Join the 2016 Bank of America Chicago Marathon
Green Team Volunteer Program
Sunday, October 9, 2016

Be part of the sustainability effort at the Bank of America Chicago Marathon as the Council for Responsible Sport evaluates the race for gold level certification. The Chicago Marathon is the largest marathon to achieve certification from the Council for Responsible Sport.

Green Team Volunteers are needed to help race participants make the right choices on disposing their waste at collection stations located in strategic areas throughout Grant Park. These are hands-on positions that require outgoing volunteers who are passionate about the environment. Sustainability efforts include the collection of clothing from the start line, recycling Heatsheets, stretch wrap and other recyclables, composting banana peels, Gatorade cups and food scraps, and donating remaining food and water from the finish line.

Interested in volunteering? Here are three ways to help:

- Volunteer Groups: Any student club, group or organization wishing to participate will need to designate a group leader. Groups of any size are encouraged to sign up, while groups of 25 or more that check in on race day are recognized for their efforts with a modest donation.

  Here’s the link to register as a group leader:

  The group leader will be given a link to communicate to their group members for sign up.

- Key Volunteers: Individuals wanting to learn more about the sustainability efforts at the Bank of America Chicago Marathon may play a larger role as a Key Volunteer. In addition to race date duties, key volunteers will attend the Bank of America Chicago Marathon Production Meeting on September 24, 2016 and help in the set up Grant Park on October 8, 2016. Please contact Cat Morris at cat.morris@cemevent.com for details.

- Individuals: Any individual not part of a group may volunteer for the Finish Line Green Team by registering at the following link: https://cemevent.com/login#p=J6PJ-TVKM~3
