Biographical History

Mary Lyrl Clark was born on July 23, 1892, to William Howard Clark and Rhoda Ann Walter Clark in Gallia County, Ohio. Lyrl also had three sisters, Frances (Frankie), Faye, and Genevieve (Bunnie). William died when Lyrl was just six years old, leaving Rhoda to raise the children and work the family farm on her own. Rhoda became a house mother at Rio Grande College in Gallipolis, Ohio, not far from the Clark family farm, so that her daughters could attend college. Lyrl graduated from Rio Grande in 1913 as the only woman in her class and the first graduate from the Department of Oratory. While in college, she participated in the Ciceronean Literary Society, the College Ladies' Glee Club, and college theatrical productions as well as serving on the editorial staff for the yearbook. After graduation, Lyrl worked as a teacher in both public schools and Rio Grande College before marrying George Herman Van Hyning on June 17, 1915.

Lyrl and George had three children together: Parrie Ann, Thomas Clark (Tom), and Jorgina (Gina). The family lived in South America for a time as a result of George's job with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company. When the Van Hynings returned to the United States, they first lived in Galesburg, Illinois, and later settled in Chicago. With the threat of World War II looming, Lyrl began her most ardent anti-war campaigning in Chicago. In February 1941, Lyrl, Lucy Palermo, and Grace Keefe founded We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America, Inc., officially incorporated as an educational, tax-exempt organization. We the Mothers sought to educate the American public and politicians about the threat to American democracy and the safety of their sons through the country's participation in the war. They protested President Roosevelt, the New Deal, lend-lease, and the war in general. The organization's newsletter, Women's Voice, spread their anti-war, anti-Communist, and anti-Semitic rhetoric to adherents throughout the country. Lyril served as editor for this publication, which ran for almost twenty years.

Lyril's own son Tom served during World War II as pilot for the Army Air Corps. As a result of his family's residence in Venezuela and his subsequent fluency in Spanish, Tom was sent to South America after completing his pilot training. He helped develop an Air Corps program in Paraguay and attained the rank of captain by the end of the war. Tom returned to South America after he was discharged from the military, living in Venezuela with his wife Shirley, whom he married in 1952, and his daughter Parrie Theresa. Tom died on May 3, 1955, when his plane crashed on a friend's farm near Ciudad Bolivar, Venezuela.

Lyril continued to promote her political ideology throughout her entire life, primarily through the publication of Women's Voice, but she also gave speeches and wrote articles in other publications. In 1952, Lyril was indicted and went to trial for libel as a result of her anti-Semitic rhetoric in Women's Voice. She was acquitted of the charges on November 10, 1952. In addition to her political activities, Lyril was also a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, serving as regent of the Aurora chapter from 1936 until 1938. Lyril was also very ardent about her religious beliefs. Although raised a Methodist, she became a Christian Scientist and attended the "I AM" Temple. Her religious beliefs impacted all aspects of her life and even influenced some of the articles in Women's Voice.

After George died on March 31, 1960, Lyril moved to Albuquerque, New Mexico, to be near Parrie Ann and Gina and their families. Later, Shirley and Parrie Theresa joined the rest of the Van Hynings in New Mexico. Lyril remained in New Mexico until her death as a result of breast cancer on June 9, 1973.
