarians"" unworthy of equal consideration.

Intellectual Property Colloquium

This a unique course offered once a year to a select group of students from Loyola and Chicago-Kent. Enrolled students read and discuss draft articles of nationally renowned professors in the field of intellectual property; the articles are typically draft law review articles. The discussions are focused on helping the professors to refine and improve their articles, such that a strong foundation of intellectual property is expected, even though there is no official pre-requisite. This course meets every week, but the students only meet in person roughly half the time, with the other half of the sessions done by videoconference. Three of the in-person classes will be at Chicago-Kent; for those days, the class will begin at 4:10 pm and end by 5:50pm to allow students adequate travel time. There is no final exam or research project required for this class. Instead, students are required to attend and actively participate in all classes. Students are selected based on an application that is available at: www.chicagoip.com.

Intro to Comparative Law
This course will provide an introduction to the "civil law" legal systems (which include almost all of Western and Eastern Europe and Latin America, as well as, portions of Africa and Asia). The course will begin with the roots of the Civil Law in Rome around 450 BC and subsequent developments, including its preservation by Byzantine Jurists in the Corpus Juris Civilis, and its revival by scholars in medieval Italy. The various events and influences that led to the modern Civil Law will be considered. Differences between the modern Civil Law and Common Law approaches and attitudes toward law will be covered. Courtcraft Excellence in Advocacy
Courtcraft is the foundation and the discipline which makes for excellence in advocacy. It is a holistic approach to advocacy which harnesses together at least four principles: purpose, preparation, presentation and persuasion. Courtcraft should never be an option for the would-be advocate. It is not a luxury, but an essential grounding without which no law student can begin to call himself/herself an advocate. Like any skill, advocacy can be taught. Few of us are born advocates. Most need training and guidance. Courtcraft develops and enhances all that the student of law has been taught and prepares him/her for excellence in advocacy.
Our courtcraft programme is not founded simply on theory or academia. It is based on our own many years of experience as advocates appearing almost daily in court. Purpose Your role as a lawyer and advocate. Your duty

Illinois Civil Litigation Practice

This course will empower you to practice in Illinois state courts (where 90% of all litigation is heard) with the efficacy of a seasoned litigator. Teaming star civil litigators with veteran judges, this redesigned two-session intensive course will focus sharply on the crucial knowledge and skills needed to survive the confusing and hectic civil court system. The course will enhance your written and oral argument skills in the context of the labyrinth of procedural rules and statutes that govern different phases of civil litigation in Illinois. Using hypothetical scenarios, students will learn how the rules apply to the facts and substantive law in a concrete way, as well as how to argue issues arising in the pre-trial setting. You will write briefs (up to 8 pages), argue motions, serve as a judge, and instruct your fellow students on the law, all over two sessions, each one lasting one and a half days. The first session will generally focus on pleadings and motions directed to pleadings, while the second session will generally focus on discovery and other substantive aspects.

Jurisprudence I
This course will consider a number of topics residing at the cutting edge where law and legal philosophy meet, including: What is law? Must law be related to morality? What is the interpretative function of courts? Should integrity constrain what courts decide? From whence does the duty to obey law come? Are there any human rights? Might some of these rights by manifested by our ideas of liberty, privacy and freedom of expression? Need we respond to terrorism by changing our values? What is distributive justice as compared with corrective or retributive justice? Are distributive justice questions implicated by court decisions involving affirmative action, gender, and sexual orientation? How is corrective justice manifested in tort and contract law? What is ownership? Is ownership of intellectual property morally justified? What is the relationship of causation to responsibility, and what is punishment and how it is justified. Students may take this three hour course either as a lecture course with a midterm and final exam or a seminar with a 20

Jurisprudence II
This seminar addresses the philosophical underpinnings, moral standards and political presuppositions of legal regimes that are distinct from those studied in Jurisprudence I. A series of short papers is required.

Comparative Health Law and Bioethics
The field of health law offers a fascinating platform from which to compare foreign legal systems. By understanding the wide variation in how different nations approach controversial issues of health law and bioethics, students will develop the skills necessary to critically evaluate their own countries policies from an international perspective.

Business Skills for New Lawyers
Currently, the legal marketplace requires new lawyers to have more skill sets than just the traditional ones law schools have provided in the past. To be competitive, 21st century lawyers will require a level of knowledge and proficiency in new areas including, but not limited to, fundamental financial matters, marketing and communication, and how to add value for clients. This course is an introduction to necessary business skills for new lawyers.

State Constitutional Law
This course examines state court decisions from around the country to illustrate the array of state constitutional issues occurring in modern American law. State constitutions are a source of rights independent of the Federal Constitution and frequently are applied by state courts to grant more expansive protection for individual rights than the Federal Constitution afford. Moreover, state constitutional law, like its federal counterpart, is not limited to issues involving individual rights. Course coverage may include equality, due process of law, criminal procedure, property rights, religion, freedom of speech, school funding, the right to a remedy, the structure of state government, judicial power, and amendment processes.

Conflict of Laws
This course deals with the legal ramifications of disputes involving contracts with two or more states or other jurisdictions. When such disputes reach the courts, what law should be applied and how should the determination be made? The course explores these questions and the various methods courts and scholars have proposed and adopted to answer them. The contrasting points of view regarding choice of law, jurisdiction and recognition of foreign judgments are analyzed in terms of which policies best promote harmony and efficiency in the federal system and accord with the federal constitutional requirements of due process of law and full faith and credit to the judgments of sister states. A special focus this year will be on the application of these areas of law to family law issues.

Reviewing and Righting Wrongful Convictions
The course explores and addresses the causes of wrongful convictions. We will also explore how the law has changed in response to what we’ve learned about wrongful convictions. Among other factors, the course will specifically consider interrogations and false confessions, forensics and their (mis)use in the criminal law, and eyewitness testimony and memory and factors that may make it fallible. The course will draw from case law, national academy of science reports and related research, and multidisciplinary research in the areas of psychology, social sciences, and the law. The course will also focus on solutions: how have system actors responded? What changes in law have emerged? What changes in practice, including practices in prosecution or police departments. We address the systemic causes of wrongful convictions and consider the impact of such convictions on men and women of color, particularly on Black men and teenagers, who have been disproportionately impacted.

This course will examine important issues around access to civil justice, including the history of civil legal aid, current delivery systems and funding models, increased self-representation of litigants in the court system, and potential solutions to bridge the gap between the growing need for civil legal assistance and available resources.

To most effectively explore these issues, the course is divided into three components: bi-weekly seminars, several experiential activities and a research project. Each is described briefly below.

Remedies

This course examines what courts, including juries, have the power to do in civil cases once a litigant shows he or she has been legally wronged or is threatened with legal wrong. The subject matter of Remedies, now a required subject of inquiry on most state bar examinations, is very broad, meaning, in part, that it draws on many topics of legal study. Constitutional Law, Torts, Contracts, and Federal Civil Procedure, in particular, bear directly on the subject matter of the course. Remedies is therefore sometimes called a ¿capstone course,¿ because it provides students an opportunity to bring together what they have learned in other courses on substantive and procedural law. One important component of the course is review problem sets (problems similar to examination questions and often presaging them) that are discussed in class. Another is an emphasis on how the remedial issues that become the subject of appellate opinions arise in the first instance, and are presented and play out at the trial court level. Telecommunications Law

This course surveys the field of electronic communications, from the telephone to broadcast media to the Internet. Historically, the field of communications has been divided between the traditional mass media (broadcasting, cable, satellite broadcasting) and telecommunications media (wireline and wireless telephone carriers). Today, the two general divisions are converging. One of the vehicles of that convergence is the Internet, which is capable of providing both mass media and individual communications services. This course will examine legal issues affecting all of these media. Much of the course material necessarily covers the history and theory of communications regulation as practically applied through FCC rulemakings.

This course will explore the application of economic principles to legal doctrines. The economic approach to law seeks (1) to explain, at least in part, why certain legal rules exist; (2) determine the consequences of legal rules by identifying the incentives created by a legal framework; and (3) provide guidance about how legal rules should be structured or ambiguities interpreted. The course is intended to enable the student to develop an understanding of the economic implications of legal rules, how economic concepts can be incorporated into legal rules, and how economic analysis fits into litigation. Expert Witness Theory and Practice
The expert witness is a powerful weapon in a trial attorney's arsenal. Expert Witness Theory & Practice gives students the opportunity to learn about expert witnesses and work with experts in a mock trial environment. During this two credit hour course, students will learn who can be an expert, what an expert can testify about, the pretrial disclosure requirements for experts, differences between Illinois and federal law regarding experts, and the fundamentals of direct and cross-examination of experts. Students will then participate in simulations including a discovery deposition and a mock trial where students will present and cross-examine psychology graduate students serving as expert witnesses. Students will be graded on their performance of these exercises as well as written exercises and classroom participation. The mock trial will serve as the final examination for the course. The law governing the employment relationship is not limited to the union management confrontation of traditional labor law and the proscriptions of employment discrimination statutes. Both common law claims and other statutes have become major sources in challenging, e.g., drug testing, plant closings, lie detectors, whistleblowers, wrongful discharge. This course explores those legal problems. This is not a duplication of either Labor Law or Employment Discrimination; neither is a pre-requisite. The goal of this course is to provide students with an overview of International Trade and U.S. Customs law, in its domestic and international contexts. Students should be prepared to learn about the history and current role of international trade organizations; U.S. government agencies and their roles in international trade; U.S. Customs law and compliance issues. Students will receive an overview of antidumping law and the litigation of antidumping and U.S. Customs issues at the U.S. Court of International Trade and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. The role of NAFTA and other free trade agreements in international trade will be discussed, in both legal and political settings. The class will also cover compliance issues that arise under U.S. Customs law, and how a client's non-compliance can incur penalties from the U.S. government and affect overall client profitability.

Aviation Law
This course will serve as both an introduction to the laws of aviation and space in their broadest sense, as well as a survey of legal issues associated with, and bearing on modern aviation and space issues against the backdrop of fundamental business principles. It will incorporate all areas of law covered in the first-year law school curriculum to cover the basic legal frameworks of aviation and space law, including: international treaties; federal and state statutes; federal and state regulations; government regulation of aircraft including drones, air carriers, pilots, airspace, and airports (including land use); choice of law issues relating to all aviation and space related litigation; and case law. Current international space law in U.N. resolutions, treaties, and customary law will be identified as will the legal theory and principles used in the advancement of civil, military, and commercial space activities.

State & Local Taxation
State and local taxes in the United States are numerous, diverse and constantly evolving. These taxes are also the source of some of the most significant controversies in tax practice today. This course explores the federal and state constitutional and statutory frameworks that underlay state and local income tax (corporate and personal), sales and use taxes, and as time permits, the other significant types of state and local taxes (property taxes, capital based franchise taxes and gross receipts taxes, etc.). While there is a special focus on Illinois, the course is designed to equip a tax practitioner with the tools to approach and understand the tax regimes in most states and localities.

Real Estate Seminar
The seminar will focus on recent Illinois zoning and land use cases. Land use and zoning is one of the most important substantive law areas applicable to real estate development. Each student will select a recent reported case concerning subject property in the Chicago area. The instructor will assign the cases leaving students free to propose suitable alternatives. Students may trade cases with other students. Once case assignments have been finalized, the student assigned the cases will visit the site(s), perhaps taking photographs or videos. To the extent possible, the parties and their counsel will be interviewed. No library research should be necessary. However, all students will read the court's opinion, and the student reporting on the case will also read the briefs of the parties. Each student will be given one full class period (50 minutes) to present an oral report to the seminar, beginning at the sixth week of classes. All members of the seminar will be required to attend these reports. After reporting and discussing the case with the seminar, the instructor will give each student a grade for this activity.

American Legal History
Deep controversies over political issues present now—immigration, health care, the power of states, even presidential power will be shaped and possibly resolved by law. This has been so from the Colonial era until this moment. The fundamental idea of this course is that, seen through the lens of history, law has molded and been molded by our social, political and economic relations. American law has been essential in determining the most fundamental questions affecting us: slavery, voting, property-holding, the status of women, the role of religion, what agreements we may make, who is responsible for accidents, whether wealth may be taxed, pollution, and countless other topics. The class critically surveys the legal concepts, forms and institutions that have shaped and been shaped by American society throughout its history.

Storytelling and Presentation Skills for Lawyers
This course is designed to train student lawyers in the art of storytelling and persuasive presentation for the courtroom. Training will focus on the goal of persuading juries by presenting complex material in narrative form with the ease of a conversation. Students will learn how to construct powerful stories that illustrate critical aspects of the case, using simple language, effective pacing, and vivid character development. Students will also learn how to use vocal inflection and body language to tell the story between the words, project confidence, and how to make a mental/emotional connection with the jury. Courtroom delivery is examined through principles that apply to all spoken interaction: use of space, use of visuals, and use of time. The course focuses concepts drawn from literature, theatre, and public speaking. Students learn the practical skills that apply to openings, closings, witness interrogation, and prospective client interviews. Each day includes both lecture and practical workshop components. Global Access to Medicine: A Patent Perspective
This course considers how patents impact access to medicine in today’s global economy. While there are many issues that impact access to medicine, patents are the highlight here because patents are often poorly understood, yet have an enormous impact on access to medicine. After all, the existence of a life-saving or sustaining drug is essentially of no utility if it is priced beyond reach. This class aims to broaden students’ consideration of different views of patents in the context of exploring a growing web of international agreements that require nations to adopt specific types of patent laws that have implications for the cost of drugs. No prior knowledge of patents or international law is required, although students will learn some aspects of each by the conclusion of the course. Student grades will be based on class participation, as well as a final project and presentation; there will be no final exam.

This class provides the doctrinal foundation in elder law. The class is taught through the lens of bar-related areas of the law. Fiduciary and Agency law concepts are used to discuss ethics issues, discrimination issues, durable powers of attorney, and other methods for planning for an individual's incapacity. Public and Constitutional law concepts are used to discuss an individual's right to consent to or deny medical treatment, the court's jurisdiction in adjudicating adult guardianship, and the governmental benefits available to elderly individuals. Property laws are used to discuss various housing choices available in retirement, and Contract and Tort laws are used to discuss nursing homes, private insurance, and other financial contracts. Additionally, Consumer and Bankruptcy laws are used to discuss financial exploitation while Evidence and Criminal laws are used to discuss physical and emotional abuse of the elderly. Other important issues with aging populations will be discussed.

