

Summer 2012 Internship Opportunity!

Loyola University Retreat and Ecology Campus (LUREC) Farm Internship Opportunities

Loyola University Chicago is offering three full-time internship positions this summer at the Loyola University Retreat & Ecology Campus (LUREC) located in Woodstock, IL. New interns will take a Sustainable Agriculture course and contribute to the management of the Loyola sustainable student farm.

Responsibilities will include:

- Planting and tending over an acre of fruits & vegetables
- Establishing and running LUREC's new Community Supported Agriculture Program
- LUREC farm business management and record-keeping
- Raising and keeping chickens
- Beekeeping
- Enrollment in the Sustainable Agriculture course held at LUREC

For more information, contact:
LoyolaStudentFarm@luc.edu

To apply, please go to:
http://www.luc.edu/cuerp/pdfs/Internship_Application_2012_Final.pdf

Interns will receive room & board and a monthly stipend at LUREC for approximately three months (mid May - mid August).

Applications are currently being accepted.
Deadline: February 10, 2012.

All applicants must be registered Loyola University Chicago students.

LOYOLA
UNIVERSITY CHICAGO

Preparing people to lead extraordinary lives