Biographical History

Phyllis Zagano was born in Queens, New York, on August 25, 1947 to Paul L. and Elizabeth Kerwick Zagano. She was graduated from Sacred Heart Academy (High School) in June 1965 and holds the B.A. from Marymount College in Tarrytown, NY, (1969) a Ph.D. from the State University of New York at Stony Brook (1979), and three Master's degrees: communications from Boston University (1970), literature from Long Island University (1972), and theology from St. John's University (1991). She also served 31 years in the U.S. Navy Reserve as a public affairs officer and retired with the rank of Commander.

Dr. Zagano is presently the Senior Research Associate-in-Residence and Adjunct Professor of Religion at Hofstra University, where she has taught "Mysticism and the Spiritual Quest" and "History of Irish Spirituality" since 2002. In 2005 she was Visiting Professor of Catholic Studies at the Yale Divinity School and a consultant to the Templeton Positive Psychology Project "Spirituality and Living Well" at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Zagano taught at Fordham University (1980-1984). In 1984, the New York States Division of Human Rights found probable cause that Fordham University discriminated against her. Zagano also sued Fordham for discrimination on gender and religious grounds by her department chair, an editorial writer for the pornographic magazine Screw. Although the Federal case was administratively dismissed, causing the State case to be dropped, it succeeded in increasing public awareness of the occasionally contradictory aspects of “academic freedom” at faith-based universities. She then worked as a researcher at the Catholic Archdiocese of New York (1984-86). At Boston University (1988-1999), she taught in the College of Communication, the School of Theology, and the Program of International Relations, and was Director of the Institute for Democratic Communication. She was a Coolidge Fellow at the Episcopal Divinity School (Cambridge, MA) in 1987 and has held research grants from several institutions, including the U. S. Institute of Peace (1987-89), the Louisville Institute (1998) and the Wabash Center (2003). A former visiting professor of Catholic Studies at Yale Divinity School and Aquinas Chair of Catholic Studies at St. Thomas Aquinas College (NY), Dr. Zagano was completed a Fulbright Fellowship to lecture at the Mary Immaculate College of the University of Limerick in 2009.

Throughout her career, Dr. Zagano has written numerous articles in periodicals and scholarly journals, and opinion essays in local and national newspapers. Her provocative and forthright opinions have generated conversation as well as the occasional controversy. For several years she was the Catholic columnist for the nationally-syndicated Religion News Service. Currently, she writes a twice-monthly column for the National Catholic Reporter. She has authored or edited 24 books including the award-winning Holy Saturday: An Argument for the Restoration of the Female Diaconate in the Catholic Church. Several of her books have been translated into other languages and been audio-recorded, and she enjoys an international reputation as a Catholic scholar and speaker. Additionally, while at Boston University Dr. Zagano conducted fifty hour-long discussions for National Public Radio.

Dr. Zagano is also a founding co-chair of the Roman Catholic Studies Group of the American Academy of Religion, and a member of the American Catholic Philosophical Association, the Society for the Study of Christian Spirituality, the College Theology Society, the Catholic Theological Society of America, and the Association of the United States Navy. Dr. Zagano is also the series editor of The Liturgical Press’ “Spirituality in History” Series.

Dr. Zagano continues to have a long and productive career as a Catholic educator, scholar, theologian, and counselor.