Experts in various fields discuss negotiations as they apply in those areas of the law. Students engage in mock negotiations in a variety of contexts, such as divorce, real estate, contracts, commercial law, labor law, and criminal law. Not all instructors cover each of these areas of substantive law, and different instructors emphasize different areas of substantive law. Must have completed 40 credit hours; if you take Mediation or Negotiations, you cannot take Alternative Dispute Resolution. If you have taken the Mediation & Other ADR Procedures Clinic, you cannot take this class.

Financial Wellness for New Lawyers

The purpose of this course is to prepare students for the opportunities and personal financial challenges they will encounter during their legal careers. My goal is to show each student that strong financial habits are crucial and beneficial for all types of attorneys and all levels of income. Students will learn that it is possible for all of us to obtain financial freedom, which translates into the power of choice. When we have the power to choose, we have the power to live a life that conforms to our personal values, including the strong values instilled upon us at Loyola. When we are not encumbered by poor financial choices, we are free to choose our professional focus, to share our talents with the disadvantaged members of our community, and to work on passion projects. Importantly, we can choose to spend more time with loved ones.

Client Counseling Weekend Workshop

This skills training course is conducted in an intensive workshop format over the course of one weekend. Students will learn the goals and tactics for the most effective client interviewing and counseling relationships. Students practice application of skills and tactics of interviewing and counseling through role-playing as client and attorney. The course will teach skills including effective questioning, dealing with emotions, developing the client case narrative, identifying and addressing implicit bias, meeting clients where they are, and rapport building. The course is ungraded; however, students will be evaluated by in class performance to determine a grade of pass or fail.

Students may register for the Client Counseling Weekend Workshop to receive one credit. It is an option to also register for the Negotiation Weekend Workshops to receive a total of two credits for participating in both.

Mediation Advocacy

This course is designed to give you an important skill set: preparing for and negotiating on behalf of a client in a mediation setting. Unlike a trial, arbitration or appellate setting, where the people listening to you are neutral, in a mediation you are dealing with the decision makers on the other side, people who often behave in a hostile manner towards you and your client. Through practice you can acquire skills that will make you an effective advocate in a mediation setting, including learning to communicate information to the other side in a way they can hear it, identifying the various needs and interests of the parties (as opposed to just the positions), and approaching a dispute as an opportunity to solve a problem creatively. We will touch on the decision science (neuroscience, psychology, and behavioral economics) and cultural competency tools that can make you more effective, and also explore Online Dispute Resolution (ODR), which is quickly emerging as a way to resolve disputes using AI in combination with human mediators.

The objectives of the course is to provide students live client experience in the form of a week-long experiential immersion program where students will provide direct representation, advocacy, and support to detained immigrants in geographic locations in the US where the need is greatest. The program will include an online course on a Saturday or Sunday in February, providing students a basic understanding of US immigration law and policy related to the needs of detained immigrants at the designated site (e.g. how to conduct a bond hearing, credibly fear interviews for asylum applicants), followed by a hands-on live workshop (3 hours). The workshop will provide students an introduction to live-client skills including trauma-informed interviewing, vicarious trauma, and also include travel logistics. Reading materials will also be assigned in advance as part of the online course. Participants will travel over spring break in March to provide on-site representation in collaboration with national partners, and spend the last afternoon together to reflect on

Restorative Justice Workshop
In recent decades, courts, communities and schools are returning to restorative methods to address family issues such as child guardianship; escalating violence in our schools and streets; reintegrating prisoners into their communities; making decisions about appropriate sentencing; and the role of victims in the process. In each context, the same issues must be addressed: who is involved, what are the needs of the parties, and what can be done to resolve the issues at hand. This one credit course will be conducted in workshop format over the course of one weekend. Students will be able to identify the core principles underlying the restorative justice paradigm, compare and contrast restorative and retributive justice models, and learn the basic elements of conflict resolution techniques through a restorative lens. We will address the history of restorative justice and students will be trained on a restorative dialogue process.

Federal Litigation Practice

Course ID: 004627
Date: 04-JAN-2011

A significant portion of federal litigation occurs prior to the filing of a dispositive motion or a trial. This course will explore complex areas of federal litigation that are likely to result in a hearing before a federal judge. Each week, during the first part of the class, the students will explore a different area of substantive law involving frequently litigated topics in federal court such as attorney/client privilege, review of electronic evidence, use and scope of protective orders, and motions to compel. The second half of each class will involve the "litigants" presenting their arguments to the Court based on fact scenarios given to the litigants the prior week. The course is taught by federal judge, Hon. Virginia M. Kendall, and will take place in her courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building.

Antisemitism, the Holocaust, and the Law

Course ID: 014290
Date: 07-JAN-2022

Loysa's mission is to educate diverse, talented students to be responsible leaders in a rapidly changing, interdependent world, to prepare graduates who will be ethical advocates for justice and the rule of law, and to contribute to a deeper understanding of law and legal institutions through a commitment to research, scholarship and public service. The Professional Identity Formation course seeks to advance the mission of the law school by fulfilling two of the main education goals as Loyola Law: advancing the Jesuit tradition of social justice and ethics and law; and to prepare students to be accomplished and ethical leaders in the legal profession and the larger community. The individual development of a professional identity is critical to meeting these goals. This required 1 credit, 5 week first year course seeks to assist students in the recognition and elimination of personal bias and building awareness of how diversity and inclusion of others whose world view is different from one's own is critical to professional development and success in the legal profession and the larger community. The course is taught by federal judge, Hon. Virginia M. Kendall, and will take place in her courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building.

Documenting and Negotiating Finance Transactions
This course offers students an opportunity to focus on the legal issues that arise between borrowers and their financial advisor/banker. Topics covered include a focus on commercial loan agreements, other capital raising vehicles and mergers and acquisitions. The course also focuses on the perspective of the CFO and the banker in deciding when and how to raise additional capital, expansion through acquisition and partnership/joint-ventures with other entities. Students also study examples of actual loan agreements and other related documents as well as analyzing case law involving financial institutions and loan agreements. This course uses practical examples of actual transactions including details of their negotiation and execution with the student actively involved on a case study basis. Prerequisites: Students taking this class will be expected to have taken Business Organizations. Knowledge of Secured Transactions and Federal Income Tax would greatly assist the student; these classes are not, however, required to take the course.

Critical Legal Studies
Critical theory attempts to answer the age old question, "What is law?" by asserting that law is the reflection of the political values of the dominant group within society. After a brief introduction to the more traditional theories of justice; such as natural law, legal positivism, and legal realism, students will take up the challenge of Critical Legal Studies. Subjects covered include an economic analysis of law; gender and sexual orientation; and critical race theory. Other possible topics include an evaluation of law and economics; the emergence of Sharia law; and the role of feminism in the 21st century.
This course will be taught at Chicago Kent College of Law. (It may be taken as either a regular course with an exam at the end, or as a seminar with a paper in lieu of the exam.)

Trial Practice - Modern Trials

Trial Practice – Modern Trials is a three-hour, graded credit advanced trial practice class designed to teach students the skills necessary to effectively try cases using computers to present evidence and visuals for jury addresses. Modern juries receive the majority of their information from television and computer screens and a courtroom should be no different. The course builds on the basic trial skills acquired in other Trial Practice classes with a real world approach to simulate modern trials as closely as possible. In the first few weeks of the semester, students learn how to use PowerPoint and a dedicated courtroom presentation program called Sanction as tools to better engage juries by presenting materials electronically. The remainder of the semester is spent trying cases first in a workshop setting where students receive hands-on advocacy instruction, followed by trying two full mock-trials in the federal courthouse courtrooms with built-in computer monitors and projectors. The skills acquired in this class are now a necessary for any trial lawyer.

Immigration Law and the Workplace

An estimated 12 million people live and work in the United States illegally, according to many news accounts. As the immigration debate rages, the focus is on both the immigrant workers and the employers who supply the jobs. It has been illegal to employ unauthorized immigrants in the U.S. since 1986. The Immigration Form & Control Act (IRCA) requires all employers to verify employment eligibility through the I-9 form, but the government has not been consistent enforcing immigration laws in the workplace. Moreover, many states and municipalities have taken on the issue and have passed their own immigration laws. The Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agency is responsible for ensuring that employers comply with the law and has issued new priorities in workplace enforcement. Other laws protecting workers, such as labor and comprehensive immigration reform. This course will focus on the obligations of US employers, both under IRCA and beyond and the implications of illegal immigrant employment. It will examine pitfalls that await an

This seminar examines the international rules regulating armed conflicts and other armed violence. Topics include the rights and responsibilities of states and individuals under international law, armed conflict identification and classification, the law of the sea, and rules regulating the conduct of fighters and other aspects of armed hostilities, and international human rights law. The course is designed to prepare students for competitions and/or future practice in these areas of law, such as in a government/military or non-governmental organization setting. The final grade is determined by group projects that include answering scenario-based humanitarian law questions and a research project to be selected and completed by assigned student groups.

One of our first Freedoms: the freedom to worship in the way of one's conscience is arguably the foundation of liberty in the United States. This course will concern itself with the First Amendment's protections and limitations on our religious liberty by an examination of both historic and current issues in religious freedom whether involving personal behavior, medical issues or political activity tinged with religious issues. In addition to constitutional protections federal and state legislation concerning religious liberty will also be examined. A presentation and paper on topic in the area from each student will be required.

Mediation Seminar

Mediation is a dispute resolution process that enables parties to negotiate their own settlement with the assistance of an impartial third party neutral (the mediator), instead of having a judge decide the outcome for them. As it has become increasingly institutionalized within the legal system, it is important that lawyers be familiar with its benefits, as well as with how it works.

This course will offer an overview of mediation theory, techniques, applications, and history. Through simulations and other in-class exercises, students will consider how mediation differs from other types of dispute resolution processes, how mediation styles differ from one another, in what different contexts mediation is used (including commercial, divorce, community, and employment conflicts), and what the role of the attorney-advocate is during mediation.

Business Legislation Practicum

Each student enrolled will choose a current project of the Institute of Illinois Business Law and work with the members of that project sub-committee. The Institute has been located at Chicago-Kent for the past four years, under the Directorship of Prof. Philip Hablutzel. Over the past 30 years, the Institute and its predecessor has written all the major business statutes in Illinois. Each year, the Institute has six to eight law reform projects in various states of drafting or submission to the Illinois General Assembly. One or more students will work with a project sub-committee and do legal research and other assistance. The time commitment is four hours per week. Supervision will be by Prof. Hablutzel and the project chair.

Prerequisite: Business Organizations completed or taken concurrently; and permission of instructor. Students will be required to perform four hours of fieldwork each week.

Canon Law Seminar

Canon law plays a central role in determining how the Catholic Church handles the broad spectrum of issues involved in the daily management of a worldwide multinational organization that includes dioceses, parishes, colleges, universities, grade schools, high schools, hospitals, nursing homes and other charitable entities. Examples of these issues involve personnel and real estate matters, rights and duties of the Christian faithful, professional misconduct, foreign religious workers, the administration of ecclesiastical goods, mergers and joint ventures, and, of course, marriage and family law, especially divorces and annulments. This Canon Law Seminar should be of particular interest for students interested in the management of Catholic institutions. This course will be conducted as a seminar in which students will be invited to write a research paper and make a classroom presentation on some issue of canon law.

<td>This seminar will explore the difficult legal, political and practical issues currently confronting American education. The course will begin with an analysis of the fundamental political and legal principles underlying the American public education system. Students will then be challenged to apply these principles to difficult areas of education law, such as: (1) the adequacy and equity of school funding; (2) the nature of a constitutional right to education; (3) the relationship between public education and religious institutions and practices; (4) legal issues relating to curriculum; (5) equal educational rights, including issues of desegregation and affirmative action; (6) the constitutional rights of students; (7) special education; and (8) the rights and responsibilities of educators. Students will be required to participate actively in class, to facilitate class discussion of a selected topic, and to submit a paper which analyzes critically an important issue raised in the class. There will be no final examination.</td>

Tax Controversy Intensive
This course offers students the opportunity for a hands-on approach to developing their skills and knowledge of the procedures and dispute resolution strategies involved in federal tax controversies. This intensive course will offer experience with pre-controversy planning techniques such as: pre-filing motions, conflict resolution with the IRS through both examination and appeals, and preparing for tax court litigation. Students will be engaged in a series of real-time scenarios for identifying issues, drafting responses and preparing memos related to both corporate and individual tax disputes.

Experienced tax attorneys will guide students through a series of mock procedures and interactions with the IRS, and assist the students in developing and improving their analytical and writing skills. Through a mix of panel presentations and guests lectures, students will gain an understanding of the types of challenges Components:

Comparative Education Law
This course begins with an exploration of the legal and political structure of American education, including issues such as: (1) the role of government in mandating education; (2) the relationship between state and religion in the educational process; (3) the governance of educational institutions and the shaping of curriculum; and (4) the rights and responsibilities of teachers and students. The American legal system's resolution of these difficult issues are then compared to the resolution of these same issues by legal systems in other countries. Finally, students are asked to question the fundamental assumptions underlying the American educational system based on their understanding of different assumptions underlying the educational systems in other nations. Students are required to help to facilitate class discussions and to prepare a paper that analyzes critically an issue raised in the class.

Advanced Torts: Perspectives on Tort Law
This course has several objectives. It offers the student an opportunity to study several important torts topics not usually covered in the first year, such as products liability, misrepresentation, and business torts. It also offers an opportunity to consider whether tort law is a just and efficient way to resolve disputes and provide remedies for personal injuries and other types of harm. Perspective readings on tort reform evaluation will be included. Students also will conduct research on a topic of the student's choice and present findings to the class. The grade will be based on the quality of the presentation and a two-hour take home exam.

This is a Perspective Elective and Bar course.

