Course Description

This course will offer a selective survey of the history and culture of Europe from the turn of the 20th century through the present. We will engage with the history, literature, film and art of the period from the perspectives of multiple disciplines. Because the course is based in Rome, we will make use of the city as a primary source, incorporating a number of site visits into the class schedule. Students will also be encouraged to plan and consider their travel as a form of first-hand encounter with contemporary Europe and will have the option of building a semester project around their experiences.

Learning Outcomes

On completion of the course students should be able to:

- conduct a multi-disciplinary analysis of contemporary European culture.
- understand the complex relationships between events and ideas from various fields
- ascertain the influence of intellectual and cultural trends on society.

Required Text / Materials

1. Modris Eksteins, Rites of Spring: The Great War and the Birth of the Modern Age. Mariner Books, 2000
2. Primo Levi, Survival in Auschwitz. Touchstone, 1996 (complete by Week 9)
3. Milan Kundera, The Book of Laughter and Forgetting. Harper, 1999 (complete by week 11)
4. George Orwell, Homage to Catalonia (any edition) (Complete by week 8)
5. Additional readings provided via Sakai

Recommended: Felix Gilbert and David Clay Large, The End of the European Era: 1890 to the Present. W. W. Norton & Company; Sixth Edition, 2008 (On Reserve in the IC)

Attendance Policy

In accordance with the JFRC mission to promote a higher level of academic rigor, all courses adhere to the following absence policy. Prompt attendance, preparation and active participation in course discussions are expected from every student.

- For all classes meeting once a week, students cannot incur more than one unexcused absence.
- For all classes meeting twice a week, students cannot incur more than two unexcused absences.
- For all classes meeting three times a week, students cannot incur more than two unexcused absences.

This course meets once a week, thus a total of 1 unexcused absence(s) will be permitted. Unexcused absences beyond these will result in 1% lowering of the final course grade, for every absence after the “approved limit”.

Assessment Components

- Participation 10 %
You are responsible for each week's readings and should come to class with specific questions and comments in mind. Our conversation will depend on the participation of all of the members of the class. I reserve the right to administer reading quizzes should it become apparent that students are not keeping up. Lectures in this class do not duplicate the readings; instead they are meant to provide the general narrative of European cultural and intellectual history and set the context for the primary sources we will encounter throughout the semester. As part of your participation grade, you will be required to introduce/lead class discussion at least once during the semester.
- Weekly Comments 10%:
By noon on Tuesday of each week, you must compose and post to the discussion board questions and/or comments based on the primary sources for the week. These should be approximately 150-250 words and should do the following:
  - 1. Identify a major theme or, if you can, multiple themes of the readings
  - 2. Express any thoughts or opinions on, or reactions to, the sources
  - 3. Speculate about what the source can tell us about the context of the period.
    - Questions for discussion are also welcome.
- Take-home Midterm Exam 20 %
The take-home exam is due during week 6 of the semester. I will provide you with the prompts by week 4. You are not required to consult outside materials for the exam but may do so if you choose. Any sources consulted must, of course, be properly cited in your essay.
- Semester Project 40%
Part 1 (15%) Project proposal and working bibliography – In the first weeks of the semester, you should be thinking about what aspect of European history or culture you wish to explore and checking to see what information is available to you. During week 4 you will turn in a working proposal and bibliography. This should describe the subject you wish to explore, your approach to the subject, and the form your project will take. The working bibliography must contain at least ten sources (and your final paper must use at least 10 sources) with annotations beneath each explaining how it is relevant to the subject and how you will use it. Your project must also use at least one site as a source. This might be a monument, museum, business, institution, etc. Your bibliography may conform to any of the standard styles. (ie. Turabian, MLA, etc. – format guides available online) but must be consistent throughout.
Part 2 (25%) The project itself – By week 13, you will turn in/present your final work. This might be a standard research paper (approx. 10-12 pages), a PowerPoint presentation (approx. 20 minutes), a photographic essay, an audiovisual project, etc. The ultimate form is up to you (though it must be approved by me – see above). We will dedicate our last class (or earlier on a voluntary basis) to your presentations of your work.
- Final Exam 20%
This will include a variety of question types and will focus on material covered since the mid-term.
