Becoming a clear, versatile and persuasive writer not only prepares students for careers in public relations; it will also help them succeed at whatever they do in their professional lives.

Course Description

Writing is a baseline skill in public relations. Strong writing skills definitely give a student an edge in getting a great post-graduation job and continuing to advance in his or her communication career. In contrast, lack of strong writing skills is a definite career handicap. This is an advanced, writing-intensive course designed to expose students to professional-level public relations strategy and writing by focusing on communication objectives, techniques, styles and mechanics. Building on students' knowledge of the fundamentals of public relations, the course provides practical, real-world writing experience in diverse formats for a wide range of audiences. Students' writing and critical thinking skills are expected to improve over the semester.

Course Objectives

- Engage students in the strategic process of public relations writing.
- Understand the importance of planning, pre-writing, editing and rewriting.
- Develop a strong working knowledge of writing mechanics and Associated Press style.
- Provide practical, hands-on experience in public relations writing that students can include in their portfolios.

Prerequisite

COMM 210 Public Relations

Required Texts

1. Wilcox, D. L., and Reber, B. H. Public Relations Writing and Media Techniques (7th ed.). Pearson. ISBN: 0-205-21167-4.
2. Associated Press Stylebook, 2015 edition, ISBN 978-0-917360-61-9; print edition, online subscription and mobile app available for purchase through <https://www.apstylebook.com/>

Additional Assigned Readings

Additional required course readings will be available on Sakai and/or handed out in class.

Course Website

Slide lectures will be posted in advance on Sakai. This is designed to enable students to avoid having to take extensive notes in class and as an aid for studying for exams; it is not meant as a substitute for class attendance.

Expectations

Students are expected to be prepared for, attend, and participate actively in all class sessions. Class will begin promptly at 10:25 a.m. and students who arrive after attendance has been taken will be marked absent. Please inform me in advance if you believe you have a legitimate reason for an absence.

Assignments

The university requires that in courses designated as Writing Intensive, there must be: 1) a special emphasis on writing, and 2) a variety of writing assignments integrated closely with the learning objectives of the course. There will be 16 writing assignments of various lengths and complexities. Following are the points for each assignment:

1. Ch. 1 assignment	10 points
2. Ch. 2 assignment	20 points
3. Ch. 3 assignment	20 points
4. Ch. 4 assignment	20 points
5. Social media pitch	30 points
6. News release	50 points
7. Fact sheet	50 points
8. Media advisory	40 points
9. Feature news release	50 points
10. Op-ed	60 points
11. Audio news release	40 points
12. PSA	30 points
13. Blog post	40 points
14. Newsletter article	40 points
15. Memo	40 points
16. Speech	60 points
Total possible:	600 points

There will be in-class writing and editing time for assignments 5-16. You may use the classroom computers (saving your work on a flash drive or emailing it to yourself at the end of class) or bring your own laptop.

Students will have the opportunity to edit and rewrite five assignments – 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10 – after receiving written feedback from the instructor; only the final drafts of these assignments will be graded.

Public relations practitioners write for professional audiences. Students should aim to produce professional-quality work: accuracy, quality, format, and neatness all count. Papers should be carefully proofread. Papers with typos or errors in spelling, grammar, punctuation, fact, or style will be graded down. Incorrectly spelling the name of a person or organization or place, using the wrong title or an incorrect address, date or time, are considered “fatal errors” and will result in the loss of a full grade for each occurrence – no exceptions. Students are advised to use the required Associated Press Stylebook and a reference book on English grammar for guidance on writing style.

All assignments are to be typed double spaced in a 12-point font with one-inch margins with the student’s name, date, and whether it is a first or final draft (if applicable) on the top of the first page. Papers should be stapled.

A hard copy of the assignment is due at the beginning of class on the specified date. E-mail copies cannot be accepted without advance permission from the instructor. Since public relations practitioners are held to deadlines, late assignments will be graded down one full grade per day. For example, an assignment that would have received an A if it been turned in on time would receive a B+ if it was received between the class meeting time and midnight on the date due, a B if it was turned in on the following day, a C if it was turned in two days late, etc. No make-up assignments will be available.

Grading Scale for Writing Assignments

A	93-100 (565-600 points)
A-	90-92 (550-560 points)
B+	87-89 (535-545 points)
B	83-86 (515-530 points)
B-	80-82 (500-510 points)
C+	77-79 (485-495 points)
C	73-76 (465-480 points)
C-	69-72 (445-460 points)
D+	65-68 (425-440 points)
D	61-64 (405-420 points)
F	60 or below (400 points or fewer)

Exams

There will be four quizzes throughout the semester, which will cover pre-determined topics in the AP Stylebook. They cannot be made up on another date. There will be no midterm or final.

Course Grading

Assignments	65 percent of grade
AP Stylebook quizzes (4)	25 percent of grade
Class participation	10 percent of grade

Academic Integrity

Each student is expected to do his or her own work in the course. Allegations of academic misconduct will be forwarded immediately to the office of the Dean of the School of Communication for possible disciplinary action. Loyola regards academic dishonesty as an extremely serious matter with consequences ranging from failure of the course to probation to expulsion.

Academic misconduct includes:

- Cheating on exams or aiding other students to cheat. Any effort to gain an advantage not given to all students is dishonest whether or not the effort is successful.
- Stealing the intellectual property of others and passing it off as your own work (this includes material found on the Internet). Software will be used to identify plagiarism.
- Failing to quote directly if you use someone else's words, and cite that particular work and author. If you paraphrase the ideas of another, credit the source with your citation. Please ask me if you have questions about what constitutes plagiarism and/or how to cite sources.
- For quizzes, academic misconduct includes conferring with other class members, copying or reading someone else's test, and using notes and materials without prior permission of the instructor.
- Turning in the same work for two classes.

Classroom Behavior

To help create a positive learning community, turn off all phones and keep them in your bag, backpack, or pocket. Laptops or tablets should be used only for taking notes. Be respectful of fellow students and be in your seat when class begins.

Accommodations

Any student with a learning disability who needs accommodation during class sessions or exams should provide documentation from Services for Students with Disabilities to the instructor during the first week of class; this information will be treated in complete confidence. The instructor will accommodate students' needs in the best way possible, given the constraints of course content and processes. It is the responsibility of each student to plan in advance to meet their own needs and assignment due dates.

Students are excused for recognized religious holidays. Please let me know in advance.