Immigration Practicum Advancing

Immigration law is one of the most complex, dynamic, and rewarding areas of practice. Yet, it is often viewed as a specialized field that rarely is connected to other public interest areas of law, including child and family law, poverty law, housing, education, health, and criminal justice. The goal of this course is to teach the current realities of immigration law as experienced in practice, and to show how it intersects other field of public interest law in the pursuit of social justice. This unique course has a classroom component and a field-work component.

The class meets formally two hours per week in the evening to cover substantive immigration law issues, current topics/changes in immigration practice, and to develop practical skills tailored to the practice of immigration law practice and advocacy, with an emphasis on issues affecting families and children. Topics include classroom discussions, guest lectures by legal aid organizations, and in-class simulations of various immigration law issues, such asAdjustment of Status, deportation, and Asylum.

Structured Finance

Securitization is a form of highly sophisticated business transaction in which a company seeking financing gathers together pools of its financial assets, such as auto loans, deposits them in a bankruptcy remote subsidiary and causes the subsidiary to issue securities or borrow loans that are backed by the pool of financial assets. Well-known types of securitizations include mortgage-backed securities and collateralized debt obligations. Although these types of transactions received a great deal of scrutiny during and after the financial crisis, securitization also includes other forms of asset-backed securities that are an essential component of modern financial markets.

As this course will demonstrate, a successful securitization integrates a bunch of different bodies of commercial law, including securities law, bankruptcy law, secured transactions, corporation law, tax, and

Diversity in the Law is an interdisciplinary, weekend course for students who are interested in law, diversity and how to work across different cultures and other kinds of diversity to provide exceptional legal services to any corporation, governmental entity, community, or international client. Through short readings, role play, and team building activities, students will acquire the basic skills necessary for professionals to work effectively in cross-cultural situations. This course also emphasizes a critical examination of how issues such as race, class, gender, sexual orientation and disability intersect with the legal system and barriers to diversity in the legal profession. This course welcomes students who desire to effect change and who have the potential to act as leaders and role models in their communities, law firms, and companies.

Students will be required to complete a group project and a short, reflection writing on diversity in the law during the course. This course will be pass/fail and final grades will be based on performance in class and

Art Law

Art Law and Transactions is a study of the main legal issues involved in the acquisition, ownership and disposition of works of art. The primary perspective is that of an attorney in the representation of an art collector, and how the transactional arc involves regular concerns, such as contract law, as well as art specific concerns, such as Nazi-era looted art. Part I Acquisition begins with a focus on the legal issues raised by the various venues for art purchases (art commissions, through a dealer, at auction) and follows with the two core issues of authenticity and good title. Part II Ownership concerns three topics that could arise during the ownership phase: crossing borders, moral rights and art loans. Part III Disposition completes the transactional loop with a discussion of how one transfers works of art during life or at death, whether by sale or gratuitous transfers, including valuation concerns. The course will include several drafting exercises (some of which will be done in teams) and a one-hour in-class final.

Federal Tax Clinic I
The purpose of the Federal Tax Clinic is to educate the student in the practice and procedures of federal tax law and dispute resolution before the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and the United States Tax Court. The tax clinic is neither exclusively a "skills center" nor a "theory center." Instead, all the numerous components of tax law practice are integrated in the curriculum of both classroom study and legal practice with actual clients. Some of the subjects include client interviewing and counseling, negotiations, and tax litigation. Students handle cases at the IRS and Tax Court level on a clinical basis and, with the clinic attorneys, prepare all appropriate written responses to the IRS, prepare Tax Court petitions, and litigate tax cases. Federal Income Tax is a prerequisite.

Client Counseling & Negotiation
This course is designed to develop skills used by lawyers in their roles as client interviewer, counselor and negotiator. Emphasis is on class participation. The first hour of each class is devoted to lecture/discussion of the covered topics. During the second hour, students participate in practice problems which emphasize the skills taught in the first hour. Students are graded on the following: written paper, one videotaped out of class problem, and class participation. Because of the heavy emphasis on class participation, the class is limited to 18 students.

This course will provide students insight and practical knowledge of alternative dispute resolutions. This course focuses on the attorney’s ability to understand the differences in the practice of mediation and the more recent development of the Collaborative law process and understand the application of each. Students will learn through didactic as well as skill-centered methods, giving each the opportunity to practice skills through role play and fishbowl exercises. We will cover the basics of mediation and Collaborative practice while emphasizing useful derivative skills that will serve students well in their future law careers. A client-centered approach, the primary goal of this class is to expose students to effective communication methods and skills that lead to settlement without litigation. Guest lecturers will bring their specific areas of expertise to the class so that students will be able to see first-hand the application of the processes we will be studying and be able better to emulate them. # The Art of the Presentation

Lawyers are always giving presentations, both formally and informally. From interviewing to meeting with senior attorneys to engaging with clients to advocating for one’s client in court, it's essential for a new lawyer to know how to speak confidently and persuasively. Students will learn how to become positive, clear, and articulate speakers and presenters. Topics include: how to create excellent formal presentation's summarizing one's work, how to engage others in the networking and interviewing processes, how to handle difficult conversations in the workplace, how to understand one's role and add value during formal and informal meetings, and how to be eloquent and efficient while conveying information to attorneys, clients, and the court.

Federal Courts

This course builds on the knowledge gained in constitutional law and civil procedure. One of the most important features of our constitutional system is the general division of governmental authority between state and national governments, and nowhere is that division of authority more important to practicing lawyers than in the allocation of judicial power between the state and federal courts. The former are, of course, courts of general jurisdiction, while the latter are courts of limited jurisdiction. The overall design of the course seeks to assist students in thinking about this allocation of power, not as a merely theoretical matter, but as one of real practical consequence in connection with a client’s substantive goals and how best to serve them. Litigants typically want access to the federal courts for very specific (and often very important) reasons: to obtain remedies for violations of federal constitutional and statutory law, or, in some cases, to secure a forum that they believe will be more hospitable to their claims. Each year, students are selected to travel to London for about two weeks between semesters. In London, students engage in a number of activities focusing on the British legal professions, the system of advocacy in the U.K., and legal history. For students who hope to be selected for the program, completion of Evidence is recommended. Applications for the program are due each April and the program faculty selects the participants for the following year. There are always far more applicants to the program than available space.

This course is the second credit of a two-credit ungraded program. To prepare for the visit to London, students are required to take ¿Introduction to the English Legal Profession¿ (1 credit) during the fall semester prior to the trip. Component: Media Law
This course will teach students the fundamentals of traditional media law with a particular focus on the intersection between injury law and constitutional speech and press protections. This area of study poses intriguing questions about the American balance between the rights of individuals to protect their reputation and privacy and the rights of those who speak via media. Whether traditional mainstream news reporters or citizens using social media platforms such as Facebook or Google Glass. In the words of former New Republic counsel Scott Gant, "we're all journalists now." As a result, it is almost inevitable that even lawyers whose practice does not focus on media will confront questions about rights and liabilities arising from client speech. In addition to discussing defamation and privacy doctrine, we will cover statutory regimes that apply to public speech, such as the privilege to protect sources and rights of access to government institutions and documents, and consider whether and how those statutes apply to both old and new media.

This course is for students who have already taken and passed the Mediation Certification & Courthouse Practicum. Students in this course will further develop and build upon their mediation skills by mediating actual long model cases at the Center for Conflict Resolution, as well as short model cases at the Cook County courts. Students will turn in written case summaries and assessments after the mediations and use the classroom time to discuss and learn from each other's mediation experiences. This is a 1-3-credit course. Grading is based on participation in mediations, class discussions and written work. Professor permission is required.

LAW 520(2)
Advanced Legal Writing for the Practice of Law
Disability Law
Using disability law as a backdrop, this course will help students refine their research, writing and advocacy skills. In the first half of the course, students will gain an understanding of substantive disability law by analyzing caselaw involving the Americans with Disabilities Act and its 2008 amendments. In the second half of the course, students will apply this knowledge in the context of a hypothetical disability law case by writing an objective memorandum and brief on a topic chosen by the instructor. In addition to writing multiple drafts and working one-on-one with the instructor, students will also have an opportunity to talk with judges about their perspectives on effective advocacy.

Electoral Law
In an era of computer-aided gerrymandering, foreign interference in our elections, increasingly unchecked campaign finance, systematic voter suppression, and (as yet unsupported) assertions of voter fraud, the study of electoral law seems more relevant than ever. This is a 2 credit course on election law co-taught by an experienced election law litigator, Ruth Greenwood, and Prof. Matthew Sag. Prof. Ruth Greenwood is the Senior Legal Counsel for Voting Rights & Redistricting for the Campaign Legal Center.

Election Law will give students an understanding of the themes in the legal regulation of elections and politics. It will cover all the major Supreme Court cases with respect to the right to vote, regulation of political parties and candidates, redistricting, race and representation, and campaign finance. The course will also cover voter fraud and vote suppression. Election law is a product of federal and state law, both

International Arbitration Oral Advocacy

This course is designed to introduce participants to the oral advocacy skills useful for witness examination in international arbitration evidentiary hearings. Through PowerPoint presentations, the instructor will introduce fundamental concepts in eliciting witness testimony especially in cross-examination. Students will play the roles of counsel and witnesses in simulation exercises practicing cross-examination and redirect examination skills. The current Vis International Commercial Arbitration competition case materials will be used as the fact pattern for the exercises and will be supplied in advance so students can carefully review and prepare before the class sessions. Readings will be recommended from the book International Arbitration Advocacy co-authored by the instructor, Susan L Walker. A copy will be on reserve in the law school library and copies are available online at Amazon.com.

Contract Drafting

This course will teach the fundamentals of drafting precise and clear contracts. Drafting concepts will be taught through assigned readings, lectures, in-class exercises, hands-on drafting in pairs and alone, and review of, and comments to, an individual's work and the work of others. The majority of the semester will be devoted to drafting without the use of forms or precedent documents. For the first several weeks of class, students will draft the components of a contract, each component being either peer-reviewed or reviewed by the instructor. The components will be revised according to the comments received and integrated into a complete contract. The individual drafting will be supported by independent in-class exercises and review of the assigned reading and relevant cases. The final project will simulate a real-world drafting experience in which students will receive precedent documents, term sheets, emails, relevant statutes, and due diligence and will be required to prepare the first draft of the operative document for a transaction.

Human Rights in the Global Economy

Human rights issues have come to the fore front around the world, in courts and legislatures, in corporate board rooms, in the corridors of the United Nations and the international trade and financial institutions. This emergence and universalization of human rights has arisen as the promotion and globalization of free markets through trade liberalization, flows of foreign direct investment and finance across national boundaries has intensified. This course will examine how the growing influence of the international human rights framework is implicated in settings such as the overseas manufacturing operations of companies like Apple, in extractive industry mining activities such as those involving `blood¿ diamonds, and in China¿s huge infrastructural projects particularly in Africa. These case studies and more will be examined in light of the history and theoretical origins of human rights such as rights to food, housing, health, education, cultural expression, political participation, and prohibitions of discrimination and violence. The course will examine

Energy Law

This course offers a basic overview of the legal framework within which the production, distribution and sale of energy takes place. It is offered as part of the Program in Environmental and Energy Law but is open to all students. After a brief introduction to scientific concepts of energy and the history of energy technology, the course will survey the major sources of energy. The traditional sources have been oil, natural gas and coal converted to consumer products such as electricity and gasoline. Newer sources include nuclear and solar energy. Each source and delivery system has its own network of property rules and contract relationships. National energy policy will be reviewed and the impact of interregional competition on the regulation of energy will be studied, as will constitutional and economic concepts affecting the pricing of energy. Particular emphasis will be placed on energy issues in environmental law.

This weekend course will provide an introduction to the essential skill set you will need as an entry-level M&A deal lawyer. This is increasingly important, in light of growing client unwillingness to pay junior associate rates for attorneys to learn on the job. Facing an ever more competitive recruiting environment, it will be crucial for you to come out of the gate armed with the appropriate skill set for your chosen practice area. This course is designed to prepare you to speak intelligently in interviews and hit the ground running on the job. To this end, the focus of the class will be the basics of a typical M&A transaction, including how to perform due diligence and how to review and draft resolutions, share purchase agreements, third-party opinion letters, and other closing documents commonly assigned to junior associates. You will also study sample form agreements that appear in many different types of deals, including share purchase agreements, debt documents, confidentiality agreements and escrow agreements. Search and Seizure: 4th Amendment Law and Practice in Illinois
A practical skills course on 4th Amendment/Search & Seizure law as it applies in Illinois, and how the most common issues are litigated in criminal cases. The class explores applicable Illinois statutes, Illinois Supreme Court rules, and federal and state case law that sets forth the prevailing legal basis for individuals' rights against unreasonable search and seizure. Taught by a Cook County Assistant State's Attorney and with question and answer sessions with a defense attorney and law enforcement; the course takes a balanced look at both the prosecution and defense approaches to Motions to Quash and Suppress, the bread and butter of pretrial litigation and the chief avenue for deciding 4th Amendment issues. After learning the legal basics, students will be tested on their ability to identify and analyze Search & Seizure issues in various scenarios and argue for or against 4th Amendment violations, as well as, practice some basic motion writing and oral arguments.

Electronic Discovery and Problem Solving

Electronic discovery ("e-discovery") is the practice of working with digital evidence during legal proceedings. It is at the intersection of law and such information technology disciplines as computer forensics, information governance, data analytics, machine and rule based learning, and artificial intelligence (and so that we do not scare anyone away, we expect that most students will have little experience with these concepts).

Proficiency in e-discovery has become a must-have skill set for litigators. The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and Evidence have already been modified multiple times in the last few years to try to address e-discovery concerns, and additional changes are under review by the drafters. The states have followed suit with their own rules. A burgeoning body of case law comes down each year, attempting to define the legal and

Students in this practicum will administer a skills component of the traditional Family Law foundational course, focusing specifically on the drafting of an antenuptial agreement in a complex case hypothetical. Practicum students will serve as clients in the drafting exercise. In this capacity, students will meet face-to-face with the collective group of student attorneys representing each client and engage in ongoing, timely and detailed electronic communication with student attorney teams throughout the course of the skills exercise. Practicum students will also assist in evaluating the client counseling facet of the exercise, and in reviewing each prenup for its substantive terms. Each practicum student will spend approximately 40 hours engaged in work related to the exercise. Students may enroll in this practicum only with permission from the instructor.

