Course Description
The aim of this course is to lead students toward an autonomous judgment of fundamental issues related to the human society and ethical decision making, with special reference to happiness, justice, fairness, adherence to norms and civil disobedience, rules and duties, cultural and social influences. This will provide students with the basic critical skills for recognizing different ethical approaches and for judging their feasibility and correctness. By analyzing the philosophies that most consistently influenced the development of Western culture, students will be aided in their understanding of moral dilemmas, as well as their construction of philosophically informed decisions.

The course is divided into three parts.
We will first familiarize ourselves with the importance of ethics in everyday life by discussing a number of moral dilemmas. We will then clarify our field by analyzing moral relativism, the relation between ethics and religion, and the relation between ethics and legality.
In the second and largest part of the course we will compare two different theories on the universal criterion for moral judgment: Kant’s theory and utilitarianism.
Both of these theories will be applied to contemporary issues.
Finally, the criticism of such a universalistic approach by feminist ethics will allow us to analyze the so-called “virtue ethics”, a recent renewal of ancient ethics.
We will occasionally return to the original dilemmas as we move through these ethical frameworks.

Learning Outcomes
On completion of the course students should be able to demonstrate an understanding of the major philosophical questions in the area of ethics with attention to the historical and conceptual development of these questions, and be able to articulate some of the major problems and responses central to this area of philosophy.
This course should also enable students to:
(a) appreciate the profound issues involved in social relations, such as dignity and diversity;
(b) engage in dialogue with great philosophers, paying close attention to their meaning, their reasons, their concerns, their vision;
(c) insert their own reflections into the dialogue;
(d) examine the way different philosophically defended views challenge each other, and how they also challenge unexamined presuppositions in our own culture;
(e) recognize the need for ethical judgment;
(f) distinguish alternative courses of action;
(g) articulate the relevant ethical values, principles, rights, and virtues from the point of view of each stakeholder;
(h) formulate and support an ethical judgment;
(i) recognize the premises for a given conclusion or viewpoint, identify unexamined presuppositions, appreciate astute insights, expose vulnerabilities in established positions;
(j) compare and contrast ethical theories and evaluate them in terms of strengths and weaknesses;
(k) differentiate among historical and contemporary perspectives about the world with a view to fashioning a humane and just world;
I understand the relationships among cultural, economic, political, and social forces, and their impact on human behavior;

(m) assess how moral principles are conditioned by one's involvement in (and responsibilities toward) the socially organized community in which one lives.

Required Texts/Materials

James Rachels, The Elements of Moral Philosophy, McGraw-Hill, 9th edition (but 8th or 7th is fine too);

Immanuel Kant, Groundwork for the Metaphysics of Morals (available online);

John Stuart Mill, Utilitarianism (available online);

Assigned readings posted on Sakai.

Attendance Policy

In accordance with the JFRC mission to promote a higher level of academic rigor, all courses adhere to the following absence policy. Prompt attendance, preparation, and active participation in course discussions are expected from every student.

- For all classes meeting once a week, students cannot incur more than one unexcused absence.
- For all classes meeting twice a week, students cannot incur more than two unexcused absences.
- For all classes meeting three times a week, students cannot incur more than two unexcused absences.

This course meets twice a week, thus a total of two unexcused absences will be permitted. Unexcused absences beyond these will result in 1% lowering of the final course grade, for every absence after the “approved limit”.

If, however, you are ill, do not attend class (your absence will be excused).

Assessment Components

- Midterm Exam (in-class test) 35%
- Final Exam (take-home paper) 40%
- Presentation(s) and Participation* 25%

*Each student will be required to give one or two presentations.
