Student and Digital Media Resources
Digital Media Services provides access to an array of equipment and software support in Loyola’s digital and multimedia lab spaces. Visit its website at http://www.luc.edu/digitalmedia.

- Students taking courses have access to a self-service Equipment Loan Program. To use digital media equipment, please make advanced reservations to best make sure of availability. Reservations for equipment can be made through the self-service system at https://equipmentloan.luc.edu.
- Hardware, software, and mobile technology recommendations can be found at the TechConnect website (http://www.luc.edu/techconnect/).
- A variety of resources can be found on the Online Learning website at http://luc.edu/online/ . The site holds links to many resources for students taking online courses. The “Tech Check” module, inspects your computer to verify compatibility with the online systems and resources that may be used in an online course. To access the Tech Check, please visit http://luc.edu/digitalmedia/trainingandsupport/techcheck/.
- For students studying and/or using computers in the Information Commons or the Corboy Law Center, go to the 2nd floor of the Information Commons or the 6th floor of the Corboy Law Center at the Media Labs for help. Hours of operation are available at: http://www.luc.edu/digitalmedia/digitalmedialabs/hours/.
- Digital media is a growing part of many course projects. For support to create video-based projects, working with blogs, recording podcasts or contributing to a Wiki, then Loyola Media (Kaltura) is the perfect resource. (Note that Loyola will be transitioning to Panopto, replacing Kaltura, in Spring 2018.) Loyola Media is Loyola’s digital media repository for individual users to upload videos and audios, and to access blogs and wikis. For more information visit https://media.luc.edu.

Nick Liberatore, Manager, 8-2261; Brendan McCarthy, Digital Media Specialist (WTC), 5-6395; Jared Thomas, Digital Media Specialist (LSC), 8-7764; HSD does not currently have a campus location but you can call 6-5992 for consultation on available resources.
University Information Security Office
The University Information Security Office (UISO) manages and advises on technology risks, policies, compliance, technology related laws, and regulations. UISO provides incident handling services if a system or information breach occurs. The office works to keep the campus technology environment safe and productive. An information security incident is an attempted, suspected, or successful unauthorized access or misuse of University information. An incident may be categorized as any interference with information technology services. Questionable activities observed by users of Loyola University Chicago resources should be reported through one method listed here. Incidents you should report include but are not limited to:

- Exposed or disclosed sensitive personal data
- Known or suspected data breach
- Unauthorized access to sensitive personal data
- Lost or missing papers or electronic devices containing sensitive personal data
- Inappropriate access to sensitive personal information
- Suspected phishing emails

School of Communication Academic Integrity
A basic mission of a university is to search for and to communicate truth as it is honestly perceived. A genuine learning community cannot exist unless this demanding standard is a fundamental tenet of the intellectual life of the community. Students of Loyola University Chicago are expected to know, to respect and to practice this standard of personal honesty.

Academic dishonesty can take several forms, including, but not limited to cheating, plagiarism, copying another student’s work, and submitting false documents.

Academic cheating is a serious act that violates academic integrity. Cheating includes, but is not limited to, such acts as:

- Obtaining, distributing, or communicating examination materials prior to the scheduled examination without the consent of the teacher;
- Providing information to another student during an examination;
- Obtaining information from another student or any other person during an examination;
- Using any material or equipment during an examination without consent of the instructor, or in a manner which is not authorized by the instructor;
- Attempting to change answers after the examination has been submitted;
- Unauthorized collaboration, or the use in whole or part of another student’s work, on homework, lab reports, programming assignments, and any other course work which is completed outside of the classroom;
• Falsifying medical or other documents to petition for excused absences or extensions of deadlines; or
• Any other action that, by omission or commission, compromises the integrity of the academic evaluation process.

Plagiarism is a serious violation of the standards of academic honesty. Plagiarism is the appropriation of ideas, language, work, or intellectual property of another, either by intent or by negligence, without sufficient public acknowledgement and appropriate citation that the material is not one’s own. It is true that every thought probably has been influenced to some degree by the thoughts and actions of others. Such influences can be thought of as affecting the ways we see things and express all thoughts. Plagiarism, however, involves the taking and use of specific words and ideas of others without proper acknowledgement of the sources, and includes, but is not limited to, the following:
• Submitting as one’s own material copied from a published source, such as Internet, print, CD-ROM, audio, video, etc.;
• Submitting as one’s own another person’s unpublished work or examination material;
• Allowing another or paying another to write or research a paper for one’s own benefit;
or
• Purchasing, acquiring, and using for course credit a pre-written paper.

The above list is in no way intended to be exhaustive. Students should be guided by the principle that it is of utmost importance to give proper recognition to all sources. To do so is both an act of personal, professional courtesy and of intellectual honesty. Any failure to do so, whether by intent or by neglect, whether by omission or commission, is an act of plagiarism. A more detailed description of this issue can be found at http://luc.edu/english/writing.shtml#source.

In addition, a student may not submit the same paper or other work for credit in two or more classes. A student who submits the same work for credit in two or more classes will be judged guilty of academic dishonesty, and will be subject to sanctions described below. This applies even if the student is enrolled in the classes during different semesters. If a student plans to submit work with similar or overlapping content for credit in two or more classes, the student should consult with all instructors prior to submission of the work to make certain that such submission will not violate this standard.

Students with Disabilities
Any student with a learning disability that needs special accommodation should provide documentation from Services for Students with Disabilities confidentially to the instructor. The instructor will accommodate that student’s needs in the best way possible. It is the student’s responsibility to plan in advance in order to meet their own needs and assignment due dates.