This course aims to help law students become effective problem solvers through development of their knowledge and skills in negotiation, mediation, and arbitration as applied to a range of legal disputes. Students will learn to assist clients in identifying their goals and searching for creative solutions that produce efficient, expansive and effective outcomes. Students will learn about negotiation, mediation, and arbitration through lectures, but primarily through case simulations followed by critical feedback. Class attendance is critical. Class focus will be on the mediation and collaborative legal forums of Alternative Dispute Resolution, with an emphasis on learning procedural aspects of mediation and arbitration, and the collaborative skills of negotiation. This course will provide students with the opportunity to gain practical knowledge and familiarity with the different methods of alternatives to litigation. Classes will include lectures,

History of the Federal Judiciary
People use the expression "trial and error" in reference to a continual experiment yielding both positive and negative results. Yet, it is all but forgotten that the federal courts developed in precisely this manner at the hands of many successive (and sometimes shortsighted) Congresses. Since 1789, Congress has tinkered with every conceivable detail pertaining to the Third Branch, from the important (such as defining federal jurisdiction) to the trivial (such as micromanaging times for holding court). Some of these efforts were short-lived, while others have persisted since the first Judiciary Act of 1789 and today constitute cornerstones of the modern federal judiciary. With that pedigree in mind, this course will examine certain aspects of the evolution of the federal courts from 1789 to the present, with particular emphasis on the structure and function of current, abolished and reconstituted Article III (i.e., constitutional) courts, federal judicial legislation, the federal judiciary, specialized Article III courts, the advent of Article I

European Union Law
This seminar will provide a survey of the key Treaty provisions and legislation of the European Union (EU) and the key institutions of the EU that enforce these provisions. The course will focus on the so-called four freedoms of EU law - the free movement of goods, services, people, and investments. The course will also discuss the progress of the EU towards its long term goal of the completion of a single European market and discuss selected areas of the substantive law of the EU including competition law (antitrust). Students will prepare a paper on a mutually agreeable topic and submit an outline, first draft, and final version as well as present their topic in class toward the end of the seminar.

Securities Enforcement
This course will examine the enforcement of the federal securities laws from the perspectives of both the Securities and Exchange Commission and defense counsel. We will examine the SEC's investigative process, including the taking and defending of testimony; and will examine selective types of securities fraud investigations, including accounting fraud, insider trading, and offering frauds. We will also evaluate the role of auditors and in-house counsel in detecting and preventing securities fraud; remedies available to the SEC; the settlement process; and collateral actions by other civil and criminal authorities. The required weekly reading will consist of recent enforcement cases, rulemaking, related statutes, law review articles and other commentary. Most classes will begin with a student presentation on a securities law-related topic of their choosing. Guest instructors may be used to address specific topics throughout the semester.

Civil RICO and Pragmatism
This seminar will explore the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO), which was enacted to combat organized crime but with the allure of triple damages and attorney's fees has been used in all manner of business and contract disputes. This expansive trend has met resistance from many federal judges, most notably Richard Posner of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals, sometimes referred to as the "tenth Supreme Court justice." We will examine Judge Posner's economics and "pragmatic"-based methods of deciding RICO cases. Is this what Congress intended in enacting RICO? Or has he usurped the legislative role?

This course will be taught at Chicago Kent College of Law.

Topics in International Law
This seminar will explore in depth several current topics in public international law, for example, human rights, the use of force, humanitarian law in a world confronted by terrorism and torture, international criminal law, protecting the environment including outer space and the polar regions, and the right to consular access by aliens in death penalty cases. The seminar is designed to provide students with a foundation upon which to think about and research these issues, and the way that domestic law is often implicated in the formation and reformation of foreign policy. Students will be expected to sign up to present their own assessments of the developing law in several areas, one of which will likely become the basis of their seminar paper. During the first three weeks of the course, the instructor will present a brief overview of the international legal structure - its sources and limitations, and how it operates - as well as a philosophical foundation for a system of human rights. Special Education Dispute Resolution

This one credit hour weekend course will provide students with an intensive simulated experience in the various processes of resolution of special education disputes. Areas addressed will include some or all of the following: contested IEP meetings, manifestation determination reviews, resolution meetings, mediation, and due process hearings. Assuming the roles of parent legal advocate and school district counsel, students will develop a practical working knowledge of federal and Illinois statutes and regulations governing special education dispute resolution; develop a legal understanding of, and working familiarity with, student special education records and documents; and learn how to interview and prepare clients, witnesses, school personnel, experts, and others for their respective roles in the dispute resolution process.

This course counts as a Skills and Comprehensive Simulation course.

Terrorism Prosecutions: Civil Rights & Executive Power in Theory and Practice

This class will examine how terrorism cases are investigated, prosecuted, defended and punished. It will address how suspected terrorists are targeted and captured, including surveillance methods and interrogation techniques, as well as the questions of whether these measures are effective and potentially undermine well-established and deeply ingrained constitutional liberties and culture. It will cover classified evidence in the adversarial process -- including how it is gathered, how it impacts charging decisions and trial strategies, and how courts manage it in adversarial proceedings. In addition to drawing out these issues as they operate in civilian courts, the course will also examine judicial alternatives, including the use of military tribunals or national security adjudicative systems in other constitutional democracies, as well as extra-judicial and judicially pre-emptive measures such as preventative detention, designations and the freezing of assets. Overarching issues that will animate our exploration will be the need for emergency

Canon Law on Ecclesiastical Administration

While the Catholic Church ultimately exists for spiritual purposes, religious institutions must operate in the real world of human resources, leadership development, strategic thinking, communication, marketing, property and finance. Canon law is the Church's own legal system that regulates ecclesiastical administration. In order to function effectively in this environment, knowledge of the Church's legal system and how it interacts with civil law is essential for lawyers and administrators responsible for the management of ecclesiastical entities such as Catholic hospitals, universities, social service agencies, dioceses and parishes.

Examples of specific issues would be in the areas relating to Catholic identity, sponsorship, mergers and joint ventures involving Catholic schools and health care institutions; incorporation and tax-exempt status

The Corporation and the Constitution
This class will investigate the origin in law of the corporate form and explore the challenges presented by the modern corporation, both from the standpoint of its legal structure as a business organization formed by law, and the rights and privileges afforded corporations under case law that interprets the corporation as a juridical "person." Readings will be considered from colonial charters to the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision in Citizens United v. FEC (2010). There will be special emphasis on the contracts and commerce clauses of the Constitution, as well as the 14th Amendment. This course is not so much concerned with corporate responsibility as it is with corporate governance and accountability. We will explore the concept of limited liability, trace the evolution of legal personhood, examine the original public purpose requirement of the corporate entity as contemplated in law, and consider the role of public law in the world of the self-regulating market.(Class will meet at Chicago Kent Law School.)

This one credit weekend course will provide students with an intensive simulated experience in conducting a student disciplinary administrative hearing. Assuming the roles of counsel for the student and counsel for the school district, workshop participants will prepare for and represent their respective clients in a school expulsion hearing. Participants will develop an understanding of the constitutional principles of due process, freedom of speech, and search and seizure as they pertain to students in the public school setting;
as well as Illinois School Code statutory provisions regarding student discipline, suspension and expulsion.
In the course of preparing for the culminating disciplinary hearing, participants will gain a working

Mediation Certification & Courthouse Practicum

Students in this course will be trained to become certified mediators and then develop their mediation skills through hands-on experience mediating in court. The course starts with a mandatory intensive mediation skills training conducted by the Center for Conflict Resolution (CCR) at the beginning of the semester. The course will thereafter meet once a week as part of CCR's certification process to discuss, practice and improve upon student mediation skills. Students who meet all of CCR's certification requirements will be certified as CCR volunteer mediators and mediate actual cases in Cook County courts, while continuing to meet in class to discuss and build on what they learn in the mediations. Upon completion of this course and the CCR certification process, students will be able to continue volunteering as mediators for CCR, as long as they continue to meet CCR's volunteer requirements. Instructor Permission Required. Spots are limited so students are encouraged not to delay seeking permission to register for the course. To apply, email Professors Block.

Electronic Payment Systems and Commercial Paper

In this digital, global age, how does modern banking and finance work so that payments can be made, funds transferred, and money borrowed? What is the law governing your credit or debit card, phone ""apps"" for point-of-sale payments, ATM machines, direct deposits into your bank account, promissory notes and checks, wire transfers, letters of credit, and more methods for moving funds? Modern payment systems exist within an evolving scheme of banking and finance. They depend on networks of laws, regulations, customs, and agreements that balance the speed of transferring funds domestically and internationally against the risks of error and fraud. As such, they pose provocative questions of consumer protection and national security. They have adapted older methods of banking and payment to the computer revolution. But, they have gone beyond traditional practices to create new ways for funds to be moved locally, nationally, and around the world. This class allows you to master the law governing these and older systems to effectively advise clients. It

Lawyering the Purchase and Sale of Commercial Property
This is an advanced seminar intended to give students a working familiarity with the anatomy of a commercial real estate sale, using a case study and typical documents, and provide a real world introduction, from a practitioner's perspective, to: (1) the substantive law that applies to commercial real estate (and mortgage financing); (2) the business objectives of buyers and sellers as they analyze and negotiate purchase documents, conduct due diligence (survey, title and environmental, etc.) and negotiate mortgage loans; and (3) the mechanics of closing the deal. The course will focus on Illinois law, but the instructor will point out points on which state law may differ, and how that might affect the deal terms. The "text" for the course consists of a portfolio of legal documents (letter of intent, purchase agreement, brokers agreement, title report, survey, mortgage documents and all closing documents - deeds, assignments, affidavits, escrow instructions, etc.). In addition to the actual documents, course reading materials will include excerpts

Community Law Center Clinic Veterans Practicum
The Veterans Practicum is a cross-disciplinary effort in partnership with the School of Social Work designed to better address veterans' social and legal needs. Senior law students will use 711 license to represent veterans and their families in a myriad of civil legal matters under the supervision of the director, Emily Vaughan.
Students who enroll in this course must be available to be for office hours one morning or one afternoon each week (Monday-Friday). The Practicum also has a classroom component that meets each Wednesday from noon to 2 p.m. The purpose of the classroom component is to provide students with a theoretical overview of the lawyering skills that will be required of them in their casework.

Legal Issues in Student Discipline

The legal issues surrounding student discipline in public elementary and secondary schools involve the intersection of Constitutional and statutory law with the administrative hearing process. By developing a working knowledge of the school disciplinary process, course participants will build analytical and substantive skills applicable to a wide variety of practice areas.

The course will address the Constitutional implications of student discipline and the statutory provisions governing student discipline and the administrative hearing process. Students will learn about ‘zero tolerance’ policies, the role that school discipline plays in the ‘school-to-prison pipeline’, and the discriminatory impact of school discipline policies. Issues relating to discipline in charter schools and discipline of students with disabilities will also be addressed. Other topics to be discussed include:

Externship Long Distance

Students who have completed their first year of law school may receive two or three hours of credit per semester for supervised work done in chambers under the supervision of a member of the judiciary and his or her clerks. The externship course includes a classroom component which has been designed to compliment and support the field placement. The course is taught on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 5:00pm - 6:00pm. Students may elect the day of the week they wish to attend the class at the time they apply for the externship. Applications are available on the law school website and in the offices of the Director of Experiential Learning.

Students in the LUCLC represent children in contested guardianship cases and clients in civil cases involving landlord/tenant, family and elder law problems. Many of LUCLC's clients are low income persons. Serving persons who cannot afford legal services sensitizes students to the special ways that the law affects the lives of the indigent.

Another important aspect of the LUCLC course is the opportunity for students to develop their own sense of the lawyer's professional role. Students experience the complexity of the attorney-client relationship and the myriad ethical dimensions of lawyering. Students are exposed for the first time to the conflicts, frustrations and rewards inherent in legal practice.

This course examines the legal relationships among children, families, and the state. Areas of law to be examined include child welfare, education, and juvenile justice. The course will explore Supreme Court jurisprudence on the issue of parental rights and family privacy as well as the doctrine of children's rights. Attention will be paid to the role of race, gender, and class and their intersection in shaping the ways in which children and families interface with governmental systems. Students in the course will be asked to grapple with critiques of governmental systems impacting children and families, explore calls to reconstruct and reconstitute these systems, and examine the role of lawyers working from within and outside these systems.

ChildLaw Trial Practice (Intensive)

This is Trial Practice I with an emphasis on those issues important to advocacy in cases involving children. The course is taught by a team of lawyers and judges experienced in child advocacy, with a student/faculty ratio of no more than 8 to 1. The principal objective is to introduce students to litigation principles, and to teach them advocacy skills in an intensive learn-by-doing environment. The case files from which exercises are drawn also enable students to prepare for the special challenges involved in the representation of children (child witnesses, unique problems in expert testimony, special evidentiary issues, etc.). At the end of the course each student conducts a complete trial before a mock jury at the Daley Center. Evidence is a prerequisite and the course requires instructor permission.

Interdisciplinary Seminar on Domestic Violence
This seminar explores issues of family violence, with an emphasis on domestic violence, through an interdisciplinary lens. An overview of the laws, public policy, and psychosocial approaches and trends addressing family violence issues. The course seeks to provide an opportunity for students in different disciplines to learn about the theories, philosophies, ethics, and practices of the range of professions that must confront family violence issues, and the impact of decision making in one forum on the practices and decisions made in another forum. Student are challenged to consider the strengths and weakness of the responses of various disciplines, and their interaction. Students that are interested in a live-client experience working at the Domestic Violence Legal Clinic should enroll in the Domestic Violence Practicum (LAW 215) class instead of this seminar.

Juvenile Justice
In this course, we will explore legal and policy questions centered on how society should respond to children, adolescents and youth adults who commit crimes. To what degree should developmental differences between youth and adults be reflected in law and policy? Are legislators or individual judges in the best position to decide how to meet the needs of youthful offenders while at the same time protecting the interests of victims and the larger community? What responsibility do parents and communities bear in providing children and opportunity to change their behavior? How should the justice system interact with other systems, including education, mental health and child welfare? Summative assessment in the course will be measured by student performance on a midterm exam and a final paper, together with exemplary preparation, attendance and participation.

