

Once again, I write this statement as a member of the Loyola Chicago community. Over the last six months, I've had the privilege of being able to represent this community as a Senator in the Loyola Chicago Student Government. I'm proud to run for re-election now as I seek to continue the work of representing you.

Loyola Chicago is a diverse institution, comprising thousands of students with diverse opinions and viewpoints. When I was first elected in September, I pledged to empower members of this community. In my time at the Senate, I have done my very best to hear out the voices I represent and deliver strong representation during SGLC functions.

Whether you've been on campus or taking classes online, I will continue to fight for you and keep you in mind when making decisions on behalf of Loyola. My core beliefs— fighting for equality, justice, and diversity— have been given a platform from my position on SGLC, and this platform is one that I am dedicated to.

I'm incredibly grateful for the support of the Loyola community as I ask once again for your vote.
