Course Description
In this course, we will explore the history of food and wine in Italy as a gateway to understanding Italian culture. By examining the factors that have shaped Italian food and taste, the variations in eating habits of different socio-economic classes, and the essential role played by food in constructing Italian identities, we will shed light on fundamental patterns in Italian history and society. Through a mix of discussions, readings, primary source analyses, workshops, and excursions, we will investigate Italian food and culture from antiquity to the present. We will explore how food traditions and local foods are maintained and transformed over time and space, how culinary knowledge is used to mark cultural belonging and differences, studying food as a site of cultural transmission but also of dissent and resistance. Topics include food as cultural heritage, alternative food systems, culinary tourism in Italy. After the completion of this course, students will have developed a critical understanding of food history, an interdisciplinary approach to the study of Italian culture and society, and a framework for analyzing Italian cultural history.

Learning Outcomes
On completion of the course students should be able to:
- Analyze and critically evaluate ideas, arguments, and points of view regarding culinary history
- Gather and interpret information from first-hand sources and scholarly material
- Work with non-traditional historical texts
- Develop a more sophisticated understanding of Italian history through the country’s gastronomy
- Identify how food and drink has shaped Italy today

Attendance Policy
In accordance with the JFRC mission to promote a higher level of academic rigor, all courses adhere to the following absence policy. Prompt attendance, preparation and active participation in course discussions are expected from every student.

>This course meets twice a week, thus a total of two unexcused absences will be permitted. Unexcused absences beyond these will result in 1% lowering of the final course grade, for every absence after the “approved limit”.

The collective health of the JFRC is everyone’s responsibility. DO NOT ATTEND CLASS IF YOU ARE ILL.

Academic Integrity:
Academic integrity is the pursuit of scholarly activity in an open, honest, and responsible manner. Academic integrity is a guiding principle for all academic activity at Loyola University Chicago, and all members of the University community are expected to act in accordance with this principle.

Failing to meet the following academic integrity standards is a serious violation of personal honesty and the academic ideals that bind the University into a learning community. These standards apply to both individual and group assignments. Individuals working in a group may be held responsible if one of the group members has violated one or more of these standards.

1. Students may not plagiarize; the use of AI is considered plagiarism too and treated as such.
2. Students may not submit the same work for credit for more than one assignment (known as self-plagiarism).
3. Students may not fabricate data.
4. Students may not collude.
5. Students may not cheat.
6. Students may not facilitate academic misconduct.

Follow this link for more details about these standards, sanctions, and academic misconduct procedures: https://www.luc.edu/academics/catalog/undergrad/reg_academicintegrity.shtml

Bias Reporting:
It is unacceptable and a violation of university policy to harass, discriminate against or abuse any person because of his or her race, color, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability, religion, age or any other characteristic protected by applicable law. Such behavior threatens to destroy the environment of tolerance and mutual respect that must prevail for this university to fulfill its educational and health care mission. For this reason, every incident of harassment, discrimination or abuse undermines the aspirations and attacks the ideals of our community. The university qualifies these incidents as incidents of bias. In order to uphold our mission of being Chicago's Jesuit Catholic University—a diverse community seeking God in all things and working to expand knowledge in the service of humanity through learning, justice and faith, any incident(s) of bias must be reported and appropriately addressed. Therefore, the Bias Response (BR) Team was created to assist members of the Loyola University Chicago community in bringing incidents of bias to the attention of the university. If you believe you are subject to such bias, you should notify the Bias Response Team at this link: http://webapps.luc.edu/biasreporting/

Assessment Components

- Class Participation (10%)
- Oral Group Presentation: Edible Histories (10%)
- Midterm Exam (30%)
- Two Summaries of Readings (10%)
- Food and Identity: a Personal Heritage Recipe Essay (10%)
- Final Exam (30%)

Class Participation (10%)
For spirited discussion, we will need your active attention and participation. Class participation grades are not automatic. They are based on oral contributions to the collective learning experience of the class. Participation means active engagement in the course: being consistently prepared for class (having carefully read that day's assignments), asking questions, responding to questions, offering your own insights and opinions, and responding to others. Laptops and phones are not allowed in class.

Oral Group Presentation: Edible Histories (10%)
Students will be divided into groups and will be assigned one of two presentation days. Groups must choose a topic/book from the Edible series available at LUC library (the list will be provided by the instructor).

Guidelines: a 20-minute presentation which includes 1) an introduction with a broad historical outline from Edible Histories books and an original argument 2) a specific focus on one historical period or theme 3) a critical analysis of the changes of the material and symbolic value of the food through time 4) a clear conclusion 5) two questions to elicit class discussion 6) a bibliography with three scholarly references (only peer-reviewed books and articles) 7) slides with no more than five words. You should not read your presentation but rehearse it in advance (you can use notes)
Grades will be based on preparedness, organization of the presentation, critical thinking skills, and information from diverse sources to create an original argument. Points will be deducted if the individual presenter reads from a written text or only engages marginally with the material compared to other sections of the presentation. Each member of the group should make an original contribution presenting part of the literature and of the research and not just summing up or introducing the material already presented.

Two summaries of readings (10%) A one page/one-and-a-half-page with the summary of the reading. Upload it in Sakai before class begins.

Food and Identity: a Personal Heritage Recipe Essay (10%) — Interview a family member and ask them for a recipe that is important for them and/or for your family. Alternatively, find a recipe that’s important for you. Tell the story of this recipe, reflecting on the meaning that it has for you or your family, and how this relates to your cultural background. Reflect on the ways in which food and food habits contribute to the development and transmission of cultural practices and knowledge. Bear in mind the following questions as you prepare the interview questionnaire: What does this recipe signify for the person interviewed? What memories are connected to this recipe? What does this recipe tell us about broader cultural themes (family structure, generations, changing history of certain products, etc.). How do food practices contribute to the construction of personal and collective identities?

In the paper include:

1) An introduction with a reference to one of the topics discussed in class
2) A description of the person that you interviewed and why, including a picture from the family member if available
3) The memories connected to the recipe and the recipe itself
4) A quote of at least one of the readings that you’ve done
5) A brief history of that recipe or of one of the ingredients (online or bibliographic research)
6) A conclusion
7) 4-5 pages, Garamond, size 12 font, 1.5 line spacing.

Mid Term (30%) and Final Exam (30%)
These exams consist of multiple choice and short answers, bringing together the various concepts/topics you have studied. No alternative exam dates will be offered.