In the last decade, children have become "the newest kids on the human rights block." This seminar examines new laws and treaties developed to respond to age-old problems faced by children around the world. The course begins with a study of the U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Child, the most rapidly and widely accepted human rights document in the history of international law. It then examines ways in which these laws are being implemented, including a review of child and family law cases decided by the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg. The course explores such substantive areas as the comparative treatment of child abuse and delinquency, and the issues of child labor, international abduction, the plight of child soldiers, and the sexual exploitation of children.

This course will explore the use of mediation in disputes involving children and families. Students will survey various models and uses of mediation and related dispute resolution processes in the following contexts: divorce, custody and visitation issues; child protection; juvenile delinquency; balanced and restorative justice; adult guardianships; youth violence prevention and peer mediation; and special education. Further, students will consider the impact of domestic violence and other impairments on the child and family mediation process. In addition to reviewing basic mediation skills, students will participate in classroom exercises designed to develop their ability to think critically about issues, as well as apply mediation strategies to dispute resolution scenarios.

This is an Experiential Learning course.

Mediation Workshop

Mediation is an alternative to litigation which enables disputing parties to negotiate their own agreed settlement. It involves an impartial third party neutral, the mediator, who assists disputing parties in this alternative dispute resolution (ADR) process. This course will offer an overview of mediation techniques, applications, and history. Through simulations and other in-class exercises, students will consider how mediation differs from other types of ADR processes, how mediation styles and models differ from one another, and how the role of the attorney-advocate changes during mediation. This course will be conducted in an intensive workshop format over the course of one weekend where students will role play as client and attorney. No textbook is required, nor is there a first assignment.

This is a Skills and Experiential Learning course.

Mediation Practicum

This mediation course allows students to mediate family cases through several community projects. Students are required to have participated in some type of 40-hour mediation training in order to register for this course. These students receive additional training in family mediation, co-mediation and related issues. Students mediate in family group conferences and other multiple party mediations. Students participate in multiple simulation and mediations and receive feedback on their skills. The course meets once a week for the two hours for most of the semester, however students are also required to mediate at other times during the semester. There is no examination. Grading is based on participation in mediations, simulations and discussions and self-evaluations. Students may take the course for 1 or 2 credits. For 2 credits, a paper on mediation theory or practice is required. Where the student is taking the course for 2 credits, the research paper is included in the grade. Enrollment is limited to eight students.

Leadership Development

One of the distinguishing features of the Online MJ in Children's Law and Policy is its focus on the development of leadership skills for child advocates across a range of disciplines and organizations. This required cornerstone course begins with an introduction to different types and styles of leadership before turning to a more practice-based preparation for leadership in such areas as operations, human resources, finance, and communications.

Child Welfare Law and Policy

This course focuses on federal and state legal and policy efforts to protect children from abuse, neglect and other forms of maltreatment. Topics include mandatory reporting laws, liability issues, the general structure and content of child protection laws, including permanency planning termination of parental rights. Students will explore the concept of the best interest of the child in a legal context and review laws and research aimed at promoting children's welfare.

Juvenile Justice Law and Policy

This course explores the law, policies and practices of the American juvenile justice system, past, present and future. The focus is on children who are in conflict with the law and those who, by virtue of their status as children, are subject to the jurisdiction of the juvenile court for engaging in conduct such as curfew violations, running away, and other forms of potentially harmful adolescent behavior. Among other issues, the course will examine how juvenile justice law and policy has been shaped by new research on adolescent development, including brain research.

Mental Health Law and Children
Mental health and substance abuse impacts everyone. According to the National Institute of Mental Health, in a given year approximately one quarter of adults in the United States are diagnosable for one or more mental illnesses. Additionally, one out of five children, either currently or at some point during their life, are diagnosed with a mental illness. Mental illness has a profound impact on children and families, including the legal response to these issues. Students will study the cases, statutes, and legal doctrines relating to the rights and inpatient/outpatient treatment of persons with mental illness or a developmental disability, with a special emphasis on children, youth, and parents and/or legal guardians. Topics covered include: informed consent to outpatient and inpatient treatment, admission/transfer/discharge, confidentiality of mental health records, litigation issues addressed by practitioners, and risk management strategies for mental health practitioners. This course will use cases and examples to compare and contrast application of

Law, Poverty and Public Benefits
According to the National Center for Children in Poverty, children are disproportionately impacted by poverty, especially children of color and immigrant children. These risks are greatest for children who experience poverty when they are young and/or experience deep and persistent poverty. This course concerns those areas of civil law which most affect low income children and families, including public benefits such as welfare, housing, education, and health care. Other systemic issues will be explored, such as wealth discrimination, use of legal remedies to promote social change, and the delivery of legal and other services to children.

LAW 679(2) - Children's Health Law and Policy

The purpose of this course is to teach interested students the application of law to critical public health issues that affect children and youth. Students will first learn basic principles of public health including the distinction between health promotion, disease prevention, and health protection. Next, the course will address the constitutional and statutory foundation of public health law, how legislative and regulatory decisions must negotiate the balance between individual rights and public good, and how the principles of parens patriae and state police powers affect child health. Cases studies in the areas of obesity, reproductive health rights of minors, mandatory school immunizations, student drug testing, and violence prevention will illustrate the application of public health jurisprudence from the national to the state levels.

The student will be engaged in research and in initiating the development of a curriculum targeted to a teen audience that educates teens about local and federal laws that have an impact on their lives as adolescents, including juvenile justice issues, mental health laws, custody issues, drinking and driving. The student has been working with adolescents on psychological issues as part of her field placement for the Masters of Social Work degree. This course will allow her to broaden that focus to include legal considerations that play an important role in helping teens who will soon be emancipated and facing lives as adults. The first part of the course will require the student to identify the specific issues and laws that will be included in the curriculum and to explore resources, both in law journals and in interviews with teaching faculty, that will inform her presentation of the issues. The second part of the course will be devoted to developing the format for the curriculum that will be most effective in reaching this media savvy audience.

The course will run 14 weeks, with seven live lectures and seven weeks of assigned readings to introduce you to each live lecture topic. There is one Module for each topic. Each lecture will be presented by different legal experts and scholars on emerging topics in child and family law.

Students will be expected to participate either in every live class or to listen to the archive if synchronous attendance is not possible. Students will be asked to write a 3-5 page (double spaced) reflective paper at the end of the term choosing from ONE of the lecture topics. The paper should describe how the lecture enlarged or changed the student's understanding of the topic, or in the alternative, how it influenced or changed your professional practice in child advocacy or in related fields.

The course will address the Constitutional implications of student discipline and the statutory provisions governing student discipline and the administrative hearing process. Students will learn about 'zero tolerance' policies, the role that school discipline plays in the 'school-to-prison pipeline' and the discriminatory impact of school discipline policies. Issues relating to discipline in charter schools and discipline of students with disabilities will also be addressed. Other topics to be discussed include disciplinary-related challenges that arise in the context of protecting vulnerable children, including issues of harassment and bullying of LGBT students and students with disabilities, and the legal tenets governing school districts' responses to cyberbullying and the rise of social networks and digital media. Emerging trends in alternatives to punitive school discipline practices, such as human rights approaches, positive behavior interventions and supports, and restorative justice, will be examined.

System Consultation in School Discipline Reform

The purpose of this course is to integrate and apply two interrelated broad literature bases within the field of education: (1) system change and data analysis literature informing best practices in analyzing system school data and needs assessment findings and using the findings to plan for system level discipline change; and (2) best practices in the school leadership and teaming to effect system level reform in school discipline. The focus of the course will be on the systems change process as it relates to the issue of school discipline. Through the course, students will gain skills and experience reviewing and analyzing school and district-level data, and they will develop and administer a needs assessment tool relating to school discipline and multi-tiered systems of support in their respective settings. They will also analyze system level variables, which have historically prevented true discipline reform (e.g., unreliable data collection systems, poorly structured teaming, access to systematic and ongoing professional development and training). Throughout the retreat and course, students will build and utilize restorative practice within school life. Through additional seminars, students will strengthen their knowledge of the history, theory, research, and practice of restorative justice. The culminating focus of the course invites students to apply restorative principles and practices in their own school or district setting.

Restorative Justice

This course begins with an intensive in-person weekend retreat where students will build relationships with each other and, through experiential exercises and lively discussion, internalize core principles. Throughout the retreat and course, students compare and contrast restorative and retributive justice models, practice proactive and responsive restorative techniques, and identify personal and professional shifts to exemplify a restorative mindset. Specific restorative techniques which students will learn include restorative language, facilitation of a variety of types of circles, restorative dialogue processes, and systems and structures to accommodate restorative practice within school life. Through additional seminars, students will strengthen their knowledge of the history, theory, research, and practice of restorative justice. The culminating focus of the course invites students to apply restorative principles and practices in their own school or district setting.

School Discipline Reform: Linking Law, Policy and Practice

This course will serve as the capstone for the certificate. It will examine in-depth three to four major themes in the field of school discipline from the perspectives of law, policy and practice. The focus will be on analyzing "best practice" examples as a means to address the challenges relating to fundamental reform of school discipline practices. Potential themes to be addressed include: (1) racial inequities in school discipline; (2) the interlinkages between special education and school discipline; (3) the relationship between the school and the juvenile/criminal justice system; and (4) professional development to support teachers and other school stakeholders. As part of this course, participants will develop an action plan for school discipline reform in their respective settings. They will determine how potential systemic barriers will be addressed (e.g., resources for teaming, support for MTSS planning, implementation and evaluation, teaming, leadership/administrative support, teacher buy-in and support, community engagement).

Introduction to Legislative and Policy Advocacy
The purpose of this course is to provide tools and strategies for students interested in learning the techniques for effective advocacy at the state and federal levels. The first portion of the course will provide historical context on the three branches of government's ability to make policy. The course will then examine the processes that turn a problem into a legislative solution, including how to move a bill into law. The course will also identify an issue, conducting national surveys, building a base through community organizing, drafting, lobbying, and offering testimony in committee. A recurring theme in the course is the need to examine external obstacles that impact policy making. Students will also learn how to conduct racial equity impact assessments and how the absence of this work has impacted policy decisions in the United States in the past.

International Family Law
This one-credit class serves as an introduction to international and comparative family law. Over the course of the class, students will examine selected international and regional instruments as well as domestic laws governing private family matters. Topics include marriage, dissolution of marriage, family formation, child custody, domestic violence, international adoption, and the intersection between immigration and family law.

Components: Seminar (In person)

Requirement Group: Restricted to Child and Family Law students

Family Law
This 3-credit elective course in family law specifically designed for post J.D. students provides an overview of the laws and court decisions in the United States that have shaped family life and the institutions of marriage and parenthood, with a special emphasis on the role of the legal system as it affects children's rights and welfare within these institutions. With a base line understanding of the general principles of constitutional law in family law cases, students then turn to an exploration of thematic topics, including evolving standards for child custody and the factors in custody decisions, including race, religion and domestic violence and the formation of multiple-parent families and child custody. We also explore corporal punishment and other parental decisions of child rearing, including emerging issues of children's privacy in the age of social media and the increasing recognition in family law of children's rights to be heard in decisions affecting their welfare.

This course explores the role of law and government regulation in the area of public health. The public health process (measurement, problem definition, strategy, design, implementation and evaluation) is explored in reference to current issues that are both timely and expositive of the ways in which law and regulation shape public health practice at the local, state, federal and international levels. Topical areas for analysis and discussion are drawn from the primary environments of public health; biological, physical, social, individual behavior, and national/international health systems. Students are required to work on group projects, and write a research paper.

<td>This course will cover key areas of health care litigation. Students will explore the substantive and procedural law of medical negligence litigation and learn about pretrial matters such as drafting pleadings, motions and deposing experts. Students will have the opportunity to develop trial techniques including preparing direct and cross examinations. They will also be able to participate in a medical negligence mock trial. Additional topics will include compliance and internal investigations, licensing procedures, technology litigation, managed care litigation, and ERISA preemption.</td>
<td>Government Health Policy I is a two-credit seminar course that focuses on background and current perspectives concerning key health regulatory matters dealt with by government authorities. Broad considerations involving access to service, cost containment and quality improvement will serve as foundational themes in exploring legal and policy matters, from both a domestic and international perspective. While an array of subjects impacting health delivery will be covered, special emphases will be placed on public and private health insurance policy and regulation. There is no text for the course but a series of readings from current literature will be required. Students' grades will be based on three papers and presentations.</td>
<td>The U.S. Medicare program is a health insurance program for the aged, severely disabled and people with end stage renal disease. As a major federal entitlement program, the Medicare program raises a host of legal issues for beneficiaries of the Medicare program and the providers and suppliers who provide health care services to these beneficiaries. This course is a survey of the important legal issues that health lawyers are likely to face in representing Medicare beneficiaries, providers and suppliers. This course also provides an overview of how the Medicare program affects the regulation of health care organizations and professionals.</td>
<td>This course will examine the three major Federal laws governing healthcare fraud and abuse: the Stark law, the Anti-Kickback Statute, and the False Claims laws. Students will learn how to navigate through the complex maze of statutes and regulations. In addition, the public policy concerns which underlie each law will be discussed in great detail throughout the semester. The goal of the course is to equip the future lawyer with the tools necessary to properly identify healthcare fraud and abuse issues, and to effectively advise their clients on these issues.</td>

Health Justice Project

The Health Justice Project is a medical-legal partnership clinic that provides law students with an intensive, challenging education in the fundamentals of legal practice, interdisciplinary collaboration, creative upstream problem solving, poverty law, systemic advocacy, and professionalism. Through collaborative and holistic representation of vulnerable low-income families and individuals, student attorneys will address the social, legal and systemic barriers that prevent long-term health and stability. HJP student attorneys may handle cases in a variety of areas of law including public benefits, access to health care, disability, education, housing, family law, as well as other areas of law that impact client health and well-being. Enrollment in the Clinic requires a significant time commitment and flexibility in the student’s schedule. Students are required to manage their own cases in teams of two, maintain client relationships, attend hearings and court appearances, collaborate with interdisciplinary partners, and tend to various components of the program.

Disability Law

In this class we will explore the disability rights movement and the laws, including the ADA, the Fair Housing Act, and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, that inform and advance the movement. The class will also discuss the philosophy of disability rights theory that aims to transform societal thinking on disability away from a construct of charity and pity and toward a construct of power and civil rights.

Taught by a disability rights attorney, the class will also feature a handful of guest lectures by other disability rights attorneys.

LAW 773(0) - Doctoral Dissertation Supervision

- Open to: SJD and D.Law students only. Prerequisites: Doctoral Dissertation Research I and II, Bibliography Tutorial.
- The dissertation advisor will work with the candidate to form a doctoral committee comprised of the advisor and two outside readers. (In the case of foreign students, one outside reader may be sufficient.)
- The committee will assist the student by consulting on dissertation substantive issues, reviewing the working draft and approving the final product. Dissertations should represent important contributions to the field, (minimum length 150 pages and double spaced) but specific format and content needs to be clarified between the candidate, the advisor, and the committee. Once clarified, the suggested format must be followed. Once the dissertation has been completed, it must be presented at an open forum to be attended by interested members of the law school community. Students must enroll in this course during both fall and spring semesters of his/her second year.

LAW 776(2) - Law and the Life Sciences

- This course will examine a variety of legal, policy, and ethical issues impacting advancements in the life sciences. Topics will be explored using an interdisciplinary approach, drawing upon a diverse set of reading materials. Topics to be covered include the intersection of law and science, genetics, stem cell research, biotechnology, nanotechnology, neuroscience, and synthetic biology. A science background is not necessary.
- The course is a 2-credit course with a final paper (8-10 pages) and presentation, including two short reaction essays during the semester. It will examine a variety of legal, policy, scientific, social, and ethical issues at the forefront of advancements in the life sciences. The course will take an interdisciplinary approach to examination of these issues, drawing upon a diverse set of reading materials spanning various legal fields such as food and drug law, antitrust law, consumer protection law.

LAW 777(0) - Doctoral Dissertation Supervision and Completion

- The dissertation advisor will work with the candidate to form a doctoral committee comprised of the advisor and two outside readers. (In the case of foreign students, one outside reader may be sufficient.) The committee will assist the student by consulting on dissertation substantive issues and reviewing the working draft. Students must enroll in this course during the fall semester of his or her second year.

LAW 778(3) - Law and Science

- This course will focus on the intersection of science and health care, with a focus on development of treatments, drugs, and devices and the trial and testing process.

LAW 780(1) - Corporate Health Care Litigation

- This course will cover key concepts in common areas of health care litigation with a focus on practical skills. Topics covered will include medical staff bylaws, medical staff disciplinary proceedings, state and federal qui tam actions, and medical restrictive covenants. In addition to learning the substantive law, students will also perform exercises, including oral arguments, in class.

Law Management, Patient Safety & Quality

Students will utilize reading materials, case studies, hospital risk management scenarios and data sets provided in class to apply knowledge to specific RM and patient safety scenarios and to use critical thinking skills to solve problems. Through the readings and case study analysis students will learn to identify legal, ethical, administrative, compliance, risk management and patient safety issues and to reach resolutions for the problems presented, even when a clear legal response may not be available or in the best interests of the patient. We will be learning how to respond to a variety of risk management issues from the perspective of clinicians, lawyers, administrators, managers and patients and appreciate how events are perceived and managed. We will also discuss how these perceptions of key stakeholders are in conflict and how those conflicts can be managed. Finally, students will also learn how principles of risk management have changed since the 1998 IOM Report and how the changes in our current health care system will further change our approach.

Health Care Compliance

This course is designed to expose law students to key legal concepts in the health care corporate compliance and ethics fields, which may be broadly defined as the application of internal corporate initiatives to ensure compliance with applicable federal and state laws and regulations. Health care is a highly regulated industry, and a health care attorney must have a broad understanding of compliance issues. Through readings and class discussion on common health law topics such as the Anti-kickback Statute, the Stark law, the False Claims Act and its whistleblower provisions, students will develop an understanding of the need for and the role of the Compliance Officer in a health care institution. Students also will begin to explore recent movement toward more broadly-based organizational integrity and ethics programs. Underlying course themes will include how to structure an effective compliance program and the role of government enforcement in controlling health care costs.

Health Law Colloquium

This a unique course offered once a year to a select group of students from Loyola and DePaul. Enrolled students read and discuss draft articles of nationally renowned professors in the field of health law. They must also write a three page memo (double spaced) with comments on the article that will be useful to the professor. The articles are typically draft law review articles. The discussions are focused on helping the professors to refine and improve their articles, such that a strong foundation of health law is expected, even though there is no official pre-requisite. This course meets every week, but the students only meet in person roughly half the time, with the other half of the sessions done by videoconference. Three of the in-person classes will be at DePaul and the other three in-person classes will be a Loyola. Please be sure that your schedule allows you to arrive at either law school by 4 p.m. There is no final exam or research project required for this class. Instead, students are required to attend and actively participate in all components.

The Business Law Clinic (the "BLC") is a live client transactional legal clinic that represents for profit and not for profit businesses in the Chicagoland area. Student clinicians work with several BLC clients during the course of a semester. All work is overseen by BLC faculty. In addition to client work, the BLC includes a weekly seminar (Wednesday from 3:00 to 4:50 p.m.), which covers relevant substantive law, ethical issues and pragmatic lawyering skills, such as drafting, negotiating and client counseling. The work in the BLC is completely transactional in nature. The BLC does not handle contested matters or complex tax. Participation in the BLC requires a significant time commitment (a minimum of 3 hours per week per credit hour, in addition to the seminar), and a degree of flexibility in the student's schedule. All student clinicians are expected to communicate with their clients regularly, meet with their clients as needed, efficiently and effectively perform the related transactional work, maintain their client's files in an orderly manner, and respond to client's communications in a timely manner.

LAW 827(3) Succession Planning For The Family Business

Instructor Consent Required

This Capstone Course is limited to twelve, 3Ls who have completed Estate & Gift Tax and Advanced Corporate Tax. For the first half of the semester, the capstone students will be part of the Estate Planning class taught by Prof. Rhodes during which time they will learn the fundamentals of estate planning. After spring break, the Capstone students will have their own specialized classes co-taught by Professors Kwall and Rhodes that focus on family business planning.

The Capstone Course is intended to serve as a bridge to practice for future lawyers representing entrepreneurs of successful multi-generation, family-owned businesses. These clients expect to be serviced by a lead professional who can integrate business, income tax, and estate planning objectives. Although the Tax Certificate program offers a rich curriculum in income tax and estate tax, these courses only provide the building blocks to comprehensive planning. This Capstone Course is designed to equip students with the European Union Privacy Law

European Union Regulation 2016/679 was adopted by the European Parliament and European Council in 2016 and has world-wide privacy law implications, not merely for activities inside the European Union. The law seeks to protect natural persons when their personal data is used by any regulated entity doing business in the EU. The law also requires regulated entities to have organized compliance efforts on a global scale. The course will examine: (a) the history of privacy law in the EU, (b) the response of the EU member states to past EU privacy directives and the current law, (c) the current EU privacy law's impact on business and data storage around the world, (d) the compliance organizational structures needed to respond to the law, and (e) liability associated with non-compliance. No background on EU law is needed; the course will begin with teaching the basic legal and constitutional structure of the European Union in order to situate the course privacy law material.

LAW 856(3) Advanced Alternative Dispute Resolution

The course will focus on the substantive and procedural elements of the various forms of alternative dispute resolution techniques in the United States. The class will cover arbitration, negotiations, mediation, mini-trials, non-binding arbitration using legal assistance, and the role of counsel in each of these processes. A significant amount of class time will deal with mediation as well as both administered and non-administered arbitration. The class will address established principles of arbitration law, the various types of arbitrations, the rules governing arbitration, the role of counsel in the processes, as well as the power, responsibilities and ethical requirements of both mediators and arbitrators. The course will combine a traditional lecture format with practical experience designed to provide the student with a strong substantive basis in mediation and arbitration, as well as clinical experience with several mock mediations and arbitrations interspersed during the course term.

LAW 857(2) Leadership and Strategy

As a leader or manager in your organization, it is your job to find the right people, engage and motivate them, and structure and operate the organization in a way that enables and inspires people to perform at their best. And, you have to do this in a way that preserves the organization’s financial health and protects it from legal risks. Your professional success depends directly on your ability to make the right strategic decisions, and effectively lead and inspire individuals, teams and projects. This course is designed to enhance your ability to do this. This course also will enable students to examine varied approaches to leadership that are based on personal and organizational mission, vision and values. Students will have an opportunity to explore their own values and approach to leadership and accountability.

Federal Criminal Trial Advocacy

Students will follow the evolution of a federal criminal case from investigation to trial. The class will focus on one mock problem – which will likely be a federal narcotics investigation that resulted in a two-count indictment. The indictment will allege that the defendants conspired to distribute more than 280 grams of a controlled substance and that they indeed distributed the controlled substance. Because it will be too complex for a one-semester course, I do not recommend that the mock problem include a Title III investigation.

The class will be divided into three parts: 1) Investigation 2) Suppression Hearing and 3) Trial.

Antitrust & Intellectual Property

This seminar focuses on the interface between Intellectual Property (IP) and antitrust law. Patents, copyrights and trademarks and other IP regimes confer exclusionary rights. Exclusive rights provide incentives and serve other ends, but their exercise can also impede competition distort otherwise competitive markets. This seminar will address the intersection of IP and Antitrust with respect to issues such as standard setting, licensing, corporate strategy, product design, efforts to increase market share and mergers and acquisitions.

Chinese and Indian Competition Law

The People's Republic of China promulgated its Anti-Monopoly Law (AML) in 2008 following nearly a decade of study, drafting, debate, and revision. The AML is a unique and important competition law given China's status as both a socialist market economy and the world's second largest economy. This course will provide a survey of the development of the AML, its principal provisions, its unique method enforcement by three different government agencies, the early track record of enforcement, and the continuing questions regarding the effectiveness and fairness of the AML.

<td>This course provides an overview of the laws and legal issues related to the review and regulation of mergers from an antitrust and competition law perspective. Although the course will draw primarily from the experiences in the United States and Europe, we will discuss and compare many jurisdictions around the world and the challenge of applying multiple merger laws to the same merger. We will start by distinguishing mergers from other types of business conduct which implicate antitrust and competition laws and address the question of why mergers are treated differently. The course will then address basic principles used in the substantive review of mergers. We will start by identifying the economic rationale supporting the prohibition of mergers and the basic economic theories used to distinguish permissible mergers from impermissible mergers. Health Law Seminar Series
This course exposes students to seven unique and emerging issues impacting the health care industry. Each issue has the potential to impact providers, health care organizations, health care attorneys, and consumers. Each emerging issue is selected based on its likely impact on the industry and its timeliness, given current political and health care challenges. This course is structured over 14 weeks, in which we alternate between reading weeks, where students are given reading material to introduce them to each issue, and synchronous classroom lectures by national experts on each subject. At the end of the course, each student is asked to write a reflective paper on one of the issues presented and describe the impact that they believe it will have on their practice or the delivery of health care in general. This course is graded pass/fail. THIS CLASS IS ONLY AVAILABLE ONLINE AND WITH PERMISSION.

School of Law - Law Department - Subject: Law

LAW 971(1)
Course ID: 011947
01-JAN-2012

Tax Exempt and Financing Intensive
This course focuses on basic federal tax-exemption law as it applies to health care, with a particular focus on 50(c)(3) status and its implications. Areas to be covered include private benefits, increments, excess benefit transactions, community benefit and the impact of the federal health reform legislation. Additionally, this course will examine mechanisms for financing health care transactions, exploring the roles of private and public financing in health care. (LLM only or with permission.)

Components: Lecture(Online)

Requirement Group: Restricted to students in the Health Law Online Program.

Req. Designation: Writing Intensive

LAW 995(2)
Course ID: 013218
11-MAR-2022

LLM Thesis Project Term One
LLM students are required to complete a written thesis, demonstrating scholarly research of an important legal issue. The thesis must be of a quality determined to be acceptable by the student's faculty advisor, reflecting mastery of the subject matter explored, critical thinking and clear, sophisticated writing. The thesis is completed over the course of two semesters in close cooperation with a faculty advisor. This first thesis course will focus on choosing a topic, creating a thesis statement, detailed outline, research methodology, introduction, and writing a partial draft. This course is for students in the online LLM program.

Components: FTC - Thesis Supervision(Online)

Requirement Group: Restricted to the Compliance & ERM LLM, Health Law Campus LLM, and Health Law Online LLM programs

History, Theory and Practice of Law for Development
26-FEB-2021
This course provides an overview of the main intellectual foundations supporting the view that law and development are linked. While this connection may appear obvious, the course seeks to show that the relationship may not be as straightforward as first impressions might lead one to believe. Indeed, proponents of the presumed relation between law and development must confront two important distinctions well known to social scientists: causation versus correlation. Evidence that societies, which have achieved high levels of development, typically have good legal systems is incontrovertible. What is less clear is how they got where they are and in what sequence. Put differently, do good laws and institutions generate good development outcomes or does development lead to good laws and institutions? The course applies interdisciplinary and comparative research in history, economics, sociology, political science, regulatory theory, and philosophy to questions of law and the development of legal institutions and does not assume any prior knowledge in any

Theory and Practice of Assessments in Rule of Law Advising
03-JAN-2022
This course will provide students with the knowledge and skills required to undertake assessments, the crucial lynchpin which supports the design of specific policies, legal and regulatory reforms and administrative actions. The course demonstrates how developing a clear understanding of problems facing a society is fundamental to good governance and the rule of law. The course assumes that such understanding can be facilitated through professionally prepared assessments which identify the root causes of problems facing a country in a given area and put forward options for remedial action. Students will learn how to use the rich body of documented experience and guidance available on structuring and preparing assessments by learning how to plan and carry out assessments linked, for instance, to justice sector reform, access to justice, the improvement of the legal framework for investment and sustainable business and the control of human trafficking. It will also explore how the force of their normativity is effectively applied and how institutional frameworks deal with overlaps. International Development Architecture
16-MAR-2020
This course covers the rule of law and governance dimensions to international development assistance. It examines both the institutional frameworks and legal mechanisms by which international development assistance is distributed for rule of law and state-building activities and the legal and regulatory structures that apply to development assistance. The course begins by considering the reasons that donors provide aid generally and for rule of law, followed by the examination of the normative frameworks and standards that shape the manner in which aid is distributed, institutions and actors, mechanisms by which aid is programmed and actual use of aid by recipients. The overall approach begins at the global level and follows the chain of development aid through its various elements down to the national level. Sustainable Development through International Commerce and Investment
International commercial transactions and investments can serve as the vehicles for sustainable development that respects economic, social, environmental, and other important values of the parties involved. Modern-day corporations have enormous resources and, when properly deployed, significant capabilities to promote sustainable development. This course explains the life cycle and range of international transactions and investment - from procurement of goods and services and licensing of technology to large infrastructure and public-private partnership projects. It sets out how properly structured transactions can promote prudent and sustainable development in developing and emerging economies. It describes how private companies, investors, regulators, financiers, governments, NGOs, and other stakeholders can work for the mutual benefit of the communities and countries involved as well as responsible long-term goals.

Design of Rule of Law Programs and Proposal Preparation
This course will build the understanding and skills of students in project design and the preparation of written proposals related to rule of law assistance, which can be carried out either in the context of an internationally financed assistance arrangement or as a nationally-driven and self-financed initiative. Building on the needs assessments PROLAW course, the course will position project design as it fits into the overall project lifecycle, as well as its relationship with results-based management. The course will allow the student to understand the theory behind and the methods for conducting problem, stakeholder and risk analyses, designing a logical intervention including project objectives, outcomes, outputs and activities, setting a budget, performance indicators, and means of measuring project progress, and applying theory of change and other logical framework tools. In the second half of the course students will out their newly acquired knowledge and skills to use by preparing a full written project proposal. The course will examine

Rule of Law in Conflict Prevention and Peacebuilding
This course explores the relationship between rule of law, conflict prevention, mitigation and peacebuilding for development. Drawing from ongoing case studies and international practice, the course examines the drivers of conflict, the dynamics and changes in the social fabric during conflict and how rule of law addresses those challenges. Focus is on justice as foundational to establishing the security and institutional legitimacy necessary for human development. The course will examine how unaccountable and ineffective law enforcement and governance institutions contribute to conflict. Given an understanding of the context, course discussions will seek to identify practical modalities for strengthening rule of law and justice reform, including transitional justice. Course materials include case studies, evidence-based analyses and commentary. Students will be called upon to apply the course learning to a specific conflict-affected context. Research and Writing on the Rule of Law
This course is designed to assist lawyers and other professionals working with the law in developing the techniques of researching and writing in relation to rule of law development. The primary objective of this course is to enable students to apply research skills, which will be instrumental for conducting in depth studies on rule of law development topics for major papers during the PROLAW Program and for the final capstone project. With a focus on development issues, substantial emphasis is given to socio-legal and empirical legal research methodologies. A secondary objective is that students will acquire writing skills that can be used in various practice settings involving legal and policy analysis, policymaking, and implementation of rule of law development research studies. Students will also gain expertise on how to research and analyze issues from other disciplines that contribute to the processes and dynamics of legal and institutional reform. This knowledge is foundational for developing theories of change and is critical to

Rule of Law Capstone Project
The Rule of Law Capstone Project is the culmination of the student’s academic and personal experiences in the PROLAW program. In carrying out the Capstone Project, students will have the opportunity to consolidate everything they have learned in the PROLAW curriculum and reinforce their practical experience in applying this knowledge and skills through a final multi-faceted exercise. The final outcome of this course will enable each student to demonstrate in relation to a specific real-world law and governance reform process that he or she is capable of using what was learned in PROLAW to produce useful and professional documentation and communicate this content to clients and stakeholders effectively. In some cases, students may develop or have a preexisting relationship with an external organization, which provides an opportunity for the student to work on their particular topic. Students may alternatively decide to conduct research and determine the need and feasibility of a possible initiative to address the problem they identify. Likewise,

Rule of Law Project Management, Monitoring & Evaluation

This course will analyze the main principles, tasks and tools commonly used to manage a rule of law project, particularly in comparison to other types of project management. Topics will include the control of the timing of various steps in implementation (start up, work planning, activities, monitoring and evaluation, reporting, and close out), human resource management, stakeholder management, procurement, inventory, and budgeting. The course will also address common challenges including managing a project with weak design or insufficient budget, managing conflicts, dealing with emergencies and mid-course corrections, and the key requirements for successful project management (teamwork, accountability, leadership, substantive knowledge and skills, and cultural literacy). Students will have an opportunity to apply their knowledge and skills by working through a model project in teams and producing a sample deliverable (on time, on budget, and according to specifications).

Health Care Delivery and Organization
This course provides a foundation for understanding the contribution of formal US healthcare services to the nation’s health. Content includes how the healthcare system is structured, how care is organized, delivered, financed and regulated. Major challenges that impact healthcare cost, quality and access are examined with underpinnings of social justice and impact on communities served. Emphasis is placed on quality, patient safety and information technology as center pieces of the modern health care environment.

Outcomes: Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to: 1. Distinguish the roles, functions and responsibilities of healthcare system components (i.e., delivery, financing and regulation). 2. Analyze the interaction of social; political and economic forces shaping healthcare delivery and their impact on cost, quality and access. 3. Population Health Informatics
This course focuses on informatics in health care, with an emphasis on information systems and the use of information technology (IT) applications to support population health. Basic epidemiologic concepts of health are addressed. The key concepts of feasibility, usability and adaptability are addressed. This course includes evaluation of IT applications for healthcare administration, clinical practice, research, and education.

Outcomes: 1. Apply principles of health care informatics for population health. 2. Apply basic concepts of epidemiology for population health. 3. Analyze the role of population health informatics in understanding data, information, & knowledge. 4. Apply population health informatics in surveillance, interoperability and big data contexts. 5. Evaluate quality in electronic health records, mobile applications, and personal health

Nursing and Health Care Administration Practicum

The practicum course guides the student in a synthesis of content from nursing and related sciences and the application of this knowledge to the role of the nurse in leadership and management experiences. Emphasis will be placed on the student's clinical engagement in management initiatives requiring critical assessment, planning, intervention, and evaluation activities using theoretical models and management tools. Students in the practicum experience are expected to progress throughout the clinical practicum from requiring assistance to becoming primarily independent.

Outcomes:
1. Apply knowledge of selected concepts, models, and theories from nursing and management sciences to achieve high quality nursing care and effective healthcare team coordination in a variety of settings.
2. Apply knowledge of healthcare policy, finance and regulatory environments to identify clinical questions.

Components:

Advanced Quality and Safety in Health Care

This course focuses on managing the continuum between safety and quality and the strategic importance of these concepts to healthcare organizations and clients. Trends in patient safety and healthcare quality, practices in different healthcare environments, and practices related to improving safety and quality will be examined. The course is designed to provide students with knowledge and skills in systems thinking and in preventing, learning from and resolving error and addressing adverse events. Interprofessional teamwork, the use of information technology and data are emphasized in promoting safer healthcare and improved outcomes.

Outcomes:
Upon successful completion of this course, the student will be able to:
1. Explain the forces driving the focus on safety and quality in health care.
2. Evaluate strategies for improving safety and quality in health care.

Leadership and Administration in Health Care
This course focuses on the integration of core knowledge in leadership, administration, human resources and communication in health care organizations. Special emphasis is placed on leadership styles, the roles of the leader, human resources management and communication. The course is designed to provide the student with knowledge to practice the leadership skills necessary to positively impact healthcare systems.
Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course, the student will be able to: 1. Relate essential nurse leadership competencies for effective management in healthcare organizations. 2. Evaluate the impact of leadership styles on organizational culture and effectiveness. 3. Generate strategies to optimize human resource performance in healthcare settings. 4. Identify strategies to address interpersonal and intraorganizational conflict. Selected Topics May Include: Leadership theory and style and professional

Health Care Outcomes
This course focuses on the theory and methods to measure and evaluate healthcare outcomes. Concepts of population health will guide the comparison and analysis of health outcomes and measures. Current political, legal, regulatory, and ethical issues will be explored as these relate to health outcomes. Interprofessional teamwork, the use of information technology and data are emphasized in promoting safer healthcare and improved outcomes.
Outcomes: Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to: 1. Analyze the political, legal, regulatory, and ethical influences in the development and current status of outcomes management. 2. Apply methods and processes for improving outcomes. 3. Utilize data-driven decision making for health outcomes. 4. Develop leadership and interprofessional competence in analyzing healthcare outcomes. 5.

Health Care Policy
This course is designed to introduce key policy issues and processes in public policy development. The impact of health care policy on management and health system improvement is discussed. The student is provided with advanced policy knowledge, frameworks, and skills required to assume a leadership role in health care. Emphasis is placed on using evidence to develop an understanding of the effect of health care policy on practice.

Outcomes: 1. Identify key policy issues in contemporary health systems. 2. Analyze the effect of health policy on practice. 3. Analyze strategies for health system improvement through public policy. 4. Advocate for policy adoption to a health care decision maker. 5. Identify the effects of government regulation on education and practice.

Fiscal Management in Health Care Organizations
This course prepares the graduate student to develop a framework for understanding key issues in financial management in health care from two perspectives. First, the course explores the relationship between the national economic environment and the financial context for current models of health care delivery. Second, the course introduces a variety of fiscal concepts and techniques as applied to nursing and healthcare administration. Emphasis is placed on the way cost data influences operational decision making in healthcare administrative practice.

Outcomes: Upon successful completion of the course, the student will: 1) Analyze the impact of political, social and economic factors on the cost of patient care delivery. 2) Examine cost behavior concepts as they relate to nursing and other health care models in healthcare organizations. 3) Apply cost accounting

Comparative Effective Research in Healthcare
Prerequisites: GNUR 450 or equivalent required. CMAN 439 and 440 recommended.

Comparative effective research (CER) is a central tenet of health care reform. This course offers an overview of policy implications and rationale for CER and explores different approaches of developing, analyzing and communicating CER. Research comparing the clinical and economic merits of different treatments, devices and procedures will be explored.

Outcomes: Apply political, social and ethical perspectives to uses of CER, Demonstrate effective retrieval of CER reviews from public sources, Demonstrate knowledge of major CER methods and tools, Evaluate quality of evidence from CER reports, Assess treatment options in defined patient population.

Nursing Informatics

This course provides an introduction to nursing informatics, involving the integration of nursing, health, computer, and information science, in the support of professional nursing practice. The effective use of technology in aspects of health care deliver are explored. Information retrieval, management, and evaluation strategies are emphasized. Legal and ethical principles and standards are applied to the use of information and technology in professional nursing practice.

This course is for RN-BSN students.

Upon the successful completion of this course, the student is able to:

Healthcare Transitions
Patients pass between health care settings, levels of care, health care providers, and their homes and the communities where they live. These transitions require high degrees of care coordination and management to ensure continuity across settings, providers, and levels. This course examines coordination of care and management of transitions across settings, providers, and levels. Models and frameworks of transition and care coordination will be examined, along with the contemporary research in care coordination and transition management. The professional nurse's role in care coordination and transition management in health will be a focus of the course.

Theories & Concepts for Advanced Clinical Practice
This course focuses on the development and use of disciplinary knowledge as a foundation for advanced nursing practice. Basic philosophical assumptions and the history of knowledge development in nursing are presented. The relation between concepts, theory, research, and practice are emphasized, with a focus on concepts and middle-range theories that are applied in advanced nursing practice.

Upon successful completion of the course the student will be able to: 1. Understand the history and driving forces for knowledge development in nursing. 2. Describe the philosophical foundations of nursing and advanced nursing practice. 3. Understand the levels of theory development in nursing. 4. Explain the use of selected concepts and middle-range theories to guide advanced nursing practice. 5. Analyze concepts and theories for use in nursing practice. 6. Psychiatric Mental Health Assessment Across the Lifespan

This course focuses on the major principles and skills to conduct a psychiatric mental health assessment across the lifespan. Clinical interviewing skills, eliciting important information, and developing a therapeutic rapport with patients and families are foundational knowledge and skills. Students will learn components of the psychiatric evaluation, including psychiatric review of symptoms and mental status examination, and the development of differential diagnoses and diagnostic formulation. Integrating laboratory findings and medical history into the psychiatric evaluation and utilizing evidence-based clinical practice guidelines will be emphasized. This course will also incorporate theories and practice of diversity and inclusion as it relates to the biopsychosocial and cultural understanding of mental illness.

Psychotherapeutics Individuals Groups Families
This course focuses on the theoretical underpinnings and professional practice of integrating and evaluating psychotherapeutic modalities into advanced practice psychiatric nursing care with individuals, groups, and families. Using the principles of psychotherapy, students will learn the skills to develop strong therapeutic relationships to enhance mental health treatment, strengthen mental health resilience, and improve psychiatric outcomes. Emphasis will be on patient and family-centered care, which integrates socio-cultural perspectives of mental health and illness, treatment preferences, ethics and values, and legal or economic considerations.

This course uses a case-based learning process to examine the genetic basis for cancer disease, common cancer genetic syndromes, relative risk assessments, screening and surveillance guidelines, and the educational and management needs of clients and their families related to genetic predisposition to cancer. The emphasis is on the role of the advanced practice nurse.

Outcomes: Upon completion of this course the student will be able to:
1) Describe the structure of DNA and differentiate among the various forms of genetic inheritance.
2) Describe the cancer burden in United States and how the science of genetics will assist with cancer control.
3) Explain oncogenesis, and function of oncogenes and tumor suppressor genes.

Psych Mental Health Adv Pract Nursing Practicum

The practicum course guides the development and transition of students to the advanced practice psychiatric nurse practitioner role. Synthesizing knowledge and experience gained from previous courses, the practicum helps students advance their proficiency and skills in caring for patients with acute, chronic, and complex psychiatric mental health problems. With understanding of various psychiatric mental health settings and levels of care, students in the practicum experience will apply their knowledge and synthesis of content with patients, families, and communities across the lifespan. Emphasis will be on the assessment, diagnosis, treatment, and care coordination of psychiatric mental health disorders. Students are expected to progress throughout the clinical practicum from requiring assistance to becoming primarily independent within their population and specialty practice.

Course ID: 003425
Run Date: 01-JAN-2019

One course of a three-course sequence, GNUR 514 is designed to prepare the Nurse Practitioner to assume responsibility for coordination and management of adult/older adult health care. A major focus of the course is to prepare the student to assess and manage selected common health problems of adults/older adults in primary care settings. Indications for collaboration, consultation, and/or referral to other health care providers are emphasized as an integral part of the nurse practitioner's role. The accompanying practicum offers the student an opportunity to exercise critical judgment and implement theoretical knowledge in the management of care of adults experiencing common health problems.

Emergency Health Care of Adults
This course is designed to provide the nurse practitioner student with the knowledge and skills necessary to affect patient care outcomes in emergency settings. This course will incorporate procedural skills necessary to meet clinical competencies of the emergency nurse practitioner. Diagnostic and therapeutic procedures used in the evaluation and management of patients with emergent conditions will be incorporated.

Prerequisite: Advanced Pharmacology, Advanced Health Assessment across the Lifespan, and Advanced Physiology/Pathophysiology.

Outcomes: Upon successful completion of the course, the student will be able to: 1. Recognize the importance of patient education and informed consent prior to performing procedures. 2. Synthesize knowledge of

Health Care Policy and Economics
Course content provides the student with advanced policy, economic and financial knowledge, frameworks and skills required to assume a leadership role in healthcare. An emphasis is placed on using evidence to develop an understanding of key relationships between political, economic and financial dimensions in healthcare and how these relationships affect a selected population of interest.

Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course the student will be able to: 1. Evaluate the influences of policy on health care delivery at institutional, local, state, national or global levels. 2. Analyze the effects of health policy. 3. Analyze the effects of economic factors on health care decision making. 4. Apply strategies for assessing costs, maximizing productivity, and achieving quality outcomes in evidence-based practice and/or research. 5. Design practice improvement recommendations that account for policy, economic and

Advanced Reproductive and Sexual Health

This course will prepare the advanced practice nurse to manage the reproductive and sexual health care needs of all individuals throughout the lifespan. Theories and knowledge from biological, behavioral, social and nursing sciences will be applied in the provision of care for reproductive and sexual health. Emphasis is on the principles of reproductive anatomy and physiology including puberty, genetics, pregnancy, embryonic/fetal development, parturition, puerperium, lactation, and menopause in relationship to advanced practice nursing care.

Philosophy of Nursing: Nursing as a Moral Practice
This course provides an opportunity for students to analyze ethical issues and personal, institutional/organizational, societal and global values and beliefs that have an impact on nursing practice, the nursing profession, and healthcare delivery. Students will clearly and carefully articulate their thinking and approach to moral reasoning about various contemporary issues and justify their responses. Presuppositions about clinical practice, education, administration, and their impact will be explored. The realities of the social context and the effects on moral/ethical practice will be discussed.

Outcomes: 1. Analyze the multi-faceted ethical problems in healthcare, nursing practice, education, research, administration and policy. 2. Articulate one's own approach to moral reasoning when responding to bioethical issues in nursing. 3. Identify presuppositions/assumptions underlying one's positions and the bases for

Prerequisite: GNUR 512 and GNUR 513.

This course provides students with a basic understanding of the research grant application process. The overarching objective is to foster fundamental skills and strategies needed to prepare and submit a competitive research grant proposal. Emphasis is placed on the means by which to best position a research grant application for success. Sources and types of funding from governmental agencies, private foundations and professional societies are considered, with an emphasis on federal (NIH, AHRQ) grant programs, mechanisms, application and review process. Key aspects of successful proposal development from conceptualization of an idea or research question to submission of the application is fully developed and explored. Strategies for successful writing of each component of a research grant are provided using examples

Nursing and Health Policy

This course provides a framework for understanding health care delivery systems and the ability to analyze health policy using selected theoretical models. Students will apply theoretical models to evaluate existing and proposed health policies from the perspective of relevant stakeholders. Students will identify the political, economic, legal, social and ethical forces which impact the health policy-making process at the organization, local, state and national level. The changing role and responsibilities of the government, private sector, health professionals, and consumers will be examined in terms of access to care, health care financing, regulations, safety, quality and efficiency. Specific methods and strategies to influence health policy will be explored.

Outcomes:
1. Analyze health care delivery systems and specific health policies using selected theoretical components.

Instructional Design Theories and Models

This course covers how theories of human learning can be applied to the instructional process to make it more effective, efficient, and appealing. The course has a two-fold focus: the theoretical principles that have contributed to the field of ID, and how those principles can be applied within practical settings.

Pre-requisite or co-requisite: CIEP 470 Principles of Instructional Design

Outcomes:
- Differentiate/compare/contrast among learning theories, ID theories and ID models.
- Identify/describe the basic tenets of behavioral, cognitive, and constructivist theories. Identify/describe motivational theories. Select/apply principles in practical learning situations.

Components:
- Lecture (Online)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite or co-requisite: CIEP 470

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: Classroom Not Needed (1)

Applications of Human Centered Design Principles

Human-centered design places humans and their needs at the center of the design, compels us to take a holistic/thoughtful approach to our designs. This course uses these principles to examine the design process to create learning experiences that are inclusive and responsive. Learners will also craft their own design philosophy.

Pre-requisite or co-requisite: CIEP 470 Principles of Instructional Design

Outcomes:
- Describe principles of human-centered design. Create a space for learning that incorporates principles of human-centered design. Critique the application and use of these principles. Formulate your own philosophy of design.

Components:
- Lecture (Online)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite or co-requisite: CIEP 470

Req. Designation: Internship

Directed Readings
An independent study course provides the opportunity for a student to develop knowledge regarding a particular topic of interest, beyond that available in traditional courses. The student will develop a contract with the faculty member who supervises the independent study to specify the topics covered, the tasks to be performed, and the grading criteria. Students are expected to participate in development of a reading list. Regular meetings of the student and the faculty supervisor will occur throughout the semester.

- Components: Independent Study (Directed Research)
- Req. Designation: Internship

| MPP 500(3)  | Course ID: 011197 | 15-JUN-2022 |

Public Policy Evaluation
Prerequisite: PLSC 476 or SOCL 414.

This class covers basic methods of evaluating the impact of public policies. We will read examples of each type of evaluation and discuss the difficulties each case illustrates in doing applied research -- including statistical problems, ethical issues, and the potential impact of the evaluation on policy change.

- Components: Seminar (In person)
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

| MPP 501(3)  | Course ID: 011199 | 15-JUN-2022 |

Public Policy Internship
Enrollment is restricted to students in MUAPP program.

Students will work with an organization in the public sector (typically nonprofit or government) to apply concepts and skills from the first-year MUAPP curriculum. They will develop a portfolio of work products to demonstrate their competencies and interests to future employers.

Students will gain relevant work experience; apply concepts and skills developed in other courses in the MUAPP curriculum; create a portfolio of work products to demonstrate abilities to future employers.

- Components: Supervision (In person)
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

| MPP 502(1)  | Course ID: 012609 | 15-JUN-2022 |

Professional Development Skills
Requirement for MPP graduate students.

The class develops professional skills for students to identify and pursue internship and career options. Policy practitioners discuss their experiences, illustrating different work in the policy field. Job search strategies, resume writing, and informational interviews are covered.

- Components: Seminar (In person)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to Master in Urban Affairs and Public Policy (MUAPP) students
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

| MPP 503(3)  | Course ID: 011200 | 15-JUN-2022 |

Public Policy Practicum
Enrollment is restricted to students in MUAPP program.

This is a capstone course for the masters degree in public policy or urban affairs. The goal is to gain experience working as a team conducting a policy analysis or program evaluation project. Faculty will determine the topic for the course, often based on a real world client's interests.

Outcome: Students apply concepts and skills developed in the MUAPP curriculum to a real world problem; work with a client and stakeholders; create a research report appropriate to an applied environment.

- Components: Seminar (In person)
- Req. Designation: Internship
- Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

| MPP 605(0)  | Course ID: 011201 | 15-JUN-2022 |

Master's Study

- Components: FTC-Supervision (Independent Study)
- Req. Designation: Internship
Childlaw Legislation and Policy Clinic
Permission of instructor is required prior to registration.

Introduction to Leadership Studies
This course begins the Leadership certificate program and the Bachelor of Arts in Leadership. This course consists of the SCPS Assessment Center experience, a 2-day leadership assessment. At the conclusion of the Assessment Center experience, students will receive an assessment of the skills and knowledge in each of six domains. These are Problem Solving and Decision Making, Organizing and Planning, Relationship Building, Influence, Communications, and Intra-personal Leadership. These are equated to the 6 courses in the Leadership certificate/major. A credit award toward the course satisfied will be posted to the student's transcript. The student will then enroll in the remaining courses and will have one year from first enrollment to complete the remaining courses. Students in CPST 210 will subsequently meet with the advisor and develop a plan for completion of the certificate/major. Students who complete the SCPS Assessment Center and develop their plan for completion of the certificate or major will have successfully completed the course.

Components:
- Lecture (Independent Study)
- Requirement Group: Restricted to students in the School of Continuing and Professional Studies.
- Req. Designation: Internship

Neurodevelopment and Trauma
This course is an advanced concentration year practice elective focused on assessing the neurodevelopmental impact of trauma and selecting interventions consistent with this assessment. Students will learn to identify major regions of the brain, appreciate the sequential nature of brain development, and determine which areas of the brain have likely been affected by developmental trauma. Consistent with a neurosequential understanding of development, students will be taught to recognize which interventions involve specific brain regions in order to assist them in choosing those most likely to promote growth in areas of the brain impacted by trauma. This assessment and intervention process occurs within the frameworks of systems and attachment theories, which recognize that the relational environments and communities in which clients live must be adequately safe and supportive for any intervention to be effective. This course is a hybrid course, incorporating recorded material supplied by The Child Trauma Academy. By the end of the course, students will be able to:

Advanced Statistics
Second in a two-semester sequence of statistics courses required of all social work doctoral students. The course covers various multivariate statistical analysis techniques to test hypotheses most relevant to issues of social, economic, racial, and environmental justice.

Pre-requisite: Admission into PhD program and SOWK 811

Outcomes: 1) Application of statistical analyses to real world research problems; 2) Knowledge of the assumptions and theory of multivariate statistical analyses.

Components: Seminar (In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: SOWK 811, B- or better
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom (1)

Integration of Research, Practice, & Theory in SW Scholarship

Examination of research, practice, and theory as well as the integration of these focal areas in doctoral students' substantive areas. Students will examine these areas to gain further knowledge on current state of their substantive areas and address key research questions.

Pre-requisites: Admission into the PhD program

Outcomes: 1) Integrate current focal areas of student's substantive area; 2) Identify and articulate ways of moving substantive area forward.

Components:
- Seminar (In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Admitted into the Social Work PhD program

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)

History Ideas in Social Work

Prerequisite of clinical practicum.

This course studies the development of knowledge in social work within sociopolitical and intellectual contexts. The person-environment configuration provides the professional social work framework for the critiques of the adequacy of these approaches. The student gains an understanding of development and change in social work theories, values and ethics, within a framework of a consistent professional identity.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate Social Work students.

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

SOWK 817(3)
Course ID:006625  06-JUN-2018

Nature of Clinical Knowledge

Prerequisite: 815.

This course provides an orientation to the nature, uses and limitations of theory in scientific endeavor to understand different approaches in connecting data and conceptual frameworks. Students complete the course understanding science as a problem-solving process with theory as the major link between the roles of practitioner and researcher.

Components:
- Lecture

Requirement Group: Restricted to Graduate Social Work students.

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: General Classroom(1)

Course ID:006626  15-JUN-2022

Social Work Research Methodology

Prerequisite or co-requisite: 817.

Building upon a basic understanding of research, this course provides a comprehensive overview of the advanced research process in social work, emphasizing question development, generation of hypotheses, principles of measurement, appropriate application of statistical measures, and methods of data collection/reduction. Students can articulate and understand the relationship between the research process, clinical theory development and practice advancement at course conclusion.

Components:

Qualitative Research

Enrollment Conditions: First Level Research Methodology Course in Doctoral Program. Social Work doctoral students only.

This course provides an overview of the fundamentals of qualitative research. It provides a detailed consideration of knowledge and skills in qualitative inquiry. The science and paradigms for qualitative inquiry in social work are examined as well as principles for qualitative inquiry design including data collection, analysis, and writing.

Outcomes: Students will be able to design and implement a qualitative research project with understanding of the various methods; ability to understand and apply various methods of data analysis; identify and apply

Teaching Seminar and Practicum I

First of two course series designed to provide students with a thorough overview of teaching within a university setting from a social justice and anti-racist perspective and practical experience of preparing to teach a course.

Outcomes: 1) Develop knowledge of learning theories and application to diverse student groups; 2) Develop and expand teaching skills that address diversity, oppression, and social justice issues.

Components:
- Seminar(In person)

Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: Admitted into the Social Work PhD program

Req. Designation: Internship

Room Requirements: Electronic Classroom(1)
Teaching Seminar and Practicum II
Second of two course series designed to provide students with a thorough overview of teaching within a university setting from a social justice and anti-racist perspective and practical experience of preparing to teach a course.

Outcomes: 1) Participate in a supervised learning experience with a teaching mentor; 2) Develop and expand teaching skills that address diversity, oppression, and social justice issues.

Components: Seminar (In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: SOWK 828, B- or better
Req. Designation: Internship
Room Requirements: Lab - Laptop(1)

Research Practicum II
Second in a two course practicum emphasizing research methodology, development, and acquisition of measurement tools, quantitative and qualitative analysis, ethical considerations, and dissemination of research.

Outcomes: 1) Engage in research write-up, revision, and preparing manuscripts for submission; 2) Develop advanced knowledge of the research process.

Components: Practicum (In person)
Requirement Group: Pre-requisite: SOWK 821, B- or better
Req. Designation: Internship
